NQHS Senior Stay-Out Committee To Meet March 12

The North Quincy High School Senior Stay-Out Committee will meet Tuesday, March 12 at 7 p.m. in the Willard Building at 1 Enterprise Drive in the State Street South Complex, North Quincy.

All NQHS senior students, whether they attend the prom or not, will be invited to Senior Stay-Out 2002, an all-night substance-free party. The Stay-Out offers plenty of food, lots of fun, and a safe place to spend the night — all at no cost to students.

Because parents of seniors are not allowed to attend the actual event, parents of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors are especially needed to volunteer to work at the all-night party.

The NQHS Senior Stay-Out will take place Friday, May 10 following the Senior Prom.

Residents unable to attend the meeting but still wishing to be involved in the planning of this year's party should contact Jean Mackey at (617) 479-9084.

Drying Flowers Topic For Wollaston Garden Club

"The Art Of Drying Flowers" will be the topic for the Wollaston Garden Club at its meeting Thursday, March 21, at Wollaston Congregational Church, Winthrop Avenue.

The meeting will begin with a coffee hour at 11:45 a.m. following which guest speaker Diane Minnello will discuss techniques for drying and preserving flowers.

Floral arrangements will be provided, by Gwen Senger. Hostess for the meeting will be Marie Blanchard. Jo Costello, president, will preside at the meeting.

Guests are welcome. The fee is $3.

At the horticulture meeting March 18 at 10 a.m., members will clean up and landscape the ground of Wollaston Congregational Church. Volunteers are welcome.

Hanna To Speak On Disaster Awareness At NARFE Meeting

Quincy Police Officer Bob Hanna will speak on disaster awareness at the monthly meeting of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees Monday, March 11 at 1:30 p.m. at the Social Club, 252 Washington St., Quincy Point.

Mr., Mrs. James Farrell Parents Of Daughter

Stacey and John Farrell of Quincy are parents of a daughter, Margaret Marie, born Jan. 18 at Brigham & Women's Hospital, Boston. She joins sisters, Aileen and Anna.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dave Horrigan of Quincy, and Agnes Farrell of Mt. Dora, Fla.

Great grandparents are John Horrigan of Quincy, and the late Louise Horrigan, and Mr. and Mrs. James D'Olimpio of Quincy.

Christine Cedrone Wed To Vinny Scarnici

A reception at the Lake View Pavilion in Foxboro followed the recent wedding of Christine Cedrone and Vinny Scarnici. The ceremony was performed in St. John's Church by Fr. William McCarthy.

The bride is the daughter of Mary and Michael Cedrone of Quincy. The bridegroom is the son of Patricia and Larry Scarnici of Harwichport, formerly of Quincy.

The couple was attended by the maid of honor, Cindy Cedrone, sister of the bride, and best man, Larry Scarnici, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Cedrone graduated from Quincy High School and the New England School of Law. She is employed by Thomas F. Williams & Associates of Quincy.

She is vice chairwoman of the Quincy School Committee.

Mr. Scarnici graduated from Quincy Vocational Technical School and is employed by Century 21 Abigail Adams and the Rappaport for Lieutenant Governor Committee.

After a wedding trip to Disney World, the newlyweds are making their home in Quincy.

Beechwood 'Hungry Ones' Dinner, Auction April 3

The Beechwood Community Life Center will hold its eighth annual "Hungry Ones" dinner and auction Wednesday, April 3 at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Mayor William Phelan and Sheriff Michael Bellotti are honorary co-chairmen and Bellotti will also be the emcee. Daniel Flynn will be the auctioneer.

The event will launch Beechwood's 2002 fundraising and development activities.

"Our public service needs are dependent upon the successful efforts and support of many in the community," said Sharron Beals, executive director. "We are most appreciative of them and the committee."

Only 200 tickets will be sold, she said. They are available from committee members and at the center.

For tickets or more information call 617-471-5712.

Safety Program For Squantum Seniors Club

The Squantum Seniors Club will meet Tuesday, March 19 at 12:30 p.m. at Robert Nickerson Legion Post, 20 Moon Island Rd., Squantum.

A safety program sponsored by the Quincy Citizens Police Academy Alumni Association will be presented. New members are welcome.

Curves For Women Food Drive March 11-15

Curves for Women in Quincy Center will hold a food drive from March 11 until March 15 to benefit DOVE and other area food pantries.

Non-perishable food items should be brought to:

Valentine's Day Tea Social At Allerton House At Hancock Park

AN INTIMATE GROUP of residents recently gathered in the library of Allerton House at Hancock Park Assisted Living Community in Quincy to enjoy a tea social and the sounds of Harp & Poet. Poet Elizabeth Carter Torrey recited several poems of the season, discussing the "beauty of all things" in the winter season, while Joanne Cavatorta accompanied the poems with lovely background music on the harp.

TABLES WERE SET with fancy teacups and linens, and Valentine's Day baked goods were also served at the Valentine's Day Tea Social at Allerton House at Hancock Park. "The residents were delighted to have Harp & Poet for the Valentine's Tea. They are a favorite here at Allerton House, and once again they set a calming, relaxing mood with their wonderful music and poems," said Christine Martin. Both Torrey and Cavatorta are Quincy residents.

Eastern Bank Grants $25,000 To QMC For Emergency Department

Quincy Medical Center has received a $25,000 grant from Eastern Bank to fund renovations to the medical center's emergency department (ED), which has more than 30,000 patient visits a year.

"Coming to our emergency department is often a patient's first experience with Quincy Medical Center," said President and CEO Christine Schuster. "Eastern Bank's grant will help us make that experience as comfortable as possible for the community."

The donation will fund ED renovations, including but not limited to: an expanded patient waiting area; refurbished examination areas (new and updated facilities and equipment); new furniture, paint, signage and information resources in patient waiting areas; and a new administrative task area to provide immediate support and answers to insurance.

"The generous grant from Eastern Bank is a major commitment to Quincy Medical Center and a wonderful statement about the value of a community hospital to the community," said Harriet Messcher, QMC vice president of development.

Mark Primeau, executive vice president of consumer banking at Eastern Bank, said:

"The emergency department impacts a broad cross section of the population, including people who may not have a primary care doctor and need immediate access to services. Our foundation enjoys helping non-profit organizations, particularly when the gift serves as many people as this one will."

Quincy Medical Center is a 282-bed acute care community-teaching hospital providing South Shore residents with comprehensive medical and surgical services. The medical center's Alliance for Quality with Boston Medical Center, formed in 1999, brings academic medicine to the community.

At Quincy Medical Center, physicians from Boston Medical Center direct the departments of medicine, surgery, anesthesia, emergency medicine and psychiatry. Additionally, physicians from BMC who are board-certified in a range of medical and surgical specialties work side-by-side with community physicians to ensure the continuity of patient care.

Boating Safety Courses At Houghs Neck Maritime Center

The Quincy Police Marine Unit, in partnership with the Massachusetts Environmental Police, announces that enrollment is currently underway for the first of two Basic Boating Public Safety Courses to be held at the newly opened Houghs Neck Maritime Center, 138 Bayview Ave. next to the Quincy Yacht Club on Sea St.

The first course begins Saturday, April 13 and is scheduled for three consecutive Saturdays from 9 a.m. until noon.

A second course, which will also run for three consecutive Saturdays from 9 a.m. until noon, is slated to begin Saturday, May 11.

The Basic Boating Safety Course is designed for citizens of all ages. All members of the boating public are welcome to attend regardless of boating skills.

Completion of the course by boaters between the ages of 12 and 16 will allow them to legally operate a motorboat without adult supervision.

All members of the public who successfully complete the course will be issued a Massachusetts Environmental Police Basic Boating Public Safety Certificate. The courses are provided at no charge to the boating public. Class limit is 50 persons per class and sign-up is already underway with the Massachusetts Environmental Police Department.

For course information, contact: The Massachusetts Environmental Police Department Boat and Recreational Safety Bureau, 1019 Route 132, Hyannis, MA 02601, (617) 727-8760 or (508) 790-9360.

CAR CARE

AAA Road Service Began With Mechanics On Motorcycles

As the nation's largest organization for motorists celebrates its 100th anniversary, the history of AAA's best-known service — roadside assistance — is a surprising one, says AAA Southern New England.

Today, AAA is the largest provider of roadside assistance in the world, responding to more than 29 million calls for help each year. Roadside assistance also is the reason cited most often by AAA's 45 million members as to why they joined the auto club.

For these reasons it would be easy to assume roadside assistance has been a benefit of AAA membership since its founding in 1902, and that tow trucks have always rendered the service.

Not true, according to AAA's archives.

In fact, the first roadside service offered by a AAA club was not until 1915 when the Automobile Club of St. Louis sent mechanics on motorcycles to the aid of stranded members.

The "First Aid Corps" patrolled the roads throughout St. Louis County each Sunday assisting motorists with engine, tire and other problems for free. If towing was required, AAA members had to arrange and pay for this on their own.

"This club's service corps has been so helpful to motorists in trouble on Sundays," said Edward M. Fleish, president of the auto club at the time, "that the club is seriously thinking of sending first aid men out on Saturdays, too."

In the first month, the group helped 171 motorists. Soon, other clubs realized the tremendous benefit to members of providing roadside service and AAA's trusted network of road service professionals was born.

As roads became more reliable and motorists became more adventuresome, AAA clubs offering road service to their own members began to provide assistance to members of other AAA clubs visiting in their area.

By 1936, road service had become so popular among members that all AAA clubs offered the service. To help coordinate the delivery of this important aid to motoring, AAA's national road service department was founded in

Innovations in the delivery of road service soon followed. With the conclusion of World War II in 1945, AAA pioneered the use of radio dispatching calls directly to tow trucks. This improved service delivery speed and AAA soon began using two-way radios under a special license from the Federal Communications Commission in 1946.

With the introduction of more foreign-built automobiles in the United States, AAA published the first towing manual for imported cars in 1974. In 1977, a manual of towing procedures for domestic vehicles was published. Later, the two AAA manuals were combined and today remain the authoritative source on correct towing procedures for motor vehicles sold in the United States.

The 1990s saw several important innovations in AAA service, including computerized call receiving and dispatching systems and the adoption of a common look for all AAA owned and operated road service vehicles.

Keeping Your Vehicle In Tune With The Environment

(NAPS) -- Car care is a win-win situation. Besides helping the environment, a properly maintained and operated vehicle will run more efficiently, will be safer and will last longer.

The following tips from the National Institute of Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) can help put you on the road to environmentally conscious car care.

- Keep your engine tuned up. A misfiring spark plug can reduce fuel efficiency by as much as 30 percent. Follow the service schedules listed in your owner's manual.

- Check your tires for proper inflation. Underinflation wastes fuel -- your engine has to work harder to push the vehicle. Wheels that are out of alignment make the engine work harder, too.

- Keep your air conditioner in top condition and have it serviced only by a technician who is certified for handling/recycling refrigerants. Ozone-depleting gases can escape from older vehicles' air conditioners through improper service.

- Dispose of used motor oil, antifreeze/coolant, tires and old batteries properly.

- Observe speed limits. Mileage decreases sharply above 55 miles per hour.

- Drive gently. Avoid sudden accelerations and jerky stop-and-go's. Use cruise control on open highways to help maintain a steady speed.

- Avoid excessive idling. Today's vehicles are designed to "warm up" fast, so forget about those five-minute warm-ups on cold winter mornings.

- Remove excess items from the vehicle. Less weight means better mileage.

- Plan trips to eliminate unnecessary driving. Travel when traffic is light or join a carpool.

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) was founded in 1972 as a non-profit, independent organization dedicated to improving the quality of automotive service and repair through the voluntary testing and certification of automotive professionals. ASE-certified technicians wear blue and white ASE shoulder insignia and carry credentials listing their exact areas of certification. Their employers often display the ASE sign.

Visit www.asecert.org for more information and for additional car care tips.

Masonic Rural Lodge Donates $2,500 To Djerf School

The Quincy Masonic Rural Lodge A.F. & A.M. recently awarded $2,500 to the Djerf Christian Pre-School and Kindergarten, reports Jeanne Satterlund, director of program.

"This award continues our long-standing relationship with Rural Lodge and the dedicated Masons who support their Fraternal order," Satterlund said. "We have used this donation for scholarships for families from across the Quincy area.

"Our program serves both 3 and 4 year olds in an outstanding early education program. Our center supports a wide range of families, both of ethnic diversity and financial ability. We have continued to provide high quality education through 30 years of service.

"We have recently expanded our program to include full-time pre-school and full-day kindergarten. This expansion is due in part to the community need for quality child care for working families. We are currently working with various agencies throughout Quincy to help families find the best early education setting for their children. We enroll a number of families who can benefit from this scholarship opportunity."

The Djerf School is an integral part of the Faith Lutheran Church organization in Quincy.

CRAIG'S CAFE in Quincy Center celebrated its fifth anniversary in grand style recently with balloons, streamers, party hats, and the donning of tuxedos by the Craig's Cafe team. The cafe thanked its loyal customers by offering servings of cake and by taking snapshots for its "favorite customers" wall of fame. From left are Diane Linscott, owner Craig Bilowz, and Linda Reich. Environmental Treasures Advisory Board Meeting Tonight

The public is welcome to share ideas about the Environmental Treasures of Quincy program at a meeting of the Environmental Treasures Advisory Board tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex, 1 Merrymount Parkway.

The Advisory Board meeting will be an informal exchange of ideas relative to potential locations and tour leaders that the Environmental Treasures should consider in the future. All are welcome to participate in the discussion.

The Environmental Treasures of Quincy is a monthly program sponsored by the Quincy Park Department that features an educational tour of a significant environmental area in Quincy.

"We hope to continue to build a stewardship of our city's natural areas through education and appreciation," said Thomas Koch, executive director of the Quincy Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

"In just two years, we have been thrilled with the interest that the people of Quincy have shown in this program. We welcome their input as we shape the future of the Environmental Treasures program," Koch added.

For more information on the Environmental Treasures program, call Dave Murphy of the Quincy Park Department at (617) 376-1254.

Christopher Dunn Joins South Shore Savings Bank

Christopher R. Dunn has joined South Shore Savings Bank as senior vice president of residential mortgages and consumer lending, announces Arthur R. Connelly, chairman and chief executive officer.

Dunn has been in the banking industry for nearly three decades. He joined South Shore Savings Bank from Rockland Trust Company, where he was senior vice president. Previously, he held similar positions with Cambridgeport Bank and Boston Five Cents Savings Bank.

Dunn served two separate terms as president of the Massachusetts Mortgage Bankers Association, and has been a member of the Board of Directors for over 15 years. He received the Distinguished Service Award in recognition of his work on behalf of the Association.

"Christopher Dunn has a sterling banking background," said Connelly. "He brings with him to South Shore Savings Bank a level of professionalism, expertise, and industry knowledge that will further enhance the Bank's outstanding signature products and services."

A Certified Mortgage Banker (CMB), Dunn earned his MBA in finance from Boston College and holds a BA degree with Amherst College. He is a graduate of Roxbury Latin School.

CHRISTOPHER DUNN

In addition to his affiliation with the Massachusetts Mortgage Bankers Association, he is a member of the Massachusetts Bankers Real Estate Committee and the Board of Governors of the Hatherly Golf Club, where he has also served as president.

Dunn and his wife, Ellen, live in Scituate. They have two children, Keri and Geoffrey.

In his new post, Dunn is located at South Shore Savings Bank's corporate headquarters at 1530 Main St., South Weymouth.

South Shore Savings Bank, which operates under an 1833 state charter, has offices in East Bridgewater, Hanover, Quincy, and Weymouth, including an Educational and Training Facility at Weymouth High School. The Bank is a member of the FDIC and a member of the DIF.

Despite Recession

Bay State's Multifamily Housing Market Healthy In 2001

Despite a weakening economy and years of solid growth that have depleted the inventory of available housing stock, the state's multifamily housing market exhibited remarkable resilience this past year.

Sales of two-, three- and four-family homes slid a modest 1 percent from 7,095 units in 2000 to 7,022 in 2001, according to data compiled by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR).

In addition, the average selling price for two- to four-family homes sold rose an average of 18 percent last year, an indication that multifamily housing still holds great appeal especially for first-time buyers frustrated by the lack of inventory and higher costs associated with the Bay State's single-family home market.

"The multifamily market outperformed expectations this past year," said MAR President David S. Drinkwater. "To this point, the recession has had very little impact on the demand for multifamily units. The most significant factor slowing activity has been the shortage of new and existing two- to four-family properties to come on line recent years."

The Sept. 11 terrorist attacks also appear to have had some ramifications on the market, as nearly all of last year's sales decline occurred in the fourth quarter when consumers retreated from their normal purchasing habits.

In fact, through the first three quarters of 2001 sales of two- to four-family properties were ahead of the previous year's sales level, but in the fourth quarter activity fell 7.7 percent from the same period in 2000. Despite the slower sales pace in 2001, last year was the third strongest for multifamily home sales in Massachusetts since MAR began tracking the market in 1991.

"While continued corrections in the stock market may have prompted some small-time investors to drop out of the market, they've been replaced by large numbers of entry-level buyers who have started to look to duplexes or triplexes as a more economical starter home," Drinkwater said. "That's helped to keep the market quite active."

Indeed, in the more suburban and rural regions of the state, sales for two- to four-family homes increased last year, rising 14.1 percent in southeastern Massachusetts, 4 percent in Worcester County and 0.3 percent in western Massachusetts compared to 2000.

Elsewhere during 2001, modest sales declines of 2 to 4 percent occurred in greater Boston and the northeast region, while sales slipped 6.2 percent on the South Shore and 14.1 percent on Cape Cod in 2001 from year-ago levels.

"The demand for multifamily units has held up well this past year, and where we've seen the most consistent activity it's often indicative of the strong immigrant homebuyer population present in the region," Drinkwater said.

"In order for the market to remain healthy, however, we need to increase the supply of multifamily housing, particularly in eastern Massachusetts," he cautioned. Highlighting this point, Drinkwater noted sales activity has risen 240 percent since 1991, yet in that same time less than 750 new two- to four-family homes have been built on average per year in Massachusetts.

Given the increasingly tighter market and last year's fairly stable sales pace, it's not surprising that the MAR report found the total dollar volume for two- to four-family home sales increased steadily over the past year, from $1,430,203,289 in 2000 to $1,670,418,340 in 2001.

While specific price comparisons are not available for two-, three- and four-family properties separately, this sharp gain in dollar volume indicates selling prices for multifamily homes rose across the state by an average of 18 percent during 2001, from an average selling price of $201,579 in 2000 to $237,884 last year.

"The price increases we're presently seeing for multifamily property are among the strongest we've ever seen in this market, and for this type of appreciation to occur demonstrates that demand for housing, despite softer general economic conditions, continues to remain strong," Drinkwater said.

"However, the days when two- to four-family homes served primarily as investment property are over. Today, these properties are increasingly being purchased and used as primary residences by both first-time buyers and foreign-born buyers, which makes it all the more important that our local communities encourage and facilitate the development of new multifamily housing. It's among the most affordable housing we can offer our state residents."

NHS First Time Homebuyers Workshop March 23 And 30

Neighborhood Housing Services, an approved First Time Homebuyer Counseling Agency, will hold an accredited and MHEA-certified First Time Homebuyer's Workshop in partnership with Massachusetts Co-Operative Bank Saturdays, March 23 and March 30, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive a homebuying certificate which is required by most lenders to qualify for the many different mortgage options such as the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs, down payment and closing cost grants, and other special first time homebuyer financing options.

Neighborhood Housing Services is a non-profit organization dedicated to assisting first time buyers through the homebuying process. The staff at NHS is unique in their approach to obtaining down payment and closing costs assistance as well as rehab grants for their clients, which are available throughout the entire South Shore area.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. Focus will be on the many changing aspects of homebuying, including how to locate a property within budget, how to make an offer, and determining the best mortgage program.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited. A $10 refundable registration fee is required.

Contact Debbie Edgerly at (617) 770-2227, Ext. 31 for more information and to register for the workshop.

Cutting Energy Costs

(NU) — Did you know your home heating and cooling system holds the key to making your home more comfortable while you cut your energy costs?

Try these ideas and see how much money you can save on your energy expenses:

- Better windows provide better insulation. Install storm windows over single-pane windows, or replace them with double-pane windows for double the insulation of single-pane windows. This also reduces drafts, water condensation and frost formation.

- Draperies and shades can cut your costs. During the winter, open the draperies on your south-facing windows during the day and close them at night. This allows the warming sunlight to enter your home during the day and keeps the cold night air out. In the summer, close them in the daytime and open them at night.

- Insulate ducts. When heating air leaks out of ducts and into unheated spaces, it wastes energy and money. By insulating ducts in unconditioned spaces, you can cut your heating bill. If you are buying a new duct system, ask your contractor about ducts with the insulation already installed.

- Choose the best system for your climate. If you live in a warm climate, choose a heat pump. It is the most efficient form of electric heating — three times as efficient as electric resistance heating. If you live in a cold climate, choose a gas furnace if natural gas is available in your area.

- Wash your windows. By keeping all south-facing windows clean during the winter months, you allow more heat to enter your home.

- Keep your system clean. Clean warm-air registers to allow your heating and cooling system to work with less strain. An easy-running unit uses less electricity in the summer and less gas in the winter.

- Consider an ultra-high-efficiency furnace. If you are in the market for a new furnace, ask your heating contractor about an ultra-high-efficiency gas furnace.

Presidents Advance In State Tournament

Quincy In Semi-Finals Vs. Springfield-Cathedral

By CHRIS POISSON

Head coach Bob Sylvia wasn't sure how much pep his Quincy High hockey team would have Monday night after a slugfest against Norwood last Saturday night in the first round of the Division 1 South Sectionals.

Perhaps a bit tentative in the opening period, third-seeded Quincy became more assertive as the game moved along and erupted for four third-period goals to cruise past sixth-seeded Falmouth, 7-1, in the quarterfinal match at Bridgewater Ice Arena.

"I thought the kids might be tired after the Norwood game," Sylvia said, "but I think they brought one of their better games with them."

Quincy (15-3-4) faced seventh-seeded Springfield Cathedral (15-6-1) in the semifinals last night (Wednesday) at 6 at Watertown Ice Arena. The winner meets the winner of last night's Xavierian-Braintree game in the final Tuesday night at 6 at Boston University.

Much as been made of the Presidents' explosive offense, as the Germain brothers, senior Dave and sophomore Matt, each recorded a hat trick against Falmouth while sophomore Josh Giordani added the other goal.

But it has been their defense and the sensational goaltending of senior Shaun Flaherty that has carried them through the first two rounds of the tournament — especially in the first 15 minutes of each game.

"Between Shaun and the way the defense has been playing, we've been stingy in letting up goals," Sylvia said. "We have the snipers, but you also have to keep the puck out of the net."

"Our defense has been very strong. That's been key. If it weren't for our defensive play in the first periods, we could have been blown out in both games. Both teams outplayed us in the first period, but our defense kept us in the game."

Quincy rotates five players on defense, with senior Kevin Patten anchoring the blue line group as he is on the ice the most with double shifts. The other four members are senior captains Matt Conso and Sean Richardson along with fellow classmate John Chevalier and junior Dan Durocher.

Quincy expected Falmouth to come out gunning at the start the game, probably still fuming from a year ago when the younger Presidents upset the top-seeded Clippers, 1-0, in the quarterfinals.

And that's exactly what happened. Falmouth barged Quincy earlier and often, but once again it couldn't figure out Flaherty who stoned more than a dozen shots. In last year's tourney, he blanked the Clippers with an incredible 24-save performance.

"Flaherty played his best hockey in the first period," Sylvia said.

Thanks to his heroics, Quincy was fortunate take 1-0 lead after the first period when Matt Germain punched home his own rebound.

"Our scouting report said that they would come out very emotional," Sylvia said. "Like the Norwood game, we held the fort until our game kicked in and the snipers had a chance to do their thing. And they did."

Indeed, the Presidents dominated the next two frames, outshooting Falmouth by a wide margin. In the second, Germain scored on a feed from his brother less than a minute into the period and then turned the trick with about five seconds left, knocking home a rebound for his team-leading fifth goal of the tourney.

The assault became even more heavy in the third. After Giordani pocketed a rebound to make it 4-0, Dave Germain decided to join his brother in the scoring column when he struck for a breakaway goal about three minutes in.

Falmouth finally got on the board, but Dave Germain responded with a pair of goals within a span of about 10 seconds to match his brother with a hat trick and close out the scoring.

"Our best period was the third," Sylvia said. "They were a good team. They were league champions of the OCL. And they were frustrated. We're a team that will take away the things you like to do if you fall behind in the game."

Against Norwood in the first round, Quincy avenged last year's loss in the semifinals to the Mustangs with a 4-1 victory.

The Presidents got off to a slow start, but regrouped over the final two periods to skate away with the victory. Matt Germain netted a pair of goals and Dave Germain and junior Matt LaCorte added one apiece.

Raiders Bow To Braintree, 5-4

The North Quincy High hockey team's improbable late-season comeback came to a dramatic end last Saturday night at Stoneham Arena.

Playing on life support all last month, the Red Raiders somehow regrouped to go unbeaten in six games (4-0-2) to surprisingly slide into the postseason for the fifth straight year.

Their fortunes, however, took a turn for the worse with the new month, as the 13th-seeded Red Raiders suffered a 5-4 heartbreaker in overtime to fourth-seeded Braintree in the first round of the Division 1 South Sectionals.

At 9:41 of the extra frame, Braintree freshman Bobby Cusack sent North Quincy packing when he fired a shot past goalie Bruce Maggio for the game-winner.

In the first period, North Quincy unfortunately found itself in the penalty box a couple of times. And like it has been all season, it ended up costing them as the Wamps capitalized with a pair of power-play goals. Ryan Grant struck first on the man-advantage and captain Mike Larkin made it 2-0 with a blue-line blast.

In the second, the Red Raiders got on the scoreboard when junior forward Matt Grazioso cashed in on the power play less than a minute into the period. On a scramble in front of the net, the team's leading scorer (11 goals-12 assists) was able to poke it past senior goalie John Liston.

At 8:00, senior forward Charlie Sorrento netted the equalizer when he banged home the rebound of a Cooper shot.

Braintree regained the

DOWN TO THE WIRES

When an engine misfires, it is often caused by leaking spark plug wires. A visual inspection may reveal wire jackets damaged from the outside due to abrasion caused by engine vibration, a hot engine compartment, spilled fluids or battery acid, multiple disconnections and reconnections for service, or even nesting rodents. If the outer jacket is damaged, the high-voltage electricity contained within may follow an easier path than the one that otherwise directs it to jump the gap between electrodes to produce the "spark" that ignites the fuel mixture. In addition to compromising the spark, leaking high-voltage electricity produces radio waves, which can cause interference with all types of on-car electronic devices, from sensors and computers to radios.

Brockton Bounces Raiders From State Tourney

By CHRIS POISSON

Last Tuesday's 77-41, first-round tourney loss to Brockton not only signaled the end of the season, but also the end of several eras for the North Quincy High boys' basketball team.

First, it wound up being head coach Ted Stevenson's final game of his career, after pacing the hardwood on Hancock Street for 25 years. Second, it marked the last time the close-knit senior class would play high school hoops together.

Although the year may have concluded prematurely and disappointingly in the teams' eyes, the 2001-2002 campaign should be remembered as one of the most special and more enjoyable seasons of the Stevenson era.

In Stevenson's final hurrah, the Red Raiders were able to snap out of their four-year postseason rut by compiling a 13-7 record — good enough for a 10th seed in the Division I South tournament.

The 15-year veteran coach of the boys' team had been thinking of retirement for a couple of years, but decided to hold off until the nine members of the class of 2002 finished their careers.

Stevenson shared a special relationship with these seniors, particularly with tri-captains Phil McGillicuddy, John O'Connell and Pat Bregoli. McGillicuddy had been with him since he was a freshman, while O'Connell and Bregoli had been with him since their sophomore year. And the other six seniors all played on the team last season.

"I'm really proud of the nine seniors," Stevenson said. "I told them after the game that this was one of my most enjoyable years coaching because of them. They're just great kids. They worked hard and I had no problems with them. I didn't get any calls from the Dean's Office. It made the year very easy. They're just a great group of kids and they made the year fun."

Over the course of the year, the Red Raiders enjoyed several moments, including a season sweep of Bridgewater-Raynham for the first time in about a decade, another sweep of cross-town rival Quincy and, perhaps the most memorable, McGillicuddy's 1,000th career point at home against Falmouth.

In fact, McGillicuddy finished his career with another remarkable accomplishment: he started every game since his freshman year. That's 81 straight starts. However, there's an asterisk next to the 81st start because that is the only tournament game on his and the rest of the seniors' resume. And it showed last Tuesday at Brockton.

"Our tournament experience showed at the start of the game," Stevenson said. "This was the first time any of the seniors played in a tournament game. I said to one of my assistant coaches that the first five minutes was the most important part of the game. If we could stay with them and get the nerves out of us, we'd be all right."

The opening minutes, though, proved to be North Quincy's downfall. In the first three minutes of the game, the Boxers erupted for a commanding 14-2 lead and never looked back.

"You could tell they were uptight," Stevenson said of his players. "I just think if we could have relaxed a little, we could have played better."

By the time the half rolled around, Brockton had built a 35-17 advantage thanks to some uncharacteristic hot shooting.

North Quincy's scouting report read that Brockton is not a solid shooting team, but it has a strong inside game with the presence of Jonathan Langston (6-5), Kirk Wilmot (6-4) and Justin Council (6-2).

Yet the Boxers came out thinking they can shoot like the Milwaukee Bucks and shocked the Red Raiders by draining seven 3-pointers in the first half.

"We talked to several coaches in the league that had seen them and we all agreed they're not a good shooting team," Stevenson said. "We concentrated on taking their inside game away and they hit seven threes in the first half. It's frustrating because the kids looked at us like, 'What are we supposed to do now?'"

In the second half, Brockton's mammoth front line, particularly Langston, simply wore the Red Raiders down and the local kids were too far in a hole to make a comeback.

"They had two big, huge kids," Stevenson said. "Actually, they were all big. That Langston kid had 16 off us inside."

"They were a much better shooting team than we anticipated," he added. "And they were a lot quicker than we thought they were, too. They really played well. People that have seen them all year said that was by far their best game."

After Opening Round Win Over Weymouth Shooting Drought Ends Season For North Girls

Doug MacFarlane painted the perfect picture when explaining the North Quincy High girls' basketball team's loss at Dartmouth last Saturday afternoon in the quarterfinals of the Division I South tournament.

"It was just one of those days where we couldn't put the ball in the ocean from the pier," the head coach said vividly.

It can't be described any better. The fifth-seeded Red Raiders (16-6) managed to put just eight balls in the ocean, err basket, on 36 attempts en route to a 54-35 season-ending loss to fourth-seeded Dartmouth.

And what a difference several days make. Last Wednesday night at home, North Quincy broke out of its two-year first-round funk with a 48-41 victory over Weymouth, shooting a sizzling 53 percent from floor.

"The ball bounced our way against Weymouth and didn't against Dartmouth," MacFarlane said.

The ball may not have bounced North Quincy's way against Dartmouth, but more often than not the ball was on its side over the course of the season. Although the Red Raiders would've liked to have advanced deeper into the tournament, the fact is they put together one of their better seasons in school history.

They won 15 games in the regular season, matching last year's team for most victories in a season. They captured their second straight Old Colony League championship, sharing it with Bridgewater-Raynham despite having beaten the Trojans twice this year. And they won a tourney game after making earlier exits to lower seeds the previous two seasons.

In fact, they were the only OCL team to advance to the quarterfinals, as No. 3 Bridgewater-Raynham, No. 6 Taunton and No. 13 Barnstable all fell in the opening round.

If had you asked MacFarlane in the preseason if he thought his team would be this successful, he said, "I would've laughed."

Despite its frigid 22-percent shooting against Dartmouth, North Quincy stayed close in the first half as it knocked down 15 of 19 free throws and trailed 29-22.

But it never threatened in the second half, scoring four points in the first 10 minutes and hitting 4 of 19 shots.

"Dartmouth is a good team," MacFarlane said. "They played great defense. You have to give them credit, but we had our shots and just missed them."

And it didn't help that North Quincy's go-to players, senior co-captain Lauren Sleeth and junior April Suprey, combined for one basket.

"That hurt, but it's not just their fault," MacFarlane said. "We only scored eight baskets in the game. It was very frustrating. Trust me. Unfortunately, that happens sometimes."

"But we have nothing to be ashamed of. It was a great season. We met all of our goals. To get to where we were was great. I'm proud of the kids. It's too bad the seniors had to go out this way. They've had great careers."

In the Weymouth game, not only did North Quincy break out of its tourney rut, but it also exacted revenge from last year when Weymouth upset them in the first round on Hancock Street.

"We're glad to get that monkey off our back," MacFarlane said. "Plus, we played Weymouth last year in the first round and we wanted to turn the tables on them this year."

North Quincy set forth on that mission from the get-go, engineering a 20-3 run to take a commanding 28-11 lead. Weymouth, though, responded with a 10-0 spurt to close the half.

"We came out with a lot of intensity and built a nice lead, but they came back with a little surge before the half," MacFarlane said.

Unlike the Dartmouth game, North Quincy had the answers in the second half, successfully thwarting Weymouth runs and preventing them from taking the lead. With about four minutes left and the scored tied at 38, North Quincy made the last run to take the game.

"We held off their surges in the second half, and we didn't do that in the second half of the Dartmouth game," MacFarlane said.

Sleeth, who hit 6 of 6 foul shots down the stretch, finished with 21 points, including three 3-pointers, and seven rebounds and three steals. Suprey scored eight points to go along with five rebounds, three assists and three steals. Senior Kahli Dearani added six points and five boards.

lead about three minutes later. Once again, North Quincy battled back. Junior defenseman Tim Duggan unleashed a shot and senior Rob Mooney swatted home the rebound at 12:18. Sorrento had an assist.

Late in the third, Braintree seemed to have the game wrapped up when Maggio, after making the initial save, accidentally tipped in the loose puck.

Just like the tourney-clinching tie against Marshfield in the season finale, Grazioso kept the Red Raiders' season alive when he batted down Duggan's shot in mid-air with under two minutes left in regulation.

Maggio turned in another strong game in net, while Duggan, sophomore Steven Kelley (assist) and senior Scott Markarian (2 assists) played well defensively.

ognized for steady improvement over the course of the season. She averaged only 6.8 points but buried 27 3-pointers, which would have set the school record if not for Hirtle's performance from beyond the arc this season.

"She earned it by the amount of improvement she made through the season," Bretsch said. "She continued to get better and better. She was playing confidently at the end."

very proud of them. For only sophomores, I could not have asked for anything more."

Hirtle finished third in the league in scoring with 13.6 points per game. She also drained a school record 31 3-pointers this season.

"Bonnie consistently scored all year long," Bretsch said. "She was our go-to player offensively every time we came down the floor. She came through in the clutch and also played terrific defense."

North Quincy Women's Athletic Hall Of Fame Ceremony April 28

The North Quincy High School Women's Athletic Hall of Fame committee announces eight women and one coach will be inducted at its first ceremony April 28.

Kevin O'Connell recognized for sportsmanship

Quincy Youth Softball is conducting additional registration for the spring season.

The induction ceremony will be held at 2 p.m. at the high school and will be open to friends, family and the public.

Karen Cashman Lehman, an Olympic bronze medalist, will be the keynote speaker. Refreshments will be served. Tickets are $10 and are available by calling the athletic office (617-984-8912) or Caryn's Corner (617-770-0536).

Committee members were pleased by the number of nominations that were submitted for consideration and feel this first group of inductees will serve as a solid foundation for the future of the Hall of Fame.

O'Connell will receive a congratulatory letter and certificate.

Quincy Youth Softball Spring Registration

All Quincy girls ages 6-15 who wish to play can call Denise Goodrich at 617-472-9023 or Steve Mansfield at 617-479-2220 before Friday, March 22.

Quincy's Bonnie Hirtle All-Star

It may have come up one game short in its quest for the state tournament, but the rest of the league took notice of the Quincy High girls' basketball team's turnaround from a year ago.

Sophomore guard Bonnie Hirtle was selected to the Atlantic Coast League All-Star team, while fellow classmate and backcourt partner Sarah Shea was named an honorable mention.

American Cancer Society Taking Daffodils Orders

The American Cancer Society is accepting orders for its annual Daffodil Days campaign. Orders must be placed by Friday, March 15.

Daffodils, the first flower of spring, symbolize the hope of conquering cancer for survivors across the nation.

Hundreds of local volunteers will deliver daffodils to residents, schools, businesses and hospitals around south-east Massachusetts during the week of April 1-5. The campaign helps support ACS programs of research, education, advocacy, and patient services. Contributing to the American Cancer Society's goal of raising $3.5 million in New England this year, a bouquet of 10 daffodils may be purchased for $6, with vases available for an additional $6 donation.

Residents may also send a "Gift of Hope," an anonymous daffodil bouquet in a vase, to a cancer patient in a local hospital or to a person in need, for a $15 contribution.

To place an order, call the American Cancer Society at 1-888-648-4880 by March 15.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

SCOTT DEWARE

Have you ever had a day that didn't begin just the way you thought it would? You got out of bed with the confident feeling that the day would be a great one... And there was no soap in the shower -

- The toast burned and you spilled your juice and you had to change your shirt.

You finally get to work late and find you had left your briefcase at home!

Do you wonder why there are days like these? I believe there is a purpose for such days. I believe we can learn from adversity what we sometimes can't learn from prosperity. I believe that adversity causes some people to break down, and others to break records.

When you have such a bad day, try making a list of all the adversities and then ask yourself this question: "What can I learn from these difficult situations and what was God trying to teach me?" There is a reason He brings us good days and not so good days. There is a purpose in all our life's encounters. Each day is a new one and each will bring its lessons with it. Have the courage to face each day with the attitude that you will prosper from it even if it brings some adversity rather than prosperity...

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You're correct to want to help someone who seems to need assistance. But be careful that he or she isn't pulling the wool over those gorgeous Sheep's eyes. You need more facts.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your Bovine optimism will soon dispel the gloom cast by those naysayers and pessimists who still hover close by. Also, that good news you recently received is part of a fuller message to come.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Feeling jealous over a colleague's success drains the energy you need to meet your own challenges. Wish him or her well, and focus on what you need to do. Results start to show in mid-March.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You're likely to feel somewhat Crabby these days, so watch what you say, or you could find yourself making lots of apologies. Your mood starts to brighten by the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your pride might still be hurting from those unflattering remarks someone made about you. But cheer up, you're about to prove once again why you're the Top Cat in whatever you do.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A misunderstanding with a co-worker could become a real problem unless it's resolved soon. Allow a third party to come in and assess the situation without pressure or prejudice.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Call a family meeting to discuss the care of a loved one at this difficult time. Be careful not to let yourself be pushed into shouldering the full burden on your own.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) An upcoming decision could open the way to an exciting venture. However, there are some risks you should know about. Ask more questions before making a commitment.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Personal matters need your attention during the earlier part of the week. You can start to shift your focus to your workaday world by midweek. Friday brings news.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You've been going at a hectic pace for quite a while. It's time now for some much-needed rest and recreation to recharge those hardworking batteries.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) This is a good time to upgrade your current skills or consider getting into an entirely different training program so that you can be prepared for new career opportunities.

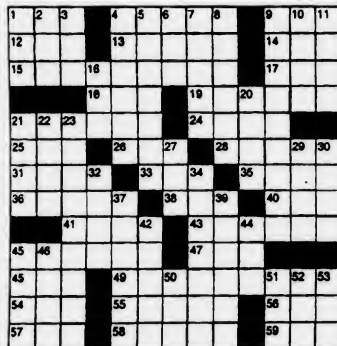

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Keep a low profile in order to avoid being lured away from the job at hand. Focus on what has to be done, and do it. There'll be time later to enjoy fun with family and friends.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can be a dreamer and a realist. You dream of what you would like to do, and then you face the reality of how to do it.

Panera Bread Raises $600 For Special Olympics

Baker Manager Mike Williams of Boston Bread, LLC, a Panera Bread franchisee, took the plunge into the frigid waters of Nantasket Beach recently to raise money for Special Olympics. Panera Bread raised $600 for the Special Olympics Passion Plunge and the North Quincy location also donated bagels, coffee and hot chocolate to the plungers.

Special Olympics is an international program of year-round sports training and athletic competition for more than one million children and adults with mental retardation.

City Facing $2 Million Budget Shortfall

which currently stands at roughly $2.5 million.

Councillor Frank McCauley said financial figures coming from the state were "scary" and that Quincy, like many Massachusetts communities, could face difficult economic decisions.

"It could be painful and the people of Quincy should be aware of that," McCauley said.

One response to the new economic reality was made by Councillor Tim Cahill, chairman of the Finance Committee, who has reinstated a past council policy whereby, barring emergencies, city spending proposals will be automatically referred to the Finance Committee for at least a two-week consideration before a vote is made.

"The bottom line is we have to watch everything and we will," said Cahill.

Reached for comment Tuesday, Mayor William Phelan told The Sun he agreed with McFarland's estimate of a $2 million dollar budget shortfall but that that estimate was actually a decrease of the $4.4 million budget gap the mayor's office had been working to close since he took office.

"I think the assessment of the city's financial condition which I inherited is pretty accurate," said Phelan, "and that assessment could have been much more grim if not for the steps that my administration took immediately upon taking office."

"I believe the residents of Quincy elected me to address that very issue and I intend to that."

Phelan added that "everything was on the table" when it came to balancing the budget but that cutting expenses and finding additional revenue sources would be looked at first.

In addition, the city will arrange and pay for an elevation certificate (required for all projects and for plot plans required for projects, involving elevating the house or expansion of the footprint of the house.)

Under the new guidelines, the HMGP will cover 75% of the total project and cost up to $20,000 per unit in the form of a grant regardless of household income. For low to moderate income households, the remaining 25% of cost may be funded through a loan not to exceed $10,000 from the City's Community Development Block Grant (CDBG).

Low-income households may be eligible for a 0% loan or 2% deferred plan. For moderate-income households the loan is either 3% or 5% deferred. The moderate-income limit for a family of four is currently at $52,500. Over-income households will be required to put up any cost in excess of the FEMA grant.

The minimum requirements for consideration under this program are:

*Residential property is in or adjacent to an A-Zone of V-Zone (100 year floodplain) or near one of Quincy's rivers, brooks or wetlands and have suffered repetitive losses in the last 10 years as a result of water and wind.

*For the over-income households, only properties with flood insurance and with repetitive losses will be considered.

*The applicant must have no unpaid property taxes;

*The scope of work will seek to prevent future flood damage. Projects will be assisted on a first-come first-served basis, subject to availability of funds.

Quincy's Department of Planning and Community Development will again oversee this program. Its Office of Housing Rehabilitation, which handles other housing rehabilitation and de-leading programs, will receive and process all applications and handle the design and construction phases. Quincy's Inspector of Buildings, the Plumbing Inspector, the Electrical Inspector and the Water/Sewer Department and the State's DEM will continue to be involved in the project selection process and to provide technical and programmatic assistance on individual projects.

Angelito Santos, who manages this program for the city said, "We were given only one year to expend this grant. Hence, we will seek to commit all HMGP funds by June. We will commit funds only to eligible projects that can reasonably be expected to complete construction this year. "Hence, he suggests that homeowners who have flooding programs apply now.

Application forms for this and other rehabilitation program may be obtained from the:

Office of Housing Rehabilitation; Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock St., 3rd Floor (Old City Hall), Quincy, MA. 02169, or call 617-376-1050.

Former Mayors, Bond Rating Agencies Agree Phelan Firm On 169% Classification

By CRAIG SALTERS

Citing the advice of several of the city's former mayors as well as recent discussions with bond rating agencies doing business with the city, Mayor William Phelan reaffirmed his position that the city's property tax classification percentage remain at 169 percent.

"The balance is struck at 169 percent," said Phelan. "It's in the best interests of those citizens who own homes and rent in Quincy and it's what's best for the economic base of the city. That's why I support it."

The mayor's office, Phelan said, has always intended to recommend the current tax classification percentage to the City Council, which will hold a public hearing on the matter Monday, March 18 at 7 p.m. in the council chambers of City Hall.

But that opinion was reinforced, he said, by his discussions with former Mayors Walter Hannon, Frank McCauley, and James Sheets who supported Phelan's decision to recommend the current percentage.

In addition, a recent conference call with Standard & Poor's and Moody's, two rating agencies who last week each lowered the city's bond rating, demonstrated to the mayor that the classification

Following Two Indictments

Prosecutor: City Hall Break-In Investigation Will Continue

Indictments brought against two Quincy officials in connection with the Dec. 15 break-in at City Hall have not put an end to the investigation, said the special prosecutor assigned to the case.

Daniel Keating, who served as executive secretary to former Mayor James Sheets, and Ralph Maher, who served as the city's chief plumbing inspector before his recent retirement, both face felony charges of larceny, breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony, and willful and malicious destruction of property for their alleged participation in the Dec. 15 break-in of the offices of Kevin Madden, the city's former director of Personnel.

Arraignment is set for Tuesday, March 19 in Norfolk County Superior Court. But Atty. George Jabour, the special prosecutor assigned by the Norfolk County DA's Office to handle the case, said the investigation will continue.

Asked Monday to comment on the case and the possibility of other indictments, Jabour would only say:

"The investigation goes on and it will take time. We will go wherever the evidence takes us."

Jabour, a former Suffolk County prosecutor currently in private practice, was tapped by Norfolk County District Attorney William Keating — who is not related to Daniel Keating — shortly after the Dec. 15 break-in to handle the case.

In making its decision to hire a special prosecutor, the DA's Office cited the need for objectivity and impartiality in the case.

Sheets, who was in City Hall the day of the break-in, has testified before the grand jury investigating the case. In a Jan. 15 interview with The Quincy Sun following one such testimony, Sheets expressed his willingness to provide information to the grand jury and said, "I am not the target. I am a witness."

In the days immediately following the Dec. 15 incident Keating reportedly admitted to breaking into Madden's offices, saying that he was looking for a copy of a firefighters contract.

QUINCY FIREFIGHTERS responded last Friday evening to a one-alarm shed fire in the rear of 70 High St. When companies arrived on scene they found the 20 foot by 20 foot shed "heavily involved" but were able to put out the blaze. No injuries were reported.

Koch Candidate For County Treasurer

Tom Koch, executive director of Quincy's Park, Forestry and Cemetery departments, is stepping into the political arena as a candidate for Norfolk County treasurer.

Koch, a Democrat, took out nomination papers Tuesday for the post that Tim Cahill, who is also a city councillor, is leaving to run for state treasurer.

"I will officially announce my candidacy in April," he said after obtaining the papers at the City Election Department.

Koch said he will begin collecting the 1,000 voter

Tobin-Sponsored Aggravated Assault Bill Signed Into Law

Acting Governor Jane Swift recently signed into law an aggravated assault bill ($167) sponsored by state Rep. Stephen Tobin which increases the current penalties for assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

It also creates the new crimes of aggravated assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon.

By recognizing that serious bodily injury can occur without the use of a weapon, Tobin said, the legislation ensures that batterers in domestic violence situations will be treated with the severity they deserve.

"Assaults upon women and children, and women pregnant with child are surely among the most reprehensible of offenses," said Tobin, who serves as House Chairman of the Criminal Justice Committee.

"The new law provides for serious punishment of the offender and should be a strong deterrent against such conduct occurring in the first place."

The new distinction of aggravated assault closes a loophole in the statutes since an offense under the former statutes resulted in a misdemeanor charge. Under the new legislation, such an offender will serve a sentence in state prison.

The new law further protects pregnant women and those covered by no contact orders and creates stricter penalties for assault and battery upon children under the age of 14.

The current penalties for the crime of assault or assault and battery are punishment by imprisonment in the house of correction for not more than two and a half years or by a fine of $500. The recently signed bill increases the monetary fine to $1,000.

The current penalties for the crime of assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon are punishment by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than 10 years or by a fine or not more than $1,000 or imprisonment in the house of correction for not more than two and a half years. The recently signed bill increases the monetary fine to not more than $5,000.

Under the new law, an offender faces up to five years in state prison or two and a half years in the house of correction for an aggravated assault and battery and up to 15 years in the state prison and two and a half years in the house of correction for an aggravated assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

200-Unit Residential Building Planned

Ward 1 Councillor Gregory Hanley and Ward 5 Councillor Douglas Gutro have scheduled a Neighborhood Meeting for Tuesday, March 19 at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Quincy High School to discuss a proposal by Lincoln Properties to construct a 10-story, 200-unit residential building with 200 parking spaces adjacent to Presidents Place at 1250 Hancock St.

Lincoln Properties has been asked to present their proposal and answer questions at the March 19 meeting.

Hanley and Gutro said the purpose of the meeting was to gather resident input at the beginning of the process. Lincoln Properties is scheduled to appear before the Zoning Board of Appeals regarding their proposal Tuesday, April 9.

Koch Candidate For Norfolk County Treasurer

eral top municipal government posts since 1988, including executive secretary to Mayor James Sheets, has also been Quincy's representative on the Norfolk County Financial Advisory Board the past 10 years.

The board, with members from all 28 communities in the county, oversees the county's budget, revenues and serves as the "watchdog" of county expenditures.

"My 10 years of experience on the Norfolk County Advisory Board and my experience in municipal government will allow me the qualifications to carry on the fine job that Tim Cahill has done at the treasurer's office," Koch said.

"I hope to ensure that, through these times of financial uncertainty, our county finances are managed prudently and expanded wisely."

Koch was appointed executive secretary to Sheets in 1990 and served nearly five years in that post, which involved mayoral initiatives, the municipal budget and working with 22 department heads.

He was named executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery departments in 1995, a post his late father, Richard Koch, Sr., held.

He points with pride to extensive renovation and modernization at each of the city's parks and playgrounds.

He has been responsible for 52 municipal parks and playgrounds, the grounds of 20 public schools and supervision of the city's six municipal cemeteries. He manages a combined annual budget of approximately $2.2 million and a staff of 22.

Koch began his career in 1988 when he was named director of the Quincy Council on Aging under Mayor Frank McCauley.

He was Sheets' campaign manager in his crucial first bid for the mayor's office in 1989.

He also played a major role in the successful campaigns of Congressman Brian Donnelly, Secretary of State William Galvin and his brother, Richard Koch, Jr., to the city council.

Koch has been a candidate himself twice in the past — both for the city council.

He topped an eight-candidate field for the Ward 6 seat in 1985 but lost in the final election to Tom Nutley. He ran at-large in 1987 but lost to Steve McGrath.

Koch is active in a number of civic and charitable organizations.

He is director of the Koch Club, a youth sports and charitable organization founded by his father, and is chairman of Quincy's Flag Day parade, believed to be the longest-running Flag Day parade in the country.

He is co-founder and co-chairman of the Quincy ArtsFest, and treasurer of the Quincy City Club. He is also chairman of Quincy's Open Space Committee and has worked with Norfolk County officials on regional open space preservation and protection.

He lives in North Quincy with his wife, the former Christine Keenan, and their three children, Cornelius, 5, and 3-year-old twins, Abigail and Thomas.

City Council Honors

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On March 17, 1762, in New York City, the first parade honoring the Catholic feast day of St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, is held by Irish soldiers serving in the British army.

• On March 13, 1781, the German-born English astronomer William Herschel discovers Uranus, the seventh planet from the sun. Herschel's discovery of a new planet was the first to be made in modern times, and also the first to be made by use of a telescope.

• On March 12, 1930, Indian independence leader Mohandas Gandhi begins a defiant march to the sea in protest of the British monopoly on salt, his boldest act of civil disobedience yet against British rule in India.

• On March 15, 1954, the Chords record "Sh-boom." The song's lighthearted melody and nonsensical lyrics ("Sh-boom, sh-boom, yeah-da-da-da-da-da-da-da-da-da") kicked off a new era of "doo-wop" music.

Doo-wop combined complex a cappella harmonies with swinging beats, and often, Latin rhythms.

• On March 14, 1964, Jack Ruby, the Dallas nightclub owner who killed Lee Harvey Oswald, is found guilty of the "murder with malice" of Oswald and sentenced to die in the electric chair. It was the first courtroom verdict to be televised in U.S. history.

• On March 16, 1985, in Beirut, Lebanon, Islamic militants kidnap American journalist Terry Anderson. On Dec. 4, 1991, Anderson's Hezbollah captors finally released him after 2,455 days.

• On March 11, 1990, Lithuania proclaims its independence from the USSR, the first Soviet republic to do so. The Soviet government responded by imposing an oil embargo and economic blockade against the Baltic republic, and later sent troops.

Those Six New Flags

Tired of all the negative news in the newspapers and on TV?

Looking for one of those "nice people" little stories, the kind that sort of make you feel good?

Well, here's one you might like.

It concerns Quincy's Korean War Memorial, John (Butch) Mahoney and Paul Mason.

Mahoney headed up the campaign for the memorial that is at Hancock St. and Southern Artery appropriately beside Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

The 10-ton black polished granite memorial with the names of 38 Quincy men who gave their lives in Korea engraved in 23-karat gold leaf was dedicated in July, 1996.

It also honors all veterans of the Korean War.

In the near six years since the dedication, Mahoney has personally maintained the upkeep of the memorial and surroundings. And makes sure that six flags continue to fly over it.

The flags are: United States, United Nations, POW/MIA, Massachusetts, Korean War Veterans, South Korea.

"I go through two sets of flags a year," says Mahoney.

They are spotlighted and fly 24 hours a day in all kinds of weather. Heavy winds, rain and snow eventually take their toll, fraying and tattering them and needed to be replaced.

The flags are usually purchased from the proceeds of engraved bricks honoring veterans not only of the Korean War, but those of other wars, too.

But the weather worn flags sometimes can't wait for the sale of the bricks to be replaced.

Enter Paul Mason.

Mahoney was in Mason's Texaco station the other day getting an oil change. The station, co-owned by Paul and his brother, Forest Mason, is on Hancock St. diagonally across from the memorial and the fluttering flags.

When the oil change was done, Paul had a surprise for Mahoney.

"By the way," he said, "your flags look pretty well torn. Here are six new ones."

Now, Butch is a pretty tough guy. A former Marine who played for the old Boston Patriots, he didn't get that nickname under false pretenses.

But he wasn't far from tears when Mason handed him the set of new flags.

"He took me completely by surprise," says Mahoney. "It was pretty moving to think that someone would do such a nice thing. I can't thank him and the Mason family enough."

Mahoney added:

"Paul is one of those nice guys who like to do nice things for people but don't want any credit."

The memorial was designed by Mahoney who confesses he got the idea for the shape from that of his wife's dresser. The memorial was created by A. Monti Granite Co. of Quincy. Over $40,000 was raised through the sale of engraved bricks and other items.

The Korean War (June 1950-July 1953) was originally displayed as a "conflict" and a "police action."

Paul Comi, a 1949 North Quincy High School graduate, flew from California where he owns an international flavored coffee and cappuccino business, to be one of the speakers at the dedication of the memorial.

Comi, a three Purple Hearts veteran of the Korean War in real life and who later played a similar role in the movie "Pork Chop Hill", lamented:

"The average person's consciousness of this war emanates from the television show M*A*S*H where the Korean War is presented as a romantic comedy."

It wasn't a romantic comedy. And it wasn't just a "conflict" or "police action."

THE SIX NEW flags flying over the Korean War Memorial beside Veterans' Memorial Stadium are admired by John (Butch) Mahoney, who headed the campaign for the memorial which was dedicated July 27, 1996.

It was a real war. One that took the lives of 54,000 Americans and wounded many thousands more.

For a long time it was "the forgotten war." But it no longer is.

And with that handsome memorial and the six flags flying above, it won't be forgotten --- not here in Quincy.

FORMER LABOR SECRETARY Robert Reich, now a candidate for Massachusetts governor, will be in Quincy Sunday.

Reich, a Brandeis professor, will give a lecture at 3 p.m. at Temple Beth El, 1001 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Reich will return to the area Thursday, March 21 as the guest speaker at the 7:44 breakfast of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Lantana, Randolph.

IT'S THAT TIME again.

Rep. Steve Tobin and his wife, Francine, are holding their 13th annual Salute to St. Patrick tonight (Thursday) 6 p.m. to midnight at Pat Flanagan's Pub, Parkway, Quincy Center.

Buffet, Irish band and dancing.

Tickets are $15 per person and available at the door.

The event has become a Quincy tradition, whether you're Irish or not.

YOU'VE HEARD THE three Irish Tenors and the three Italian Tenors.

But have you ever heard the Italian-Irish Tenor?

We did Saturday when Joe Lamparelli walked into the office and broke out with a complete Irish rendition of "Danny Boy."

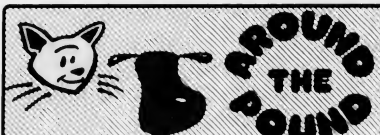

Joe, who runs a Quincy oil delivery firm when he isn't singing, wanted us to know he'll be entertaining with Irish ballads Saturday night at Kelly's Landing, Bridge St., North Weymouth.

Incidentally, Joe's pretty daughter, Janice, was Miss Quincy Bay of 1974. She's now married, the mother of six children, and living in Montana.

How the years fly!

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1925 postcard showing the iron bridge that spanned the gap between Granite Raile and Swingles quarries high above Willard Street in West Quincy. One of the dozens of Holmes derricks used in the quarries is in the background. Swingles Quarry eventually reached a depth of 350 feet so you can only imagine what it was like to walk across this small bridge. The man shown holding the rail on the observation platform was the father of Bert Eckblom who founded President Press in Quincy. Eric Eckblom was a Swedish immigrant stonemason who worked down at street level in the stone sheds. The bridge was toppled to the bottom of the quarries and was last seen when they were drained in the search for missing bodies a few years ago. It is now buried under tons of Big Dig dirt that was used to fill the old quarry holes.

Praise For The Late James 'Ray' Fallon

We write to pay tribute to a man, his family, and the well-established South Shore Service Corporation that is his legacy.

For years Fallon Ambulance Service has served Quincy and the South Shore in many ways, often behind-the-scenes. Beechwood Community Life Center is but one recipient of Fallon's long term assistance. For years, Fallon has provided weekly blood pressure clinics (at our Senior Drop in Center and Nutrition site) and First Aid and CPR classes for families, seniors, and staff persons. Corporate level volunteer contributions and fundraising assistance are generously given to Beechwood and other non-profit organizations.

"Life Saving" is often dramatically demonstrated when Fallon ambulances, paramedics, and EMTs respond to community emergencies. Yet it is for regular weekly "life saving" efforts that we write to salute Fallon. Countless seniors (with dangerously elevated blood pressure) have accessed immediate medical care due to Fallon's clinics at our center. We cannot tally the lives saved as a result of these screenings. First Aid and CPR classes (provided year round at the center for families and seniors) are also invaluable.

James "Ray" Fallon, the founder and retired president of Fallon Ambulance Service, passed away recently, leaving a large family and his well-known community service corporation. Ray's personal integrity and his corporate ethic were passed on to his family throughout his life. His approach to living and operating the family business reflected a simple, honest life philosophy. One of his sons (Peter) reflected upon how "Ray" unfailingly demonstrated his care for family and community and the special guidance he always provided at work and at home.

Ray Fallon left a generous legacy to his family and community. He lives on in the hearts closest to him and in the community services Fallon continues to provide.

Thanks From L Street Marathon Runners

The L Street Running Club would like to express our sincere thanks to the Quincy and Milton Police who on Feb. 17 provided our runners with traffic control during a recent Boston Marathon training run.

Secondly, the group would like to acknowledge the Fallon Ambulance service for being on hand in the event of an injury. Not to be forgotten is the security force at State Street South who assisted the runners as they passed through the North Quincy complex.

Most of all, thank you to the motorists of Milton and Quincy for your patience and encouragement during the Feb. 17 run.

L Street Runners enjoy the challenge of the terrain that Milton and Quincy have to offer. The training runs would not be possible without the cooperation and support given by Quincy and Milton Police and the residents of both communities.

Running a marathon is a commitment of time and endurance; the runners are forever grateful for the acts of support and kindness they receive from the citizens of Milton and Quincy.

Quincy's Yesterdays School Board Asks Governor For Buses

By PAUL HAROLD

The School Committee sent a telegram to Governor Paul Dever asking for his direct intervention to obtain buses for school children during the Eastern Mass. Street Railway bus strike.

Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard said the health and safety of 795 students who depended on bus service were at risk. These students traveled more than four miles round trip to school.

Committee member Carter Lee, who was also a state representative, said he had tried number a of times to have state labor commissioner John DeMonte intervene in the strike, but was told nothing could be done.

Meanwhile, Howard Gates, president of the Quincy local of bus drivers, said a fleet of 75-100 cars would be operated by striking drivers to transport Quincy students. He said fares could not be changed but there would be "donation boxes."

GOLF COURSE COMMITTEE THANKS SCHOOL COMMITTEE

At a special meeting of the steering committee of the Furnace Brook Golf Club, a resolution was passed congratulating the school committee for selecting the Rice estate on Adams Street over the golf course property for a new school.

Meeting at the office of their attorney, Robert Curry, the committee -- comprising John Rooney, John Williams and Arthur Moore -- noted "the unanimous decision of the school committee to retain the Furnace Brook area for the citizens of Quincy shows their deep interest in the welfare of the people."

A spokesman for the Rice estate said they would not fight the land taking.

FILM STARS FATHER OF QUINCY RESIDENT

The film "Dawn Over Ireland," shown at a fund-raiser for the Columbian Fathers, starred the father of young Germantown housewife Mrs. George McDonald.

Jerry Mahoney, who starred in the box office hit, played the role of a Black and Tan officer in the Irish Civil War.

Sheila Mahoney came to Quincy five years ago from Ireland and while staying with relatives met her future husband George.

'Story Of Scituate' Historical Society Topic

John Galluzzo, executive director of the Scituate Historical Society, will be guest speaker at the Quincy Historical Society Thursday, March 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the Adams Academy, 8 Adams St.

Galluzzo will discuss the long and varied history of Scituate from its early colonial beginnings and the community's complex and changing relationship to the sea. The presentation will be illustrated with slides of historic photos assembled for Scituate Historical Society's recent highly successful book in the Arcadia Images of America series.

The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

LT. and MRS. DANNY CHURCH

Heidi Graney Wed To Lt. Danny Church

A reception at the Barker Tavern in Scituate followed the recent wedding of Heidi Graney and Lt. Danny Church in St. Ann's Church, Quincy. The Rev. Garrett Barry performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of William and Kathleen Graney of Quincy. The bridegroom is the son of Danny and Myrleine Church of Dillon, S.C.

Kelly Collins of Hingham was the maid of honor. Geoffrey Dunklee of Odenton, Md., served as best man.

Bridesmaids were Jennifer Kelly of Marshfield, Deborah Scannell of Marshfield and Jennifer Church of Dillon, S.C.

Ushers were William Graney of Nantucket, Mark Batties of Clarksville, Tenn., and Eric Jones of Hartford, Conn.

The bride graduated from Notre Dame Academy, Hingham, and Clemson University in South Carolina. She is employed by the Clarksville, Tenn., public schools.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Dillon High School and Clemson University. He is a platoon leader with the 101st Airborne Unit stationed at Fort Campbell, Ky.

After a wedding trip to St. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Church are making their home in Clarksville, Tenn.

Grateful FDNY Firefighter Thanks City For Welcome

By CRAIG SALTERS

In a thick New York accent and a straightforward manner the city is famous — or infamous — for. New York City Firefighter First Grade Robert Fulco said that Quincy was not his first choice when firefighters were selected to visit cities across the country as part of a goodwill campaign.

"I'd hoped to go someplace warm," admitted Fulco, who was accompanied by his wife Linda on last week's visit, hosted by Mayor William Phelan and his wife Tracey as part of "Cities Unite America and Thank New York Firefighters."

But the city, Fulco said, won them over, so much so that they extended what was supposed to be a weekend visit not once but twice, finally departing the "City of Presidents" for "The City That Doesn't Sleep" last Thursday.

"It was fantastic," said Fulco, a 25-year veteran of Engine Company 250 in Brooklyn. "It may sound corny, but the warmth of the people I've met here, especially during the ceremony (March 1 at Central Fire Station) more than made up for the weather."

ROBERT FULCO

Fulco said that his wife Linda, who he joked "was doing her best to re-start the local economy" at the time of the interview, is already planning a return trip to Quincy in June.

Of the many tourist sites he saw during his visit to Quincy and Boston, Fulco, an architecture buff, said his favorite was the Massachusetts State House which he toured courtesy of state Rep. Stephen Tobin.

The darker side of Fulco's visit, of course, is the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks upon the World Trade Center which caused so much loss of life — especially to the city's "first responders" such as firefighters, police, and EMTs — and prompted the nationwide tour by the FDNY.

"I'm coming here to say thank you and people are coming up and thanking me," said Fulco, who added that whatever help he might have been able to provide others was returned tenfold to himself. "I call it mutual medicine and we all need a little right now."

Fulco singled out for special thanks the Quincy Fire Department who, like many fire departments from across the nation, volunteered to travel to New York and attend funerals for fallen firefighters.

"We honor our dead; it's important to us," said Fulco, who said a traditional FDNY funeral for an officer who died on duty had five to 10 thousand firefighters, sometimes a quarter-mile long and six firefighters deep.

"That just wasn't possible this time because there were so many funerals," said Fulco. "The (visiting firefighters) filled in the ranks and allowed us to give our dead a proper burial."

Fulco also said that emotion at the March 1 ceremony at Central Fire Station caused him to forget to say thank you to the families of firefighters, especially the spouses of firefighters.

"They're the unsung heroes," said Fulco. "They deserve a tip of the cap."

The Mammogram You Need. Without the Wait.

Are you tired of waiting months to schedule a mammogram? Then call Milton Hospital's Breast Care Program today. You'll love our shorter wait times. Appointments are scheduled in 4-6 weeks, and when the need is urgent within one day! A doctor referral is not needed for an annual mammogram, and most insurance plans cover the cost. Plus, we offer convenient early morning, evening, and Saturday appointments.

Written Results Before You Leave

At Milton Hospital, you'll get written mammogram results before you leave your appointment, and you can speak directly with the radiologist. If initial results reveal a suspicious area, we won't keep you waiting. Follow-up testing is provided within one day, sometimes on the same day. We'll also send your exam results directly to your primary care physician.

Sensitive Care

Comfortable and private, our mammography suites offer top-tier technology, with the warmth and dignity you deserve. With all these benefits, why wait? Call Milton Hospital today.

Schedule your next mammogram today at

Park Department Report Set For April 16 Council Meeting

The city's Park Department is scheduled to report on the current status of Park Department projects and responsibilities as well as future initiatives regarding park facilities and open space at the April 16th meeting of the City Council.

The request for such a report was made by Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin in the form of a resolve passed at the council's most recent meeting March 4.

Coughlin, who serves as chairman of the council's Park and Recreation Committee, said such a report would be helpful as the spring and summer seasons approach.

Coughlin's resolve notes that, in addition to regular activities, the Park Department issued 2,211 permits for facilities use in 2001 and that the Park Department is responsible for: 33 basketball courts, 25 tennis courts, six street hockey courts, three football fields, seven baseball fields, 27 little league/softball diamonds, two picnic facilities, 22 children's tot-lots, 12 passive park settings, and 10 municipal beaches.

Thomas Koch serves as the executive director of the Park, Forestry, and Cemetery Departments.

On-Site Power Generation Could Pay Off Big For Marina Bay Condo Units

By CRAIG SALTERS

Two on-site, natural gas fired "Co-Generation" units recently installed in the east and west towers of the 245-unit Marina Bay Condominiums are up and running and expected to save the condo association roughly $50,000 per year in reduced energy costs.

The highly efficient "Co-Gen" units, the first of their kind in Quincy, use gas to generate electricity for their respective towers; the by-product of that generation is heat, often at a temperature of more than 1000 degrees, which is then trapped and used to pre-heat the water feeding existing boiler systems for domestic water and other uses.

The anticipated result: readily available electricity, heat, and hot water; reduced emissions and a decreased strain on the region's power grid; and savings for consumers.

"We did it to save money," said Paul Reynolds, chairman of the condo association's board of trustees, "and so far we're very satisfied."

The lion's share of the savings will come in electricity costs. According to estimates by Aegis Energy Services, Inc., the Springfield area based company which installed the units, the "Co-Gen" units would reduce a $67,712 electricity bill in Marina Point East to $19,690; in Marina Point West, a $74,500 electricity bill would become $27,017 after "Co-Gen." Other costs would vary but the total savings is estimated at $50,000.

The reduction in energy actually used at the condominiums is estimated to be equivalent to the average yearly energy use of 50 homes.

The "Co-Gen" units represent a partnership between the trustees of the condo association, who invested $150,000 in the project, and KeySpan Energy Delivery System, which also put up $150,000 as part of its energy efficiency demonstration grant program.

Reynolds said trustees made the decision to go with the "Co-Gen" units after an independent engineer, hired by the trustees to review claims of savings, told them payback on their $150,000 investment would take about three years, a period slightly less than what they had originally been told.

The units have been running at some capacity for about six weeks now, Reynolds said, and in that time the buildings' boilers have only had to be used once.

In fact, Reynolds said, the association is actually selling some of the surplus electricity produced on-site.

"It's definitely the wave of the future," said Michael Connors, KeySpan's manager of Public Information in New England, referring to the concept of "Distributed Power Generation" where electricity is generated on-site rather than produced at one plant and sent via a supply grid to customers.

The "Co-Gen" Units, Connors said, are just one example of "Distributed Power Generation" and will be targeted for use in buildings of between 90 and 120 units, such as health care facilities and senior housing, where high hot water demands make such a system practical.

Another example, Connors said, is the installation of fuel cells in individual homes, an idea he said was not yet cost-effective but held promise in the coming years.

By law, Connors emphasized, KeySpan is not allowed to make a profit on the actual cost of natural gas, making its money instead on the actual delivery of product. However, Connors is clearly an advocate for the use of natural gas in meeting the region's future energy needs, touting the fuel's "environmentally benign" emissions, its "security of supply" given the vast reserves of natural gas in North America, and the increased use of natural gas in the New England, an area of the country which traditionally relies heavily on oil to heat its homes and power its electric generators.

According to Connors, a similar "Co-Gen" project is being considered at Fenno House in Quincy.

THE ELECTRICITY NEEDS of all 245 units of the Marina Bay Condominiums are now produced on-site by highly efficient Co-Generation Units, one in each tower, a joint project of the condominium association's Board of Trustees and KeySpan Energy Delivery. In all, the association is expected to save $50,000 in yearly energy costs.

Title Insurance Protects Your Investment

By CAROL BULMAN
President
Conway Financial Services

(This article is the fourth in a series on the "basics" of the home buying process.)

For most of us, buying a home is the biggest single investment we'll make.

Therefore, we need to protect ourselves against potential hazards such as fire, theft and other mishaps through homeowner's insurance, and from flood loss through flood insurance coverage.

A less obvious, but equally as damaging danger, could be caused by a defect in the title of your property. This risk could also cause you to lose part or all of your investment in your home.

For this type of hazard,

there is another type of protection available—title insurance. A lender will require that you have title insurance equal to the amount of your mortgage and, at some point during the mortgage process, you are offered the option of insuring up to the value of your home. This offer is generally made by the closing attorney at the time of closing.

Title insurance is required for all mortgages, and is paid for by the borrower. Since it is tied to the amount of your mortgage, the cost can be determined when you receive the Good Faith Estimate of Closing Costs (a form required by the Equal Credit Opportunity Act to be given to the customer within three days of loan application). The amount you pay at closing for this insurance passes from the lender to the title insurance carrier.

During the processing of a loan application, a closing attorney is hired to perform a "title search" on the property you wish to buy. The title search is a detailed examination of the historical records concerning a property, including deeds, court records, property and name indexes, and other documents. This search is important because it validates the seller's right to transfer ownership in the property, determines if there are any claims on the property and uncovers any potential defects in the title.

The title examiner will look for things such as outstanding liens on the property, improperly recorded documents, mistakes on past deeds, and other "encumbrances and restrictions." Other examples of defects in title include unsatisfied mortgages, judgments against the seller and restrictions that limit the use of the land.

Unfortunately, there are some problems that a title search may not reveal, and this is the reason for title insurance. The defects that are not as obvious are called "hidden hazards," such as forgery or fraud, defective deeds, mental incompetence or clerical errors.

Title insurance will protect you in the event that a claim is made against your property. The insurance will provide you with a legal defense, and, if the claim proves to be valid, will reimburse you for your losses up to your amount of coverage. For this reason, the lender is interested in your policy covering at least the amount of your mortgage. This is also the reason that it is prudent for you to purchase what is called an "owner's policy" so that you are covered up to the full value of your home. The difference in expense is nominal and is something you should definitely discuss with your lender.

As with anything else during the processing of your mortgage, it's best to ask questions, determine how much you are responsible for paying, and the total amount of your insurance coverage.

The next installment of our series on homebuying will explain the differences between mortgage prequalification and preapproval, and we will show you how to use the knowledge you've gained in today's real estate marketplace.

CENTRAL REAL ESTATE
BUY LOW, SELL HIGHER
It is stating the obvious to advise an investor to buy low and sell high. And while the purchase of a home is usually considered to be more of an investment in lifestyle than a pure investment, it pays to keep this principle in mind. By purchasing the least expensive home on the block, buyers put themselves in a position to realize the most appreciation in value. The surrounding, more expensive homes will pull up the value of their less expensive house. By then spending the difference between the purchase price of their home and the more expensive ones in the neighborhood on renovations, buyers can get the home they want and realize a very good return on their dollars.

NHS First Time Homebuyers Workshop March 23

Neighborhood Housing Services, an approved First Time Homebuyer Counseling Agency, will hold an accredited and MHEA-certified First Time Homebuyer's Workshop in collaboration with the Dedham Institution for Savings on Saturday, March 23.

The workshop will be held at Dedham Institution for Savings, 55 Elm St., Dedham, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Lunch will be provided.

Neighborhood Housing Services is a non-profit organization dedicated to assisting first time buyers through the homebuying process. The staff at NHS is unique in their approach to obtaining down payment and closing costs assistance as well as rehab grants for their clients, which are available throughout the entire South Shore area.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. Focus will be on the many changing aspects of homebuying, including how to locate a property within budget, how to make an offer, and determining the best mortgage program.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited.

Contact Debbie Ederly at (617) 770-2227, Ext. 31 for more information.

Design Tips For Couples Ready To Renovate

(NU) — The nation's decorating dialogue has changed dramatically from yesterday when an ugly, old recliner was generally at the heart of debate. Now it's more common to find couples arguing over which countertop color they want: aubergine or sage green.

Today, it often takes two for a "re-do," and men are getting much more involved in the renovation and design process.

A new survey, conducted by Harris Interactive/ Yankelovich Partners for EXPO Design Center, found that 71 percent of Americans disagree with their significant others about something when it comes to home decorating.

"The 'Yes, dear, whatever you want!' attitude is definitely on the decline," said Alison McKenzie, a kitchen designer for EXPO in Atlanta.

Women prefer a relaxed, informal style — colors like light green, yellow and rose, weathered wood, and big, soft furniture, the survey said. Conversely, more men than women embrace a contemporary style, a color scheme dominated by white, black and beige, stainless steel appliances and fixtures, and very simple furnishings.

Men and women also differ in their renovation priorities, the survey found. For example, men prefer exterior home renovation projects, such as new landscaping, outdoor lighting and grilling systems, while women choose kitchens as their highest priority.

Couples say their main decorating disagreements focus on color, style and quality.

If you need to get beyond the initial argument in order to come to a collective decision, a designer's professional and neutral expertise can help you make the best choices.

When faced with a difference of opinion, sometimes a literal approach works best.

In one situation, for example, a husband had a difficult time understanding his wife's choices. Diane Lamparter, an EXPO designer in Commack, N.Y., brought samples of the products to the couple's home.

"When he saw how the marble and carpet his wife picked looked in their home, he loved the choices — it was just a matter of seeing them in his own home," Lamparter said.

But although initial arguments are common, when it comes to making the final decorating decision-making process, 66 percent of women surveyed said their husband's opinion has an influence on their decision to purchase a decorative item. And 18 percent said their decorating decisions are completely influenced by their partner's opinion.

QCAP To Host Homebuying Workshop March 23, 30

Real estate experts will teach potential buyers skills for buying a home at a free workshop sponsored by Quincy Community Action

Programs (QCAP).

The workshop will take place Saturday, March 23 and Saturday, March 30 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the fourth floor conference room of the QCAP main offices, 1509 Hancock St.

Real estate professionals will also provide information about government down payment/closing cost assistance for qualified buyers.

Registration is required by March 18. The workshop is open to all regardless of residence or income level.

To register or for more information, contact Rona Goodman at (617) 479-8181, ext. 115.

THE SQUANTUM SCHOOL welcomes Ayers Handicap Conversion Center, a Quincy-based company which recently signed a Quincy-Community School Partnership with the elementary school. On hand for the signing ceremonies were, from left: Anthony Floyd, Squantum Elementary School Principal Donald Houghton, state Rep. Bruce Ayers of Ayers Handicap Conversion, Supt. of Schools Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, and Arthur Keough, executive director of the Quincy School-Community Partnership, Inc.

Ayers Handicap Conversion, Squantum Elementary School Sign Partnership Agreement

Ayers Handicap Conversion Center, a Quincy-based company dedicated to improving the transportation needs of the physically challenged, recently signed a Quincy School-Community Partnership with the Squantum Elementary School.

Taking part in the official signing ceremonies held at the school were state Rep. Bruce Ayers of Ayers Handicap Conversion Center, Squantum Elementary School Principal Donald Houghton, Supt. of Schools Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, and Arthur Keough, executive director of the Quincy School-Community Partnership, Inc.

Ayers Handicap Conversion Center provides and installs equipment to make it easier for people with disabilities to drive or be transported safely in a vehicle. The company has been servicing the South Shore and New England area for more than 20 years.

The company has been informally partnering with the school for some time now. Former U.S. Marine Anthony Floyd, a quadriplegic and friend of Ayers, along with Larry Anzuoni, owner of Brush Hill Trolley Tours, have been instrumental in conducting an annual Handicapped Awareness Day, complete with a ride in a handicap accessible trolley, for the second grade students of the Squantum School for the past seven years.

Ayers Handicap Conversion and the Squantum School will continue to promote handicap awareness and the understanding of the needs of the disabled. In addition, Ayers participates in the Holiday Toy Drive each year with the Squantum School second graders.

The Quincy-School Partnership program currently has more than 100 partnerships throughout the city.

Strong Showings For Quincy's Mike Murphy, Joe Hern In NE Finals

Quincy High seniors Mike Murphy and Joe Hern ended their high school careers in dramatic fashion at the recent New England wrestling championships at Roger Williams College in Bristol, R.I.

Murphy (125 pounds) had an incredible, if not improbable, run to the finals. He defeated a Vermont wrestler, the Maine state champion, the New Hampshire finalist and pulled out a 3-0 semifinal win over the Massachusetts Division 1 finalist to advance to the finals against Matt Smith of Timberlane, N.H.

History was made in the finals, but not the kind Murphy wanted any part of. Smith became the second wrestler in New England history to win four New England championships.

"Mike really came on late in the season," said head coach Lou Venturelli. "His semifinal bout was near perfection. He is so coachable and fun to watch. He never stops wrestling. He's hoping to hear good news from MIT, so it tells you what kind of kid he is. His focus is on wrestling when on the mat, but his teachers will tell you

New England Runner-up about the quality of his work. He's a true student-athlete."

Almost as impressive as Murphy's second-place finish was the tournament wrestled by Hern (152 pounds). After an opening-round, 15-0 win, Hern faced Mike Ragusa of Foxboro in the quarterfinals. Seemingly in control of the match at 2-0 with 20 seconds left, it all slipped away at the buzzer as Hern lost, 5-2.

"Joe's goal coming in was to win the tournament," Venturelli said. "He really didn't want to continue after the loss but after some re-focusing, Joe came back strong on Saturday."

Hern defeated a New Hampshire wrestler, the Maine state champ, avenged the loss in the All-State final to the St. John's (Shrewsbury) wrestler and then he defeated Ragusa, 5-0, for the third-place medal.

"The tough part for Joe was to watch the New England champ be crowned and it be someone he defeated earlier in the year at the Lowell finals by a 7-0 score," Venturelli said. "But that is wrestling."

Hern plans on competing at the Senior National Tournament to be held April 5-7 in Cleveland, Ohio. State champions from all 50 states are eligible to participate at this prestigious tournament. The top eight place-winners are crowned All-Americans.

Having both wrestlers medal so high vaulted Quincy into a ninth-place finish for team scores, the highest in recent school history.

"When you consider that there are over 300 schools in New England with wrestling programs and over 150 that were represented at the New England tournament, we're extremely proud of a top 10 finish," Venturelli said. "It really says more about the quality of these two kids."

SIDE COMMENTS

The ability of side head airbags to help the occupants of vehicles survive severe side impacts is noteworthy, considering that nearly 100,000 are killed each year in side-impact crashes. Head injuries cause more than half of those deaths. Until recently, only consumers of luxury vehicles were afforded the added protection of side head airbags. Now, this safety technology is filtering down to less costly models, as well. Dedicated head airbags are different from side-impact airbags, which are located in either the seat or door panel and are aimed at primarily protecting the chest or head and chest. Dedicated head airbags are located along the edge of the roof, or headliner, inside the vehicle and deploy downward to protect the head.

To Compete In N.E. Competition Saturday

Aileen Croke Wins Elks 'Hoop Shoot' State Crown

Aileen Croke of Quincy is the state champion in the Elks National "Hoop Shoot" Free Throw contest in the age 12-13 division.

She will compete in the New England competition Saturday, March 23, in New Hampshire, which will be the final step towards the national championship.

Croke represented the Quincy Lodge of Elks 943 in the event, which features a local competition supervised by the Quincy Recreation Department. Competitors advance by scoring the highest of 25 free-throw attempts.

After winning in the local gym, Croke advanced to the Quincy championship and then the Elks Circle District, where she went up against the best of the South Shore towns at Marshfield High School. She then went to Auburn where she won the state title in a tiebreaker after making 22 of 25 shots. She shot 5 for 5 in the tiebreaker to win the championship.

Best Season In 15 Years For North Freshmen

Defeat Quincy 35-32 For Season Sweep

The North Quincy High boys' freshman team recently defeated cross-town rival Quincy, 35-32, to complete the season sweep while also notching its best season in 15 years.

Earlier in the year, the Red Raiders topped the Presidents, 62-58. In the latest bout, Ricky Schifone paced North Quincy with 11 points, including two 3-pointers. Ted Fawell chipped in with eight and Vin Pastore added five. For Quincy, Parker Scott poured in 15.

Retired varsity head coach Ted Stevenson praised the efforts of the freshman team, pointing out that its 10-10 record was the best of any group he had seen during his tenure.

Included in the wins were season sweeps over Archbishop Williams and Falmouth. North Quincy also won at Silver Lake, 56-38, for the first time in recent memory. Frank McKenna scored 18 points.

On the season, Fawell, a 6-2 center, averaged a team-high 11 points, while McKenna followed with 10.9 ppg, scoring a team-high 19 points in the first meeting against Quincy.

Tom Ross, a smooth shooting guard who transferred from B.C. High, averaged 7.6 points, including a 14-point effort against Silver Lake. Schifone, whose scoring picked up at the end of the season, added 5.4 ppg.

Mike Flaherty chipped in with 4 ppg. His clutch foul shot defeated Plymouth South with three-thirties of a second left in the game.

John Fitzgerald and Rob Gardner handed the point guard duties while Dave Djerf and Dennis Magaldi also played the position. Rounding out the squad were forwards Brendan Linnane, Chris Mercurio and Pastore, Alex Hardy, at 6-3, was the most improved player. Tim Kennedy, a late season addition, also played well.

"I was very pleased with the progress the team made," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "They always hustled and learned to play excellent team defense. A couple of these players could make the varsity next season if they continue to improve in the offseason."

Dave Rochon Selected To All-Region Team

North Quincy High School senior Dave Rochon was recently selected to the All-Region Team by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America and Adidas.

An all-scholastic, Rochon was also a two-year Old Colony League All-Star and league MVP.

He played for head coach Robert Dano, who is retiring after a successful career at North Quincy. Dano is a former "Coach of the Year" winner for the Red Raiders.

Goal Drought Sends Presidents Packing In Hockey Semifinals

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School hockey team skated into last Wednesday's Division 1 South Sectional semifinal against Springfield Cathedral having netted 121 goals.

Unfortunately, it left Watertown Ice Arena with 121 goals. Yep, that spectacular, mesmerizing juggernaut that is Quincy's offense failed to light the lamp, ending its successful season with a 4-0 loss to the Panthers.

It marked the first time all year the third-seeded Presidents (15-4-4) were shut out. In fact, the last time they failed to get on the scoreboard was Jan. 15, 2000 when they fell to Falmouth, 3-0, at Quincy Youth Arena. That's a DiMaggio-like 56 straight games.

"I didn't think any team would shut us out," said head coach Bob Sylvia, who had the services of snipers Dave Germain, Matt Germain, Bill McKeon and Paul Campbell this season. "To be shut out, that's never happened. You'd think Matty or David would get a goal, or Billy. Hey, that's the tournament."

So how did sixth-seeded Springfield Cathedral manage to pull the plug on Quincy's electrifying offense when its previous 11 opponents could not?

"Basically, their defensemen were standing up at the red line and challenging us," Sylvia said. "You take our snipers, you take a McKeon or a Germain or a Campbell, and they're taking a run at those guys before they get a head of steam."

"By the time these guys reached the red line, there was already somebody on them. Whereas, we've had our success when these guys get a chance to get into the flow more."

Not only did Springfield Cathedral pitch a shutout, but it also shut them down completely. Quincy managed just 16 shots on goal. This is a team that's used to putting up 16 shots in one period alone.

"They were the best team we played by far," Sylvia said. "They were head and shoulders better than the teams I saw, including Falmouth, Whitman, Hanson, Sandwich and Hanover."

"If we were to play Springfield Cathedral or Xavierian five times (both teams reached the finals), we'd probably be lucky to win one. But on a given night, a given night, in the tournament, that's possible."

Obviously, last Wednesday night was not Quincy's "given night." The Panthers dominated from the get-go. They prevented Quincy from penetrating their zone while they generated several quality scoring chances. Except senior goalie Shaun Flaherty (24 saves) must have sprayed himself with some kind of repellent, as he stymied several attempts with great saves.

"Fantastic game," Sylvia said of Flaherty's performance. "First period, he kept us in it. That has been the history of Shaun since his junior year."

For the past two years, Sylvia has had the luxury of two sensational masked men between the pipes. Senior backup Tom Shruhan easily could've been a No. 1 netminder for any team in Division 1.

"My heart is out to a kid like Tommy Shruhan, who is probably as good a goalie as I've had in 20 years," Sylvia said. "He just happened to come in with Shaun. I think both goalies will be in the Hall of Fame someday. Goalending has not been a problem with us all year."

In the second, Springfield

Cathedral finally got on the board with a power-play goal at 8:27 and it struck for another at 13:39 to extend its lead to 2-0 after the period.

"When they got that first goal they seemed to get a little bit stronger," Sylvia said. "The only chance we had against a team like that is if we could've somehow got off to a fairly good start."

At 3:17 of the third, the Panthers tallied a breakaway goal to go up 3-0 and they added the fourth and final goal with under six minutes left in the game.

"At that point you could look into their eyes and the kids realized it was over," Sylvia said.

The season may have come to a painful end — and for the 13 seniors, their careers — but it should not be forgotten. The class of 2002 guided Quincy to a second straight appearance in the semifinals, truly a remarkable feat.

"This is one of our best senior teams," Sylvia said. "This team has really kind of taken us a minimum of three years to develop. They're a bunch of good kids. I've enjoyed working with them. They were devastated. Devastated. Tears. And I said to them, 'I hope these tears are not because we lost. I hope the tears are because we will never be together again as a team.'"

"When time passes and the kids have a chance to reflect on the whole season, I think they'll realize they did have a lot of fun playing. I go back to the Garth Brooks song about the dance: 'I could have missed the pain but then I'd have to miss the dance.' I don't think any of these kids would've wanted to miss the dance in lieu of the pain they felt after the Cathedral game."

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

A Health Problem Growing With Our Waist Lines

Type 2 Diabetes:

During the 1990s the United States suffered a silent, yet dramatic public health crisis. It was what the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) refers to as "the twin epidemics of diabetes and obesity."

In that decade, there was a 49 percent increase in the number of Americans 18 years of age and older suffering from diabetes. The CDC estimates that 16 million Americans have diabetes and that the number will increase by 165 percent over the next 50 years.

At the same time the percentage of obese adults (more than 30 pounds overweight) grew from 12 percent of the population to nearly 20 percent. With more than 80 percent of Type 2 diabetes sufferers also diagnosed as being overweight, it is clear that as we become a heavier nation we stand the risk of becoming more susceptible to diabetes.

What is Diabetes?

Diabetes affects the level of glucose or sugar in the bloodstream. As the main source of nutrition for the body, glucose must be exchanged from our blood to our cells. The proper amount of insulin, which is created in the pancreas, must be present for this exchange to occur.

Diabetes is classified as

Type 1 or Type 2. In Type 1, insulin-producing cells are damaged or destroyed by the body's own immune system. The resulting absence or insufficient amount of insulin prevents the glucose from getting into the cells. Recent research has shown that the cause of Type 1 before age 20 is usually genetic. In adults Type 1 is usually brought on by a combination of genetics and lifestyle.

Type 2 afflicts 90 to 95 percent of sufferers. People with Type 2 usually have enough insulin in their blood stream, but for unknown reasons the body does not use the insulin effectively or overeating has caused glucose levels to rise to a point where the insulin is not fully effective.

Long-term complications from diabetes include eye and kidney problems as well as heart disease, stroke and poor circulation.

Who is at risk?

The onset of Type 2 is usually linked to changes in the metabolic rate of people over 40. Obesity, inactivity, family history, being a member of a racial minority group (African and Native American, particularly), prior diagnoses of gestational diabetes in women and older age are all contributing factors to the development of Type 2. However, during the 1990s, as Americans became heavier, the number of people ages 30-39 with Type 2 diabetes grew by 70 percent.

It is important to remember, however, that not all overweight people will contract diabetes and not all people with Type 2 diabetes are overweight.

Preventing or Delaying Type 2 Diabetes

There is no absolute way of preventing diabetes, but studies done in this country and in Finland indicate that even modest to moderate lifestyle changes will delay the onset of Type 2 diabetes.

"Walking for 30 minutes each day, coupled with a modest decrease in caloric intake are all that it takes to hold off Type 2 diabetes," said Stuart R. Chipkin, M.D., chief of Endocrinology and Diabetes at Baystate Medical Center in Springfield, and a member of the Committee on Nutrition of the Massachusetts Medical Society. "Some people may eventually develop diabetes no matter what, but even modest intervention in lifestyle can delay the onset for years."

One of the factors making Type 2 diabetes so dangerous is that it is possible for it to develop without the presence of any obvious symptoms. It's critically important to relay your personal and family medical history to your physician so that the appropriate diagnostic and preventive steps can be taken, Dr. Chipkin said.

Managing Type 2 Diabetes
There is no cure for diabetes. However, the American Diabetes Association (ADA) believes long-term complications may be delayed through development of a management plan developed by a team of health care providers consisting of your physician and others. The plan may include the following:

- Medication: Your physician may prescribe oral diabetes medications as part of your treatment.

- Proper nutrition: The ADA encourages consultation with a dietitian to develop a meal program that properly balances nutrients to help keep blood sugar levels down and weight at the appropriate level.

- Regular exercise and weight loss: Both usually lower blood sugar and may help insulin work better.

The important things to remember about Type 2 diabetes is that with proper diet and exercise it may be avoided and that treatment is available that can help sufferers lead long and healthy lives if they adhere to the basic principles of their management plan.

For more information about diabetes, its symptoms and treatment, visit the ADA's Web Site (www.diabetes.org).

NOT SO PRETTY IN PINK

A "pink toothbrush" after brushing indicates bleeding gums. In an otherwise healthy person, this is the first sign of gingivitis. If neglected, this inflammation of the gums can progress to more serious gum disease (gingivitis). The cause of gingivitis is plaque, a sticky substance suffused with bacteria that forms along the margins where the tooth and gum meet. Plaque produces enzymes and toxins that irritate and inflame the gum tissue. Relatively painless, gingivitis can sneak up on a person without him or her even noticing it. Thorough tooth brushing and flossing will, in most instances, prevent gingivitis from developing, or reverse it if it has already started. In any case, bleeding gums should prompt a visit to the dentist.

What does your toothbrush look like? Oral health is an essential and integral component of health throughout life. We provide the best care possible by evaluating your needs individually. We'll explain our findings and recommendations. Together we'll choose your best treatment plan. Whether you need answers to your questions about your gums, or just an appointment for your next regular checkup, we invite you to call us at 617-479-6220. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. It is necessary to visit the dentist regularly for the removal of hardened plaque, called tartar or calculus.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

When you think about it, there is nothing mysterious or complex about "human nature." Human nature is nothing other than human habits. Human nature is therefore changeable the same as human habits are changeable. Surprisingly, human nature is often mentioned to excuse personal offenses and misbehavior. It is equally surprising that the inherent goodness in man is seldom mentioned as human nature.

The human habits of love, tolerance and respect are certainly as much of human nature as the faults of greed, distrust and other vices. Actually, when you look around, you see far more love, trust and selflessness than hate, distrust and selfishness. In these troublesome times in human relations, it is still true that goodness exceeds the bad. And more importantly, it is good to stress: that bad habits can be changed to good habits if a will to do so exists. In short, "human nature" can be changed. Just change "human habits"...

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

When you think about it, there is nothing mysterious or complex about "human nature." Human nature is nothing other than human habits. Human nature is therefore changeable the same as human habits are changeable. Surprisingly, human nature is often mentioned to excuse personal offenses and misbehavior. It is equally surprising that the inherent goodness in man is seldom mentioned as human nature.

The human habits of love, tolerance and respect are certainly as much of human nature as the faults of greed, distrust and other vices. Actually, when you look around, you see far more love, trust and selflessness than hate, distrust and selfishness. In these troublesome times in human relations, it is still true that goodness exceeds the bad. And more importantly, it is good to stress that bad habits can be changed to good habits if a will to do so exists. In short, "human nature" can be changed. Just change "human habits"...

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Keep an open mind about a suggestion you see as unworkable. Give it a chance to prove itself one way or another. The results could surprise both supporters and detractors.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) News about an upcoming venture causes you to make some last-minute adjustments in your plans. But the extra work will pay off, as you come to learn more about the potential benefits opening up.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A more positive aspect grows out of your determination to reach your immediate goals. Continue to keep your focus sharp and on target by steering clear of petty quarrels and other pesky problems.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) By acting as a voice of reason, you can avoid adding to an already turbulent situation. You might have to shout over the tumult, but your words will ultimately be heard and heeded.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) The possibility of a new acquisition always makes those Leonine eyes light up. But be careful that what you see is what you want. Appearances can often be deceiving.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) No matter how much you might feel that you're in the right, resist saying anything that could reignite a still-unresolved situation. Let the matter drop, and move on.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Help with a personal problem comes from an unexpected source. You also find workplace pressures easing. Use this period of calm to restore your spent energies.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You might have to share the credit for that project you're working on. But there'll be enough credit to go around, and your efforts will be recognized and rewarded.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Details need to be dealt with before you can move on to another area. Make sure you don't leave any loose ends that could later cause everything to unravel.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) News about a change in the workplace carries with it a challenge you could find difficult to resist. Check it out. It could be what you've been waiting for.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Allowing your artistic nature full expression will help restore your spirits and will put you in the mood to take on that new career challenge. A Libra creates excitement.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Expect to happily plunge right into a hectic social whirl starting at week's end. Your aspects favor new friendships as well as the strengthening of old relationships.

BORN THIS WEEK: Like St. Patrick (who was also born this week), your spiritual strength is an inspiration to others.

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN urges the City Council to retain the present 169 percent tax classification while others waited their turn to oppose it. (Quincy Sun photos/Robert Noble)

ASSESSORS CHAIRMAN Marion Fantuccio informs the City Council that the state has not yet certified Quincy's assessment figures and thus a vote on tax classification could not be taken Monday night. Proponents and opponents of the present 169 percent classification packed the council chamber at the public hearing.

Thomas Largey Named Assistant City Solicitor

Mayor William Phelan has appointed Atty. Thomas L. Largey to serve as the city's new assistant city solicitor.

Largey began his duties Monday at City Hall and will work under Acting City Solicitor Joseph "Jay" MacRitchie.

"He's an unusually good find," said Phelan, noting Largey's experience as well as his ability to work full-time in the position after leaving private practice at a relatively young age. "He's a well respected attorney who's extremely intelligent, has great writing skills, and has been a part of the city for a long time."

A lifelong Quincy resident and Squantum native, Largey is a graduate of Archbishop Williams High School in Braintree and Providence College in Providence, RI. He graduated from New England School of Law in 1985 and also served as editor of that school's Law Review.

Largey began his law career under the late Richard "Dick" Barry, a former city councillor, city solicitor, and first assistant district attorney whom Largey called "a great man." Largey then worked 15 years with Atty. William F. Sullivan at the law firm of Sullivan & Largey, Newport Ave., and is still "of counsel" at the firm.

"It's a very difficult period that the city faces right now," said Largey. "I'm thrilled that Mayor Phelan is in charge and I welcome the opportunity to work with him to return financial stability to the city's future."

Largey and his wife Kelly reside in Squantum with their three sons: Tommy, age 6, and twins Bobby and Aidan, age 3.

Assistant city solicitor's salary is $55,000 annually.

Tax Classification City Council Vote Delayed To Friday

By CRAIG SALTERS

With the city's financial figures still not certified as of Monday night, the City Council has scheduled a special meeting for tomorrow (Friday) at 7 p.m. to vote on the tax classification percentage and set the city's Fiscal Year 2002 tax rates.

Monday night's news that a binding vote could not be taken came as a disappointment to the standing-room-only crowd that had packed the council chambers of City Hall to speak at a public hearing concerning the city's tax classification percentage.

However, the public hearing, which lasted three hours, continued as scheduled with many speaking for and against the 169 percent classification percentage recommended by Mayor William Phelan, including the mayor himself.

Marion Fantuccio, chairwoman of the Board of Assessors, presented council

2002 Valuations Available For Review

The Quincy Board of Assessors announces that proposed valuations for Fiscal Year 2002 are now available for review at the Assessors Office in City Hall.

The proposed valuations are also available at the Thomas Crane Public Library during the library's regular business hours.

members Monday night with a report using preliminary figures which she said were not expected to change significantly.

"We're in good shape," she told councillors, explaining that Massachusetts Department of Revenue (DOR) officials were "initially satisfied" and were in favor of the city moving forward with the process. She said that state certification would occur Tuesday or Wednesday but that the real sticking point was the public notice required on certified figures before a binding vote by the council could take place.

According to Fantuccio's preliminary figures, the property valuation of the average single

Maher, Keating Plead Innocent To City Hall Break-In Charges

Two former Quincy officials pleaded innocent in Norfolk County Superior Court Monday to indictments involving the break-in at City Hall last Dec. 15.

Ralph J. Maher, 64, former city plumbing inspector, and Daniel R. Keating, 29, who was executive secretary to former Mayor James Sheets, are scheduled to return to court April 24 for a pre-trial conference.

Maher and Keating were indicted by a Norfolk grand jury on charges of breaking family home in Quincy increased from $154,100 in FY 2001 to $226,500 for FY 2002.

Under the current 169 percent tax classification, that average homeowner would have a tax rate of $13.16 per $1,000 of valuation, translating into a tax bill of $2,981, or a $525 increase from the year previous. Under a 175 percent tax classification, that same homeowner would have a $12.92 tax rate and a tax bill of $2,926.

Other preliminary figures included: A total property valuation of $7,263,178,770 for the city, with slightly more than 20 percent

($1,462,706,870) of that value derived from commercial, industrial, and personal property (CIPP) and slightly less than 80 percent ($5,800,471,900) of that value coming from the city's residential property.

With the public hearing now closed, and with the city under pressure to mail fourth quarter tax bills by April 1, Friday's meeting is expected to finally settle the issue of the classification percentage and tax rates, a matter usually voted on in December but delayed by the city's certification problems.

A suggestion to hold a non-binding vote Monday night and ratify that vote later was not acted upon by councilors.

"It makes no sense to vote twice and it makes no sense to vote before we have the final figures," said Councilor Timothy Cahill, chairman of the Finance Committee, echoing comments made earlier by Council President Daniel Raymond.

Before scheduling Friday night's meeting, councilors listened to three hours of spirited but civil discussion on where to set the city's tax classification percentage, a formula for placing a larger share of the tax burden on commercial property.

Phelan himself spoke first for those in favor of keeping the city's 169 percentage, saying that the figure was not "pro-business" but rather struck a balance for the entire city, including homeowners and renters.

"It's a complicated issue but it should not be a divisive one," said Phelan, noting that all living former mayors of Quincy supported the 169 percent figure.

Phelan was followed by a long line of supporters for the 169 percentage, including, among others: Arthur Keough, executive director of the Quincy School Community Partnership, Inc.; Robert Curry, owner of Curry/Ace Hardware; Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; Joseph Mannarino, executive director of Quincy 2000; and Ron Cogliano of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

"Allow us to grow here," said Paul Angelico, president of Twin Rivers Technologies, pointing out the Twin Rivers and its affiliate already pay the equivalent of 125 average resident tax bills to do business in the city.

Dan Flynn, president of Daniel J. Flynn Real Estate, urged councilors "to look at economic development and cuts simultaneously."

Many also stood to oppose the 169 percent classification, including, among others, residents Bart Caggiano, Roy Johnson, Ann Yeomans, and Erin Brown.

"I can't do business in this city as a small residential landlord," said Anthony McDonald of Putnam St., who added that the city spending was "out of control."

William Ryan, a property owner in the city, said that many residents, especially seniors, were facing difficult choices and, unlike businesses, could not pass tax increases off to consumers.

Joseph Doyle of Hudson St. told councilors: "We're not anti-business. It's just that we're taking a huge hit."

Many business owners and residents voiced concerns similar to those expressed by Mateo Pannarelli of 21 Taylor St. who told councilors that "spending and more taxes are not the answer to our budget problems."

Reached for further comment Tuesday, Phelan called

Monday night's meeting "a healing of sorts" between residents and businesses.

"It's obvious that the issue is not so much the classification rate as it is the skyrocketing taxes that have to be paid by both the business owner and the homeowner," said Phelan, adding that "rein in spending" was the message he heard at Monday night's meeting.

As for the city's certification delays, Phelan praised the tireless efforts of Fantucchio and her staff but said last year's decision by the city to reevaluate property "in-house" rather than use an outside contractor played a role in the current situation.

"Despite the best efforts of Marion Fantucchio and her staff, in hindsight, that (working "in-house") may not have been the proper approach," he said.

As of press time late Tuesday afternoon, the city's financial figures had yet to be certified by the state.

Rabies Vaccine Clinic For Dogs, Cats April 6

The Quincy Health Department will hold a rabies immunization clinic Saturday, April 6, from 12 noon to 3 p.m., rain or shine, at the city animal shelter, 56 Broad St.

The minimal cost for each dog or cat is $10 and pet owners must bring proof of immunization from the previous year to obtain a three-year shot.

Dogs and cats over three months of age must be vaccinated once and revaccinated within nine to 12 months after the first vaccination. Thereafter they must be vaccinated every three years.

For those whose pets received the yearly vaccine at the April 7, 2001, clinic, the second yearly vaccine must be received this year at the April 6 clinic.

For those whose dog or cat received two vaccines less than one year apart and who show proof of these vaccinations, the three-year vaccine will be administered at the appropriate clinics. Receipts from the Health Department or a veterinarian is proof.

Rabies is an infectious and contagious viral disease that is considered to be 100 per cent fatal if it is untreated. Exposed pets that are not vaccinated must be either isolated for three months or destroyed.

Rabies is present in wildlife in Massachusetts. Last year, 280 animals tested at the state lab were positive. About 15 per cent of the dogs and cats exposed to rabies had to be put to sleep as none were vaccinated.

To reduce exposure to rabies it is important to take the following precautions:

Vaccinate all cats and dogs, do not touch or feed wild or stray animals of any kind, teach children to avoid wildlife and strays, avoid sick or strangely acting animals, fasten trash can lids tightly since garbage attracts raccoons and skunks, cap chimneys and seal openings into houses to prevent entry by raccoons building dens.

If you are bitten or scratched by any animal, you should promptly wash the wound with soapy water and contact a doctor immediately, if your pet has been bitten or scratched by any animal, wear gloves, wash the wound with warm soapy water for at least 10 minutes and contact your veterinarian immediately.

QMC Breast Cancer Memorial Service May 5

The Quincy Medical Center Breast Cancer Support Group will hold its eighth Breast Cancer Memorial Service in memory of women who have lost their lives to breast cancer and in honor of women who are living with the disease.

The event will take place Sunday, May 5, at 1 p.m. in the Education Center of Quincy Medical Center.

Memorial bricks will be dedicated at the service and placed under the Breast Cancer Memorial Tree located at the main entrance to the hospital. Anyone wishing to participate in the program may do so by purchasing bricks no later than Wednesday, March 20.

"Each year the breast cancer memorial tree brings together families and survivors to celebrate the victories and losses in the battle of breast cancer," said QMC group facilitator Marti Carnie. "Each person leaves with a sense of love and support as we press on for a cure against the disease that affects so many lives."

To order a brick or for more information, call the Quincy Medical Center Foundation at 617-376-5495.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

- On March 23, 1775, during a speech before the second Virginia Convention, Patrick Henry responds to the increasingly oppressive British rule over the American colonies by declaring, "I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"
- On March 20, 1852, Harriet Beecher Stowe's anti-slavery novel, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," is published. The novel sold 300,000 copies within three months.
- On March 18, 1925, the worst tornado in U.S. history passes through eastern Missouri, southern Illinois and southern Indiana, killing 695 people and causing $17 million in property damage. The "Tri-State Tornado" traveled 219 miles, spent more than three hours on the ground and traveled at speeds in excess of 70 mph.
- On March 19, 1953, the first network broadcast of the Academy Awards take place. "The Greatest Show on Earth" won Best Picture.
- On March 21, 1963 Alcatraz Prison in San Francisco Bay closes down and transfers its last prisoners. At its peak period of use, more than 200 inmates were housed at the maximum-security facility. Alcatraz remains notorious for its harsh conditions and record for being inescapable.
- On March 22, 1980, Pink Floyd's single "Another Brick in the Wall" hits No. 1 on the U.S. "Billboard" pop charts. The song was the band's only No. 1 single in the United States.
- On March 24, 1996, U.S. astronaut Shannon Lucid transfers to the Russian space station Mir from the U.S. space shuttle Atlantis for a planned five-month stay. Lucid was the first female U.S. astronaut to live in a space station.

Good Fun, Good Cause

The Quincy Partnership's sixth annual St. Patrick's Day Luncheon at the Quincy Elks came with the traditional corned beef and cabbage and a good portion of political barbs, jokes and jabs for dessert.

I didn't make it this year but Craig Salters, our City Hall man, did and passed along some of the highlights.

Craig incidentally won a Quincy wristwatch as a raffle prize and Rep. School Committeeman Ron Mariano won the top one, an emerald necklace.

(I think the watch will look better on Craig than the necklace on Ron.)

Co-emcee Dan Flynn couldn't let the City Hall break-in slip by without mention. He announced there was also a door prize but that it would have to be returned to the evidence room at the end of the day.

Mayor Bill Phelan also made a pass at the break-in. He acknowledged he and his staff were inexperienced but said they were really concerned when they had to get by all the police tape on their first day on the job.

"I've really received such a warm welcome," he said, not so kiddingly, referring to the city council and the raucous joint convention to fill his vacant school committee seat.

And turning toward former Mayor Sheets seated with his wife, Joann, at one of the nearby tables, he asked: "How did you get people to call you 'Mr. Mayor' and not 'Wink' or 'Hey, You!' I just can't seem to convince people that I won." Sheets smiled.

Flynn and his co-emcee City Clerk Joe Shea joked that Senator Mike Morrissey thinks "clean elections" mean "showering with a lobbyist."

Sheriff Mike Bellotti was in his usual good form with a Good News/Bad News skit:

Good News: The city has a new mayor.

Bad News: It's Arthur Tobin.

Good News: (Paul) Harold and (Arthur) Tobin finally decided to bury the hatchet.

Bad News: In Jim Sheets' head.

Good News: Many board positions are open in the city.

Bad News: The McCauleys took half of them.

Good News: They've finally sited the new Quincy High School.

Bad News: In Weymouth.

Good News: They won't admit it, but airports are finally "profiling" passengers.

Bad News: Ron Mariano has had to take buses for the past six months. "Has anyone ever seen Mariano and Saddam Hussein in the same room?"

Bellotti noted that Dan Raymond was in Florida but he had found Raymond's manual on how to run city council meetings: Bellotti brought out a set of marionettes and began whipping them and making them dance.

Newcomer Kevin Coughlin had the misfortune of following Bellotti. He gave it the old college try but was still far from a touchdown when Greg Hanley tried to rescue him, yelling out, "Sing, Kevin, Sing!"

Shea, as the Great Shea-Zak, gave three answers: New England Patriots, William Phelan and the residents of Ward 4. And, the question: Name the three biggest winners in Massachusetts last year.

Mariano proposed ways for the city to close the budget deficit. Among them: publish "Phelan's Rule of Order" cheaply because it would have no pages. Schedule a joint convention every month and sell the pay-per-view rights to Media One. Organize guided "Quincy Crime Scenes" tours at City Hall. Cancel City Council fitness club memberships because one look at Greg Hanley and Joe Newton shows it isn't working.

Doug Gutro kidded that he received no support from the Quincy Partnership during the election. He said he had no idea how large Ed Keohane's family really was until he checked Jim Mullaney's campaign finance reports.

Gutro said he learned Phelan's secret in his upset mayoral win and presented him with an actual book entitled "Billy Phelan's Great Game" by William Kennedy. Gutro noted the library's copy was out and "Dan Raymond still hasn't returned it."

Senate President Tom Birmingham, who wants to be governor, had this on Jane Swift who wants to remain governor: "She wants to run for governor in the worst way and that's exactly what she's doing." (Swift stopped running Tuesday, bowing out of contention.)

Mitt Romney, he said, was trying to use a car registration in Massachusetts as proof of residency. "But all of us who really live here know that if you live here, you register your car in New Hampshire." (Romney, wherever his car is registered, stepped into the governor's race.)

It was all in good fun and for a good cause. The approximate $4,000 in proceeds will go toward the Quincy Partnership's latest civic project, a $125,000 decorative fountain at Merrymount Park.

TIM CAHILL officially kicks off his campaign for state treasurer Tuesday, March 26, at 7 p.m., at the Marriott Quincy, Marriott Drive.

Cahill is leaving his post as Norfolk County treasurer to make the run state-wide. For more information on next Tuesday's kickoff, call 617-786-1846.

TOM KOCH, who hopes to succeed Cahill as county treasurer, hasn't officially announced his candidacy yet. But he's off and running — and riding, too.

His red, black and white bumper stickers are showing up around town.

FOR SOME, THE first sign of spring is a bobbing robin in the backyard.

But for many others, it's the opening of Tony's Clam Shop at Wollaston Beach. It officially opens today (Thursday).

The shop, a Wollaston beach landmark, has been operated by the Kandalaf family since 1965. On hand to greet you will be Tony, Roy, Gary, Karen and Tillie.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1929 POSTCARD was one of a series of published by the Granite Trust Company to commemorate the opening of their new bank building in Quincy Square. Theopolis King, president of the bank, built the art deco styled building with his own money. This is a view of the main entrance at 1400 Hancock Street. Four massive columns holding up an even larger lentil dominate it. They are polished dark Quincy granite taken from the Hitchcock Quarry that was just behind the Elk's Hall on Quarry Street. The Quincy Quarries Company, of which King was also president, owned the quarry.

The tower of the building above this level is limestone. Inside this portico, bronze projecting show windows flanked ornate bronze and glass double doors. The window on the left was Lawrence Beech's newsstand and on the right was Roy Flagg's Cigar Shop. Those shops are long gone and the flags over the doors haven't been hung for years. After this photo was taken a bronze revolving door was placed between the center columns to keep the wind from blowing into the banking hall. Fleet Bank, the present owner, is reportedly looking to sell the building.

Church Lost Its Way After Vatican II

To any "orthodox" (conservative) Roman Catholic who watched with alarm the growth of liberalism in the church administration for the last 40 years and the permissiveness let loose following Vatican II, the present daily revelations of these child-molesting monsters in the guise of priests comes as no surprise.

Our few traditional publications of the Catholic press have week after week covered reports after report of just such crimes committed by these devilish blasphemers of everything holy, sacred and decent — pedophilia, homosexuality and graphically lurid "sex education" classes in so-called Catholic schools. In seminaries throughout the country, including, we now read, St. John Seminary in Brighton, homosexuality is not only tolerated in defiance of church law, but actually defended and protected by the administration.

Close to 50 years ago, before Vatican II, the Roman Catholic Church was truly a unified, apostolic and universal body that stood in fearless, open defiance of everything that this modern, pagan culture now blatantly extols; admired and, yes, hated — but always steadfast and thus respected by even its serious critics for its unwavering stand against all which has brought upon us the moral devastation of our present time in history.

But tragically, at the very moment in history when the world needed, more than ever, just such a staunch defender of morality, along came Vatican II, and blamefully or not, in its train came the since-growing permissiveness — a rapid acting virus that has matured into this cancer of corruption that now pervades this once healthy body.

In short, the Roman Catholic Church today is nearly a total administrative wreck. The answer lies in a return to what it was — to the rules and disciplines that alone prepare true Christians to be a worthy and ready opponent of evil. The pernicious accretion of liberalism, along with all the unworthy shepherds who have abandoned their flocks to the ravenous wolves of perversion, must be swept into the dustbin of history.

We traditionalists pray that the coming material collapse of this now-wobbling structure will, in time, engender and force just such a true spiritual reform of this once-great institution.

Your Bear Made A Child Smile

For the past two years the students, faculty, and community of the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School in Quincy have donated Teddy Bears during the month of December to benefit the Teddy Bear Foundation, Inc.

In those two years, the school has helped collect almost 200 bears!

The Teddy Bear Foundation is a non-profit organization that gives new bears to children in hospitals, shelters, etc. It was founded by a mother and daughter from Ipswich. By donating a bear to the foundation, people are "Helping Children Bear Life's Challenges."

I would like to say "Thank You" to all of the people who donated a Teddy Bear this year. Your bear made a child

Herter Balks At Ward Council Plan

By PAUL HAROLD

Governor Christian Herter said he was disinclined to sign legislation that would establish six ward council seats, with three at-large seats when Plan A government returned to the city in 1958.

March 21 - 27
46 Years Ago

The bill, filed by Rev. Clifton Barker, would replace the current nine members all at-large with a combination of ward and at-large seats. Without the governor's signature the question could not be placed on the ballot and the city would continue with an all at-large city council.

Meanwhile, the city council was expected to name a new city manager to serve out the remaining days of Plan E government. Edward Lewis, who served as administrative assistant to managers William Deegan and Donald Blatt, was the front runner.

DELAY GRANTED IN SALE OF WESTACRES

The state informed Quincy Housing Authority (QHA) executive director Gerard White that a delay would be granted in the sale of Westacres. The delay was requested by both the QHA board of directors and the city council.

The nine, four-apartment buildings in West Quincy, were slated-aided veterans housing.

A survey of the current tenants showed that none of them were interested in buying their units at the VA appraised price of $24,500.

THOUSANDS FLOOD QUINCY SQUARE FOR BARGAIN CENTER SALE

Despite difficult transportation following a three-day blizzard, thousands of shoppers flocked to the Bargain Center for its annual nine-day sale.

A detail of 24 policemen was needed to control the crowds. A total of four hundred and fifty sales clerks were hired for the special sale days.

Bouquets Raise Funds For Cancer Research

American Cancer Society's Daffodils Days April 1-5

The American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days are about to blossom in south-east Massachusetts as local residents prepare to celebrate springtime while bringing the hope of conquering cancer to area patients and their families.

During the week of April 1-5, volunteers will deliver thousands of daffodils to area residents, working toward the American Cancer Society's goal of raising $3.5 million in New England this year. Dollars raised during Daffodil Days help support American Cancer Society research (109 grants currently throughout Massachusetts, totaling $32,386,902), education, advocacy, and patient services. Programs include Road to Recovery, providing transportation to treatment for cancer patients, and Look Good... Feel Better, teaching female cancer patients beauty techniques to enhance their appearance during treatment.

Daffodil Days funds also help maintain the American Cancer Society's cancer information website, www.cancer.org.

Daffodil bouquets are $6, with vases available for an additional $6 donation. Residents also have the opportunity to send a "Gift of Hope," an anonymous daffodil bouquet in a vase, to a cancer patient in a local hospital or to a person in need, for a $15 contribution. To place daffodil orders, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 by March 15.

While volunteers are already working to help manage the ordering process and coordinate the distribution of flowers throughout the region, the American Cancer Society is still seeking volunteers to serve as sales co-ordinators in their towns or businesses, to work in the Brockton office in March to map out driving routes, or to help make deliveries the week of April 1.

For more information about volunteering, call Elise Kerrigan at 1-888-648-4880 and press 3 for ext. 243.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, advocacy and service.

For more information about the American Cancer Society, or to volunteer, call 1-800-ACS-2345. Cancer information is also available at www.cancer.org.

Display At Library Highlights Career Of Mary Baker Eddy

An exhibit highlighting Mary Baker Eddy's lifework is on display at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Center, through March 29.

On Tuesday, March 26, at 7:30 p.m. there will be a talk on her life and accomplishments. Author of the best-selling book, Science and Health, as well as a pioneer in mind-body medicine and a prominent publisher who started The Christian Science Monitor almost a century ago, Eddy, her achievements and healing system continue to have widespread influence.

Science and Health, first published in 1875, has since been translated into 16 languages and has sold nearly 10 million copies. Today it has readers in more than 130 countries.

The Mary Baker Eddy

QMC's Schuster Appointed To Local And National Public Health Groups

Quincy Medical Center President and CEO Christine Schuster was recently appointed to serve two public health groups: the Commission on the Family for the city of Quincy and the American Hospital Association's (AHA) Regional Policy Board.

Schuster was appointed to the Commission on the Family by former Mayor James Sheets. She will serve a three-year term on the commission, which is comprised of 14 city business, community, spiritual and civic leaders.

The Commission on the Family is a community resource offering referrals through a telephone help-line and web site for emotional and parenting support, as well as for health care, legal, housing and financial assistance to families in the city.

In addition, Schuster was named an alternate delegate at-large to the AHA's Regional Policy Board for the New England area. During her two-year term, Schuster will serve as a delegate, on an alternate basis, to the 14-member board during their three annual meetings.

The nine regional policy boards nationwide offer perspectives on issues requiring AHA advocacy and contribute to AHA public policy development.

"I am honored by the appointment to these two groups and pleased with the opportunities offered by each to improve access to quality health care," Schuster said. "As a clinical affiliate of Boston Medical Center, the AHA appointment allows Quincy Medical Center to guide national health care policy."

"The Quincy appointment offers the medical center another opportunity to directly improve the health and wellness of our community."

Quincy Medical Center is a teaching affiliate of Boston University School of Medicine.

Floral Persuasions Grand Opening At 13 Revere Road

Floral Persuasions, a new flower store, announces its grand opening today (Thursday) from noon to 7 p.m. on 13 Revere Road, off Hancock Street, Quincy Center.

The public is invited to attend. Parking is on the adjacent lot.

The store, with interior completely unlike a conventional retail florist, specializes in flowers and gift baskets for corporate offices and functions as well as parties, weddings and memorials.

At rates comparable with traditional flower stores, Floral Persuasions encourages clients to take the time to sit down in an elegant consulting room to discuss their requirements.

At a typical meeting, the floral designer interviews a client and identifies an appropriate ensemble that will make a special event truly memorable and have guests curious to discover this creative new business.

Floral Persuasions combines the talents of Sherry Zahner and Karen Lee. Zahner is well known in the Hingham area for her talents as a decorative painter and

Having A Ball At St. Patrick's Day Luncheon

ALL SMILES: State Representative and School Committeeman Ronald Mariano (center) gives Mayor William Phelan a hug and handshake after Phelan picked Mariano's number to win an emerald necklace raffled off by the Quincy Partnership at last Friday's St. Patrick's Day Luncheon. The mood for both seemed a far cry from their attitudes toward each other at the recent first meeting of the joint convention to select a new member of the School Committee. At left is Edward Keohane, chairman of the Quincy Partnership.

THE ALL-KNOWING 'SHEA-ZAK' — who, without the hat, bears a striking resemblance to City Clerk Joseph Shea — dazzles audience members with feats of mental magic at the Sixth Annual St. Patrick's Day Luncheon held at the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

MARY PHELAN, former receptionist to former Mayor James Sheets, spends a few moments with her old boss at the Sixth Annual St. Patrick's Day Luncheon sponsored by the Quincy Partnership. The event raises funds for Quincy Partnership projects such as the recently completed statue of John Adams in Quincy Center and the decorative water fountain planned for Merrymount Park.

SHERIFF MICHAEL BELLOTTI was one of the many crowd pleasers at last Friday's St. Patrick's Day Luncheon sponsored by the Quincy Partnership. "The good news is that they've finally sited the new Quincy High School," Bellotti told the audience. "The bad news is that it's in Weymouth."

THE SIXTH ANNUAL St. Patrick's Day luncheon, a festive fundraiser sponsored by the Quincy Partnership, was held last Friday at the Quincy Lodge of Elks. From the left are: Cheryl Curry; her husband Robert Curry, owner of Curry/Ace Hardware and a member of the Quincy Partnership; and Curry's father Paul Curry, who also celebrated his 91st birthday that day.

Fire Lt. Daley Speaker At Memorial Service For Vietnam Veterans

Vietnam veteran and Quincy Fire Lt. Paul Daley will be the featured speaker at the Vietnam Combat Veterans Combined Armed Forces annual Memorial Service to be held Thursday, March 28 at 3 p.m. at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Clock Tower, across from 500 Victory Rd., Marina Bay.

Daley, a 29-year veteran of the Quincy Fire Department, served as a P.F.C. in the United States Marine Corps from 1967 to 1969 and was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received during the Tet Offensive of 1968.

In 1986 Daley received a commendation from the Quincy City Council for his efforts with other Quincy firefighters in saving the lives of Dianne and Paige Lentini during a fire which occurred Nov. 15 of that same year at 28 Milton Rd.

NHS First Time Homebuyers Workshop March 23

Neighborhood Housing Services, an approved First Time Homebuyer Counseling Agency, will hold an accredited and MHA-certified First Time Homebuyer's Workshop in collaboration with the Dedham Institution for Savings on Saturday, March 23.

The workshop will be held at Dedham Institution for Savings, 55 Elm St., Dedham, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Lunch will be provided.

Neighborhood Housing Services is a non-profit organization dedicated to assisting first time buyers through the homebuying process. The staff at NHS is unique in their approach to obtaining down payment and closing costs assistance as well as rehab grants for their clients, which are available throughout the entire South Shore area.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. Focus will be on the many changing aspects of homebuying, including how to locate a property within budget, how to make an offer, and determining the best mortgage program.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited.

Contact Debbie Egerly at (617) 770-2227, Ext. 31 for more information.

Homebuyer Workshop At Crane Library March 25

Neighborhood Housing Services will host a free informational homebuyer workshop Monday, March 25 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The workshop is being held in collaboration with Consolidated Mortgage Corporation with Neighborhood Housing Services, a local non-profit organization, specializing in first-time homeownership possibilities.

Workshop topics include: mortgage programs, down payment and closing costs assistance grants and other first-time homebuyer programs, and offer and purchase and sales agreements.

Participants will have the opportunity to be pre-approved before leaving the workshop.

Space is limited and registration is required. Call Debbie Egerly at 617-770-2227 ext. 31.

QCAP To Host Homebuying Workshop March 23, 30

Real estate experts will teach potential buyers skills for buying a home at a free workshop sponsored by Quincy Community Action Programs (QCAP).

The workshop will take place Saturday, March 23 and Saturday, March 30 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the fourth floor conference room of the QCAP main offices, 1509

Hancock St.

Real estate professionals will also provide information about government down payment/closing cost assistance for qualified buyers.

Registration is required by March 18. The workshop is open to all regardless of residence or income level.

To register or for more information, contact Rona Goodman at (617) 479-8181, ext. 115.

Jack Conway Launches Move Management Service

Jack Conway & Co., the Bay State's largest privately owned real estate firm, has begun a new venture, Conway Move Management, to further assist customers with the details of moving into their new home.

Conway has established a preferred service relationship with McKee's Moving and Storage of Weymouth in return for enhanced services and quality assurances for customers.

Conway Move Management is administered through Conway At Your Service, an expanded customer-care initiative launched last fall.

Conway At Your Service Director Jill Evans said Conway Move Management will assign a coordinator to contact the moving family and manage a hassle-free transfer from one home to another.

Evans credited the Move Management team, led by Tracie Towle, director of operations, and Ken Burgess, vice president of client relations, for the positive feedback on the successful moves the company has already completed for area families.

"From free estimates to the final billing, we will be available to answer questions and protect the family's most valued items through a quality management program,"

Evans said. "You can be sure you are working with a nationally and locally recognized mover who meets the Conway standards."

In addition to the move coordinator, Conway Move Management will obtain at least two bids from area moving companies. Among the other services provided to customers are a complete audit of all bills, assistance in any necessary claims processing, and various discounts on interstate moves and storage bills. Customer service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, Evans said.

For more information contact Evans at 781-871-0080 or by e-mail at jillevans@jackconway.com.

Lawn Care Tips And A Healthy River During A Drought

Tips For A Beautiful Yard; Grasses To Plant

This winter's severe lack of snowfall coupled with above normal temperatures and far below normal rainfall this past fall have brought the state to near drought conditions.

The Neponset River Basin is among the most severely affected areas of the state. This summer's predicted drought will put even more pressure onto the Neponset Watershed, an already stressed system.

Many homeowners are questioning how they will maintain their outdoor landscaping. Fortunately, with planning it is possible to have a beautiful lawn and a healthy river during low rainfall periods.

Why is the Neponset River Watershed Stressed?

For years, many communities in the Neponset Watershed have drawn their water from local aquifers but disposed of "used drinking water" or waste water, via the centralized MWRRA sewer system to Deer Island and ultimately Massachusetts Bay - bypassing the natural system of recycling water back into the river. The result is that substantial amounts of water, which might otherwise have recharged streams, are transferred out of the river basin.

Lawn watering adds another strain on the Neponset Watershed. When water is withdrawn in order to water a lawn, the water is used locally but either evaporates or is taken up by the grass. Either way it is not available to augment the river. Developing open land into houses, roads and other impervious surfaces adds further stress. Rainwater, which used to soak into the ground, now must run off. This results in higher streamflows during floods, but reduces the amount of groundwater storage available to naturally recharge streamflow and drinking water supplies during dry periods. The result is higher flood flows, but lower drought flows.

What does this mean for this year?

"The bottom line for this year is to expect outdoor water bans to take effect earlier and more strictly than usual," said Ian Cooke, Executive Director of the Neponset River Watershed Association (NepRWA). Water conservation efforts should be made over the winter months to guard against potential water shortages in the spring and to reduce the drought's impact on aquatic ecosystems.

Homeowners should plan their gardening activities around the likelihood of drought, potentially postponing any major landscaping plans that will need to be watered through the summer. Homeowners with private wells are advised to monitor local conditions.

To aid in water conservation efforts, a new movement has developed amongst professional landscapers, homeowners, on the internet, and throughout our communities around ecological and low water landscaping. NepRWA encourages everyone to jump on this bandwagon to a beautiful yard and a healthy river! To learn more, visit the NepRWA website, www.neponset.org.

Tips for a Beautiful Yard and Healthy River!

1. Prioritize your lawn! Only irrigate the turf in high impact, visible areas, if at all. It is time to water if you leave footprints when you walk across your lawn.

2. Water from 4 am to 8 am or overnight to prevent water loss from evaporation.

3. Water slowly and deeply to a depth of 1" and only once or twice per week. To measure how long it takes for your sprinkler system to deliver one inch of water to your lawn, mark several cups one inch from the bottom. Set out the cups around your lawn and time how long your sprinklers take to deliver one inch of water to the cups.

4. Always turn off your irrigation system if significant rainfall has occurred.

5. Use irrigation systems that get more of the water where it's meant to go such as a soaker hose, or drip irrigation.

6. Raise the mower blade. Cutting the grass higher encourages deep rooting, increases turf survival during drought and reduces water demand.

7. Always keep the mower blade sharp - dull blades shred leaf tips, causing the turf to use more water.

8. Fertilize less and use slow-release fertilizers.

9. Leave grass clippings on the turf and/or add organic materials or compost to the soil to help supply recycled nutrients and reduce the need for additional fertilizer.

10. Aerate regularly to relieve soil compaction and increase air and water movement into the soil - especially on the slopes. This can be done using a power aerator or a garden fork.

11. Use native, drought resistant grass species and plants. They're better for wildlife too!

12. Landscape designs in shady areas need less water, therefore, plant shade trees and carefully maintain those already in the yard.

13. When designing your landscape plan, include alternatives to grass such as ground covers, wood chips, stones or natural features.

14. Get a soil test to determine the specific needs of your lawn.

The keep word is LESS - less fertilizer, less water, less lawn, less work and less waste!

What Grasses Should I Plant?

Half of the water we consume is applied to the landscape. A significant part of this water is intended for our lawns. Consequently, the success of your conservation plan will depend on the characteristics of the grasses in your lawn and the efficiency of your irrigation. Below are some of the guidelines for choosing the appropriate grasses.

1. Minimize the use of Kentucky bluegrass; it is shallow rooted and requires a lot of water to remain green. Use it only for areas planned to be especially beautiful or for high use areas that require this species recuperative ability. To conserve water, let it go brown and dormant during hot and dry weather.

2. Tall fescue is easier to keep green because it has a deep root system and will extract more water from a given site than Kentucky bluegrass. With the water it takes to keep Kentucky bluegrass brown but alive, you can keep Tall fescue green all summer.

3. Buffalograss requires little additional water, resists drought, tolerates temperature extremes, and requires little mowing or fertilizing. Its limitations are that it greens-up late in spring, turns brown in early fall and is relatively intolerant of shade and traffic.

4. Many ornamental grasses can be incorporated into a water conserving landscape. Low growing forms such as sidecoats grama, blue grama, and little bluestern provide excellent groundcover. Taller grasses such as big bluestem, Indian grass and zebra grass can be used in border plantings or in massed plantings.

Choose Remodeling Projects Carefully

If you are thinking about selling your home in the near (or not-so-near) future, you should choose your remodeling projects carefully. Keep in mind that some home improvements won't add to the resale value of your home, so you will never be able to recoup the costs. So, which projects are most likely to get you a high resale price?

Kitchen improvements are typically worth the investment, as long as the cost of the renovation is relative to your home's worth. Projects that make the kitchen brighter, lighter and more functional are most likely to add value to your home.

A bathroom addition is another project that is likely to help your home generate a higher resale price. This is especially true if your home has only one bathroom because most buyers will want a home with at least two.

If you are remodeling to add value, instead of just to add some luxuries you'd enjoy, steer clear of expensive items such as pools, spas, tennis courts and saunas. Some buyers consider these items nothing more than headaches that are expensive to maintain. However, features like decks and patios are gaining in popularity, so you may want to consider adding one to your home.

Quincy High Hosts Speedball Tournament

The Quincy High School Physical Education Department recently held its annual Speedball Tournament with 75 students participating in the two-day event.

The team of Anthony Boyle, Dennis Hill, Malcolm Lynn, Jason Chase and Michael Cox captured the title with a 4-1 victory in the final. Six teams played in the single-elimination format.

Boyle scored a game-high three goals. Chase, who played goalie, made a number of great saves and allowed one goal in the final game. Hill, Cox and Lynn also turned in outstanding efforts.

"All the students were very competitive and each game was exciting," said coach Scott King of the Physical Education Department.

Three Raiders On OCL Basketball All-Star Squad

The North Quincy High boys' basketball team had three players recognized by the Old Colony League this past season.

Senior tri-captains Phil McGillicuddy and John

O'Connell were selected to the OCL All-Star team, while senior guard Dan Duggan was named an honorable mention in his first varsity season.

It was McGillicuddy's third straight all-star selection and O'Connell's second. McGillicuddy led the team in scoring, averaging 17.9 points. O'Connell finished second with 10.7 ppg and Duggan third with 9.4 ppg.

Thomas Spigarelli To Run Boston Marathon For Red Cross

Thomas Spigarelli of Quincy has chosen to run the 106th Boston Marathon on behalf of the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay.

"It's personal for me," he said. "On Nov. 14, 1984, my family suffered the loss of our house because of a fire. Our family was blessed and encouraged by the arrival of the American Red Cross. All that could be salvaged fit into a single trash bag. The organization provided immediate relief and aid to my family. That morning we received food, clothing and shelter."

All running proceeds benefit the vital programs and services offered by the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay. To make a financial contribution and help a runner meet his or her goal, call 617-375-0700, ext. 277, or send a check to the American Red Cross of Mass Bay, 285 Columbus Ave., Boston 02116.

Three Residents On BC High Hockey Championship Team

Quincy residents Brian O'Hanley, Frank Currier and Jordan Virtue captured the Super Eight championship Sunday night at the FleetCenter as members of the BC High hockey team.

In the 2-0 win over rival Catholic Memorial, Virtue, an senior co-captain along with Currier, scored the Eagles' second goal with 5:47 left to seal the victory. Currier and O'Hanley, a junior, turned in outstanding performances on the blue line.

DISC INSPECTION

If an inspection of your vehicle's disc brakes reveals a cracked rotor, which causes severe pulsation, replacement is necessary. Rust at the rotor edges is inconsequential, however, as are moderate scores in the disc's surface. Severe rusting of the lining contact surfaces is a problem, though, as are thick, deep scores, uneven thickness, and warping. If the rotors have never been resurfaced, it is theoretically possible to have them machined to remove significant rust and deep scores (about .060 inches deep). Many late-model rotors are not very thick to begin with and cannot take more than a .030-inch resurfacing. Unless the rotor is at least .060 inches thicker than the minimum required thickness, seriously consider replacement rather than resurfacing.

Are your brakes chattering? It may be time for a disc replacement. To help you do this, the ASE Certified professional service team at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO is available at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." We are also your local source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles. Sunoco and most major credit cards honored.

HINT: If only one rotor is bad and the other is in good shape, there may be uneven brake application due to a hydraulic or mechanical problem at the wheel. This problem must be traced in addition to correcting the rotor problem.

Quincy Public Schools Health Fair March 25-27 At Presidents Place

Quincy Public Schools will present the seventh annual "Shaping a Healthier Quincy Together" health fair March 25-27 from 8:30 a.m. to noon in the Galleria at Presidents Place, 1250 Hancock St.

There will be more than 25 health agencies and Quincy Public Schools programs present each day, providing health information and health screenings.

The health fair is open to the general public at all times. Middle school and high school students, along with senior citizens, will be attending the fair Tuesday, March 26. Elementary school students will attend Monday, March 25, and Wednesday, March 27.

Kathryn Breen, Theresa Jones Running Boston Marathon For Cancer Research

Kathryn Breen and Theresa Jones, both of Quincy, will be pounding 26.2 miles of pavement as participants in the 13th annual Dana-Farber Marathon Challenge (DFMC).

The DFMC team will join the runners taking part in the running of the 106th Boston Marathon.

Breen and Jones, along with DFMC teammates from 20 states, will run Massachusetts' historic marathon route from Hopkinton to Boston to raise $3 million for cancer research.

By raising a minimum of $2,000 each to be a team member, DFMC runners are funding the Claudia Adams Barr Program in Innovative Basic Cancer Research at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston.

Since the DFMC's inception in 1989, the runners have raised more than $13 million for the Barr program, which was founded in 1987 by Dana-Farber trustees and Jacksonville Jaguars owners Wayne and Delores Weaver to honor Mrs. Weaver's mother who lost her battle with cancer 30 years earlier.

In 1990, Dana-Farber was among the first charity organizations to be given official marathon numbers by the Boston Athletic Association (BAA). This year, 15 charities benefit from the BAA's charity program.

The DFMC features training guidance from Jack Fultz, the 1976 Boston Marathon men's champion, plus team training runs, extensive fundraising support and volunteer opportunities for non-runners.

To contribute, send a check payable to "Dana-Farber Marathon Challenge" to the DFMC offices, 152A Trapelo Road, Lincoln, MA 01773. Indicate that the contribution is for Breen or Jones. For more information call 781-259-8881.

Mental Retardation Awareness Month

By SANDRA WEST

Mental retardation affects millions of individuals in the United States; however, there is a lack of understanding in our society surrounding individuals with mental retardation and related developmental disabilities.

Since March is National Mental Retardation Awareness Month, this is a perfect opportunity for communities all across the country to learn more about issues affecting people with mental retardation and their families.

SANDRA WEST

What Is

Mental Retardation?

An individual is considered to have mental retardation based on the following criteria:

- low intellectual functioning level (IQ), below 70-75.
- significant limitations in two or more adaptive skills areas, i.e. communication, self-care, social skills, etc.
- the condition is present from childhood.

What Causes

Mental Retardation?

Mental retardation can be caused by any condition that impairs development of the brain before birth, during birth or in the childhood years. These include:

- genetic conditions.
- problems during pregnancy, i.e. use of alcohol or drugs by the pregnant mother.
- problems at birth, i.e. prematurity or low birth weight.
- problems after birth, i.e. childhood diseases.
- cultural deprivation, i.e. malnutrition or environment.

tal health hazards.

Can Mental Retardation Be Prevented?

Yes. There are many interventions that have proven successful in preventing mental retardation. These include:

- proper prenatal care for expectant mothers.
- avoidance of the use of alcohol or drugs during pregnancy.
- prenatal and postnatal screening to detect disorders and disease.
- removal of lead from the environment.
- use of child safety seats and seat belts.

What Can I Do To Help The Stigma?

First and foremost, you can remember that people with mental retardation are individuals who have the same needs and desires as every one else. They are to be treated with respect and the understanding that they can and do make positive contributions to the communities in which they live.

Sandra West is Vice President of Behavioral Services at South Shore Mental Health, a community resource providing mental health and substance abuse services throughout the South Shore, southeastern Massachusetts and Cape Cod. For more information, call 617-847-1950.

Women Sought For Study

Women who have recovered from anorexia nervosa and bulimia nervosa are sought for a study of blood hormone levels and psychological ratings.

Participants receive $795 for an evaluation visit, two eight-day study diets and two overnight stays on the Clinical Research Unit. Participants include women in good health, age 18-40, not taking medication.

For more information call Ellen Kahn-Greene, Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center, Boston, at 617-667-2113.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

TOOTH WHITENING

Over time, coffee, teas, red wine, and smoke may be absorbed by tooth enamel to darken teeth. Aging also plays a role, as tooth enamel thins and the underlying layer (dentin) slowly darkens. Fortunately, professional dental bleaching provides an effective way to combat these tooth-darkening effects. In-office laser bleaching is a technique that utilizes a beam of concentrated light to activate a peroxide bleach applied to the teeth. There may be tooth sensitivity for a day or two afterwards. A second technique, at-home bleaching, employs the same whitening agent, which is applied to teeth in a custom-fabricated tray that is worn overnight for two weeks. While this method takes longer than the laser method, it can be just as effective.

It's clear to us that most of us want whiter teeth. A whiter smile will make you proud and confident, feeling much better about yourself. Today it's easy and affordable to whiten your teeth. We want you to receive the highest quality of complete, affordable dental care. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where our aim is to provide individual attention and care to every patient so that we can learn about their special needs. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com. P.S. Tooth whitening generally yields results that are one to three shades lighter than before teeth were treated.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It has been said that for every great man mentioned in history, there are millions of unheralded great men unmentioned in history. The following thought penned by an unknown author tells the story...

"A man is no bigger than the way he treats his fellow man! This standard has his measure been since time itself began! He's measured not by tithes or creed high-sounding though they be; nor by the gold that's put aside; nor by his sanctity! He's measured not by social rank, when character's the test; nor by his earthly pomp or show, displaying wealth possessed! He's measured by his justice right, his fairness at his play; his squareness in all dealings made, his honest, upright way! These are his measures, ever near to serve him when they can; for man's no bigger than the way he treats his fellow man!"

We knew -- and know a great many great men who "measure up." And we know you do, too...

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This is a good time to reassess important relationships, both personal and professional, to see where problems might exist and how they can be overcome. Keep communication lines open.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's not easy to bring order to a chaotic situation, whether it's in the workplace or at home. But if anyone can do it, you can. A pleasant surprise awaits you by week's end.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Be careful that you don't make an upcoming decision solely on the word of those who might have their own reasons for wanting you to act as they suggest. Check things out for yourself.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A personal relationship that seems to be going nowhere could be restarted once you know why it stalled. An honest discussion could result in some surprising revelations.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) That unexpected attack of self-doubt could be a way of warning yourself to go slow before making a career-changing decision. Take more time to do a closer study of the facts.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A workplace problem needs your attention, now, before it deteriorates to a point beyond repair. A trusted third party could be helpful in closing the gaps that have opened.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A recent family situation could give rise to a new problem. Keep an open mind and avoid making judgments about anyone's motives until all the facts are in.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Rely on your always-sharp intuition to alert you to potential problems with someone's attempt to explain away the circumstances behind a puzzling incident.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Although you still need to do some snipping off of those lingering loose ends from a past project, you can begin moving on to something else.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) With your self-confidence levels rising, you should feel quite comfortable with agreeing to take on a possibly troublesome, but potentially well-rewarded, situation.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Travel is favored, both for business and for fun. The end of the week brings news about an upcoming project that could lead toward that promised career change.

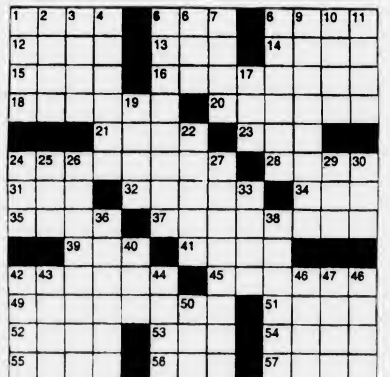

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might feel suddenly overwhelmed by a flood of responsibilities. But if you deal with each one in its turn, you'll soon be able to hold your head above water and move on.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a wonderful way of offering comfort as well as guidance. You would do well in the healing arts.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

A Message From Welch Healthcare

Assisted Living Expenses May Be Tax Deductible

In 1996, Congress passed the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act, which included a clarification of the tax treatment of long-term care services. Beginning in the 1997 tax year, qualified long-term care services such as assisted living care could be claimed as an itemized medical expense, and deducted from taxable income, to the extent that these expenses exceed 7.5% of gross income.

This means that many residents of assisted living communities may claim the entire assisted living fee as an itemized medical care expense. The expense may also be claimed by any family member who can claim the assisted living resident as a dependent. The key test is whether it is a qualified service for the resident.

Qualified long-term care services are defined as necessary diagnostic, preventative, therapeutic, curing, treating, mitigating, and rehabilitation services that are required by a chronically ill individual, and are prescribed by a licensed healthcare practitioner.

A "chronically ill" individual is one who has been certified by a licensed healthcare practitioner as being unable to perform at least two activities of daily living (i.e., eating, toileting, transferring, bathing, dressing, and continence), or suffers from severe cognitive impairment and who requires supervision to protect his or her health and safety.

In those rare instances where the services do not meet the qualified long-term care services test, only specific medical services may be deducted. Of course, it is recommended that all taxpayers check with their own tax advisors for detailed guidance.

This column is sponsored by Welch Healthcare & Retirement Group, a trusted family name in senior and rehabilitative healthcare services for over 50 years. For more information, call 1-800-698-0304.

before Judge Mitchell Sikora.

The larceny reportedly was part of Maher's personal file in Madden's office. At the time, Keating reportedly said he was looking for the firefighter's contract. The destruction of property was to the door of Madden's office.

Special Prosecutor George R. Jabour told the judge Maher had threatened and harassed Inspectional Services Director Walter White, his superior.

White, Jabour said, had recommended to Mayor Sheets that Maher be disciplined for alleged misconduct on the job. No action was taken against Maher by Sheets, according to Jabour.

Maher's gun permit was suspended by Quincy police Jan. 4 after he was suspended from his job by White. Maher a few weeks later filed for retirement.

The break-in was discovered that Saturday in the waning weeks of Sheets' administration by Madden when he went to his office to get a cell phone he thought he had left there.

He noticed the door to the office did not look the same and later saw his door hanging in the connecting city solicitor's office.

Madden called police and the investigation was launched.

Last week Jabour told The Sun that the indictment of Maher and Keating did not mean the end of the investigation.

Asked to comment on the possibility of other indictments, he would only say:

"The investigation goes on and it will take time. We will go where the evidence takes us."

A Postal Hero

RUDY GONZALES (center), a letter carrier for the United States Postal Service assigned to the Wollaston Post Office, was recognized last Thursday by both the Postal Service and the city for his recent heroic action in saving the life of a man. Gonzales was returning to his vehicle after making a delivery when he noticed two women walking, one of whom collapsed and fell to the ground. Gonzales helped the man onto the grass, checked for a heartbeat, and, when he found none, performed CPR on the man. After a couple of minutes of CPR, Gonzales detected a faint heartbeat and used his cellphone to dial 911. Joining Gonzales are Mayor William Phelan (left), who presented Gonzales with a citation from the city, and Postmaster John W. "Mike" Powers, who presented Gonzales with a framed photo of the stamp "Honoring Those Who Served" complete with an engraved commemoration of Gonzales' heroism.

$484,000 Coming From State But: 'Extra' Road Repair To Cost City $200,000

By CRAIG SALTERS

Newly appointed DPW Commissioner Jay Fink had good news and bad news for city councillors at Monday night's meeting of the Public Works Committee.

The good news: the city will receive $484,000 in Chapter 90 highway construction funds, its share of a recent $50 million appropriation by the state.

The bad news: In excess of $200,000 of those funds may have to be used to pay Hanover-based company P.A. Landers for additional road repair it was directed to do by the city without written authorization or identified sources of funding.

"P.A. Landers is owed money mainly because its list of work was added to many times during the last construction season," Fink told members of the Public Works Committee. "It appears work was directed to be done beyond the contractual limit that we had with them."

The fact that no change orders were ever written to authorize the work, said Fink, who began his duties March 4 of 2001, could result in payments to P.A. Landers which "may cut into available monies for this season."

Reached for comment Tuesday, David Colton, the city's previous DPW commissioner under Mayor James Sheets and current director of Public Works for the town of Milton, said that he does remember authorizing additional work on contracts, possibly on Sea St. or Squantum St. or both, but that he could not comment on specific dollar amounts or specific contracts.

"The gist of the story is correct: I did authorize additional work," said Colton.

As for the change of orders, Colton explained that it was "standard procedure" to bunch change of orders into substantial amounts so as not cause unnecessary paperwork.

"It's a lot of work to get a change of order and it takes the same amount of work for a $1 change of order as it does a $100,000 change of order," he said.

"This is one of those

Believes Ship Contracts Never Existed

Harold Asks AG To Investigate Shipyard Firm

Former City Council President Paul Harold is asking Attorney General Thomas Reilly to initiate a criminal investigation against Massachusetts Heavy Industries (MHI), bankrupt former owner of the Fore River Shipyard.

In a letter this week to Reilly, Harold said: "It's my contention that Mass Heavy Industries from its inception never had a viable plan to finance its operations."

"It's further my contention that in its statements, declarations and loan/grant applications with the federal, state, and local governments it materially misrepresented its financial condition, with the resulting loss of millions of dollars of taxpayers' money."

Because of those misrepresentations, Harold contends that MHI, whose reorganization plan was dismissed last week in U.S. Bankruptcy Court by Judge William C. Hillman, was "allowed to leverage more than $100 million in taxpayers' money, with only the federal government given hope of recovering any part of its loan."

MHI is headed by Greek national Sotirios Emmanouil who, at last report, was running the Hellenic Shipyard in Greece.

Losses for the state and city of Quincy, Harold said, include: $10 million from the Mass Development Finance Agency; $7.8 million from the city of Quincy's HUD loans; $7 million from the MWRA; a $6.6 letter of credit from the Commonwealth; and $3 million from the Commonwealth's asbestos fund.

"Not included in these loans/grants is more than $10 million in tax forgiveness by the city of Quincy and the town of Braintree and the subsidy given by the MWRA in the initial purchase," states Harold's letter.

Harold, a longtime critic of MHI's now tailed shipyard plan, served on the City Council from 1996 to 2001 and currently serves as Norfolk County Register of Deeds.

Harold's letter asserts that the shipbuilding contracts on which MHI based its credibility "never existed" and requests Reilly's office to confirm that assertion.

Harold attached to his letter a copy of an April 26, 1999 affidavit of Richard

City Figures Certified For Wednesday Tax Vote

The City Council was scheduled to conduct a public hearing on the city's tax classification percentage Wednesday at 7:45 p.m. in the council chambers of City Hall.

A Special Meeting of the City Council was scheduled immediately after, at 8 p.m., to adopt a classification percentage and set a property tax rate for Fiscal Year 2002.

The hearing and council meeting were made possible by the state certification of city financial information Tuesday morning.

The classification percentage for FY 2002, which under normal circumstances would have been set last December, had been delayed as the city sought state certification of its financial figures.

A similar Special Meeting of the council had been scheduled for March 22 but was canceled because expected state certification had not yet occurred.

The city faces a tight deadline in setting the FY 2002 tax rates as fourth quarter actual tax bills must be sent by Monday, April 1.

INTERSECTION OF Beale Street and Newport Avenue in Wollaston is identified (and misspelled) as "Ann Hutchinson Square" on this rarely noted sign. Correct spelling is "Anne."

WOLLASTON FIRE STATION forms a backdrop for this 1930 sign that notes where Anne Hutchinson spent her last night in Massachusetts before exile in Rhode Island.

A Short Stay Here Before Exiled By The Puritans Does Quincy Do Right By Anne Hutchinson?

By TOM HENSHAW

She is, by acclamation, one of the most important women in the earliest days of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. She has been called "America's first female theologian." Her husband owned a 600-acre farm in what is today called Wollaston.

But can Anne Hutchinson, who was exiled by the Puritans of Boston as a 17th Century heretic, lay legitimate claim to being called a woman of Quincy?

Meg McMillen, who lives at 303 Beale St., a stone's throw from the old Hutchinson farm, thinks she can and her project for Women's History Month (March) is to bring Anne Hutchinson into the Quincy fold along with Abigail Adams and Amelia Earhart.

"This remarkable woman should be praised, honored and remembered for her independent spirit and thinking which were not only welcomed at the time, but were particularly not-welcomed from women," wrote

McMillen in paper for her history class at UMass-Boston.

"Anne Hutchinson was hundreds of years before her time and she leaves me wondering how different the world might have been if she and her women counterparts had been allowed to express their beliefs and thoughts."

Alas, Ms. Hutchinson's beliefs and thoughts brought her into conflict with the reigning theological dogmas of 17th century Boston, where she made her home; the Massachusetts Bay legislature banished her to Rhode Island and she was excommunicated by her Boston church.

She is remembered in Quincy today by two obscure signs placed near the Wollaston fire station at Beale Street and Newport Avenue, which acknowledge that Anne Hutchinson tarried there en route to exile in Rhode Island, and "Anne Hutchinson Square," a designation that has been largely forgotten.

"This essay is about Anne Hutchinson, the city's decreasing interest in the site and how I hope to raise local interest about her and her site," wrote McMillen.

Anne Hutchinson, the daughter of an Anglican minister and a disciple of the Puritan Pastor John Cotton, was 44 years old and the mother of 14 children when she and her husband, William, arrived in Boston from Lincolnshire, England, in 1634 and settled at the corner of what is now School and Washington Streets.

They joined the Boston church, which even then had its doubts about Ms. Hutchinson's willingness to accept at face value the theology of the day. Soon, she was having the Puritan churchwomen over to the house to discuss the week's sermon — with a heavy dose of her own opinions thrown in.

It was those opinions which got her into trouble for she preached intellectual freedom against the authority of the local theocracy, which was defined as heresy, which in turn was defined by the historian A. C. Lyons as "any religious view not shared by the local ministry."

She was hauled before the Massachusetts General Court charged with 82 theological errors, quickly convicted and ordered banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Later, the Boston Church took up her case and excommunicated her along with William Coddington of Quincy fame.

Anne Hutchinson's Quincy connection came in 1636 when her husband, a pillar of the community until his wife's banishment when he became anathema to the establishment, was granted the 600-acre farm in Old Braintree (now the Wollaston section of Quincy.)

"There is no indication that the Hutchinsons ever lived there," said Ed Fitzgerald, executive director of the Quincy Historical Society. "They may not even have built a house on the farm."

One of the plaques near the Wollaston Fire Station, placed in 1930 by the Massachusetts Bay Colony Tercentenary Commission, calls attention to:

"WILLIAM HUTCHINSON'S GRANT"

"In William Hutchinson's house near this spot his wife Anne tarried on her way to Rhode Island, exiled from Massachusetts by the General Court in April, 1638."

A few feet away, a bronze tablet attached to a block of Roxbury puddingstone and set in place in 1894 reads:

"This and the neighboring Wollaston Hills were part of the original grant of 600 acres made by the town of Boston to William Hutchinson in 1636-7. His house stood near this spot; and to it came his wife,

ANNE HUTCHINSON on the seventeenth of April 1638, when exiled from Massachusetts by the General Court of the colony, and here she tarried for a brief space while on her way to Rhode Island."

The Hutchinsons sold the farm after Anne's banishment and, along with Coddington, went to Aquidneck and founded a colony near where another exile, the Quaker Roger Williams, set up a religious refuge in the Providence Plantations.

They lived there in peace and harmony until William Hutchinson died and his widow moved her family to the Dutch colony of New Amsterdam and settled in what is now New Rochelle, a few miles north of New York City. There, in 1643, all but one of them perished in an Indian attack.

Massachusetts and the Boston Church have done what they can to rectify their ill-treatment of Anne Hutchinson so many years ago.

A $15,000 bronze memorial, by the noted sculptor Cyrus Dallin, was raised in her memory in front of the West Wing of the State

Kicks Off Campaign Cahill Officially Announces For State Treasurer

Tim Cahill made it official this week: he is running for state treasurer.

Cahill, Norfolk County treasurer and city councillor, made his formal announcement in six cities Monday and Tuesday, capping off the two-day whirlwind tour with a campaign kickoff in his hometown at the Boston Marriott Quincy Tuesday night.

On Monday he made formal announcements in Worcester, Pittsfield and Springfield and on Tuesday in Lowell and New Bedford prior to the Quincy kickoff.

State Treasurer Shannon O'Brien is leaving the office to run for governor.

Cahill, who is 43 and a Democrat, is serving his eighth term on the City Council and completing his six-year term as county treasurer.

He reportedly has raised more than $300,000 to finance his campaign for the state post.

"I am excited to formally announce my candidacy," Cahill said. "I have spent the past year listening to voters and understanding their concerns and expectations. I have put an experienced team in place and started the fund-raising process. The response to date from voters has been terrific. I am looking forward to taking my message across the Commonwealth. We have a long way to go, but we are off to a good start."

He added: "I understand that, in these challenging times, it is critical for Democrats to continue the reforms implemented by Treasurer Shannon O'Brien. We simply cannot afford to go back to the mismanagement of the previous Republican treasury administration. I am running my campaign based on my extensive experience in municipal finance as well as my experience over the past five years as the Norfolk County treasurer.

"I am the only candidate in this race with direct experience as an elected treasurer. As Norfolk County treasurer, I have been responsible for managing $400 million in retirement assets. Norfolk County is the sixth largest retirement system in the state.

"As I am traveling around the state, more and more voters are hearing about my experience and my background and they are jumping on board my campaign. I am proud of the strides that we are making."

Cahill was first elected to the City Council for an at-large seat in 1987 and has been re-elected every two years since. This past year, he was re-elected to his eighth term by topping the ballot in both the preliminary and general election by a wide margin.

In 1996, Cahill challenged Norfolk County's only Republican elected official, Treasurer Bob Hall. Cahill topped a field of four in the Democratic primary and went on to defeat Hall by more than 50,000 votes.

Several other candidates also hope to succeed O'Brien as state treasurer.

On the Democrat side are Rep. Michael Cahill of Beverly, no relation; Boston City Councillor Stephen Murphy and former state Rep. James Segal.

Republican candidates are Daniel Grabauskas, former Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and Bruce Herzfelder. James O'Keefe is a Green Party candidate.

Cahill and his wife, Tina (Falco) Cahill, an elementary school gym teacher, have four daughters, Makenna, Nicole, Devin and Kendra.

The Tim Cahill Committee is located at 100 Penn St., Quincy. The telephone number is 617-786-1846 and the Web site is cahilltreasurer.com.

Booth, Gate Replacement At Hancock Parking Lot

Replacements for the booth and gate of the "daily parking" entrance of the John Hancock Parking lot, which were recently destroyed by an unknown reckless driver, are scheduled to be in place by mid-week, reports Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon.

The city already has possession of a new gate. Gillon said Monday morning, and a new booth was en route from Montgomery City, MT, and was expected to arrive in Quincy by Wednesday at the latest.

Damage to the booth and gate was discovered Monday, Feb. 25 by the city. It appears a driver caused the damage by exiting the parking lot through the entrance side. Gillon said this was the first time such an accident had occurred and that protective posts, called ballards, would be installed on that side of the booth.

The "daily parking" entrance is located on the Dennis F. Ryan Parkway across from the Quincy District Court.

Children Who Witness Domestic Violence Conference Subject

The effects on children of witnessing domestic violence will be the topic of a conference to be held Wednesday, April 10 from 9:30 a.m. until 11 a.m. at the Crane Public Library, Washington St.

Betsy McAlister Groves, director of the Child Witness to Violence Project at Boston Medical Center, will be keynote speaker at the conference, which is sponsored by the Quincy District Court.

A panel discussion will follow Groves' remarks.

The April 10 conference, which is free and open to the public, is one program in an ongoing initiative of the Quincy District Court to end the cycle of domestic violence.

City Council Reunion

It's usually (most of the time) all business at the City Council meetings Monday nights at City Hall.

But come Tuesday night, April 23, it will be all fun at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

That's the night of the third reunion of city councilors -- past and present -- being put together by former Mayor Frank McCauley who is both a former and present councillor.

And if it's anything like the previous two reunions held in 1994 and 1999 it will be another "best show in town."

A night of renewing old acquaintances, a dash of nostalgia and swapping political stories with a few good natured jabs and barbs tossed in.

McCauley, the city's political historian, notes that 43 councillors -- nine present and 34 former -- are being invited to attend.

McCauley is working on the evening's program and doesn't want to take the edge off it before the actual get-together.

But he has a few little tidbits in the history department he's willing to let go of beforehand.

HELFRICH

Like the fact that Alfred Helfrich is the oldest of all 43 councillors at age 96. He is also the lone surviving Plan E councillor. Helfrich, who served from 1950 to 1955 when Plan A was voted back in, attended both previous reunions and McCauley expects to see him at this one.

Tom Gilmartin goes back the furthest in time of service. He was Ward 6 councillor from 1946 to 1949. Now living in Weymouth, he reportedly still keeps a close eye on Quincy's political scene.

LaRAIA

Of the 34 former living councillors, Joseph LaRaia had the most service in the council with 20 years and five months before leaving to become an assessor.

James Sheets holds the record for ward councillor with 16 years in Ward 4.

But the all-time longevity champ was the late John Quinn who served 24 years -- all as councillor at-large. Carl

QUINN

Anderson, also deceased, had 20 years as Ward 2 and at-large councillor.

Five of the 34 former councillors went on to become mayor: Walter Hannon, Arthur Tobin, LaRaia, McCauley and Sheets.

Seems to be some political charm about Ward 5. George Burke, William Delahunt and Warren Powers held that seat. Burke became district attorney. So did Delahunt who then went on to Congress. Powers is now a district court judge. (The late Myron Lane, who was a Ward 5 councillor, also became district attorney.)

BURKE

A couple of fun samples from the 1999 reunion: Sheets who served in the council with Jack Lydon (Ward 3) recalled being awakened from a sound sleep around 3 a.m. by a telephone call.

On the other end was Lydon: "Jim, it's really important. I need your vote for council president."

McCauley noted that two councillors -- Tobin and himself -- had buildings named after them: the Tobin Towers seniors complex and the McCauley wing at Quincy Hospital, now Quincy Medical Center.

And that two others -- Ted DeCristofaro and Leo Kelly -- had mini-parks named in their honor.

"Maybe someday," he said, "the Town River might be renamed in honor of Dan Raymondi as the Daniel G. Raymondi Riverway. And every time it overflows and floods roads and homes, Raymondi will be remembered."

Both McCauley and Peter Kolson who was the council president then, showed up in tuxedos.

"McCauley made me wear one," Kolson declared. "He said it would add a little class if I called the council roll in a tuxedo."

"Where did you get it -- at a funeral home?" someone asked.

"No, at Bernie's. It was on sale for $70. Not bad, huh?"

McCauley plans to don a tux again for the April 23 shindig.

But he isn't sure he can get Raymondi -- now the council president -- into one.

KEVIN WORLEY, who has been active in other political candidates' campaigns, has decided to become one himself.

Worley, who lives on Nielsen Ave., has filed nomination papers for Norfolk County treasurer, the seat Tim Cahill is leaving in a bid for state treasurer. Worley, who is frequently seen at city council meetings, is running as an Independent.

REGISTER OF DEEDS Paul Harold was re-elected to the board of directors of the Charitable Irish Society at the recent annual meeting at the old state house.

The Irish Society is the oldest charitable organization in the western hemisphere, dating back to 1737, Harold says.

HAROLD

In recent years it has raised funds to assist new Irish immigrants and to support Irish studied programs at Boston College and Stonehill College.

ATTY. SUMNER GILLETTE tells us that former City Solicitor Steve Keefe, now living in Tucson, Ariz., is recuperating from recent gall bladder surgery.

Says he thinks Keefe's former Quincy colleagues might like to wish him a speedy recovery. His address: 4215 North Larkspur Rd., Tucson, AZ 85749-8305. Or give him a call at 502-760-0226.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1908 postcard view of the old West Quincy Methodist Church that stood for almost 100 hundred years at 87 Hall Place in West Quincy. For a while it was known as the Hall Place M.E. Church. Like so many small neighborhood churches this one had meager beginnings. It was built in 1874 by members of the congregation on a donated lot of land using lumber salvaged from a building that was also donated. The clock and the organ came from a $2,000 gift from Quincy philanthropist Henry H. Faxon. The clock tower was a local landmark and it could be seen from all over West Quincy including the quarries that loomed overhead. The last service was held here in 1957 when the congregation merged with the then St. Paul Methodist Church on Fort Street. This building then stood vacant for a number of years until it was demolished. A private residence now occupies the site.

1,000 Shipyard Workers Get 10 Percent Raise

By PAUL HAROLD

Samuel Wakeman, general manager of the Fore River shipyard, announced 1,000 shipyard workers, salary and hourly employees not represented by a union, would be give a 10 percent raise. March 28 - April 4 1951

This announcement came after a 15 percent raise agreed to by management and shipyard unions was turned down by the Wage Stabilization Board. The CIO and the independent union refused the 10 percent raise and voted to go on strike, but delayed strike action for one month.

SAFETY STUDY AT SNUG HARBOR

Police Captain Joseph Flaherty, head of the traffic bureau, met with 100 residents of Snug Harbor at the Adams Shore Clubhouse to discuss safety issues at the new veterans' housing project.

More than 400 families were surveyed for the study, calling for speed limits, slow signs and one-way streets.

At the same meeting the first permanent officers of the Snug Harbor Association were elected with John Vecchiola as president, James Fay as vice president and Alfred Deveau as treasurer.

DUANE CO. WINS DEMOLITION CONTRACT

The John Duane Company of Quincy won the bid to demolish buildings in the North End of Boston for the construction of a new Central Artery.

The bid of $27,000 was announced by state DPW Commissioner William Callahan. Buildings to be demolished were on Traveler, Haverhill and Beverly Streets.

QUINCY-ISMS

The Granite Railroad marked its 125th anniversary this week. It was constructed to carry Quincy granite to a wharf in Milton along the Neponset River for transporting to Charlestown for the Bunker Hill Monument. The rail was 2 3/4 mile long. In 1870 the rail bed was purchased by the Old Colony Railroad and was used until 1940, connecting the Atlantic station to West Quincy. Gridley Bryant was the engineer for the line that operated for 45 years powered not by steam engine but by horses. . . The Red Cross was conducting first aid classes at the Thomas Crane Library for preparation in case of an atomic attack. . . The Selina Bradley collection of classics was dedicated honoring her work at NQHS as a teacher for 23 years. Principal James Collins and librarian Elizabeth Sherman accepted the 50-book collection on behalf of the school. . . Charles Francis Adams, president of the Raytheon Corp, announced the construction of a new manufacturing facility on the Quincy-Braintree line off Centre St. in South Quincy. The plant was expected to employ 1,300 people in the production of subminiature type electronic tubes, with an annual payroll of $4 million. A direct descendant of John and John Quincy Adams, Charles Francis Adams was the son of Charles Francis Adams who served as Quincy's mayor and Secretary of the Navy under President Hoover. . . William Papile was the toastmaster for the combined Torre dei Passeri societies' charity ball at Rotary Hall. . . The Bargain Center was making room for its anniversary sale, selling men's ties for 10 cents, boys' baseball gloves for 25 cents and wedding and evening gowns for $3.95. . . Atty. George Arbuckle, former assistant district attorney in Plymouth and Norfolk counties, was the speaker at the monthly communion breakfast of St. John's. Fire Chief Thomas Gorman was chairman. . . Police captured a West Quincy girl and North Quincy boy at the bus station in Concord, N.H. Their parents had called Quincy police to stop the couple from marrying in New Hampshire because they were too young. . . Richard Koch announced the Koch Club was sponsoring a stop of the bloodmobile in North Quincy. . . Frank Avery, head usher at St. John's, was honored for his 40 years service. He was the brother of the former Police Chief John Avery. . . The Quincy Point Junior High School PTA held a farewell party for English and Latin teacher John MacDonald. . . William Plunkett was president of the Mass Field School PTA. . . A concert under the direction of Ivar Nelson raised $400 to purchase new uniforms for the QHS band. . . A record number of players attended the Lincoln School PTA's whist party. The high scorer was first grade teacher Helen Whittemore. . . Leo Lamb announced the annual baseball outing at Braves Field was set for May 15. Youngsters who wanted to attend had to send a postcard to the sponsoring organization, the Quincy AmVets Memorial Post on Newport Ave.

Pets And Rent In Public Housing

As someone who grew up in a Roxbury housing project, I remember first hand what it was like calling public housing home.

The recent news from the Quincy Housing Authority is so sad. Ordering tenants to get rid of their pets over rent issues simply doesn't make any sense.

When I was a kid it was always never OK to have dogs or cats in a project apartment. Several people always did and as long as pet owners were responsible, neither tenants nor project administrators cared.

Recently, George Shields, who is the president of the Harborview Residents Committee, said it best: "To me that's unfair. If someone has had rent problems in the past or they're working re-payments, I don't think they should be punished by not being allowed to keep their pets."

If housing authority Director Jack Mather sees the issue of non-payment of rent as a real QHA issue to be resolved, is kicking out dogs and cats the answer?

Personally, why isn't the real issue being addressed?

If tenants stop paying rent, start eviction procedures against them. However, if you're not evicting tenants over paying rent, why this craziness over pet evictions? Who's paying rent? People or pets?

If folks straighten out their rent problems, isn't that the end of it? Perhaps, QHA officials know more than you or I but if tenants are currently paying their rent on time, the past should be the past.

Kicking out pets is mean government housing policy. Forcing people to choose between their beloved pets or their needed apartments is just plain cruel.

As a community activist in Quincy serving on the board of directors of the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, I think we need to find more affordable housing for poor and working folks rather than sending folks to the streets with their pets.

Punishing people is bad housing policy and punishing people for past problems is really bad policy.

Fr. Graham's Ministry Outstanding

Rev. Daniel Graham, formerly of St. Joseph's Parish, Quincy Point, is a good priest and a true man of God. While I cannot speak to the charge against him, I can and will speak to his ministry, both to me personally, my family, and to this community.

My late father Carl was a Roman Catholic. On his death, he was buried from St. Joseph's. Fr. Graham's kindness and graciousness to me was a wonderful blessing during a very dark hour. I will say that Fr. Graham's type of graciousness to clergy of other Christian denominations is far from common, either among Catholic or Protestant Clergy.

The allegation against Fr. Graham is just that: an allegation. It has not been proven. Regardless, Fr. Graham's ministry in Quincy has been outstanding and I am proud to have him as a brother in Christ.

A Tribute To South Shore YMCA 'Strong Kids Campaign' Helps Families When They Need It Most

By CRAIG SALTERS

Lifelong Quincy resident Shirley Smith wants city residents to know how much the South Shore YMCA's Strong Kids Campaign helped her family in its time of need and she also knows why she wants them to know.

"Put it in print as big as you can: The YMCA is there to help people," said Smith, now a plan examiner with the city's Inspectional Services Department. "I know that there are people out there who are in the same position I was and they need to know that there is help out there ... excellent help."

In 1997, Smith's position was that of a recently divorced mother trying to re-enter the workforce and seeking full-day, affordable child care for her two children, Matthew and Lindsey.

After searching more than a dozen day care facilities, none of which offered Smith financial assistance, she discovered the YMCA's childcare program as well as its Strong Kids Campaign, which raises funds to help low-income families within the community to join YMCA programs and make use of YMCA services.

"It was a tough transition but it was made a lot easier knowing my children were coming to a safe and secure environment at the YMCA," said Smith. "Without it, I really don't know what I would have done."

More than four years later, the Smith family no longer needs financial assistance but Matthew and Lindsey — now 10 and 8 years of age, respectively — still attend the YMCA's full-time day care and other programs because, Smith said, its programs are "second to none."

Her children, Smith said proudly, are excellent swimmers with increased social skills and confidence thanks in part to the attention they receive at the YMCA. In addition, she said, Matthew and Lindsey receive lessons in character development in keeping with the YMCA's motto of "Respect, Responsibility, Honesty, and Caring."

Smith emphasized that assistance was available at the YMCA to families no matter what the reason, be it financial necessity, domestic violence, divorce, or anything else.

She also emphasized that the YMCA's Strong Kids Campaign was a perfect way for neighbors to help neighbors since 100 percent of funds donated go directly to helping parents pay for YMCA day care and camp programs.

Last year's Strong Kids Campaign raised $423,000 and helped nearly 1,100 families within the community experience the Y's programs.

This year's campaign, led by Phyllis Godwin of Granite City Electric Supply Co., has set its goal at $500,000.

Of the 1,000 plus people being served by the YMCA's financial assistance, more than two-thirds of those are children.

Those wishing to contribute to the YMCA's Strong Kids Campaign should contact Jill Donovan at (617) 479-8500, ext. 109.

David Trentham Named To Annual 'Top Doctors' List

North Quincy resident David Trentham, a rheumatologist at the Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center, was named by Boston Magazine as one of the Top Doctors in Greater Boston.

The list of top doctors includes 170 physicians in 23 fields of medicine including, among others: endocrinology, pediatrics, cardiology, and oncology.

Boston Magazine generated the list by surveying hundreds of the doctors' peers as well as members of the Massachusetts Nurses Association who answered the question: "To whom would you send a loved one who was sick?" Those results were back-checked against the physician profile ing system of the State Board of Registration in Medicine.

According to Boston Magazine, Boston ranks first among all cities in the nation in research funding. The five independent hospitals that received the most support from the National Institute of Health in 2000 are all in Boston.

Focusing On Drug And Crime Prevention Bellotti Names Full-Time Community Youth Officer

Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti has named an eight-year corrections veteran as his full-time Community Youth Officer, focusing on drug and crime prevention programs for elementary and middle school students.

Larry Feeney, a correction officer and former case worker at the Norfolk County Correctional Center since 1994, recently completed 80 hours of Massachusetts Criminal Justice training to become a certified DARE instructor.

"Larry is enthusiastic and dedicated to serving youth in our communities," Bellotti said. "He's going to be a great asset to our own youth programs as well as an excellent resource for local police departments as a DARE instructor, if they need his services."

Feeney, 39, of Abington, is married with two daughters, ages 3 and 8.

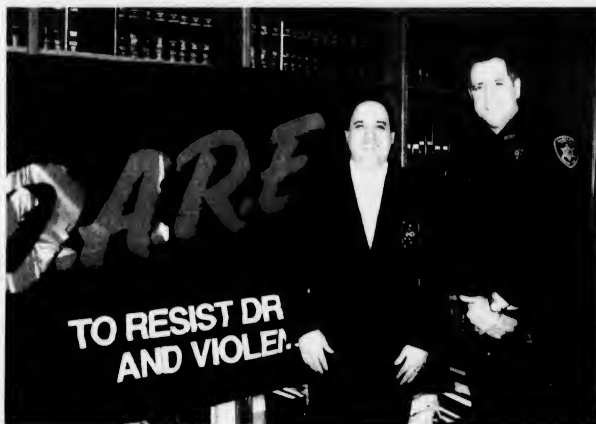

The new Community Youth Officer position is fully subsidized by the Sheriff's Office. Training for Feeney cost approximately $2,500.

Feeney will work primarily on Bellotti's youth programs as the Community Youth Officer, but will be available to local police departments to assist with DARE education classes.

DARE officers in Norfolk County communities are funded by the police departments through grants, Sheriff's Office donations and town budgets.

Bellotti's office each year contributes $1,000 to each town and city in Norfolk County for the DARE program, which receives most of its funding through the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs.

City To Host 2003 State Firefighter Convention

By CRAIG SALTERS
The Professional Firefighters of Massachusetts have chosen Quincy as the site of their bi-annual convention which is scheduled to take place in June of 2003.

The honor is the result of intense lobbying efforts on the part of the members of Quincy Firefighters Association Local 792 who convinced their fellow firefighters that Quincy was the best site to hold the week-long event.

The convention will be held in the Crown Colony Marriott and is expected to bring more than 1,000 firefighters and an estimated $1.4 million in revenue to the city.

Acting Lt. William Arienti, president of Local 792, said the convention provided an opportunity for Quincy firefighters to give back to the residential and business communities that have supported them throughout the years.

"It's a way to say thank you," said Lt. Arienti, noting that, of the 750 votes cast by the state's firefighters, Quincy's margin of victory over runner-up Hyannis was a mere four votes.

Lt. Arienti, who said he believed such a convention was a first for the city, said the city's firefighters are already making plans to host their colleagues. Preliminary plans, he said, include a clam bake, a night at Marina Bay, a golf tournament, and a complimentary city map highlighting local shops, sites, and restaurants.

House in 1915, a gift of the Anne Hutchinson Memorial Association and the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The State Legislature, after twice failing to rescind Anne's banishment in 1938 and 1948, finally, in the bicentennial year of 1976, at the urging of Louise Meservy of Quincy and others, officially revoked the action its predecessors had taken 338 years before.

And, in 1989, the United Church of Christ, a lineal descendant of the old Boston Church, rescinded her punishment by burning the writ of excommunication in ceremonies at Newport, R. I., during which Anne was not only rehabilitated but hailed as "America's first female theologian."

"In 1638 an injustice was done," said Sister Miriam Therese Winter, professor of liturgy, worship and spirituality at Hartford Seminary, who wrote the service of reconciliation. "We gather to ask forgiveness. Let us welcome Anne back into our circle and right the wrong we have done."

And now, Meg McMillen would like to see Quincy right what she perceives as a wrong and welcome Anne Hutchinson as a favorite daughter, starting by better maintenance of the site of her memorials in Wollaston so that visitors can more easily see and read them.

Raymondi Takes Issue Taxpayers' Assn. Proposes Hotel-Motel Tax Revenue Be Used For City Needs

Alan H. Cousin, president of the Quincy Taxpayers' Association, released a report this week calling for immediate imposition of the city's hotel/motel occupancy tax at the full 4 percent allowed by law, instead of continuing to phase it in.

Cousin called on the mayor and city council to lift the restriction on the use of the money — currently earmarked for open space, historic preservation and tourism — to make it available for the city's other budgetary needs.

The report, compiled by QTA research director Robert Haley, says the city stands to lose $1.1 million by 2004 by phasing the tax instead of imposing it at the full 4 percent.

Cousin said that of 158 communities that have adopted the tax, Quincy is the only one to phase it in, and the only one to earmark the money for nonessential purposes.

Council President Daniel

Raymondi, author of the Home Rule Petition which created the hotel/motel tax, said the phased-in aspect of the tax represented "a compromise position," the result of much discussion and the input of local businesses that emphasized the need to factor new costs into long-term business plans.

"There were a number of public hearings," said Raymondi, noting similar proposals on what had been "a controversial issue" had failed in the past. "This was seen as a suitable compromise, something that the business community felt was appropriate."

Raymondi also took issue with the idea that a phased-in tax created "losses" when such a tax never existed previously. "The city hasn't lost anything because the city never had the tax before," he said.

As for using the funds to preserve open space and promote tourism, Raymondi said he remained an advocate of both.

"These are laudable goals that have been historically underfunded," Raymondi said. "Identifying an appropriate funding source is in the best interests of the city."

According to Haley, the city's open space committee has not met in years, and all of the properties it selected for purchase are either unsuitable wetlands, or have been purchased by others and are now under development.

"With the greatest respect to those who fought so hard for this plan, and with the greatest regard for their valid concerns, the city cannot afford either to forego this revenue or to sacrifice its availability for urgent budgetary needs," Cousin said.

"We have no qualm with using public money to acquire open space, preserve historic sites or promote tourism, but we need this money for more urgent things, like education, public safety, and street and sidewalk repairs."

4 NQHS Students To Participate In State Science Fair May 3-4

Four North Quincy High School students have won the right to participate in the 53rd annual Massachusetts State Science Fair to be held May 3 and 4 at MIT in Cambridge.

At the regional competition last Saturday at Bridgewater State College, Wen Yu and Ky Vu earned second-place honors and Lindi Laze and Alan Chan third-place honors to move onto the next level.

They were among 163 high school students who exhibited their projects. Each project was reviewed by judges before the results were tabulated and awards presented at the end of the day. Students had won their high school competitions.

Kindergarten Orientation At Beechwood On The Bay April 8

Beechwood on the Bay has scheduled an orientation meeting for parents of prospective kindergarten students Monday, April 8 at 7 p.m.

An "activity night" will be held for future kindergartners at the same time, in an adjacent classroom, said Amy Fowler, director of the Early Childhood Program.

Beechwood's Kindergarten offers families a unique full day private school option for the five-year old. A teacher-student ratio of 1:15 promotes individualized learning. A large kindergarten room is complemented by an "outdoor classroom," custom-designed playground, acres of playfields, and a large gymnasium.

Beechwood's kindergarten is staffed by experienced certified teachers licensed to teach kindergarten through third grade.

Beechwood's kindergarten enrollment is now open. Beechwood on the Bay is located at 440 East Squantum St., North Quincy, off Quincy Shore Drive, adjacent to Marina Bay.

For more information, a family meeting, or to register for the orientation night, call (617) 471-5712.

'Extra' Road Repair To Cost City $200,000

(Cont'd From Page 1) things left at loose ends because, through no one's fault, there really was no transition time between myself and Mr. Fink. If the election had turned out differently, we would be dealing with this issue now and would have taken care of it during normal business and it wouldn't be news," Colton said.

Colton also said the city's receipt of Chapter 90 funds in March rather than the traditional August was "upsetting the timing" of the process.

Mayor William Phelan strongly disagreed in comments made late Tuesday afternoon to The Sun:

"I think that the fact that there are $200,000 in cost overruns and that funds were neither budgeted nor encumbered speaks to the level of past management at that department."

Phelan, who added that the $200,000 figure represents almost half of this year's Chapter 90 funds, also said that the previous administration spent over $2 million for road repair in the first six months of 2001.

Steven Rose, general manager of Construction for P.A. Landers, said the company has several contracts with the city, including ongoing reconstruction work on Washington St. and resurfacing work on several smaller streets.

Rose said he could not comment on exact dollar amounts or payment schedules but said it was common for the city to owe at least a portion of any given contract to the company as a retainer.

He also said that contracts were based on physical streets and specific units of materials and that projects could be added to either verbally or by a written plan.

The Care You Want. Close to Home.

REAL ESTATE

Protect Your Home From Intruders From Windows To Woodwork To Walls

Tips To Make Spring Cleaning Manageable

Protecting your home from intruders doesn't have to cost a fortune. Sometimes the most effective measures are the simplest.

When assessing your home's security, keep in mind that intruders generally avoid light, noise and anything that draws attention or slows them down.

Incorporate the following precautions around your home. They just might make intruders pass your home in search for an easier target.

More Lights: A well-lit home and yard can be one of the best deterrents to crime. Mount lights on the outside of your house in high, out-of-reach locations. Motion-detector lights are especially helpful. They may be just enough to scare a would-be prowler away.

Fewer Hideouts: Trim any hedges and trees near doors and windows. If you have a fenced yard, consider additional lighting to illuminate potential hiding areas. A peephole in your door is another wise preventive measure. In addition to helping you identify visitors, it's a good neighborhood watch tool. If you hear a suspicious noise, a peephole makes it easy to take a discreet look out to see if you spot potential trouble.

Extra Obstacles: Protective measures, such as deadbolt locks, window locks and iron gates will slow or stop an intruder. Avoid installing doors that have side windows or glass insets, which make it easy for someone to break the glass and reach in to unlock the door. Consider installing ornate bars across any door windows, or investing in a new, solid door.

If you can afford it, an alarm system is a good investment that, in some cases, can also reduce your insurance costs.

(NAPS) — As winter draws to a close, sweet dreams of spring with gloriously blooming gardens, songbirds and sun come into focus. But the reverie is shattered — it's also time for spring cleaning!

Today's busy lifestyle, where almost everyone works long hours outside the home, doesn't leave much time for deep cleaning and yet we yearn for that newly cleaned feeling that makes a home feel springtime fresh. Here are a few tips that make it manageable:

• Break up the job into manageable tasks. Tackle a couple of items each weekend. While it may take a bit longer to finish, you won't feel overwhelmed or have to sacrifice precious family time.

• Cut the clutter. Sort through that pile of papers and magazines and donate old clothes to charity. Pack up items that are cluttering the tabletops, shelves and corners. Rooms will seem more spacious and organized.

• Start at the top. Using a duster with extension pole to reach the ceiling, brush away cobwebs and clean the ceiling fan blades. Wash glass fixtures in warm soapy water.

• Windows. Take the sweat out of window cleaning with a tip from the pros — throw away the spray cleaners and paper towels. A high-quality squeegee, such as the Ettore Master squeegee, available for less than $10, produces streak-free windows in half the time. For high windows, opt for an extension pole instead of dangerous ladders.

• Window screens. Maximize the benefits of your window-washing efforts by cleaning the screens. Brush off excess dirt and follow with a good sudsing using a high-quality window scrubber and mild soap. Rinse and let dry before rehanging.

• Window coverings. For blinds, a cloth dampened with an all-purpose liquid cleaner will do the job. Wash curtains and rehang them fresh from the dryer to avoid wrinkling. Revive dusty drapes by removing the hooks and tossing them in the dryer on "air only" setting with a damp towel for 10-15 minutes.

• Bedding. Wash and put away flannel sheets, winter comforters and quilts. Bring out the lightweight coverlets and springy floral sheets to bring a bit of nature indoors.

• Woodwork and Walls. With all-purpose cleaner in hand, spot-clean woodwork and walls in each room, especially doors, doorways and the area around doorknobs and drawers.

• Carpets. If carpets don't warrant shampooing, spot-clean heavy traffic areas and other places where dirt has accumulated.

• Foliage. Add a touch of spring to your décor with fresh flowers and plants. For even less maintenance, check out the wide array of high-quality silk flowers available.

So don't be a slave to spring cleaning. Make quick work of it and enjoy the fruits of your labor. For more information about the Ettore line of Master squeegees, scrubbers, extension poles, dusters and professional window cleaning solution, visit a hardware store or home center near you or visit their web site at www.ettore.com.

What To Bring When Househunting

Q: What should I bring when I'm looking at homes?

A: To make your buying process easier, you should bring a notebook and pen so you can record any information you may have trouble remembering. You should also write down the answers to any questions you ask the sellers, such as the home's average cost for utilities.

Also bring a flashlight to inspect closed areas, such as crawlspace. Additionally, a tape measure may come in handy so you can check the dimensions of rooms and clearances. Don't be shy. Sellers will understand that you are merely trying to learn as much as you can about the home.

Lastly, bring a list of important questions, such as if additions to the home were properly permitted. Be sure to get answers to all your questions, even if you feel you're being nosy. As a potential buyer, you have a right to know.

Events To Mark Community Development Block Grant Week

Mayor William Phelan announces a number of events during National Community Development Week, April 1-5, designed to celebrate the 28th anniversary of the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program.

All events are free and open to the public, except where noted.

Since 1975, the CDBG program has provided over $55 million to the City of Quincy for housing rehabilitation, first-time homebuyer financing, public facility improvements, economic development, public service delivery, handicapped accessibility, affordable housing development, and streets, sidewalks, park and playground improvements.

The CDBG program is administered locally by the Quincy Department of Planning and Community Development.

On Monday, April 1 at 11 a.m., Phelan will proclaim April 1-5, 2002 as National Community Development Week in Quincy. He will then lead a signing ceremony with local banks participating in the city's First-Time Homebuyer program. Banks participating in the program are Bank of Canton, Citizens Bank, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, Eastern Bank and Fleet Mortgage Corporation.

The event will be held in the second floor conference room of Quincy City Hall until noon. Attendees will also have a chance to learn more about available grants and low-interest loans.

On Wednesday, April 3 at 11 a.m., a ribbon-cutting event is scheduled at 58-62 Winter St., the site of a seven-unit affordable housing project developed by Neighborhood Housing Services and Shelter, Inc. A total of $400,200 of CDBG/HOME funds and $249,438 of McKinney Homeless funds were used and combined with Lead Paint Hazard Control programs as well as private donations.

The HOME Program is a federally funded program that was created in 1990 to provide funds to expand the supply of affordable housing for low- and moderate-income households. HOME funds can be used for down payment and closing costs for first-time homebuyers; rehabilitation of existing low-moderate income housing; and acquisition of properties to create rental housing for income-eligible households.

The luncheon event is invitation only.

All week long, City Hall will exhibit poster boards highlighting CDBG- and HOME-funded community achievements. Brochures and fliers discussing programs offered to Quincy residents will be available at City Hall during the week.

Many of the community centers and subrecipient agencies that receive CDBG funds are showcasing events throughout CDBG Week. For more information about these events, contact your local community center. The schedule:

Monday, April 1

- Quincy Council on Aging will sponsor a Senior Exercise Class from 9:45 to 10:45 a.m.

- Atlantic Neighborhood Center will have an Open House with board members and will sponsor a Senior ID Card event from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

- Ward 2 Community Center will feature several events including Senior Social and Bingo from 1 to 3 p.m., a Cheerleading Class (for ages 6 and up) from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., and a Karate Class (for ages 8 and up) from 4 to 5:15 p.m.

Tuesday, April 2

- Germantown Community Center will hold a Spring Open House with refreshments from 8:30 a.m. to noon, and a Human Relations Round Table meeting with new agencies and residents from 10 to 11 a.m.

- The Family Commission will feature a Mom and Tot Play Group from 10 a.m. to noon.

- Council on Aging will sponsor the South Shore Center for the Blind from 10 a.m. to noon and Line Dancing from 2 to 3 p.m.

- Atlantic Neighborhood Center will host a Kids Candy Bingo with refreshments for school-age children from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

Wednesday, April 3

- Council on Aging will host a Senior Exercise program from 9:45 to 10:45 a.m.

- Quincy Community Action Program/Emergency Food Center will host a Senior Luncheon from noon to 2 p.m., in which a lawyer will be present to discuss wills and financial planning.

- Ward 4 Neighborhood Association will host a Senior Social Gathering from 1 to 4 p.m.

- Council on Aging will feature a Writing Course from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at the Marina Place Assisted Living Facility.

Thursday, April 4

- Council on Aging will offer a Tai Chi program at the Marina Place Assisted Living Facility from 9 to 10 a.m. and a Senior Scrabble program at the offices on Saratoga Street from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

- Squantum Community Center will have an Open House with displays and programs from 2 to 4 p.m.

- Houghts Neck Community Center will wrap up the day's events with a Fairies, Ferns and Woodland Creatures crafts program open to sprites of all ages, with refreshments, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Friday, April 5

- Beechwood Community

Life Center will sponsor a variety of exercise programs designed for seniors including Senior Walking Group from 9 to 10 a.m., a Seniors Strength Training from 10 to 11 a.m., and a Seniors Volleyball program from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. In addition, the Seniors Sewing Group meets from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and the Blood Pressure Clinic is offered from 10 a.m. to noon.

- Council on Aging will host the South Shore Center for the Blind from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

In addition, each of the agencies listed in this schedule offers a variety of activities all year round and they may be contacted directly for daily program schedules for the remainder of the year.

Energy-Efficient Windows Are A Healthy Choice

(NAPS) — New energy-efficient windows can also be a healthy choice.

Choosing energy-efficient windows should mean less heat loss and less health-endangering condensation. Condensation is a problem that, for starters, simply looks bad and over time will stain frames, peel paint and rot wood. Then it gets worse — much worse.

Window condensation causes or contributes to mold growth, a sinister presence often hidden from sight, deep inside windows and wall openings. Visible mold can be seen on poorly insulated or installed windows.

The solution for condensation and its mold problem is to keep the moisture off the glass. This is accomplished by maintaining the warmest overall window surface temperatures.

Conventional windows have a highly conductive metal spacer between the glass panes, making the coldest part of a window its perimeter edge. Only by eliminating metal altogether and relying instead on Super Spacer's all-foam formula can warm edges be achieved. Super Spacer's no-metal formula blocks the heat escape path and provides one of the best thermal performances in the industry.

In a 1993 paper, Canadian and Swiss government scientists reported Super Spacer scored the highest in edge-of-glass temperature trials and thus offers the highest resistance to condensation. Even in the coldest winter and high indoor humidity levels, condensation in double-pane windows is substantially reduced.

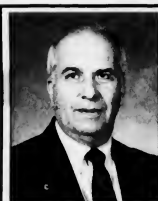

The benefits to human health and comfort are numerous. As documented by 30 years of study, if a home's atmosphere is too dry or humid, then lung and bronchial infections can occur, allergies and various asthmatic conditions flare up and skin conditions become affected because bacteria and viruses tend to thrive.

When selecting energy-efficient windows, it is important to remember that the thermal resistance in the spacer system plays an extremely important role in both energy savings and condensation resistance.

Look for the Health Smart Windows label on your new windows to assure comfortable winter humidity levels with hardly any worries about condensation and mold. To learn more about Super Spacer, visit www.healthsmartwindows.com.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR EXPERIENCE

Although the flood of information available on the Internet once gave rise to an expectation that electronic commerce would replace real estate agents, just the opposite has happened. The Internet has made it possible for real estate agents and their clients to share information more effectively and work together more efficiently. In the end, buyers and sellers realize that there is no substitute for experience and the personal touch. While it has become easier to accumulate information, knowledgeable agents know how to synthesize the facts into a coherent picture that their clients can use to guide their decisions. A lot of hard work and savvy is involved in advertising, qualifying prospects, negotiating, and shepherding the deal to conclusion.

Although technology has made our lives different, and perhaps more efficient in some areas, it cannot replace a professional with intuition and years of experience in a particular field. Thirteenth Annual Cleaner Greener Quincy To Take Place May 4

Mayor William Phelan announces that the 13th annual Cleaner Greener Quincy program will take place Saturday, May 4 at various locations throughout the city.

The cleanup will last from 9 a.m. to noon and will be followed by an appreciation barbecue hosted by Phelan at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex, One Merrymount Parkway.

The annual city-wide cleanup draws close to 1,500 volunteers each year. Last year, more than 150 tons of trash and debris were removed from the city's beaches, marshes, open space areas, and parks.

The city provides hand tools, gloves, and a free Cleaner Greener Quincy T-shirt to all volunteers. Volunteers are also given free hot dogs, hamburgers, and sodas at the mayor's appreciation barbecue following the cleanup.

"I am proud to carry on the tradition of Cleaner Greener Quincy," said Phelan. "The residents of this city are to be commended for the hard work they have given through the years to keep our city clean."

"I hope that this year will be our biggest and best ever."

The following sites will have city personnel on hand to assist volunteers with major cleanup efforts:

- Houghs Neck marshes/ LaBrecque Field in Houghs Neck

- Faxon Park in South Quincy

- Avalon Beach in Quincy Point

- Nickerson Beach/Squaw Rock in

Squantum

Persons interested in forming a group to clean other locations are encouraged to call the Quincy Park Department at (617) 376-1254 to make arrangement for tools and trash pick-up. Qualifying projects must improve publicly owned land.

Added Phelan: "Although Cleaner Greener is just a one-day event, its impact is seen year-round. Young people who spend the day cleaning the park are less likely to vandalize the park, leave litter around, or tolerate other kids doing the same. We have a cleaner city year-round because of the impact of this one-day community cleanup."

This is the second year that groups will compete for the "Mayor's Cup," an award that recognizes the group that makes the most significant impact on Cleaner Greener Quincy day. Factors that also determine the winners include: aesthetic impact of project, number of volunteers, and amount of debris cleaned.

Last year's winners were the Houghs Neck Marsh Restoration/Project HOPE group led by PJ Foley.

For more information on Cleaner Greener Quincy or to make arrangements to have your team clean a location, call (617) 376-1254.

'Fr. Bill' McCarthy To Celebrate 50th Anniversary April 7

In celebration of the 50th anniversary of his ordination, the friends and family of Rev. William R. McCarthy, "Father Bill," are invited to his Golden Jubilee Sunday, April 7.

A Mass of Thanksgiving will be celebrated at 2 p.m. at St. John the Baptist Church, School Street, Quincy.

A Gala Reception will follow at the Quincy Marriott Hotel, Crown Colony, from 5 to 9 p.m., featuring cocktails and hors d'oeuvres.

Tickets for the reception are $50 per person and may be obtained by calling Joyce or Rose at 617-773-2863.

Edward Gutro Addresses National Science Conference

Quincy resident Edward Gutro recently addressed the American Association for the Advancement of Science's (AAAS) Annual Meeting and Science Innovation Exposition, which was held in Boston, on the topic "Insurance Against Extreme Weather."

Gutro, the New England marketing representative for E.A. Kelly Companies, discussed disasters such as tornadoes, hurricanes, floods, and lightning-sparked fires and detailed how the insurance industry sets its rates based on extreme weather events and makes certain types of insurance available for disasters.

In keeping with one of the major themes of the conference, Gutro also explained how improvements in extreme weather forecasts will have an effect on the insurance industry and may help set insurance rates.

Gutro's remarks were part of an exposition session entitled "Is Extreme Weather Now Better Understood and Predicted?" which highlighted the latest advances in severe weather detection. It also addressed how those severe weather events may occur with a higher frequency due to a warming global climate. Other speakers included severe weather experts from the National Weather Service and NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center.

Gutro and his wife Norma live on Adams St. They have three sons: Stephen, Robert, and Doug.

Rev. Vincent Doolan New Pastor At St. Joseph's

Rev. Vincent Doolan has assumed his duties as the new pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point.

He succeeds Fr. Daniel M. Graham, who was suspended Feb. 2 on a molestation allegation reportedly dating back 20 years or more.

Fr. Doolan, 50, had been parochial vicar at St. Christine's Church in Marshfield since 1996.

Fr. William Walsh, former chaplain at the then Quincy Hospital, had been interim pastor at St. Joseph's until Fr. Doolan's appointment.

Fr. Doolan was ordained in 1980 and has served at churches in Jamaica Plain and Charlestown. He was also chaplain at Matignon High School in Cambridge.

He grew up in Roslindale and is a graduate of Don Bosco Technical High School.

April 5 At Wollaston School Coughlin To Host Tax Relief Workshop For Senior Citizens

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin will host a Property Tax Bill Relief Workshop For Senior Citizen Homeowners and Renters Friday, April 5 at 3 p.m. at the Wollaston School Auditorium, 305 Beale St.

City of Quincy assessors and Council on Aging Director Thomas Clasy will be present to explain the various exemptions, abatements, and deferrals as well as the "Circuit Breaker Law," which was passed by the Legislature and is factored into income tax filing to help both owners and renters.

KEVIN COUGHLIN

At the most recent City Council meeting of March 18, Coughlin brought an initiative before the council which will increase the value of senior tax exemptions as well as increase the ability of seniors to qualify for these exemptions.

He also brought a motion before the council to have a televised version of the tax workshop to be presented by Quincy Access Cable for those unable to attend other workshops.

Coughlin urged residents interested in learning more about what is presently available for tax relief to attend the April 5 workshop or watch the televised version scheduled for the City Council meeting of Monday, April 1.

Fore River Bridge Lighting Being Re-Wired

Work on a $30,000 to $40,000 project to rewire lighting fixtures on the Fore River Bridge began Monday, reports Massachusetts Highway Department Spokesman Doug Cope.

Contractor for the job is RMH of Walpole and work is expected to be completed within a week.

Visibility on the bridge during evening hours had become a concern recently and was discussed at Monday night's meeting of the Public Works Committee by Council President Daniel Raymond.

The Quincy Legislative Delegation announces that the city of Quincy has received a $16,583 grant to promote recycling.

The city will receive $12,426 for consumer education mailers; $2,449.69 for set-out containers; $1,245 for a universal waste shed; $480 for a transfer station sign; and $82 for junk mail kits.

"The city of Quincy is one of 194 Massachusetts municipalities and regional groups awarded $1.47 million in grants to promote waste reduction and recycling in the fourth round of state recycling grants to be awarded this fiscal year," said state Rep. Ronald Mariano.

"By reducing waste and reclaiming raw materials, we are keeping our environment clean," added state Sen.

Michael Morrissey. "That is why it is so important that we continue investing in municipal and regional waste reduction and recycling programs."

"Ten communities are receiving grants to implement chemical management programs within their schools," said state Rep. Bruce Ayers. Other grants include awards of equipment including curbside set-out containers, home compost bins, used motor oil storage tanks, and pre-fabricated sheds for the collection and storage of used paint products, spent fluorescent lamps, old thermometers, and other mercury-containing wastes.

Most of these awards have been financed through the Clean Environment Fund (CEF), which consists of unclaimed bottle and can deposits.

Said state Rep. Stephen Tobin: "DEP grants to cities, towns, and regional entities — totaling more than $29 million over the last 12 years — build the state's recycling infrastructure, make it more cost-effective for communities to recycle, and reduce the fiscal, environmental, and health impacts of waste management upon cities and towns."

TOM KOCH (second from left) is presented a plaque by the Norfolk County Financial Advisory Board for his 10 years as Quincy's representative on the board. With him are Ron Donovan, administrative assistant to Mayor William Phelan, who will succeed him on the board, County Commissioner John Gillis and Register of Deeds Paul Harold.

Tom Koch Recognized For 10-Year Service On County Advisory Board

The Norfolk County Financial Advisory Board recently recognized Tom Koch for his 10 years of service on the board.

Koch, who is executive director of the Quincy Parks-Forestry-Cemetery Departments, has been Quincy's representative on the board since 1991.

At his last meeting earlier this month, Koch was presented with a plaque recognizing his commitment to Norfolk County as a member of the board that oversees county financial expenditures.

Koch plans to run for Norfolk County treasurer, a post incumbent Tim Cahill is leaving as a candidate for state treasurer.

Koch will be succeeded on the board by Ron Donovan, administrative assistant to Mayor William Phelan.

"I am proud to have served with such a distinguished group of professionals from throughout the county," Koch said. "I would like to thank my colleagues on the board, the County Commissioners and all the county employees who helped make my service such an enjoyable and successful experience."

His responsibility as a member of the board included the approval of the county budget and the oversight of county department finances and spending.

"I would like to thank Tom for 10 years of service to the board," said Norfolk County Commissioner John Gillis. "He brought an experienced background in municipal government and finances to the board and he served the people of Norfolk County well. He'll be missed."

The Norfolk County Financial Advisory Board works with the three elected Norfolk County Commissioners and the Norfolk County Coordinator to ensure that county services are being provided and that the finances of the county are properly administered. Norfolk County is one of a few counties in the Commonwealth that has remained financially solvent.

"I appreciated the opportunity to serve the people of Norfolk County," Koch said. "It was a great experience and it taught me a great deal about county government and finances. I hope to put that education to good use in future endeavors."

Charles Ross Elected President Of MIANE

Charles "Charlie" Ross, USN (Ret.), was recently elected president of the Military Intelligence Association of New England (MIANE) at its annual meeting held at Finian's in Dedham.

Ross, formerly of South Boston and now residing in Milton with his wife Kathleen (Calaway) Ross, once served as Writer for Admiral Hyman G. Rickover during Bethlehem Steel Quincy's building of the world's first nuclear frigate, the USS Bainbridge.

A former member of US Navy Intelligence, Ross served many years at the National Security Agency (NSA) at Fort Meade, MD, and is a member of both the Navy Intelligence Professionals and the National Counterintelligence Corps Association.

Ross saw extensive service with the Navy aboard the USS Newport News and overseas duty with Headquarters, U.S.A.F.E., in Germany.

Ross replaces Jack Deady of Bedford, NH, as president of MIANE.

Isadore Zack of Quincy serves as secretary of MIANE.

How Common, Causes, Treatment And What Are The Options When Considering Surgery Abdominal And Groin Hernias

By TIMOTHY BABINEAU, MD
Chief of Surgery
Quincy Medical Center

- How common are hernias?
- What causes a hernia and how do I know if I have one?
- How should a hernia be treated and how do I know if I need surgery?
- What are my options when considering surgery?

Dr. TIMOTHY BABINEAU
How common are hernias?

According to the National Center for Health Statistics, approximately five million Americans have hernias. The repair of hernias is one of the most common surgical procedures in the United States, with almost 700,000 procedures annually.

Hernias are common in children but can occur at any time during adult life. Hernias are more prevalent in men than in women.

What causes a hernia and how do I know if I have one?

Hernias are typically identified by a bulge in the skin of the abdominal wall. A hernia develops when intra-abdominal tissue or intestines slip through a weakness or tear in the abdominal wall, creating a bulge. The majority of hernias occur in the groin, around the navel, or through an old surgical scar. However, a hernia can occur anywhere along the abdominal wall.

A hernia may cause pain or discomfort when lifting heavy objects, exercising, coughing, or straining during a bowel movement. Sometimes, an individual with a hernia experiences no pain.

How should a hernia be treated and how do I know if I need surgery?

An untreated hernia will not repair itself and typically will worsen over time. While wearing a binder or a "truss" may alleviate symptoms temporarily, the hernia itself will remain untreated. Surgery is the only way to permanently repair a hernia.

Although hernia repairs are done primarily for relief of pain symptoms, even painless hernias, if left untreated, can lead to more serious complications. These include "strangulation" of the intra-abdominal organs, especially the small intestine. Also, an untreated hernia tends to enlarge over time which may make eventual repair more difficult.

What are my options when considering surgery?

The most common surgical option for hernia repair involves removing the swollen hernia sac and repairing the defect by securing a piece of synthetic mesh over the defect. This procedure can be done under either traditional general anesthesia (inducing sleep) or local anesthesia (awake, but mildly sedated). Either way, the surgery takes approximately 30 minutes and is performed as a day-surgery procedure. Most patients can return to normal activities within five to seven days.

(If you have questions about hernias, consult your primary care physician or make an appointment to be evaluated for a hernia by contacting Timothy J. Babineau, MD, chief of surgery at Quincy Medical Center and a nationally recognized expert in hernia surgery at (617) 328-4030.)

Blood Drive Friday At Quincy Medical Center Appeal For First-Time Donors

Quincy Medical Center will host the American Red Cross Blood Drive tomorrow (Friday) from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the hospital, 114 Whitwell St., Quincy.

"First-time donors are urgently needed to replace donors who have moved away or become ineligible to donate," said Cathy Pray, senior director of donor services New England Region. "Only five out of every 100 hundred people give blood, and the number of new donors decreased dramatically last year."

The best way to give blood for the first time is to come with a friend who is experienced in the donation process. New donors usually find the procedure easy and painless and most will come back regularly to donate.

"The biggest obstacle seems to be overcoming that initial fear," Pray said. "That's why we're counting on our regular donors to help by bringing a friend to this blood drawing."

Potential donors must be at least 17 years of age, in good health and weigh over 110 pounds. In most cases, donors may give if they are on medication, but they should know the names of these medications.

For more information call the American Red Cross at 1-800-448-3543.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

WORD OF MOUTH

Oral cancer is the sixth most common form of cancer. Because it is often detected late, only about half the 30,000 Americans diagnosed each year survive more than five years after diagnosis. With early detection, the percentage increases to about an 80% survival rate after five years. With this in mind, patients should seek prompt attention for any persistent sore or lesion in the mouth that does not heal within a few days. Other warning signs include color changes (such as the development of red and/or white spots); mouth or lip tenderness or numbness; the appearance of a tough or crusty spot in the mouth; a small eroded area; or difficulty chewing, speaking, swallowing, or moving the jaw or tongue.

April is "Cancer Control Month." This column has been brought to you as a public service for better dental health.

We wish to serve you in the most caring, conscientious way possible. You can expect us to be straight-forward, kind, compassionate, and gentle. Our staff is committed to providing you and your loved ones with excellent dentistry. We are very proud of the quality of dentistry we provide and of the true value of dental care that we can give to our community. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. We are located at 44 Greenleaf Street. For further information, or to schedule an appointment, please call 617-479-6220. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. Oral cancer occurs twice as often in men as women, and has typically been seen in adults over the age of 45.

Aug. 16-23, 2003 At Adams Field

Quincy To Host Babe Ruth World Series

By CHRIS POISSON

Coming soon to a baseball field near you: The 14-Year-Old Babe Ruth World Series.

At a banquet last Friday night at the Marriott — with over 100 people in attendance, including Mayor William Phelan — Quincy Youth Baseball organizers inked a contract with officials from the national Babe Ruth League Inc. to host the World Series in August 2003.

"It was just an outstanding night," said Dick Lombardi, president of Quincy Babe Ruth. "I would like to thank everyone that has helped us. From the reaction we got over the weekend, I think the World Series is going to be bigger than expected. It's great for the kids. It's great for the city. And that's a great combination."

The World Series will be played Aug. 16-23, 2003 at Adams Field and will feature 10 teams, including the Quincy 14-year-old club as the host team.

"The reason why we really started going after this is so the kids will get a chance to play in a World Series," Lombardi said. "Even the kids that aren't on the team will get to experience it. Everyone will be a part of it."

"It's an absolute fabulous situation for the young players in the city," said Peter Williams, vice president of Quincy Babe Ruth. "We're excited and privileged to do it."

The winner of the Eastern

Massachusetts State Tournament will also receive an automatic berth and they will be joined by the winners of the eight Babe Ruth regions across the country.

Also, there is the chance the 10-team field will expand to 12, with the possible additions being the western champions and an international team. "It looks pretty good right now," Lombardi said.

Lombardi and Williams first entertained the thought of a Quincy World Series three to four years ago. And last summer everything started to come together.

The two experienced the World Series atmosphere when they attended the 50th World Series for 15 year olds in Hamilton Township, N.J. "We saw first hand what it was like," Lombardi said.

And after Quincy hosted a smooth-running New England Regional tournament last August, "That's when we knew this was really going to work," Lombardi said.

Williams believes the national Babe Ruth Inc. officials selected Quincy because of the city's success in hosting tournaments in the past.

"We've been fairly successful hosting regionals and state tournaments for the past five years, plus we have the facility at Adams Field," he said.

Lombardi added that Quincy has more to offer than other cities or towns.

"Our feeling is that we have more to offer," he said. "We're a historic city. We're seven to eight miles from Boston. You can drive in, take the 'T' or the boat. We're about a half-hour to 45 minutes from Plymouth.

"There's opportunity for the people to see the history of the area and we felt that was an incredible enticement. The center of attention is going to be about baseball, but we also have so much more to offer."

Also a part of the event is the host family program — a trademark of Babe Ruth tournaments. Between 70-80 Quincy families are needed to host two to three players from the visiting teams, and more families will be needed if the field expands to 12.

At the Regionals last year, the host program was a tremendous success as Quincy families housed 90 visiting players for the six-day event. "We did it last year at the Regionals and everyone had a great time," Lombardi said.

Although the week-long tourney is centered around the kids and baseball, the city will benefit greatly as host of the World Series. "I think it's going to make a big difference in the city — tourism alone," Williams said.

Babe Ruth officials expect over 5,000 people to visit the City of Presidents during the tournament and city officials expect the World Series to generate over $1 million in revenue.

Adams Field will receive a make-over, with renovations being made to the fences along the sidelines and the press box among other things.

Players will be accepted from ages 3 to 7. Games will be played Saturdays at 9 a.m. at Labrecque Field on Sea Street.

Boating Safety Course Starts April 13

The Quincy Police Marine Unit and the Massachusetts Environmental Police will co-sponsor a boating safety course at Houghs Neck Maritime Center, 138 Bayview Ave., next to the Quincy Yacht Club.

Two classes will be offered. Each class runs for three Saturdays and will be held from 9 a.m. to noon. The first class runs April 13, 20 and 27 and the second class runs May 11, 18 and 25.

The program is designed to foster safe boat operation through increased awareness of required safety equipment, safe boating practices and legal responsibilities.

Youth, ages 12 through 15, who successfully complete the course, will be issued a Safety Certificate allowing them to operate a motorboat without adult supervision, as required by state law.

All graduates will be issued a course completion diploma.

AT THE END OF YOUR LEASE

At the end of your vehicle's lease period, you can either walk away or purchase the vehicle by agreeing to pay off the previously agreed upon "residual value" amount (the unexpected market value). Most leases today are "closed end," meaning the residual value is not subject to change once agreed upon. The decision to purchase a vehicle at the end of a lease is largely dependent upon how much (or little) its actual market value has depreciated. While a vehicle that has depreciated more than the expected residual value is not a bargain, one that has held its value well is a good deal. In effect, you are paying under the prevailing market rate for a vehicle of that type.

Even if your car is leased it still requires routine maintenance to keep it running properly. Our customers continue to tell us they find our ASE Certified professional service staff to be superior. LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO is proud of that, and we want you to know we will continue to work toward improving our record. We are located at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Sunoco and most major credit cards honored. We are your local source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles.

HINT: Before agreeing to lease a vehicle that you may wish to purchase at the end of the contract, determine how well it holds its value.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Put your restlessness to good use by indulging the Arian love of exploring new places and seeking new challenges. There also could be a new romance waiting to be "discovered."

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A surprise message from someone in your past could lead to a long-awaited reunion with a once-close friend. Also, look for a workplace problem to be resolved in your favor.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your self-confidence is rising, and that should be a significant factor in helping you adjust to a new social situation, as well as adjusting to a series of changes in the workplace.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Turnabout could be lots of fun when someone who previously accepted your tender, loving care without question now suggests that he or she wants to start taking care of you.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Put the lessons you learned from past disappointments to work in planning your future. The way ahead opens to opportunities "purrrfectly" suited to the adventurous Lion.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) This is a good time to renew contacts with family members and/or old friends who somehow slipped off your personal viewing screen in recent years. Travel is also favored. LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Most problems surrounding that recent personal situation have been resolved, and that means you should move on to other things that are important to you.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Spend this weekend recharging your physical and spiritual energies. When you return to your workday world, you'll be ready to take on that new project.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Be careful how you advise a troubled friend. Even your wise counsel could be misunderstood. Better to suggest that he or she seek professional help.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Family problems once again dominate and, once again, everyone seeks your guidance in these matters. Later, you can indulge in some much-needed relaxation.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Some mixed signals create confusion in the workplace. Best advice: Ask for explanations before you attempt to deal with any of these matters on your own.

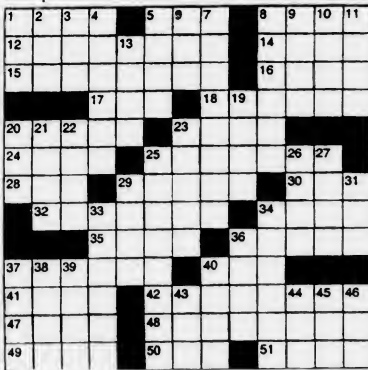

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A patch of roiling water in the workplace could be threatening, but stay the course and you'll soon be clear of it. Then go out and have a great time with loved ones.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your extraordinary leadership qualities mark you as someone people can turn to for guidance in difficult situations.

St. Joseph's Church

St. Joseph's Catholic Church, 550 Washington St., Quincy Point, announces its schedule of events in observing the Sacred Triduum of Holy Week.

On Holy Thursday (today) at 7:30 p.m., the solemn concelebrated Mass of the Lord's Supper will be held in the church. The ordained priest will perform the customary mandatum ritual when the feet of 12 parishioners will be washed in imitation of the command of Jesus to serve the people entrusted to our care.

At the conclusion of this liturgy is the beautiful procession around church with the Blessed Sacrament. The church will remain open for personal visitation and prayer until 11 p.m.

Fr. Vincent Doolan, pastor of St. Joseph's, will be the principal celebrant and homilist.

On Good Friday at 12:10 p.m. the church will conduct the solemn Stations of the Cross. Deacon John Jennette will be the celebrant.

During the hours of noon to 3 p.m. a harpist will provide music for meditation and reflection.

The solemn service of Good Friday will begin at 3 p.m. during which the passion will be chanted and the Veneration of the Cross will be observed. Fr. Doolan will be the celebrant.

On Holy Saturday, there are no services during the day until after sunset. The solemn Easter Vigil begins at 7:30 p.m.

This is the most important liturgy of the entire church year. The ritual has four sections: The service of Light; the readings from scripture concerning salvation history; the Easter alleluia; and the service of welcoming new members into the church and renewing our baptismal promises.

Fr. Doolan will be the presider and homilist. Music will be provided by the Parish Adult Choir under the direction of Don Reade and accompanied by a four-piece brass ensemble.

On Easter Sunday, Masses will be celebrated at 8:30 a.m. and 10 a.m. in the Parish Hall for children and their families. Fr. Doolan will be the presider at 8:30 a.m. and Fr. Ernie Sullivan at 10 a.m.

After these Masses, children will be able to visit live Easter animals and join in an Easter celebration. Masses in the church:

- 8:30 a.m., congregational singing, Fr. Tony Laurano, presider.
- 10 a.m., Choir Mass, Fr. Laurano, presider.
- 11:30 a.m., congregational singing, Fr. Jack Roche, presider.
- 5 p.m., Fr. Joe Downey, presider.

The collection taken up at the Easter Vigil and at the Easter Masses will be in support of sick, disabled and retired persons.

Evangelical Church

Evangelical Church of Atlantic, 65 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, will take part in an Easter Sunrise Service Sunday at 6:30 a.m. at Caddy Park on Quincy Shore Drive, Wollaston.

Easter breakfast will follow at 8 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall at the church. There will be only one service at 10:30 a.m. The youth will do a special Easter presentation.

Child care is available during service times. The church is handicap accessible.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

From mountain tops, hills and valleys, cities and villages all over the world, throngs of people celebrate Easter as a joyful day. They profess belief in life after death.

The meaning of Easter may well be summed up in the one word -- LIFE. On Easter we echo the psalmist joyful cry: "I shall not die but live!" We shall not die but live, because we have a living God, who is a God "Not of the dead but of the living." We shall not die but live, because we have a living Savior, who has assured us, "Because I live, ye shall live also."

Easter means, therefore, that the promise of life brings hope; hope in the glad reunion with our loved ones on the resurrection morn; hope in the eternal vision of our risen Lord.

But Easter is more than hope. Easter also means witness. We who have beheld the glory of our Lord's resurrection and felt the surge of life within us must also -- as the psalmist bids us -- "declare the works of the Lord."

In Easter we have the promise of life. In Easter we have an immortal hope...

MBA Seminar To Examine Appearances Before Boards

The Massachusetts Bar Association will hold a seminar on "Effective Representation Before Zoning and Planning Boards" Thursday, May 2, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Quincy Marriott.

Panel members include Atty. Frank A. Marinelli of

of the Sudbury Planning Board, and Lou Mercuri, the principal planner of Newton.

The seminar will provide a practical overview of the permitting process from filing specific petitions (including special permits, variances, site plans and subdivision plans) to preparing an appeal.

Specific topics will include an overview of the State Zoning Act, an update on recent developments in case law, the mechanics of filing petitions, the proper boards to appear before and time-sensitive deadlines to preserve the client's rights.

The cost is $80 and $115 for MBA members, $115 for members of the Massachusetts Conveyance Association, American Planning Association and Solicitors and Town Counsel Association and $160 for non-members.

New DPW Commissioner Moving Toward Rating System For Road Repair

By CRAIG SALTERS

In the short term, newly appointed DPW Commissioner Jay Fink and his staff are working to create a street resurfacing "hit list" by mid-May so that the city can take full advantage of the coming construction season.

In the long term, Fink said, the DPW will put a Pavement Management Program in place where all of the city's roads will be assigned a numeric value based on urgency of repair and placed onto a computer database for all city officials -- including city councillors fielding constant calls on the issue -- to use.

The Pavement Management Program, Fink said, would "put everyone on a level playing field" and maximize scarce road repair funds which he warned are becoming more scarce almost daily.

Fink's proposed weighted value system for road repair, which he said could be sketched out in about six to eight months, was just one idea put forth at a meeting of the Public Works Committee held Monday night at 55 Sea St.

in which councillors and city officials made a preliminary attempt to hammer out a policy on street and sidewalk repair.

"This is a very positive start and I'm really impressed with Commissioner Fink's commitment to planning and his understanding of it," said Councillor Joseph Finn, chairman of the Public Works Committee, who emphasized that street and sidewalk repair was the number one resident concern during the recent campaign.

Another idea put forth at the meeting, a two-hour plus session praised by many councillors for its efficiency and productivity, was that a city crew be assigned to target a certain area of roads at certain times, a plan similar to the city's existing system for street sweeping.

That proposal was made by Council President Daniel Raymond who is not in attendance at Monday night's meeting.

"Even in difficult times, people need services," said Raymond, who urged the establishment of a policy on street and sidewalk repair with clear priorities so that councillors could give constituents better answers on the matter.

Fink told councillors that, although a definitive system could not be put in place for the coming construction season, a prioritized "hit list" could be developed by mid-May with public safety as the number one criterion. Fink also told councillors that it was "reasonable" to expect top priority streets from that list to be addressed in either the coming or the following construction season.

Fink's comments were welcomed by committee members who said the backlog of unrepaired roads in the city was creating a crisis of confidence among city residents.

"The calls come rifling in every spring and they don't stop," said Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton, who was joined by Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin and Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro. Ward 4 Councillor Bryan Connolly, also a committee member, was absent.

The proposed "hit list" of streets targeted for repair will be created from an existing list of roads already being considered for resurfacing this construction season.

That list, in no order of priority, includes the following streets: Albattross Rd., Sea St., Belmont St., Beach St., Elm Ave., Willow St., East Squantum St., Atlantic St., Ruggles St., Governors Rd., Lorton St., Palmer St., Forest Ave., Bellevue Rd., Dorchester St., Shoreham St., Standish St., Monmouth St., Border St., Bayside Rd., Bayberry St., Wedgewood St., Middlesex St., Gladstone St.,

Sycamore St., Sumac St., Harborview St., Bay St., Brunswick St., Orchard St., Hucksins Ave., Seal Rock Lane, Vassall St., Hancock St.

Photos Snapped With Easter Bunny March 30

Students from the Snug Harbor and Merrymount Elementary Schools have been invited to have their pictures taken with the Easter Bunny Saturday, March 30, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Super Stop & Shop on Southern Artery.

In return, the students and their families are asked to donate one canned good or $1 in cash to the Jimmy Fund.

In addition those attending the event can view some spring art work created by students from the Snug Harbor School.

TONY SICILIANO, former deputy director of Quincy Emergency Management who was relieved of his volunteer duties last week, addresses the City Council's Public Safety Committee Monday night. Siciliano defended his more than three decades of experience as a volunteer in the city and called the manner in which he was let go "most humiliating."

ACTING POLICE CHIEF William Falco praised Tony Siciliano's longtime volunteerism efforts but said Siciliano did not possess the necessary administration skills required for the position. Falco also stressed that the police chief serves as the city's director of Emergency Management and that Siciliano's removal was on the recommendation of department heads charged with the task of public safety for the city.

RONALD DONOVAN, administrative assistant to Mayor William Phelan, defended Phelan's decision to relieve Siciliano of his volunteer position and discontinue the city's affiliation with the Quincy Underwater Recovery Dive Team. "Emergency Management isn't going away," emphasized Donovan, who explained that the city was in the process of reorganizing its structure and updating the city's emergency plans. Donovan further added that liability was indeed a factor in the decision not to use a volunteer dive team.

JOHN BLACKADAR, head of the all-volunteer Quincy Underwater Recovery Dive Team, disputed the city's claim that using his volunteer team instead of state police divers was a legal liability for the city. "If we're willing to sign anything you write, where is the liability for the city?" Blackadar asked members of the Public Safety Committee.

After Siciliano Firing Council: What Do We Do In An Emergency?

By CRAIG SALTERS

In the wake of the recent dismissal of Anthony Siciliano from his volunteer position as deputy director of Quincy Emergency Management, several city councillors at Monday night's meeting of the Public Safety Committee wanted to know who would handle some of the tasks traditionally performed by Siciliano and the volunteers he supervised on a daily basis.

More importantly, some councillors asked what interim steps had been taken to ensure immediate public safety needs while the city reorganizes its plan for emergency management.

"Tony's out. Who's in?" Councillor Frank McCauley asked Ronald Donovan, administrative assistant to Mayor William Phelan, at Monday night's meeting of the Public Safety Committee, a meeting scheduled weeks ago to address the city's emergency preparedness but which became, despite the best efforts of Chairman Gregory Hanley, a meeting on the dismissal of Siciliano and the city's decision not to affiliate with the all-volunteer Quincy Underwater Recovery Unit.

Donovan's response that

the city still had four or five other deputy directors serving under Emergency Management Director and Acting Police Chief William Falco, none of whom he could name, elicited McCauley's comment: "You don't know them and neither do I."

McCauley explained further that he understood Phelan's right to reorganize as he saw fit. However, McCauley wanted to know who would handle the mundane but necessary tasks that Siciliano and other volunteers traditionally did, such as water stations and traffic coordination at various city road races and charity walks.

In response, Falco said

Councillors To Host Tax Exemption Workshops For Seniors

City councillors will host a series of workshops across the city to provide information and assistance to senior citizens in filing for exemptions to this year's tax bills.

The first will be tomorrow (Friday) at 3 p.m., hosted by Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin at the Wollaston School.

The workshops, which were proposed by Ward 4 Councillor Bryan Connolly in February, are being held by the council in conjunction with the mayor's office, the Board of Assessors and the Council on Aging.

Connolly said the council recognizes that many senior citizens with fixed incomes or low incomes may face hardship in meeting their property tax bills, and have taken the proactive step to help provide relief for those seniors facing the greatest burdens in meeting these tax obligations.

"Through these workshops, the City Council is trying to go the extra mile to help so many Quincy seniors who are becoming 'house-rich-but-cash-poor,'" Connolly said. "Fortunately, the city and the state have devised a number of programs to assist senior citizens who struggle to meet the property tax bills.

"Our goal is to ensure that every senior citizen living in each of our wards, who is eligible and in need of these exemptions, will be informed that they exist and be assisted through the process filing."

Connolly pointed out that separate workshops are being planned in every ward, in addition to a special workshop that will be held at the

Councillors To Host Tax Exemption Workshops For Senior Citizens

April 16 City Council meeting.

"The city councillors all wanted to take this show on the road to make it as convenient and accessible as possible for our constituents," Connolly said.

The City Council will host a workshop during its regular meeting Tuesday, April 16, at 7:30 p.m. This workshop will be broadcast live from the City Council Chambers by Quincy Access Television Channel 8.

Connolly will host a workshop at the Ward 4 Community Center Wednesday, April 24, at 6:30 p.m.

City Council President and Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond will host a tax exemption workshop at the Fore River Clubhouse Thursday, April 25, at 7 p.m.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro will host a workshop at the Sawyer Center at the Beechwood Knoll School Tuesday, April 30, at 7 p.m.

Ward 1 Councillor Greg Hanley and Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton have scheduled workshops in their wards to take place in the month of May.

Residents from all wards are welcome to attend any of the planned workshops, Connolly said.

Quincy Access Television Channel 8 will be broadcasting a special program providing an overview of the exemptions that exist and the process for filing. The program will air Wednesday, April 17, at 8 p.m. and Saturday, April 20, at noon and 7 p.m.

Senior citizens have until July 6 to file for property tax exemptions. Those unable to attend or view a workshop may also acquire information and assistance by contacting the Quincy Board of Assessors or the Council on Aging.

The tax exemption workshops will identify many exemptions that currently exist under Chapter 59, Section 5 of the Massachusetts General Laws. These laws provide for partial reimbursement to the city from the state. Examples of the exemptions include:

- $500 exemption under Clause 41(d) to single homeowners over age 70 with an income less than $16,913 and assets (excluding the home) less than $29,372. This $500 exemption is also available to married couples over age 70 with income less than $20,649 and assets less than $31,470.

- $183 exemption under Clause 17 to homeowners over age 70 and to all surviving spouses who have assets (excluding the home) under $41,960.

- Tax deferrals to homeowners over 65 with income less than $40,000.

- Exemptions ranging from $250 to $950 for disabled veterans and their surviving spouses.

- $500 exemption to the legally blind, regardless of income.

- Total exemption to survive spouses or minor children of police officers and firefighters killed in the line of duty.

All income tax credit is also available to senior citizens through the Circuit Breaker law created by the State Legislature.

This law provides an income tax credit of $375 this year, and $750 next year, to homeowners 65 and over who have a combined tax bill and water and sewer bill that exceeds 10 percent of their total income. Renters over 65 may also avail themselves to this credit if their annual rent exceeds 25 percent of their income.

Condo Fire Claims Life Of Disabled Quincy Man

A four-alarm fire which struck the South Landing condominium complex at 15 Bower Rd. early Saturday morning claimed the life of Robert Doherty, a 38-year old condominium resident who was disabled and confined to a wheelchair.

The fire appears to have been started accidentally as a result of Doherty smoking in bed, said Quincy Fire Chief Thomas Gorman.

Quincy Fire Fighter Mark Paolucci sustained injuries to his wrist while battling the blaze; he was treated at Quincy Medical Center and released.

Also treated and released at Quincy Medical Center was Massachusetts State Trooper David Domingos, a fire investigator who was injured after a part of a ceiling collapsed in the morning hours following the fire.

Three condo units were destroyed and several others received smoke damage, said Gorman, who estimated damage at between $300,000 to $400,000.

Quincy Firefighters Shawn Darcy and Steven Sweet discovered Doherty on the floor of his condominium and retrieved him under heavy fire conditions, Gorman said. Doherty's burns were too severe, however, and he was pronounced dead at the scene.

Gorman praised Quincy fire firefighters for what he called "an outstanding job" containing the blaze at the densely concentrated condominium complex located in Quincy Point just off Quincy Ave.

Red Cross Spokeswoman Mary Thang said five families received temporary housing as well as food and clothing assistance. Seven other families, Thang said, were able to meet their needs through other avenues and declined immediate Red Cross assistance.

Red Cross volunteers also put up informational posters at the condo units in case residents returned to their homes after the Easter weekend.

Residents displaced by the March 30 fire can call the Red Cross at 1-800-564-1234, ext. 252, to inquire about the various forms of assistance available.

Taxpayers' Group Urges Filing For Abatements

In the wake of the city's recent adoption of a classification percentage and property tax rates for Fiscal Year 2002, the Quincy Taxpayers Association (QTA) is urging property taxpayers to apply for abatements if they feel their assessments are incorrect.

"It took at least three months longer than it should have for the state to certify Quincy property assessments," said QTA President Alan Cousin. "When the assessments were certified, the state Department of Revenue made the city agree to correct flaws in its assessment process."

"So if you think your assessment is wrong -- it just might be. You shouldn't just accept it at face value."

Cousin noted that any property owner who feels his assessed valuation is wrong has a right to apply for an abatement. That right, he said, will be spelled out with the fourth quarter tax bills but property owners who want to apply for abatements should do so as soon as possible.

City financial figures were certified by the state March 26; the city adopted a 169 percent property tax classification for commercial property and subsequent property tax rates March 27.

Meeting On Speeding, Parking Issues At Presidents Hill

Ward 5 Councillor Douglas Gutro had scheduled a Neighborhood Meeting for Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the community room of the Thomas Crane Public Library to discuss speeding and parking issues on the southern end of Presidents

Hill. Gutro said several area residents had contacted him to express their concerns on those issues.

Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon and a representative from the Quincy Police Department have been invited to answer questions and address neighborhood concerns.

Citywide Parents To Meet

The Quincy Citywide Parents' Council will meet Monday, April 8 at 7:15 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Middle School, 50 Calvin Rd.

Speakers will be: Kathy Mitchell, department head of Library Media Services, and Richard O'Brien, director of IT and Media Services.

Meetings are open to the public.

Program Begins April 22 City To Cut Back On Yard Waste Pickup

City pick-up of grass clippings and other yardwaste will begin April 22 but is only scheduled to run for 10 weeks, DPW Commissioner Jay Fink told city councillors at their meeting Monday night.

News of the scaled-back yardwaste pick-up program startled some councillors, including Council President Daniel Raymond and Councilor-at-Large Timothy Cahill, who told the newly appointed Fink that residents were expecting yardwaste pick-up to continue until the fall months.

"This is a different policy," said Raymond, who joined other councillors in emphasizing how much a concern yardwaste pick-up had become to residents ever since BFI, citing state laws, refused to haul the material.

Cahill urged Fink to communicate with residents "that this service is not in effect."

"This is a big issue," noted Ward 5 Councilor Douglas Gutro, who said he had received calls on the matter from residents. Gutro urged the city to maintain funds in the DPW's advertising budget for public education on just such issues.

Fink told councillors that pick-up of yardwaste would begin April 22 and would take place on the same day as residents' normal trash pick-up.

Following the 10-week program, Fink said, residents could drop off yardwaste at the DPW headquarters at 55 Sea St. during regular hours of operation.

In addition, Fink said, special weekend times would be made in the fall especially for pick-up of yardwaste.

May 14 Full Day For High School Students

The Quincy School Committee has declared Tuesday, May 14, to be a full day of classes for all high school students in Grades 9-12 in the Quincy Public Schools.

Originally, this was scheduled to be a day of early release. The change is being made to allow all Grade 10 students to take Parts one and Two of the English/Language Arts portion of the Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment System (MCAS).

A school lunch will be served and regular MBTA bus schedules will be in place for both high schools.

All elementary and middle schools will proceed with early release schedules as planned.

Thanking Their Heroes

STERLING MIDDLE SCHOOL: Student Council Representatives Sarah Sullivan and Kevin MacKenzie present student thank-you letters to Quincy Police Officer Tim Sorgi, who accepted them on behalf of the department. Roughly 75 Sterling students wrote letters of thanks to Quincy firefighters and police officers in appreciation of their public safety efforts.

Fourth Quarter Tax Bills Due May 6

The city's fourth quarter property tax bills for Fiscal Year 2002 will be dated April 6 and will be mailed this week. Martin Farnacchini, chairman of the Board of Assessors, told city councillors at their Monday night meeting.

Those bills will be due May 6, she added.

On March 27, the City Council voted to adopt Mayor William Pheasant's recommended 169 percent tax classification percentage for commercial property and, subsequently, set a residential tax rate of $13.15 per $1,000 of assessed value and a commercial tax rate of $26.91 per $1,000 of assessed value.

The $13.15 residential rate is actually a decrease from the FY 2001 rate of $15.94. Likewise, the $26.91 commercial rate is a decrease from the FY 2001 rate of $33.56. However, skyrocketing property re-valuations mandated by the state will increase property tax bills for most taxpayers.

As an example, in FY 2001 the average single-family home in Quincy was valued at $154,100 and that homeowner paid $2,456 in property taxes. That same home in FY 2002 is valued at $226,500 and that same homeowner will pay $2,978 in property taxes.

The council approved the 169 percent tax shift March 27 by a 5-4 vote. Voting in favor were Councilors Frank McCauley, Timothy Cahill, Douglas Gutro, Joseph Newton, and Bryan Connolly.

Voting against — and in favor of a 175 percent tax classification — were Council President Daniel Raymond and Councilors Gregory Hanley, Kevin Coughlin, and Joseph Finn.

• On April 7, 1770, William Wordsworth, one of the founders of the Romantic school of poetry, is born. In 1843, he was named poet laureate of England, and he died in 1850, at the age of 81.

• On April 6, 1896, the Olympic Games, a long-lost tradition of ancient Greece, are reborn in Athens, 1,500 years after being banned by Roman Emperor Theodosius I.

• On April 1, 1918, the Royal Air Force is formed with the amalgamation of the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Naval Air Service. The RAF took its place beside the British navy and army as a separate military service with its own ministry.

• On April 4, 1968, just after 6 p.m. Martin Luther King Jr. is fatally shot while standing on the balcony outside his second-story room at the Motel Lorraine in Memphis, Tenn. On April 9, King was laid to rest in his hometown of Atlanta. Tens of thousands of people lined the streets to pay tribute to King's casket as it passed by in a wooden farm cart drawn by a single mule.

• On April 2, 1882, Argentina invades the Falkland Islands, a British colony since 1892. Under orders from their commanders, the Argentine troops inflicted no British casualties, despite suffering losses to their own units. Nevertheless, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher assembled a naval task force of 30 warships to retake the islands.

• On April 5, 1994, modern rock icon Kurt Cobain is dead. His body was discovered inside his home in Seattle three days later. Despite indications that Cobain killed himself, several circumstances questioned the circumstances of his death.

• On April 3, 1996, Theodore Kaczynski is arrested by FBI agents near Lincoln, Mont., and accused of being the Unabomber, the elusive terrorist blamed for 16 mail bombs that killed three people and injured 23 during an 18-year period.

The Creche Issue

Quincy's Nativity Scene has long been a Christmas season tradition many look forward to each year.

The fact that it has been displayed on public land down through the years didn't seem to bother people. No one really made a public issue over it.

Until now.

Last December's creche, a larger version of prior ones and displayed on a more prominent site -- McIntyre Mall in front of City Hall -- has now run into opposition.

The city's Human Rights Commission last week said it thinks the creche is inappropriate and could be insulting to non-Christians.

Commission Chairwoman Nancy McDonald indicates the commission has been virtually swamped with telephone calls from people saying they found it offensive.

The commission must have an easier-to-reach telephone number than ours, here at The Sun. In this community newspaper's 34-year history, we can't recall getting a telephone call or letter to the editor opposing a past creche.

And, so far, we haven't received one complaint regarding the new creche, which, according to the commission, is causing such a stir.

A creche down through the years traditionally has been displayed on the lawn of the Thomas Crane Public Library or at the city's Historic Hancock Cemetery next to old City Hall. No one called or wrote to complain about them.

The new creche was assembled through donations from present and past parishioners and friends of Sacred Heart parish in North Quincy as a memorial tribute to Fr. Cornelius Heery, beloved long-time pastor of the church who died in 1996.

There has been no indication that honoring the memory of a dedicated priest has anything to do with the opposition.

Nancy McDonald says the issue has to be addressed before this year's holiday season.

We wonder if one commissioner might find a little irony in addressing it.

Good friend David Ezickson who says he has long criticized having a religious display on public land, created the Holocaust Memorial across from Quincy District Court on city land at the edge of the Hancock Parking area. It is dear to his heart and he spends many hours there tenderly tending to it.

The Holocaust, one of the world's most inhumane crimes of all time, was also an historical event. Ezickson's memorial appropriately has as its theme, "Never Again." And may never be again for any people of any ethnic or religious background.

Please Note

The advertising in the Father Bill's Golden Jubilee supplement in this week's Quincy Sun was sold and placed by the Golden Jubilee Committee.

The proceeds do not go to the Sun.

IS THIS OFFENSIVE? This new creche displayed on McIntyre Mall last Christmas season has resulted in many complaints according to the city's Human Rights Commission that it is offensive and inappropriate. What do you think?

The Nativity Scene depicts the birth of Jesus Christ, a religious event that was also an historical one. Can anyone take offense in its message: "Peace on Earth?"

If the creche were to be banned, could someone make an issue of the Holocaust Memorial because that, too, is on public land?

It would seem, however, that both have legal protection.

The U.S. Supreme Court on a 5-4 decision in 1984 ruled that communities could have Nativity public Christmas displays without violating separation of church and state as called for under the First Amendment.

Well, maybe a little compromising might help resolve the present issue and keep it from snowballing in controversy.

Because the new creche is larger, perhaps, it could be moved to a further point on McIntyre Mall. Or back to the Hancock Cemetery or to the Crane Library lawn.

Christmas and Chanukah often are celebrated close to one another.

"I would be happy to display a Menorah or replica of one and other Jewish symbols," says Tom Koch, executive director of the Park, Cemetery and Forestry Departments. "And add other displays."

He notes that the creche is not the only Christmas season display in the McIntyre Mall area. There are also a non-religious Santa Claus, a snowman and a toy soldier.

Quincy has had a long strong belief in religious freedom. And long practiced that belief.

The city has been a melting pot of nationalities and quite unique when it comes to religion.

In Quincy Point, for example, there are within a half-mile radius a Congregational church, a Roman Catholic church, a Jewish Synagogue, a Moslem mosque and a Buddhist temple. Their members respect one another's beliefs and get along quite well as neighbors.

But opposition is an individual's right. Sad to most of us when it is something like prayers in the classrooms or at graduation ceremonies.

And sad to most of us when people can desecrate the American flag when so many have given their lives for it. But, that too, is a right.

Opposition to a creche is also a right.

But somehow it seems to be a little out of step considering the creche has been such a long-time tradition here in Quincy.

Hopefully the issue can be resolved in a thoughtful manner and not allowed to mushroom into a community dividing controversy.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS POSTCARD dated 1937 is a view of the Hotel Taylor that was on Fensmere Street at the end of Houghs Neck. Thomas Taylor and then his widow, Jane, operated this hotel for almost 20 years until it closed in the late 1930s. It has 40 rooms all with outside windows. The Taylors also operated a pool room, bowling alley and a ballroom on their property. Built in 1900, the hotel was originally known as the Fensmere, then as The Crystal Lake Hotel, and before Taylor bought it, it was called the Pandora. The four-acre parcel was later used as the site of the Great Hill School. It is now open space and used as a public park.

Covenant Congregational Church Members Pleasantly Surprised

The members and friends of the Covenant Congregational Church, 315 Whitwell St., would like to tell you how much we appreciate your March 5 "Scenes From Yesterday" which depicted our former church building on Garfield St. It was a very pleasant surprise.

Over the years, our congregation has changed considerably. While our heritage is still important to us, our Swedishness has pretty much disappeared and we are now more of a multi-ethnic group, ministering to various segments of Quincy's diverse population from our current location on Whitwell St. Our mission has remained the same but our audience has changed.

Thanks again for including us in this way, and thanks also to Tom Galvin for picking us out of his vast Quincy collection.

FEMA Director Congratulates Quincy's Community Emergency Response Team Graduates

(The following letter was sent March 4 to then Acting Quincy Emergency Management Director Anthony Siciliano and was forwarded to The Quincy Sun for publication.)

Dear Acting Director Siciliano:

On behalf of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), I would like to extend congratulations

Coughlin To Hold Office Hours, Community Meeting

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin announces he will hold office hours tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at WORK, Inc., 3 Arlington St., North Quincy, prior to the regularly scheduled monthly meeting of the Montclair Wollaston Neighborhood Association.

Coughlin will also host, with church leaders, a community meeting Thursday, April 11 at 7 p.m. at Wollaston Congregational Church, 48 Winthrop Ave.

The meeting will focus on the formation of a neighborhood association for residents of the Wollaston Hill neighborhood. All residents are invited to attend.

to the most recent graduates of Quincy's Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) Program. It was a personal pleasure to join you and them on Feb. 9, 2002 as they received recognition for their training accomplishments.

Over the years, the Quincy CERT Program has set high standards and proven its commitment to public service through community leadership, good citizenship, and delivery of public safety and emergency services to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

As you know President Bush has recently called for increased volunteerism across the nation in the wake of the events of Sept. 11, 2001. As part of the President's initiative, FEMA has been asked to coordinate the new Citizen Corps, and in addition FEMA has placed a renewed emphasis on the CERT Program.

I am pleased to know that your recent graduating class of CERT Train-the-Trainers will become an important component of Quincy's Public Safety Team and that they will extend the capabilities of emergency preparedness throughout the public and private sectors of your community.

Again, my congratulations and I look forward to working with you and the CERT team members in the future.

Board Supports Hi-Rise Development

By PAUL HAROLD

The Planning Board voted its approval for a new zoning category, Residence D, that would allow high rise construction in the city. Chairman Walter Schmitz sent the recommendation to the city council for its vote.

Among those speaking in favor of the new zoning were Councillor George McDonald, Carmine D'Olimpio, president of the Quincy Building Trades and former planning board member John Flavin.

Those speaking in opposition included Dorothy Kelly of Davis St., secretary of the Wollaston Park Association, and James Kelley of Vershire St.

MERCHANTS OPPOSE

REMOVAL OF PARKING METERS

The city council Public Works Committee held a public hearing to hear testimony on Councillor Carl Anderson's proposal to remove parking meters from downtown Quincy. Councillor George Burke was committee chairman.

City Auditor Alexander Smith had a prepared study from 1948 to present showing that the parking receipts just about covered the operations of the downtown parking, with $1.4 million in receipts and expenditures.

Representatives from the Quincy Chamber of Commerce spoke against removing meters while Everett Goodhue of Goodhue's Religious Store spoke in favor. He said parking tickets annoyed and embarrassed shoppers and were the main reason for the decline of Quincy Center business.

RECORD NUMBER APPLY FOR SUMMER WORK

City Personnel Director Kenneth Gardner reported a record number of 217 students applied for 30-day summer work jobs. One hundred and ninety-two boys and 25 girls applied on the first day applications were available. The usual number applying the first day was 25 to 30.

Gardner said the increased number reflected the number of parents out of work at the shipyard and the increase in salaries for laborers and nurses' aides which were at $69.90 and $59.01 a week.

April 12 Entry Deadline For Congressional Art Competition

Congressman William Delahunt reminds interested high school students that the deadline is fast approaching for submitting artwork in this year's Congressional art competition.

Artwork is due by April 12 at Delahunt's office in Quincy or Hyannis. The categories for entries include paintings, drawings, prints, mixed media, photographs, and computer graphics.

The winning entry will be shipped to Washington, DC, to be displayed for a full year in the US Capitol.

In addition, the student whose work is selected to represent southeastern Massachusetts will be offered a $12,000 scholarship from the Savannah College of Art and Design in Georgia.

Delahunt reiterated that the entire initiative is "less about competition than about nurturing the artistic potential of students throughout our region." In that spirit, he said, each entry will be displayed locally at a public exhibition this spring honoring all participants.

As the competition takes shape, Delahunt also named three South Shore and Cape & Islands residents to help review the expected dozens of entries. The judges are: Betsy Bennett, a Harwich artist and former instructor at the Cape Cod Art Association; Nancy Colella of Norwell, a painter and art coordinator of the James Library and Center for the Arts Gallery in Norwell; and Michael Sleeper, landscape and portrait photographer from Marshfield.

More information about the contest and contest guidelines are available from Delahunt's office, toll-free, at (800) 794-0911.

Painting Demonstration By Noted Artist April 27

The Quincy Art Association will hold a painting demonstration by nationally known artist Paul Leveille Saturday, April 27.

The event will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Community Room at the Thomas Crane Public Library on Washington Street.

Leveille is a graduate of the Vesner George School of Art. He is a member of many associations, including the Copy Society, the Academy of Art Association of Springfield, the Springfield Art League, the Rockport Art Association, the Pastel Society of America and the Portrait Society of America.

The event is free and the public is invited.

Registration April 8 For 'Mad Science' Workshop

Registration for "Mmmmm-Taste," a hands-on workshop for children ages 7 and older, will take place Monday, April 8 in the Children's Room of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The actual event, presented by Mad Science of Greater Boston, will take place Saturday, April 20 at 10:30 a.m. in the library.

The program promises a fun way for children to explore "the delicious biology" behind their taste buds.

Space is limited and registration is required. Registration is limited to Quincy residents.

The program is free but tickets will be issued to registrants to insure group size. Unclaimed tickets will be available for drop-ins on the day of the program.

Presidential Wit Performance At Historical Society

Actress Judy Bernstein will present "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the White House" Wednesday, April 10, at 2 p.m. at the Quincy Historical Society, Adams Academy, 8 Adams St.

The program, created by Bernstein, is a patriotic look at the wit, humor and wisdom of American presidents. The program also weaves in a number of anecdotes — some famous, some little known — from political history.

Bernstein has performed various programs on historical subjects frequently at the Quincy Historical Society, the Thomas Crane Public Library and Quincy's President's Day celebrations. She has recently performed at the White House Visitor Center and at the Harry Truman and the Herbert Hoover Presidential Libraries. This will be her first performance in Quincy of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the White House."

The public is invited. There is no charge for admission.

River Bank Cleanup Is Set For April 20

The watchdogs of Quincy's rivers and streams are seeking volunteers to conduct a cleanup day on the banks of the Neponset and Fore Rivers Saturday, April 20.

The volunteers will gather at 9 a.m. at Squantum Point Park and deploy to designated sites along the rivers to remove trash and other assorted debris.

The cleanup day is sponsored by the Friends of the Neponset Estuary, the Fore River Watershed Association and the Massachusetts Community Water Watch.

The project is also important in raising awareness of and appreciation for the Neponset and Fore River as important natural and recreational resources.

Dog Training Classes At South Quincy Social Club

A new session of dog training classes sponsored by the New England Humane Association begins Wednesday, April 24 at the South Quincy Social Club, 480 Quincy Ave.

"Good Manners for Beginners," a Level 1 Class, will begin at 6 p.m. "Obedience with Distractions," a Level 2 Class, will begin at 7 p.m.

Each training class is a five-week session and the cost for each training class is $90.

The goal of each training class is not only to help owners in making their dogs better trained but to provide an outlet for socialization for both owner and pet.

For more information or to register, call (617) 789-3647.

Commission On Disability To Meet April 8 At City Hall

The Quincy Commission on Disability will meet Monday, April 8 at 6:15 p.m. in the conference room of City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

The public is invited. For more information, contact Jonathan Yip at (617) 376-1515.

QHS Advisory Council Meeting

The Quincy High School Parent Advisory Council will meet Thursday, April 11, at 7:15 p.m. in the Pride Room at the school.

Replica Of Lumber Firm Available At Abigail's Crossing

'Here Comes Grossman' -- Again

"Here Comes Grossman" -- again.

The orange trucks of the Quincy-based lumber and building materials firm with that slogan on them, were for many years a familiar sight here and throughout New England.

Now, they are back. This time as replicas of the 1940s vintage trucks and available as a collectible item at Abigail's Crossing gift shop at Hancock and Temple Sts., Quincy Center.

The wood replicas were approximately 5 by 2 inches conceived by the shop's owner, Joanne Dondero as part of her "Nostalgia Series" Cat's Meow Village Collection.

Since opening the shop in 1993 across from United First Parish Church where Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their wives are entombed, she has commissioned many items from Cat's Meow, an Ohio-based firm that produces and licenses the pieces.

Replicas in the collection include the Presidents Adams birthplaces, old City Hall, the first Howard Johnson's, Quincy Hospital, the USS Salem and several local area high schools.

The Grossman lumber and buildings chain, sold in 1969, was founded by Louis Grossman who fled Russia in the 1890s and came to Quincy. He started with a pushcart going street to street.

The Grossman Companies, Inc., a Quincy-based commercial real estate firm which started in 1980, is headed by Morton S. Grossman as chairman and Louis J. Grossman, president. The latter is the fourth generation of his family to operate a business in Quincy and the great grandson and namesake of the lumber firm pioneer.

Morton Grossman photographed a number of the truck replicas at Abigail's Crossing and bought 25 of the replicas himself for holiday gifts.

"HERE COMES GROSSMAN" — Joanne Dondero, owner of Abigail's Crossing gift shop in Quincy Center, and Morton S. Grossman, chairman of the commercial real estate firm, The Grossman Companies, Inc., admire the new collectible Grossman truck reminiscent of the lumber and building materials chain founded by Morton's grandfather, Louis Grossman.

Helping Hand Program Announces Webpage

The Quincy Helping Hand Program announces its new web page to help promote its services.

The program provides free medical supplies -- including wheelchairs, hospital beds, walkers, crutches, tub seats, commodes, and more -- to Quincy residents.

Quincy residents can now log on to: <http://www.ci.quincy.ma.us/hthm/hand/index.htm> to either order or donate equipment.

"This is just another way to promote the program," said state Rep. Bruce Ayers, who has operated the program for the past eight years. "It is important that people who cannot afford this equipment know that this service is available to them."

River Bank Cleanup Is Set For April 20

The watchdogs of Quincy's rivers and streams are seeking volunteers to conduct a cleanup day on the banks of the Neponset and Fore Rivers Saturday, April 20.

The volunteers will gather at 9 a.m. at Squantum Point Park and deploy to designated sites along the rivers to remove trash and other assorted debris.

The cleanup day is sponsored by the Friends of the Neponset Estuary, the Fore River Watershed Association and the Massachusetts Community Water Watch.

The project is also important in raising awareness of and appreciation for the Neponset and Fore River as important natural and recreational resources.

Dog Training Classes At South Quincy Social Club

A new session of dog training classes sponsored by the New England Humane Association begins Wednesday, April 24 at the South Quincy Social Club, 480 Quincy Ave.

"Good Manners for Beginners," a Level 1 Class, will begin at 6 p.m. "Obedience with Distractions," a Level 2 Class, will begin at 7 p.m.

Each training class is a five-week session and the cost for each training class is $90.

The goal of each training class is not only to help owners in making their dogs better trained but to provide an outlet for socialization for both owner and pet.

For more information or to register, call (617) 789-3647.

Commission On Disability To Meet April 8 At City Hall

The Quincy Commission on Disability will meet Monday, April 8 at 6:15 p.m. in the conference room of City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

The public is invited. For more information, contact Jonathan Yip at (617) 376-1515.

QHS Advisory Council Meeting

The Quincy High School Parent Advisory Council will meet Thursday, April 11, at 7:15 p.m. in the Prides Room at the school.

Replica Of Lumber Firm Available At Abigail's Crossing

'Here Comes Grossman' -- Again

"Here Comes Grossman" -- again.

The orange trucks of the Quincy-based lumber and building materials firm with that slogan on them, were for many years a familiar sight here and throughout New England.

Now, they are back. This time as replicas of the 1940s vintage trucks and available as a collectible item at Abigail's Crossing gift shop at Hancock and Temple Sts., Quincy Center.

The wood replicas were approximately 5 by 2 inches conceived by the shop's owner, Joanne Dondero as part of her "Nostalgia Series" Cat's Meow Village Collection.

Since opening the shop in 1993 across from United First Parish Church where Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their wives are entombed, she has commissioned many items from Cat's Meow, an Ohio-based firm that produces and licenses the pieces.

Replicas in the collection

include the Presidents Adams birthplaces, old City Hall, the first Howard Johnson's, Quincy Hospital, the USS Salem and several local area high schools.

The Grossman lumber and buildings chain, sold in 1969, was founded by Louis Grossman who fled Russia in the 1890s and came to Quincy. He started with a pushcart going street to street.

The Grossman Companies, Inc., a Quincy-based commercial real estate firm which started in 1980, is headed by Morton S. Grossman as chairman and Louis J. Grossman, president. The latter is the fourth generation of his family to operate a business in Quincy and the great grandson and namesake of the lumber firm pioneer.

Morton Grossman photographed a number of the truck replicas at Abigail's Crossing and bought 25 of the replicas himself for holiday gifts.

"HERE COMES GROSSMAN" — Joanne Dondero, owner of Abigail's Crossing gift shop in Quincy Center, and Morton S. Grossman, chairman of the commercial real estate firm, The Grossman Companies, Inc., admire the new collectible Grossman truck reminiscent of the lumber and building materials chain founded by Morton's grandfather, Louis Grossman.

Helping Hand Program Announces Webpage

The Quincy Helping Hand Program announces its new web page to help promote its services.

The program provides free medical supplies -- including wheelchairs, hospital beds, walkers, crutches, tub seats, commodes, and more -- to Quincy residents.

Quincy residents can now log on to: <http://www.ci.quincy.ma.us/htm/hhand/index.htm> to either order or donate equipment.

"This is just another way to promote the program," said state Rep. Bruce Ayers, who has operated the program for the past eight years. "It is important that people who cannot afford this equipment know that this service is available to them."

Third Annual Steven Barrett Memorial Blood Drive April 20

The third annual Steven Barrett Memorial Blood Drive will be held Saturday, April 20 from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. at St. Joseph's School Hall, 22 Pray St.

The event honors the life of Steven Barrett, a 1995 graduate of Quincy High School who was just 22 years old when he died in a car accident on Nantucket Island on September 30, 1999.

A graduate of Westfield State College with a degree in criminal justice, Barrett was about to become a full-time police officer before his untimely death.

"This blood drive means a great deal to our family," said Christopher Barrett, Steven's father. "This drive is perfect for Steven's memory because helping people is what Steven was all about."

More than 200 people donated blood at the first memorial drive and nearly 200 at the second drive. This year's goal is 200 donors.

"Only five out of every 100 people give blood," said Cathy Pray, director of Eastern Massachusetts Operations for the American Red Cross, who emphasized that first time donors are "urgently needed to replace donors who have moved away or become ineligible to donate."

The best way to give blood for the first time is to come with a friend who is experienced in the donation process. New donors usually find the procedure easy and painless and will come back regularly to donate.

"The biggest obstacle seems to be overcoming that initial fear," said Pray. "That's why we're counting on our regular donors to help by bringing a friend to this blood drawing."

Most people can give blood through the American Red Cross. Potential donors must be at least 17 years of age, in good health, and weigh over 110 pounds.

In most cases, donors may give if they are on medication but should know the names of these medications.

Whole blood can be donated every 56 days. Over 1600 units of blood must be collected daily in New England to maintain an adequate blood supply.

For more information on the April 20 blood drive, contact Christopher Barrett at (617) 471-3743 or Edward Barkhouse at (617) 472-1233.

QEN To Mark First Anniversary With Breakfast Fundraiser

The Quincy Environmental Network (QEN) will celebrate its one-year anniversary with a breakfast fundraiser Saturday, April 6 from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. at the Custom House Restaurant, 125 Sea St.

Tickets are $15 per person and can be reserved by calling (617) 877-5975.

"I think, by all accounts, we can look back on this year with a sense of pride and accomplishment," said QEN member Gail MacDonald.

The environmental advocacy group was founded by Steven Perdios and Sally Owen and began with a challenge: how to consolidate the variety of efforts being made on behalf of Quincy's natural environment.

"From promoting the restoration of Wollaston Beach to fighting for more ecologically sound development, the citizens of Quincy are tremendously concerned about their city's future," said MacDonald. "The QEN's first aim is to make their efforts as effective as possible by sharing resources and information and promoting volunteerism."

To that end, QEN created its own website, www.QENet.org, which provides information about meetings, initiatives, volunteer opportunities, links and contacts to a myriad of groups involved in preserving -- and enjoying -- Quincy's natural beauty.

The QEN has also dedicated itself to making the environment a priority in city hall. During last year's campaign, the group organized a Candidates Night dedicated solely to "green" issues.

"For the first time ever the candidates were called to state their positions, on record, about a variety of environmental and developmental questions," said MacDonald. "The huge turnout for that event sent a clear message to aspiring politicians: voters care about Quincy's environment and expect their elected officials to be just as concerned and informed on the issues."

After a busy first year, QEN is already looking toward the future and has set some ambitious goals for its second year: to work with local schools to further environmental education; to advocate for a Master Plan for the city that will incorporate environmental interests; and to update zoning laws to protect wetlands and other critical areas from harmful development.

"All of these things are possible, I think, if we can engage the support of Quincy residents," said MacDonald.

"So far we have been operating under a modest start-up grant from the Grassroots Foundation. But to continue our work, we need to make our case to the people of Quincy and seek out their support, both financial and volunteer."

Quincy Access TV Workshop April 8

Quincy Access Television (QATV), 88 Washington St., Quincy Center, will begin its spring workshop series Monday, April 8, with an "Orientation to Community Television."

The one evening seminar is designed to inform those who may be interested in television production just how the access center works.

A tour of the facility, demonstrations of the state-of-the-art equipment and a discussion on the theory of community television will be offered.

To register, call 617-376-1440. Registration for classes such as Camcorder, Basic Edit, Studio Production, Graphics and Introduction to the Digital Production will also take place. The spring semester begins April 10.

WORK, Inc. To Hold Awards Night April 29

Quincy-based WORK, Inc. will hold its annual Awards Night Monday, April 29 at 6:30 p.m. at the John F. Kennedy Library and Museum in Dorchester.

Congressman James Langevin (D-RI) will serve as keynote speaker.

The annual event honors businesses, officials, and agency staff who exemplify commitment and compassion for individuals with disabilities. The Awards Night also recognizes people served by agency programs who have shown exceptional growth and independence.

WORK, Inc., a Quincy-based nonprofit, provides job training and job placement assistance and is also the largest direct employer of people with disabilities in New England.

Sabina Stenberg Appointed To National Silver Haired Legislature

Quincy resident Sabina Stenberg was recently appointed to serve as the Tenth Congressional District representative to the National Silver Haired Legislature.

Stenberg, who serves locally as a senator of the Massachusetts Silver Haired Legislature, was appointed by Congressman William Delahunt, who noted that Stenberg's "commitment to improving our community and passion for older American issues is well known to the people of Quincy and the South Shore."

Stenberg recently attended the National Silver Haired Congress' Sixth Session, which adopted the following top 10 advocacy priorities: providing a prescription drug benefit through Medicare; geriatrics medical education; retaining Social Security as a guaranteed benefit; the crisis facing Alzheimer's victims and caregivers; long-term home care; protection of Social Security and Medicare funds; national background check and registry for caregivers; Medicare prescription drugs; tax incentives for long-term care insurance; Social Security payment related to a surviving spouse.

NQHS Senior Stay-Out Committee To Meet April 9

The North Quincy High School Stay-Out Committee will meet Tuesday, April 9, at 7 p.m. in the Willard Building, 1 Enterprise Drive, in the State Street South Complex in North Quincy.

The Senior Stay-Out will take place May 10 following the Senior Prom.

All North Quincy seniors, whether they attend the prom or not, are invited to Senior Stay-Out 2002, an all-night substance-free party that offers food, fun and a safe place to spend the night at no cost to the students.

Parents of seniors are not allowed to attend the party but parents of freshmen, sophomores and juniors are needed to volunteer to work at the all-night affair.

Students who are unable to attend the April 9 meeting but still wish to be involved in the party-planning should contact Jean Mackey at 617-479-9084.

YOUR TAX BILL JUST WENT UP. ARE YOU GETTING YOUR MONEY'S WORTH?

The QUINCY TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATION thinks you should. We're here to represent the interests of Quincy's residential property taxpayers. We try to do that by:

- examining and evaluating city spending
- looking for ways the city can save money
- looking for ways the city can raise money besides property taxes
- pushing for YOUR TAXES to be kept AS LOW AS POSSIBLE.

We have already reported on school department spending; on how the city could make more money available for the budget by maximizing the hotel/motel occupancy tax; and on ways the city could restructure its debt to save money. We can do a lot more, but WE NEED YOU!

Donna Williams, Carol Cahill Top Producers For 2001 In Conway's Quincy Office

Donna Williams was named the top seller and Carol Cahill top lister for 2001 in Jack Conway & Co.'s Quincy sales office, company President Richard F. Cahill announces.

Williams and Cahill, who is Richard Cahill's wife, were presented with the awards during the 15th annual "Conway Country" Convention. The event included a trade show, workshops, and continuing education courses for agents and was held at the SeaCrest Resort and Conference Center in Falmouth.

"It's a pleasure to recognize the achievements of our agents during the past 12 months," Cahill said during the awards ceremony. "It's been a great year for our company because of the hard work of people like Donna and Carol."

Also at the convention, MassHousing Executive Director Thomas Gleason was named the Conway Country

Citizen of the Year. Chairman Jack Conway said Gleason was selected for the honor because of his leadership at MassHousing, a state agency that has provided more than $6 billion for the development of rental housing, homeownership opportunities, and home-improvement loans since 1966.

Founded in 1957, Norwell-based Jack Conway & Co. is the largest privately owned real estate firm in Massachusetts with more

NHS Homebuyer's Workshop April 13

Neighborhood Housing Services will hold an accredited and MHEA-certified First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop in partnership with Continental Funding Saturday and next Saturday, April 13, at the Halifax Town Hall, 499 Plymouth St., from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive your homebuying certificate, which is required by most lenders to qualify for the many different mortgage options, such as the MassHousing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs, down payment and closing costs grants and other special first-time homebuyer financing options.

An approved First-Time Homebuyer Counseling Agency, NHS is a non-profit organization dedicated to assisting first-time buyers through the homebuying process. The staff at NHS is unique in their approach to obtaining down payment and closing costs assistance as well as rehab grants for their clients, which are available throughout the entire South Shore area.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. Focus will be on the many changing aspects of homebuying, including how to locate a property within budget, how to make an offer and determining the best mortgage program.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited. A $10 refundable registration fee is required.

For more information and to register for the workshop, contact Debbie Edgerly at 617-770-2227, ext. 31.

Educational Grants Available For Real Estate Professionals

The Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) Charitable and Educational Foundation announces the availability of a new series of educational grants for individuals pursuing a professional designation or degree program in real estate or another industry-related field of study.

This year, up to 10 $1,000 educational scholarships will be awarded through the MAR Charitable & Educational Foundation's Annual Scholarship Fund. To be eligible to receive a scholarship, students must be a resident of Massachusetts pursuing a college-level educational degree program or professional designation (i.e., GRI, CBR, CIPS, CRS, CRB, CCIM, CPM, SIOR, etc.) in real estate or another industry-related field of study.

Applications are welcome from MAR members and other licensed real estate professionals, as well as the public. However, trustees of the MAR Foundation, members of their immediate family and relatives of the association president are ineligible to receive scholarship funds.

Qualified students must complete a one-page application form and submit it to the MAR Charitable and Educational Foundation by Aug. 1. Selected applicants also may be required to appear before the Foundation's Scholarship Committee to complete a personal interview. Individuals chosen to receive scholarships have up to two years from the date grants are awarded to complete coursework and receive their scholarship monies.

Real estate licenses and others interested in learning more about the MAR Charitable and Educational Foundation's 2002 Scholarship Fund may contact their local Realtor association or the MAR Customer Service Department at 800-725-6272 to obtain a brochure and application form.

At Lombardo's Function Hall Conway & Co. Home Show, Real Estate Sale April 9

Jack Conway & Co. will hold its 45th anniversary Home Show and Real Estate Sale Tuesday, April 9, at 7 p.m., at Lombardo's Function Hall, 6 Billings St., Randolph.

The two-hour event will provide photos and detailed descriptions of every house currently for sale in Conway's 39 offices. Forty-five properties will "go live" in the Action Theatre of Homes — a large-screen presentation hosted by television personality Adele Green.

The Auction Theatre will feature interior and exterior photographs of selected homes, with all other properties on display at booths arranged by region around Lombardo's ballroom.

"I don't know of another real estate company that's ever done this," said Chairman Jack Conway. "We want to make it easy for buyers to see everything that's available in today's market, and also give our sellers the added exposure of a giant home showcase."

In addition to houses for sale, the Home Show will provide attendees with all of the information they need during the buying process: details about mortgages, home inspections, moving services, insurance and using the Internet to search for homes.

The show will have a birthday party theme, with drawings, door prizes, entertainment and refreshments to celebrate Conway's 45th year in business.

Jack Conway & Co. is the Bay State's largest privately owned realty firm, and last year was ranked among the top 100 real estate companies in the United States by Realtor Magazine, the official publication of the National Association of Realtors.

Conway, who opened his business as a one-man shop in Hingham Square in 1957, said he is proud of how much his company has grown in the past 45 years.

"This idea started out as a small birthday party, but then we decided we should thank all of the people who've helped us — the buyers and the sellers," he said. "So it's our birthday, but our customers are the ones getting the presents."

To prepare for the show, which also will feature judging for the South Shore Habitat for Humanity annual bird-house decorating fund-raiser, Jack Conway & Co. and Conway Financial Services held four workshops for homebuyers.

"We wanted to give people an overview of the process, with this show being the final step — actually finding the home of your dreams," said CFS President Carol Bulman, who organized the homebuying seminars.

"We encourage everyone who is thinking about buying a new home to come because they all will find something of value at our home show," Bulman said.

Spring Cleaning That Doesn't Put A Cloud In Your Mood

(NAPS) — People today have less time for everything — including house cleaning. When they do clean, however, they don't want to use harsh chemicals, according to a recent survey. For example, the majority of respondents, 69 percent, prefer natural cleaning products for laundry, as long as the products are effective at removing stains and odors.

Cleaning products that are effective but will not harm the skin, children or pets are growing in popularity, but the time available for cleaning — about half the time spent in the 1960s — is still limited. According to the survey, more than a quarter of respondents say they are too busy with other activities and chores to focus on cleaning the home. Thus, housecleaning often gets pushed aside.

For an orderly and clean home this spring, Orange Glo International offers these quick and easy, healthy tips for cleaning the home that can be accomplished in less than two hours:

The Bedroom: 30 Minutes

Use old socks as mitts for dusting difficult woodwork, and wash small treasures with soapy water instead of dusting, to keep them dust-free longer. After years of use and annual spring cleaning, bed linens can become dingy and worn. When washing bed lines, add a scoop of OxiClean Multi-Purpose Stain Remover to the load to boost your detergent's washing power, remove nasty stains and brighten whites and colors, without damaging the fabric. Also, remember to wash the comforter and curtains at least twice a year to get rid of dust mites and to remove odors.

The Kitchen: 30 Minutes

Water spots on stainless sinks can be removed with rubbing alcohol. Vacuum the front of the coils on the refrigerator to get rid of dust and dirt, and replace the box of baking soda inside if older than one month. For countertops with set-in, greasy messes, use an orange oil-based all-purpose cleaner and let sit for a few minutes to lighten the cleaning job. Orange Clean Tough-Acting Degreaser is a good option.

The Bathroom: 45 Minutes

First, organize your toiletries and other items, and if near-empty tubes and bottles clutter the cabinets and drawers — toss them. Once your belongings are neat and orderly, tackle the tub and sink. Ugly hard-water stains, soap scum and mineral deposits build up quickly, so spring cleaning is an ideal time to polish them up. A quick, effective product such as Kaboom Porcelain, Tile & Grout Restorer will work instantly to remove the buildup, without allergy-causing fumes. Be sure to rinse with water after use.

Red Raiders Home Opener Tuesday At 4 PM North Has High Expectations

By CHRIS POISSON

A year ago, the North Quincy High baseball team entered the season with a little bit of uncertainty surrounding the ballclub.

There were 10 juniors on the team, nine of whom would be facing the spikes for the very first time on the varsity level. The talent of the class was never questioned; it was a matter of when this talent would begin to emerge on the field.

It turns out they carved their niche on the team sooner than expected, propelling the Red Raiders to a 14-6 overall record and into the postseason for the fifth time in six years, where they were ousted by a strong Catholic Memorial team in the first round.

Now it's 2002. A new season. Their final season. And there's no doubt that it's their team.

"It's a very good senior group," said head coach Larry Taglieri. "They're a very hard working group of players. I said that last year and it has carried on. The guys have really prepared themselves for this season. It's their team. They have high expectations, as do the coaches."

North Quincy kicks off the season today (Thursday) on the road against Canton at 3:30 p.m. and it will take on Taunton Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the home opener and league opener.

The senior class has picked up two more members this season, adding first-year players Mike DeAngelo and Mark Maher to bring the count to 12. As for the rest of them, Pat Bregoli returns for his fourth season while the remaining nine are back for their second year.

Obviously, they'll all want to start. And on some teams this would likely make things about as comfortable as the 2001 Red Sox clubhouse. Taglieri doesn't foresee a problem, though.

"You see how many seniors there are and some kids are obviously going to sit on the bench," he said. "Seniors on the bench, traditionally, would be a problem. But I don't think it is a problem with this team. I think they'll put the team first and I think they know they'll earn their playing time. I don't have a group of pouters. They'll take their roles and continue to work to get the roles they want, which is to start."

"They want to get back into the tournament," he added. "They want to win the league. I think it's a viable goal. If we play good ball, stay away from injuries, I think we should be in good shape."

PLAY BALL.—North Quincy High baseball opens the season today (Thursday) at Canton. The team is led by 12 seniors. They are, kneeling from left, quad-captains Dennis Thomson, Pat

On the mound, North Quincy appears to be in good shape despite the loss of all-star hurler Keith Doherty to graduation.

Looking to fill his spot is Mike Feetham, who clearly emerged as the No. 2 last year and seems poised to seize the role of ace.

"We're obviously going to turn to Mike Feetham," Taglieri said. "I expect Mike to have a strong year. He's worked hard. I think he expects himself to have a strong year."

After Feetham, there really is no set rotation. John O'Connell and Steve Pizzi, both of whom saw action last season as the second and third starters, should get their share of innings.

First baseman Neil Gavin developed into a pitcher in the offseason and will get a look, while Bregoli is capable of throwing strikes. Also in the mix are three juniors — Dom Delgado, Gary Dalton, Chris Dolbeare — who will split time with the JV and varsity teams.

"I'm very confident in my pitching staff," Taglieri said. "I'm not designating a 2 or 3, but I feel safe saying Mike going in right now is our No. 1."

Behind the pitching staff, there appears to be a solid defensive group, judging by the personnel up the middle.

Although North Quincy no longer has the services of the slick fielding Chris Lockhead at shortstop, Dan Duggan and Pizzi are battling for the spot and are both strong with the glove. Quad-captain Dennis Thomson returns to second base, quad-captain John Fidalgo is back behind the plate and the sensational Wayne Moynihan, a quad-captain, patrols center field once again.

In the rest of the infield, Charles Vidoli mans third base. At first base there seems to be a platoon with Gavin, who Taglieri said has had a strong preseason. Feetham, O'Connell and junior John Mateu.

Joining Moynihan in the outfield is Bregoli, a quad-captain, who returns to left. As for right field, DeAngelo, Feetham, O'Connell and Mateu will all see time there. Junior James Coughlin comes off the bench as another outfielder, as well as adding speed to the offense.

Offensively, the Red Raiders averaged 5.5 runs per game last year, but gone from that lineup are the likes of Doherty, Lockhead, Mike Keddy, Sean Crowley and Chris Doherty.

To equal or match that run production from a year ago, Feetham, Moynihan and Thomson need to repeat last year's performance with the sticks and several others need to improve. Maher, a left-handed slugger, should provide some power of the bench.

"I think we'll put the ball in play," Taglieri said. "We have a little bit of team speed. We have some power with Feetham and Moynihan, and Thomson has some pop. And we can hunt pretty well. We should be in good shape."

And with the experience and leadership of the senior class, Taglieri believes North Quincy has the makings of a tournament team as well as a contender for the Old Colony League crown.

Quincy Medical Center Golf, Tennis Classic June 17

Quincy Medical Center will hold its 13th annual Golf and Tennis Classic Monday, June 17, at the Wollaston Golf Club in Milton.

TIME FOR A CHANGE?

The interval at which engine oil should be changed in a vehicle is dependent upon a number of factors, such as driving style, traffic conditions, engine load and temperature, and oil consumption. To keep things simple, most automobile manufacturers recommend changing the oil about every 7,500 under normal driving conditions, or about every 3,000 miles if the vehicle is driven under severe conditions. Check your owner's manual. You may be surprised to find that what qualifies as "severe conditions" is fairly normal for many drivers. This includes lots of stop-and-go traffic, and many successive short trips during which the engine does not warm up sufficiently, extended high-speed highway driving, driving in dusty conditions, and running the engine under a heavy load (towing).

Maintaining your SUV, van, truck, or car is important in maintaining its value and changing the engine oil on a regular basis is one of the best ways. For most all your maintenance and repair needs, bring it to the ASE Certified professionals at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO. Our friendly staff will gladly answer all your questions here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). Sunoco and most major credit cards honored. Open: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. We're "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." We are also your local source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles.

HINT: Just adding a new quart of oil to your vehicle's engine on a regular basis does not take the place of changing the oil, since draining is still needed to remove contaminants and replenish additives.

Large Turnout Fuels Quincy's Optimism

Presidents Open New Era In New League

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High baseball team graduated nine seniors from last year's 3-17 squad and two players have decided not to come back this season.

That leaves only three players on the team that were on the opening day roster a year ago.

Yet, head coach Mike Draicchio is optimistic about his young ballclub's chances this spring, as well as in the future. That's what happens when 75 kids join the program.

"I would have to say I'm very optimistic with the turnout we've had," Draicchio said. "I'd say this is the biggest turnout the school has probably seen. It's a great group of kids. It's a fun group of kids. They get along with each other. We're young, but I think we can do pretty well in the league."

After going 0-for-Old Colony League last year, Quincy will be competing in a new league this season, the Atlantic Coast League. But it will kick off that era next Tuesday at Whitman-Hanson.

Quincy begins the season with three non-league games this week, all games Draicchio feels his team has a solid chance of winning. The Presidents opened the season Tuesday at Sturgis (a charter school on the Cape) and yesterday (Wednesday) they battled Brighton in the home opener.

They will conclude the first week of action tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at 3:30 when it hosts Holbrook, a team it beat, 2-1, last year at Adams Field.

"We have some teams at the beginning of the season that we can definitely compete with," Draicchio said.

Quincy has only three seniors — Dave Grogan, Brian Keefe, Mike McLaughlin — on the squad this season, all in their first year on varsity. While they'll be mainstays on the club, some of the juniors and a few sophomores will shuffle between the varsity and JV.

"This is going to be the type of season where kids are going to be bouncing, with the exception of the seniors," Draicchio said.

The three returnees — juniors Craig Keenan, Anthony Boyle, Robert Muollo — will be asked to provide leadership with their experi-

QUINCY HIGH BASEBALL opened the 2002 season this week. The Presidents will be led by, from the left, seniors Brian

Boyle and Muollo, both two-year starting pitchers, will shoulder a pitching staff loaded with arms but short on innings pitched. Quincy received good news in the preseason when Muollo, who was questionable with a heart condition, was cleared to play.

"He's back," Draicchio said. "He's slowing working his way. That will be a big plus. He'll be one of our top pitchers along with Boyle, who looked great in a scrimmage we had last week against Hingham; six out of seven batters he struck out. So that's pretty promising."

Juniors Jeff Tam and Ryan Conley, both of whom saw action at the end of last season, should get some starts. Others that could see time on the hill are juniors Jamie Chiochio, Mike Cox, Malcolm Lynn, Matt MacNeil, Francis Orlando, Liam Powers and Robert Ritchie.

"We have a lot of arms," Draicchio said. "Let's put it that way. I don't know how much experience we have, but at least there's a lot of guys that can throw. I hope our pitching can hold out."

Defensively, many positions have not been solidified since the Presidents, like the other local teams, have not been able to practice that much outside due to the weather.

"There were a lot of kids around here and it was very difficult to try to do things in the gym," Draicchio said.

Keenan returns as the starting third baseman. Others competing for spots are in the infield and outfield are Grogan, McLaughlin, Conley, MacNeil, Orlando, Powers, Ritchie, Tam, Boyle, Chiochio and Muollo, along with juniors Mark Dondero, Shaun Gibbons, Steve Hawko, Paul Krystyniak, Joe Scribi and J.P. White.

Offensively, Quincy had as much trouble getting home last year as E.T., scoring more than three runs in a game three times. Obviously, this is the part of the team that needs to improve dramatically if it hopes to be successful.

"I think the key to our success this year, more than anything, is we have to make contact with the ball," Draicchio said. "We have to hit and we have to get on base. And then I think we can do some damage."

Although Draicchio is upbeat of his team's chances this year, he believes the future of Quincy High baseball looks promising after several disappointing years.

"I think it will be a good year for the kids," he said. "I think right now the success of this program is going to carry on the next couple of years. We are where we want to be."

Three North Quincy High Athletes To Participate In Best 80 Games

Three North Quincy High athletes have been selected to participate in the 2002 Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association Best 80 Games Sunday, April 7, at Merrimack College, North Andover.

The Best 80 Games provide the opportunity for the top senior girls and boys throughout the state to display their talents at a single site on the same day, which attracts a large number of college scouts.

Lauren Sleeth and Kahl Dearani, members of the two-time Old Colony League champion Red Raiders, will play on the South Girls squad and will take on the North Girls at 9 a.m.

Sleeth was the OCL MVP as a junior and is an outstanding guard/forward, while Dearani started at center all season and gave North Quincy strength in the post.

Phil McGillicuddy, a 1,000-point scorer on the 13-7 Red Raiders, will play on the South Boys team that will battle the North Boys at 2:30 p.m. An OCL All-Star, McGillicuddy started 81 straight games in his four years.

Allie Lacey, Pat Bregoli On All-State Teams

North Quincy High seniors Allie Lacey and Pat Bregoli have been selected to the Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association Academic All-State teams.

They will receive their awards Sunday, April 7, at the Best 80 Games at Merrimack College, North Andover.

Lacey, a guard and an honorable mention to the Old Colony League All-Star squad, was a great defender on the league championship team. An excellent student, she is captain of the soccer, basketball and track teams.

Bregoli, also a three-sport captain (football, basketball, baseball), was a starting guard for the 13-7 Red Raiders and led the team in assists. Also an excellent student, he is the president of the Student Council.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

South Shore YMCA Healthy Kids Day April 13

The South Shore YMCA will host its annual Healthy Kids Day at its Quincy branch, 79 Coddington St., Saturday, April 13, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The event will be held in conjunction with the YMCA's national Healthy Kids Day, as many Y's across the country will also be celebrating.

Activities at the event include gym games, swimming, face painting, tie-dyeing, story time, button-making and balloons for children.

The day will also bring demonstrations from an environmentalist on planting seeds and edible and non-edible plants, and a professional chef teaching how to create a healthy breakfast. In addition, members of the New England Revolution will teach soccer skills and techniques.

Along with the fun activities, there will also be health information and demonstrations available.

"The purpose of the program is to create an atmosphere that will educate and also entertain," said Tara McGrath, the Y's Youth and Family Director. "We hope that the kids have a great time as well as learn something valuable."

There will be ice cream, cookies and food provided by Outback Steakhouse of Quincy. The event is free and open to the public, but there will be a $2 charge per person for the food provided by Outback Steakhouse.

For more information on Healthy Kids Day call McGrath at 617-479-8500, ext. 160.

Making Healthy Decisions, Encouraging Others In Our Community To Do The Same

By JESSICA MAAROUFY

Recently, the Blue Hills Youth Action Alliance (YAA) group has been featured in articles and advertisements in both the Patriot Ledger and The Quincy Sun. This group also won in December of 2001 a "Community Hero Award," issued annually by Impact Quincy to individuals and groups that focus their efforts on the reduction of substance abuse among teens, ages 12-17, in the city of Quincy. The YAA was recognized along with nine other prominent leaders of our community. I would like to share with Quincy's readers some information about this program and my own experience of working with them.

The YAA is a program of Bay State Community that has been established in the Quincy community for just over a year. The main purpose of the program is to engage youth in social activism in the realm of tobacco issues. This model is different from a typical peer leadership model. Other youth programs mainly utilize youth in order to educate their peers. The main goal of this program is for youth to work with community leaders to advocate for increases in tobacco regulations in Quincy.

Participants undergo extensive training through the

JESSICA MAAROUFY

Massachusetts Tobacco Control Program's Youth Advocacy Training Institute (YATI), including topics such as media relations/advocacy, conducting surveys and community assessments. Follow-up trainings were provided by Bay State Community Services' Prevention Department throughout this year. To accomplish our goals, youth have done such projects as a petition around the city to gain support for smoke-free restaurants. They collected a total of 1,100 signatures over the course of a few months.

Some examples of topics that we deal with as a group are increasing the number of smoke-free restaurants in our area, and decreasing youth access to tobacco products. YAA currently employs five high school aged youth. These youth come from diverse backgrounds of our community, and represent three schools in Quincy: North Quincy High School, Quincy High School and the Woodward School for Girls.

The intent of this group is to bring this collection to the mayor and city councilors of Quincy and to gain their support. They are also co-sponsoring a Youth Summit in April in order to motivate other youth in the area to become advocates. These are just samples of the projects they worked on during the past year. It has been an immense honor for me to work for this program. The YAA provides a baseline for youth to learn how to advocate for themselves, whether it is in support of tobacco issues or any relevant issue of public concern.

The youth that participate in the YAA are dedicated not only to tobacco prevention and cessation, but also supporting other issues related to teens' safety, like alcohol/drug consumption, HIV/AIDS prevention and many others, allowing them to remain active members in their community. The positive effects of the youth's activities in the YAA are proven also through their participation in the Impact Quincy initiative.

Our youth have supported Impact Quincy by posing for overhead posters displayed on 100 Quincy buses, for two billboards displayed in different parts of the city and in other media campaigns. Despite the YAA's short history as a program, much has been accomplished. It is a pleasure for me as a health educator to be able to watch youth doing their part in making healthy decisions and encouraging others in the community to do the same. It is easy enough for teens to gain part-time employment at any of a large selection of places within the city. It takes a special type of young person to go above and beyond the requirements — to obtain a job that calls for participating, speaking up and making a difference.

DRY MOUTH AND CAVITIES

"Dry mouth" is an increasingly common condition among older adults who take certain medications, undergo chemotherapy, or suffer from autoimmune diseases. Without sufficient amounts of saliva in the mouth to cleanse it, plaque adheres more readily to the teeth and gums, thereby increasing the incidence of cavities. One way of reducing these cavities calls for adults to follow a prescription given to children to prevent tooth decay -- using sealants to protect teeth. Sealants, applied in liquid or gel form, adhere to tooth surfaces to protect them from coming into contact with bacteria-laden plaque. Although the protection is not complete because it protects biting surfaces and not between teeth, sealants can still be useful when used with other dry-mouth treatments.

Poor oral health and untreated oral diseases and conditions can have a significant impact on quality of life. Rely on us to answer all your questions about dental treatments and procedures. Let us help you keep your teeth healthy. We appreciate the opportunity to provide you with dental care. Our staff is made up of well-trained professionals who work together as a team to provide you with the highest quality treatment in a warm, caring setting. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. According to the Academy of General Dentistry, up to 400 medications (prescription drugs and over-the-counter medications) can contribute to symptoms associated with dry mouth.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Mother Nature is providential. She gives us 12 years to develop a love for our children before turning them into teen-agers." —William A. Galvin

We all know that the "teen-age" years can be a hectic time for both the teens and their parents. The following poem may help those who are going through this time and those who are about to enter this "era!"

"What is a teenager?" I asked one day.
I knew what he was, but what should I say?
He is noise and confusion. He is silence that's deep.
He is sunshine and laughter, or a cloud that will weep.
He is swift as an arrow, he's a waster of time.
He wants to be rich, but he can't save a dime.
He is rude and nasty. He is polite as can be.
He wants Parental guidance, but fights to be free.
He is aggressive and bossy. He is timid and shy.
He knows all the answers, but still will ask "Why?"
He is awkward and clumsy, he is graceful and poised.
He is ever changing, but don't be annoyed.
"What is a teen-ager?" I asked one day.
He is the future unfolding; don't stand in his way."

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Be careful about doing someone a favor when you don't know the full story behind the request. Don't rely on someone's unsubstantiated assurances. Insist on all the facts before you act.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) That workplace problem still needs your attention before you can finally close the book on it. Meanwhile, a long-anticipated reunion gets closer to becoming a happy reality.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might be demanding more from others than they can give. Best advice: Have a long and frank talk to determine what the facts are. Tensions should abate as the week winds down.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Aspects are favorable throughout this week for making contacts that could be important to your career plans. Meanwhile, an old friend offers the advice you're seeking.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's time to stop licking your wounds from past mistakes. Get up and get going toward your future. Loyal friends will be there to help the Lion get back into rip-roaring shape.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Take time out to go over what's expected of you before you begin your new project. Otherwise, you run the risk of pushing yourself harder than you need to.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) An unusual request could put you in an awkward position. Best advice: Deal with it immediately. The longer you delay, the more difficult it will be to get out of it.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You should feel recharged and ready for whatever your workday world holds for you. The same positive energy spills over into your personal relationships.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A prospect might be less than it appears to be. Like the Archer in your sign, you always aim for the truth. And this is no time to settle for less than full disclosure.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Start doing some serious thinking about a career move that could entail more than just changing job sites. Some lifestyle changes might also be involved.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) With tensions easing at the workplace, a more positive environment once again encourages the free flow of ideas so typical of the always-innovative Aquarian.

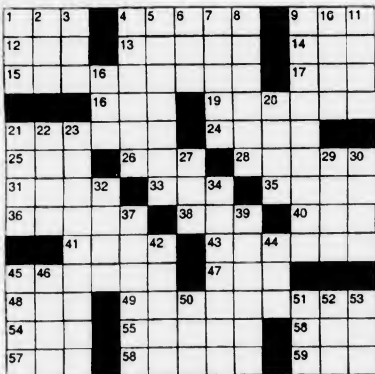

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Show some of that usually hidden steel-strong Piscean backbone, and stand up for yourself if you hope to make a case for that promotion you know you deserve.

BORN THIS WEEK: You enjoy doing new things and staying ahead of the crowd. You would make a fine military leader or sports coach.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) With tensions easing at the workplace, a more positive environment once again encourages the free flow of ideas so typical of the always-innovative Aquarian.

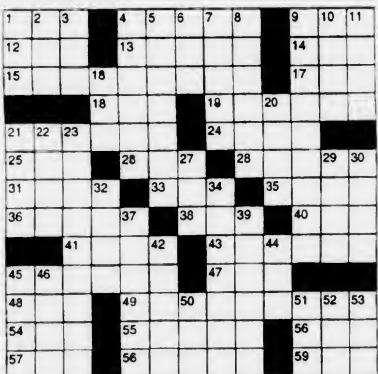

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Show some of that usually hidden steel-strong Piscean backbone, and stand up for yourself if you hope to make a case for that promotion you know you deserve.

BORN THIS WEEK: You enjoy doing new things and staying ahead of the crowd. You would make a fine military leader or sports coach.

OBITUARIES

Raymond Wight, 57

Retired Weymouth Fire Lieutenant

A funeral Mass for Lt. Raymond C. Wight, 57, of Weymouth, formerly of Quincy, a retired lieutenant in the Weymouth Fire Department, was celebrated Tuesday at Immaculate Conception Church, 170 Broad St., Weymouth.

Lt. Wight died March 28 at Quincy Medical Center.

Lt. Wight was appointed to the Weymouth Fire Department in 1976 and was promoted to lieutenant in 1985. He retired Feb. 28.

He also worked as a Norfolk County Deputy Sheriff for 10 years.

He served in the Marines during the Vietnam War and received the Purple Heart.

Lt. Wight was a member of Weymouth Fire Fighters Local 1616, the Weymouth Lodge of Elks, and the Braintree Disabled American Veterans Post.

Born in Natick, he was raised in Quincy.

He was a graduate of Quincy High School.

Lt. Wight is survived by his wife, Mildred C. (Petrosky) Wight, three daughters, Andrea C. Wight, Cheryl A. Wight, and Laurie L. Wight, all of Weymouth; a brother, Ronald Wight of Braintree; two sisters, Patricia Hayward of Braintree and Susan McCaffrey of Weymouth; many nieces and nephews; and a dear friend, Barbara Charson of Quincy.

Burial was in the Massachusetts National Cemetery in Bourne.

Funeral arrangements were made by the McDonald Funeral Home, 40 Sea St., North Weymouth.

Donations may be made to charity.

William A. Groen, 65

Former Pipe Grinder

A funeral service for William A. Groen, 65, of St. Petersburg, Fla., formerly of Quincy, a former pipe grinder for General Dynamics at Fore River shipyard in Quincy, was held in St. Petersburg.

He died March 25 at St. Anthony's Hospital in St. Petersburg.

Mr. Groen worked at the shipyard for 30 years.

Born and raised in Brooklyn, N.Y., he lived 31 years in Quincy before moving to St. Petersburg 10 years ago.

He served four years in the Navy and was a third-class petty officer aboard the USS Caloosahatchee, a refueling vessel.

Mr. Groen was a former member of Gull Point Yacht Club in Germantown and Faxon Group Alcoholics Anonymous.

He was a former member of St. Boniface Church.

He enjoyed fishing and making wooden model ships from scratch. He made a miniature replica of his 38-foot yacht, the Linga Longa, for his wife. They lived on the boat at Continental Marina in Quincy Point for five years.

He is survived by his wife, Patricia A. (Doty) Groen; two sons, Christopher M. Groen of Anchorage, Alaska, and William T. Groen of St. Petersburg; two daughters, Susan C. Richardson of Quincy and Lianne M. Groen-Johnson of Jacksonville, N.C.; two sisters, Patricia Reber of Quincy and Arlene McCarthy of Charlestown; and four grandchildren.

Donations may be made to Father Bill's Place, 38 Broad St., Quincy 02169.

Patricia A. Sweeney, 76

A memorial service for Patricia Ann (Shortal) Sweeney, 76, of Leesburg, Fla., formerly of Quincy, will be held April 13 at 2 p.m. at Pilgrims United Church of Christ in Fruitland Park, Fla.

She died March 16 after a long illness.

Mrs. Sweeney was an active member of Quincy Point Congregational Church for 37 years and served in many leadership roles.

She was awarded the Churchmanship Award.

She was also active at Pilgrims United Church of Christ for the past 10 years.

Born in Buffalo, N.Y., she graduated from Amherst, N.Y., High School in 1944.

Wife of the late Warren W. Sweeney, she is survived by three sons, Michael Sweeney of Ambler, Pa., Timothy Sweeney of Springhill, Tenn., and Gregory Sweeney of New York City; four grandchildren and a great-granddaughter.

Arrangements were by the National Cremation Society of Fruitland.

Donations may be made to the Pilgrims United Church of Christ, 509 Country Road, No. 468, Fruitland Park, FL 34731.

Council: What Do We Do In An Emergency?

that he remained confident that Quincy residents would continue to volunteer their time and services but that, if they did not, police details could and would perform such duties.

McCauley, who began his remarks by thanking Siciliano for his decades of service to the city, specifically mentioning Siciliano's efforts during "Hurricane Gloria" during McCauley's tenure as mayor, expressed concern that the city would have to "pick up the tab" if the city's volunteer workforce became alienated.

Council President Daniel Raymond expressed similar concerns, calling the all-volunteer dive team "a valuable resource" and noting the many volunteer hours donated by Quincy residents and non-residents alike.

Hanley noted that volunteers were the ones who placed sandbags and delivered pumps during flooding emergencies and that both tasks were not the jobs of police and firefighters. "Who's going to handle the nuts and bolts of that type of service?" Hanley asked.

Councillor Joseph Finn asked about the readiness of city shelters during the transition time between now and the hiring of a new deputy director, to which Falco responded that the city would respond if volunteers were not available.

Although many members of the all-volunteer dive team and other Quincy volunteers spoke in support of retaining Siciliano, Falco took issue with the perception that removing Siciliano and alienating the city's volunteers were one in the same.

Volunteerism was welcome in the city, Falco said, but a decision had been made to remove Siciliano because he was not suited to the administrative duties required of him. "I don't think Tony is the type of person who would make a good administrator," said Falco.

Donovan agreed.

"We think volunteerism is a wonderful thing," said Donovan, who said Siciliano's dismissal was part of an updating of the city's emergency management plan, which he said hadn't been revised since 1999. Donovan also pointed out that the Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) is actually a program of Father Bill's Place Homeless Shelter and simply uses city buildings.

Siciliano himself spoke at the beginning of Monday night's meeting, disputing what he said were claims made against him concerning professionalism, overtime pay requests, and ability to take direction from city officials.

"I come here to set the record straight," Siciliano said. "I dispute the mayor's statement that I asked for overtime pay as a general foreman for Traffic and Parking while performing work as a deputy director for Emergency Management. I have never received wages as a volunteer... had I been paid for my volunteer services, I would have been a multi-millionaire."

At one point Siciliano pointed to what he called the "army of CERT members, dive team members, and other volunteers who had filled the seats of the council chambers. 'I'm not here to blow my own horn,' he said. 'I'm here to blow their horn. They make it happen.'"

"That's an army of volunteers and my ally is George Bush," Siciliano said.

Siciliano, age 60, was relieved of his volunteer duties March 26. He retains his $48,000 per year job as general foreman of the city's Traffic and Parking Department.

Says Dismissal 'Slap In The Face' Siciliano Has Offers From Braintree, Weymouth

By TOM HENSHAW

Tony Siciliano has been keeping his cool under all kinds of emergency situations for some 34 years.

But he let some of it out this week.

Siciliano was fired by Mayor William Phelan from his volunteer post of Deputy Director of the Emergency Management Agency.

The question of professionalism and qualifications were cited.

"It was a slap in the face," said Siciliano, who will be 60 in July. "I respect the mayor's right to have his own people on the job—but not the way he did it. I'm very sad about it."

In the week since word of his firing was made public, said Siciliano, he has received requests to fill a similar role in the towns of Braintree and Weymouth. He is considering both requests.

And, as far as his job as general foreman of the Traffic & Parking Department goes...

"If the Legislature passes the early retirement bill this summer and the guy (the mayor) signs it," he said, "I'm gone tomorrow."

The firing of Siciliano even reached the White House in the form of an e-mail letter to President George Bush from William Ryan of 45 Mallard Rd., Quincy, a member of the Siciliano-trained Community Emergency Response Team (CERT).

"Should Tony's removal stand," wrote Ryan, "it will be a severe blow to the effort of volunteerism locally, as well as detrimental to the growth of CERT in our area. I am aware that ours is but a trivial matter in light of your burden. But if you could aid our cause it would be of great help and inspiration."

Siciliano, who retains his $48,000 a year job as general foreman of the Traffic &

TONY SICILIANO

Parking Department for the city, said he was stunned by the manner in which he was removed.

"I was in City Hall about 12:30 last Tuesday (March 26) when (acting Police Chief William) Falco told me the mayor wanted to see me in his office at 4:30," he said. "I was told that the public safety officials in the city didn't think I had the qualifications for the job."

The officials, acting Police Chief Falco, Fire Chief Thomas Gorman and Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue, were present at the meeting with Phelan.

Siciliano said the emergency services truck he was using was taken away from him as were the keys to his office at 55 Sea St., where, he said, the locks were also changed, denying him entrance to the building.

"If he wanted to put his own man in, all he had to do was tell me," said Siciliano. "There was no need to lock me out."

As yet, no successor to Siciliano as deputy director has been named. The director of emergency management is acting Police Chief Falco by virtue of his office.

But worst of all, in Siciliano's opinion, the 250 or so members of the emergency response team, including John Blackadar's dive team, have no place to meet now that the building at 55 Sea St. is closed to them.

In Fiscal 2001 ending last June 30, the Quincy Emergency Management Agency accounted for 48,415 volunteer man hours of service, including 6,078 by the Underwater Recovery Team, according to the agency's annual report.

And who, Siciliano

asked, is going to scout around for state and federal emergency grants?

"Just this morning (Monday) I got a letter from the Massachusetts Service Alliance to meet April 11 at 10 a.m. with myself and a grant writer to discuss a Homeland Security grant," he said. "So far we've gotten $116,000 in grants for Quincy and, if we're successful in our latest application, it will be $33,000 more."

Siciliano said he still can't get into his old office to retrieve some 650 video tapes he made from television channels on disasters and how to handle them and the more than 75 plaques and citations he has won for his services in emergencies.

He was presented the Massachusetts Emergency Manager of the Year Award by the Northeast States Emergency Consortium (NESEC) in June, 2000; and a citation as the Outstanding Municipal Employee of the Year by the Massachusetts Municipal Employees Association in 1987.

He was Mayor Frank McCauley's choice for Employee of the Year in 1984, the Quincy Sun's pick for its first Citizen of the Year award in 1985; and the Jewish War Veterans' selection for Citizen of the Year in 1988.

He was commended for presenting the concept of FEMA's Higher Education Initiative to Quincy College to develop a curriculum in emergency management for an associate degree certificate program, the first of its kind in the northeastern United States.

Siciliano, who was trained as an electrician, joined the Quincy Civil Defense Agency as a volunteer in 1968 and became a patrolman in the Auxiliary Police Force. He received promotions through the ranks until he was appointed auxiliary police chief in 1976 by then-Mayor Joseph LaRita.

He was appointed deputy director of Public Safety, Civil Defense, by then-Mayor Arthur Tobin in 1980. Civil Defense later evolved into the Emergency Management Agency.

Thomas Koch Guest Speaker At Neighborhood Association Meeting

Thomas Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry, and Cemetery Departments for the city of Quincy, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Montclair/Wollaston Neighborhood Association tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of WORK, Inc., 3 Arlington St.

Koch, who was appointed executive director in 1995, oversees the care of 52 municipal parks, more than 100 traffic islands, the care of approximately 20,000 street trees, and the city's six municipal cemeteries.

Koch is also the chairman of the city's Flag Day Parade and Celebration, which was founded by his father, the late Richard J. Koch, in 1962. He is co-founder and co-chairman of the Quincy ArtsFest, a regional art show held in Merrymount Park every autumn.

The Park Department will be sponsoring the annual Cleaner Greener Quincy on Saturday, May 4 with a rain date of Saturday, May 11.

CONGRATULATIONS on your 50th Anniversary

The Parish of St. John the Baptist Quincy

Fr. Bill, may your future continue to be as fruitful as the years you spent ministering to the people of St. John's. The priests, staff and parishioners of St. John's thank you for the 18 years you served as our beloved pastor. Your leadership exemplifies the living Christ present in our midst.

God bless

Mass, Reception To Mark 50th Anniversary Of Ordination For Father Bill, A Golden Jubilee Celebration Sunday

Rev. William McCarthy, Quincy's beloved Father Bill, will celebrate the Golden Jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood Sunday.

There will be a Mass of Thanksgiving at 2 p.m. at St. John's Church, Quincy Center, where he served 18 years as pastor.

A reception will follow from 5 to 9 p.m. at the Marriott, Quincy, One Marriott Drive.

Fr. McCarthy will celebrate the Mass of Thanksgiving and Fr. Peter Quinn, who succeeded him as pastor in February, 1995, will be the homilist.

Among those participating in the Mass will be Fr. Gerard Pettings and Fr. William Mullin of St. John's Church and Fr. Theodore Fortier, hospital chaplain in residence at St. John's.

Also participating will be Fr. Mark Hession, pastor of Our Lady of Victory parish in Centerville and Our Lady of Hope parish in West Barnstable. Deacon Joseph Stanley of Our Lady of Victory and Deacon James Barrett of Our Lady of Hope will also participate.

Fr. McCarthy, since leaving St. John's, has been assisting both Our Lady of Victory and Our Lady of Hope parishes.

And he also continues to work with the needy at Father Bill's Place in Quincy, the interfaith shelter for the homeless named in his honor.

Father Bill's life and ministry have been dedicated to the poor, the hungry, the homeless and to all in need regardless of race or religion.

He grew up in Haverhill, graduated from St. John's Seminary in Brighton and was ordained to the priesthood by Richard Cardinal Cushing Jan. 10, 1952.

His first assignment was at St. Rose Church in Chelsea where he was assistant pastor from 1952 to 1963. He then served at St. Gregory's Church, Dorchester, from 1963 to 1977.

It was Quincy's good fortune Feb. 1, 1977 when he was named pastor at St. John's Church.

And from the very first day of his arrival, he was most active in the community and still is.

He received a special honor in 1988 when the Father William McCarthy

38 Broad Street
Quincy, MA 02169

Dear Father Bill:

Just a short note of congratulations on being honored today by your peers and those of us who care deeply about the people suffering from the illness of substance abuse.

Father Bill, I have known you for a lifetime, and in all those years your devotion to the less fortunate has been a shining example. In the course of helping hundreds regain their dignity and lives from the downward spiral of alcohol and drug addiction, over the last ten years, you have helped us imagine a day when institutions like your own would no longer be needed.

I have been blessed to have you as a friend, and you have always been there for any neighbor who had nowhere else to turn. God bless you, Father, and continued success in the future. I look forward to seeing you soon.

Sincerely,

Fr. Bill:

A Strong Voice Always For Those In Need

When William McCarthy graduated from Peabody junior high school in 1941, his teachers made him Master of Ceremonies because he had the strongest voice in the class.

Little did they know then how appropriate their selection truly was. For years to come Bill McCarthy would be a strong and clear voice for thousands of people who, for whatever reason, lacked a voice of their own. The poor, the homeless and the people in need could always find a voice of comfort, assurance and challenge in the simple priest who made his man belong the focus of his life and ministry.

In reality, Father Bill is a man of few words, but his actions speak volumes. Although he had always received accolades as a parish priest, what seemed most remarkable was his commitment to the poor and homeless. From his days of relocating families in Chelsea and Dorchester, to his days in Quincy helping to shelter the homeless or working with the St. Vincent DePaul

"I WANT TO be a priest when I grow up." So, little Billy McCarthy really didn't say that at age 3 or 4 but he did grow up to become Rev. William McCarthy — beloved Father Bill — a true "People's Priest."

—Vivian Staudt

Society, his concern was for the unique individual before him who was in need. The energy and outlook of Father Bill gets him involved in a score of community organizations.

He was recently re-appointed a Commissioner of the Quincy Housing Authority by Mayor William Phelan and confirmed by the City Council where he continues his role as a strong advocate for affordable housing.

He has been an active board member with many charitable and civic organizations, among them:

Quincy Teen Mothers, the Mayor's Commission on the Family, My Brother's Keeper, Friends of the Unborn, Quincy Community Action, South Shore Council on Alcoholism, the American Red Cross, the Cancer Society, Granite Place, the Woodward School and as spiritual director of the Fatima Apostolate.

A longtime friend and parishioner, Ed Martin says: "There are few people in the parish and beyond that Father Bill hasn't touched with his kindness and support."

The stories are legend — the woman with five small kids and a pet dog who rang the bell at St. John's rectory late one night asking for Father Bill. She had no place to stay. Father Bill found food and a motel suite and later talked a local contractor into donating a house for her and her family...Parishioners emerging from Mass at St. John's Church one morning, a few years back, were stunned to see Father Bill standing in the middle of School Street directing the movement of a two and a half story house onto church property. The house would eventually provide a rooming house for merely homeless women.

Sharing time, the willingness to listen, the ability to find the best in human beings regardless of their circumstances, all are great gifts in a world seriously in danger of losing its soul. These are the gifts Father Bill gives day in and day out, sometimes at great personal cost to himself. Those who encounter these gifts or have been the beneficiary of his attention often cannot help but feel that they have stood in the presence of some far greater mystery.

Today, Father Bill continues to work for the poor and the homeless.

Father Bill's Philosophy

Help Needy Today, Tomorrow Is Too Late

By JOSEPH FINN

I once thought I knew what charity was about.

That is, until I met Father William McCarthy. Having spent most of my adult life in ministry or in the helping professions, I thought I knew what it meant to be a caring person.

Father Bill, as he is affectionately known by most people, challenged any previous notion I may have had about what it means to care for people, particularly for those in need.

Most of us understand that charity has something to do with assisting the poor or those in some kind of need. Most of us also have the luxury of compartmentalizing that component of our life through our professions, volunteer work or donations in support of some noble end.

Not Father Bill.

What distinguishes his approach to charity is the sense of immediacy he brings to it. When a homeless woman needs a place to live, when a man on the street is hungry, or when a disabled individual needs a new van in order to get around, whatever the relief required, a referral is never enough. I have never heard the man utter the phrase: "I wish I could help you but..."

His philosophy is: "Regardless the need, tomorrow is too late, it must be met, it must happen now."

Certainly not all of us are called to live this way. Father Bill recognizes first and foremost the person in front of him. He is blessed (or some might feel cursed) with a deep sense of empathy for the individual right in front of him at any given moment in space and time. He really does feel their pain. He knows that at times he has been taken for his charity. He once said to me he would rather be fooled a hundred times than to think that one really needy person suffered. For Father Bill, charity isn't just about the big things, like building a shelter or housing, it is the small things, like a spare buck or a kind word for a person down on their luck. I know this is true because I have experienced it first hand.

One of my favorite stories of Father Bill happened one Christmas Eve.

He was pastor at St. John's and my wife, Dolores, my then 18-month-old son, James, and I decided to attend Christmas Mass. Part of the reason we went was because we had heard that at St. John's they had a tradition of rolling out a birthday cake and singing happy birthday to Jesus. We thought that James would enjoy this. Sure enough, he was quite excited about the prospect of having cake at church. In fact, as we were soon to discover, cake was one of the key words of his growing vocabulary.

We sat up front at church, but it soon became obvious that there was no cake at this Mass. James started yelling at the top of his lungs, "CAKE!!" When that did not work, James screamed as well as to cry out for cake. I quickly picked him up and retreated to the side doors to take him outside and quiet him.

As I was outside and Christmas Mass continued, Father Bill walked out of the sacristy. "What's wrong?"

"Well, Father," I said. "James is a little disappointed. He thought he was going to get cake." Father looked down and said, "You want cake? Come with me."

Together we walked to the rectory. Once there we walked into the kitchen and Father Bill pulled out a massive layer cake and started slicing generous pieces off. "Here you go," he said. "How's this?" James was delighted and so was I. I was always moved to see his abundant generosity on display, even if only to satisfy a toddler's desire for cake.

Keeping up with Father Bill's charitable immediacy was not always easy. Shortly after arriving at Father Bill's Place as executive director, I was confronted with a problem. The showers at the shelter at St. John's School had no heat and we had no money to put them in. The people sheltered there froze during the winter trying to get a shower. I did my research and found a potential foundation willing to pay to put them in. Father was pastor and I thought I better get his permission to proceed before following up with the work necessary for the proposal.

I explained or at least I thought I had explained what was needed and asked if he understood. He said yes. This was on a Friday. On Monday, Father called and said, "I took care of that heating problem. I had the contractor do it over the weekend."

"That's great Father, but how are we going to pay for it?" I asked. Silence. I thought we were stuck because few foundations fund already completed projects. Apparently, all Father had heard was cold homeless people and that was enough to goad him into action.

The end of the story: the foundation was so impressed with his dedication to the cause and willingness to act that they picked up the whole bill.

There are a thousand stories of generosity and charity that make up the fabric of this man's life. The people he has housed with money out of his own pocket, the apartments he has cajoled for the poor or ill, and many more stories that cannot be told at this time. Whether large or small, what marks them all is that tremendous sense of immediacy. He brings a sense of divine urgency to the very human needs that surround us. In doing so, he reflects a transcendence of sorts.

He is a regular reminder to us that God's sense of charity is at times different than our own and his actions point to a source of love that works through our own frail human existence.

I may not know that much about charity. However, having had the privilege and honor to have known and worked with Father Bill leaves me now with no excuse. I need to pay closer attention to that person before me and to the one who creates that immediacy within me.

Father Bill, you have been alter Christus. Congratulations on this anniversary and many more.

Congratulations to Fr. Bill on his Golden Jubilee

'A Hallmark Of Your Priesthood' Cardinal Medeiros Saw Father Bill As 'The Good Shepherd'

(The following letter was sent to Fr. William McCarthy by Cardinal Humberto Medeiros Jan. 28, 1983)

Dear Father McCarthy:
Most recently I received from the Rev. Cornelius J. Heery, Episcopal Vicar for the Quincy Vicariate, the evaluation of your pastorate for the past six years at St. John's Parish, Quincy.

I have also received the recommendation of the Regional Bishop, the Most Rev. Daniel J. Hart. There is unanimous agreement that you should be reappointed as Pastor of St. John's Parish, Quincy for another period of six years effective immediately.

My dear Father McCarthy, it gives me great consolation to read in the evaluation that you are a very effective pastor, that you work well with your very active associates and with the parish council and the parish staff.

CARDINAL

What is particularly pleasing to me is your involvement as the good shepherd in ministry to the poor, the sick and the elderly. In fact, I am very much aware that this latter is a hallmark of your priesthood. Certainly it is true that the parish has been blessed with associate pastors who themselves are gifted and who are most willing to share their gifts with others.

The response of so many people to the daily and weekend Liturgies, the year-long "Rite for the Christian Initiation of Adults," the many and varied social programs, the encouragement given for participation in community and city affairs and several spiritual programs according to all of God's people at St. John's.

There are indications to me that the parish is very much alive with the grace of God and is seen as most beneficial in the lives of all of God's people in the parish and in the community of Quincy.

From your evaluation and as Archbishop of Boston, I derive great consolation in knowing that you have a very well organized religious education program conducted in accordance with the teaching and discipline of the Church.

This is so important especially because God's people have a right to know the truth without confusion and what the Church expects without equivocation. As I read the paragraph on "charitable programs" I instinctively bracketed the paragraph and marked "good." The St. Vincent de Paul Society is to be congratulated for its zeal and dedication to the poor.

Finally my dear Father, the financial report of the parish is most encouraging. God's people have responded to your leadership and to the service rendered. Their sacrificial offerings and their response to events have enabled you to be the good shepherd you are.

In paragraph 8 of the Second Vatican Council's "Decree on the Ministry and Life of Priests," we read: "all priests, who are constituted in the order of priesthood by the sacrament of Order, are bound together by an intimate sacramental brotherhood..." Indeed, this is as it must be for all form one priestly body in the diocese under their own bishop. "All are sent to cooperate in the same work, and all contribute to the same purpose, namely the building up of the Body of Christ..."

I am confident that this kind of brotherhood and cooperation and this kind of building up of the Body of Christ exists among the priests under your leadership at St. John's Parish, Quincy. Please convey my profound gratitude to all the priests, sisters and the laity at St. John's.

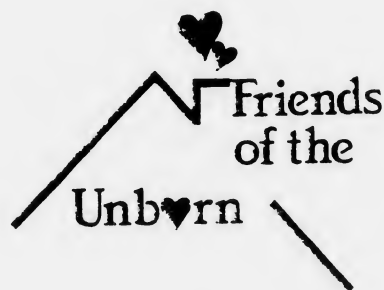

May the Lord continue to make good use of your gift and bring your ministry to fruition.

With a hearty blessing, I am

Devotedly yours in

Words From Father Bill

'There For The Grace Of God Go All Of Us'

Working with the homeless brings a great deal of satisfaction, but also some sorrow.

Seeing people regain their self respect and dignity is worthy any sacrifice that one can make. But seeing some that do not wish to resolve their lives to start over requires some patience.

Since we were established as an Interfaith Shelter we have an opportunity to express our ideals and virtues according to the law and counsel of the Lord. This gives us a chance to exercise what the Lord requires. "Blessed is the one who is considerate to the needy and poor. Generous is the one who is merciful and lends."

No time of day should be an interruption in our duty for the less fortunate. We should not say, "Come back and I will give you something tomorrow." Generosity is one thing that cannot admit to delay.

What could be more uplifting than to share our bread with the hungry and bring support to the needy and provide housing for the homeless with a joyful and eager heart? The grace of a good deed is doubled when it is done with promptness and speed. What is given with bad grace or against one's will is distasteful and far from praiseworthy.

When we perform an act of kindness we should rejoice and not be sad about it. We may ask ourselves the question, do we do this act with hesitation and grumbling? If we do so we are in danger, sacrificing self satisfaction and a feeling of doing something worthwhile.

Let us exercise Christian charity whenever we are given an opportunity to help the poor and those today who are homeless, so when we leave this world we will be received by Christ into an everlasting dwelling place.

These words which we have first expressed are one of the reasons that we are involved with the homeless. We must be sensitive that we often are serving those who have experienced setbacks which we have not personally confronted.

Homeless people are not only those we see on the street, alleyways and village greens, but also people who had professional and high paying jobs in the community, such as doctors, engineers, lawyers, bankers, etc.

We don't criticize these people until we have walked in their shoes. "There for the grace of God go all of us."

From time to time we have helped out people and we have been advised by others that they are unworthy to receive any help because they will use the money to obtain liquor. Let God be the judge of that. It is a worthwhile experience when after years a person that you may of helped out comes to you and shows gratitude by repaying what you have given them and says, "When I was alone and out, you were there for me."

This is the reason for a place like Father Bill's Place; to serve people who need a helping hand from time to time.

We are grateful to the many within our community — the volunteers and those who have given donations such as food and clothing and those who helped us financially. They have made Father Bill's Place possible.

It is not any one person who has made this possible but so many beautiful people who have given of their time, talent, treasure — and with their heart — to make our dream possible.

—Father Bill McCarthy

Father Bill's 18 Years As St. John's Pastor

Feb. 1, 1977 - Feb. 1, 1995

Pastor of
St. John the Baptist
Feb. 1, 1977 -
Feb. 1, 1995

This is to sum up the 18-year term of the Pastorate of Rev. William R. McCarthy.

Seeing the need of a larger gathering place for parishioners and also for more accessibility, after consulting with the Parish Council it was decided to use a portion of the lower church. We left the chapel, and used the remaining as a parish hall. This was because it was less costly of various proposals. This work was done in the fall of 1977 and completed Jan. 1978.

Bingo was introduced in Jan. 1978 to help in obtaining additional revenue for the parish. Bingo was discontinued Jan. 1984.

We introduced giving consolation booklets to the families who lost a loved one. We also tried to visit all families on the occasion of death.

In 1977 it was necessary to reinforce the foundation in the Church because the floor was sinking.

In 1979 we began the R.C.I.A. program for those interested in the Catholic Church which is still continuing.

To make the upper and lower church more accessible an elevator was installed in 1982.

In 1987 we refurbished the heating systems in the school, church, and rectory. We converted over to gas at that time. Air conditioning was installed in the upper church. This was due to a large amount of money ($200,000) that we received in a will to take care of the expenses of this renovation.

In 1977 the St. Anthony's Festival began by Father Dan Graham and continued for 20 years. It grew with more and more booths and went from one day to two days. The Mass for St. Anthony's Festival was celebrated during these years by Cardinal Humberto Medeiros, Cardinal Bernard Law, Most Rev. Joseph Rocco, Most Rev. Thomas Daily, Most Rev. Roberto Gonzalez, Most Rev. Robert Banks, and Most Rev. Alfred Hughes.

From 1978 to 1982 rendered service on the Quincy Housing Authority. At this time because of the many who had come for housing or a temporary place to stay, we became interested in establishing a place for people who were homeless.

In 1984 we provided 20 beds in a basement of the school for homeless men until April 1985. From that time on various temporary shelters were established. Faxon

House at Quincy City Hospital, Lutheran Church in Wollaston, and the Quincy Point Congregational Church. In 1988 a permanent shelter was established at the former Registry of Motor Vehicles building on Broad St. This housed 10 women and 35 men. In the fall of 1989 there was the need for housing of more men, so St. John's school basement was reopened again to provide 20 more beds for men which is still open at the present time. In 1997 the shelter on Broad Street expanded to take care of more women, added a wet shelter and office space for staff. At the present time we take care of 90 men and women.

In 1979 we began saying a weekly mass at Granite Place, Town Brook House, along with Martenson St. to provide weekly mass for the elderly who could not attend Sunday mass. For a short time mass was provided at 25 School St. We continue to expand the senior citizens organization with the establishment of a hall in the lower church.

A house was purchased at 31-49 School St. to take care of low income families. In 1990 a house was purchased next door to the rectory and turned over to Friends of the Unborn, to house homeless pregnant women. In 1988 a fine colonial house was moved from the property of the South Shore Chamber to the back of St. John's school in July of 1988 to house women who were homeless.

The budget of St. Vincent de Paul Society was increased and 10 percent of the parish income was provided to help the poor. The members of this society were encouraged not only to wait for the poor but to go out and seek the poor. Eventually the society began accepting women as members. The society also began a program to feed the homeless at the Long Island Shelter and Father Bill's Place two evenings a month.

Involvement in various organizations were felt necessary to find out what was going on in the community such as the Advisory Board of Granite Place, Archbishop Williams High School, Quincy Community Action, Quincy Council on Alcoholism, Quincy Teen Age Mothers, Quincy Affordable Housing, Woodward School, and the board of directors of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, and the South Shore Cancer Society.

Establishment of our own Pre-Cana program within the parish.

During the Pastorate I tried to keep buildings and property in good condition. Many of these things would not be accomplished without the cooperation of the priests and the fine parishioners who served under me.

For Dedication To The Needy And Homeless

Fr. Bill The Quincy Sun's Citizen Of The Year

Rev. William McCarthy was honored as the 1994 Quincy Sun "Citizen of the Year" for his dedication to the needy, the poor and the homeless over many years.

Father Bill was selected from among 37 nominees submitted by Quincy Sun readers. The final choice was made from the 37 by a panel of judges representing the community.

Father Bill was honored at a reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center attended by city and state officials, clergy colleagues, family, parishioners and friends.

The award was inscribed: "For Outstanding Community Service Through His Many Years of Dedication to Helping The Poor, The Hungry, The Homeless and All In Need Regardless of Race Or Religion."

Father Bill was nominated for The Sun award by the late Fr. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church and who then was also Vicar of the Quincy Catholic parishes.

Fr. Heery cited him for "his great sensitivity for the poor" and described him as "a gentle shepherd."

Deanna Gazarian, a trustee at the Woodward School, also nominated him "for all the good he has done for the people of all faiths."

The late Rev. Dr. Peter Corea, co-pastor of Houghs Neck Congregational Church and a member of the judging panel said: "He has been a great leader in the community — a positive force for good."

Fr. Peter Quinn, who served under Father McCarthy at St. John's Church and succeeded him as pastor, said:

"He has eased the anguish and suffering of countless people who were in physical, financial, spiritual or emotional need. He has touched many, many people."

Sun publisher Henry Bosworth said:

"He has generously given of himself throughout his life. If there is someone in need, he is there to help. You might say his generosity has no bounds."

Stories of Father Bill's generosity are legendary, he noted, recalling a couple:

"Like the time the housekeeper at the rectory reported the blankets missing. Fr. McCarthy had given them to a needy family."

"And, the time one of the beds disappeared from the rectory. It had gone to a home in Germantown that needed it."

"Father Bill would give you the shirt off his back — figuratively and literally. And if you said it didn't fit, he'd go out and get you one that did."

Now at age 75, he supposedly is semi-retired. But don't believe it.

He is assisting two parishes on the Cape and keeping busy at Father Bill's Place, the interfaith shelter for the homeless named in his honor in 1988.

After 50 years of dedication to those in need, he fondly is:

Father Bill: A "Priestly Priest" and a Living Legend.

THE QUINCY SUN honored Fr. William McCarthy as its 1994 "Citizen of the Year" for his many years of dedication to helping the poor, the hungry, the homeless and all in any other need regardless of race or religion." Memories and Milestones

FIFTY-SEVEN PRIESTS were on hand to help Fr. William McCarthy celebrate his 18th anniversary as pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy, in February, 1995. Front row, from left, Fr. Cornelius Heery, Fr. Peter Quinn, who succeeded Fr. McCarthy as pastor; Fr. Robert Dehan, Fr. Joseph Downey, Fr. Richard Moran, Fr. Thomas Oates, Deacon Charles Sullivan. Rear row, Fr. Daniel Graham, Fr. David Delaney, Fr. William Walsh, Fr. Theodore Fortier, Fr. Francis Conroy and Fr. Joseph Byrne.

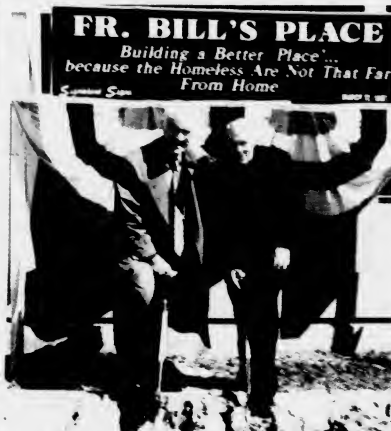

TWO BISHOPS and clergy colleagues helped celebrate the 40th anniversary of the ordination of Fr. William McCarthy, pastor, at a special Mass at St. John's Church in 1992. Seated are South Region Bishop Daniel Hart and North Region Bishop John Mulcahy. Standing, clockwise, are Rev. Daniel Graham, Rev. Francis Conroy, Rev. Thomas Oates, Rev. Robert Beale, Deacon Charles Sullivan, Rev. Richard Moran, Fr. McCarthy, Very Rev. Cornelius Heery, Deacon Joseph Papile, Rev. Peter Quinn, Rev. Ted Fortier, Fr. James Braley and Rev. William Walsh. Also attending, Rev. John McMahon.

CARDINAL RICHARD CUSHING with Fr. William McCarthy (left) and Fr. Daniel Lynch in the 1960s when both were assigned to St. Gregory's parish in Dorchester. Cardinal Cushing ordained Father Bill Jan. 10, 1952.

GOOD FRIEND Tom Flatley was there to help Fr. William McCarthy break ground for the new addition to Father Bill's Place in 1997. Quite appropriately for them, it was March 17.

HOLDING A LIGHTED candle, Fr. William McCarthy takes part in a procession in Fatima, Portugal in May, 1992 marking the 75th anniversary of the Appearance of the Blessed Mother to three peasant children. Father Bill was there as Archdiocesan Director of the Fatima Apostolate.

HAPPY 75th — Some 200 clergy colleagues, officials and friends were on hand in December, 2001, at the Common Market to help celebrate Fr. William McCarthy's 75th birthday. Among those attending and shown here with him were Fr. Peter Quinn, who succeeded him as pastor at St. John's Church; Joseph Finn, former executive director of Father Bill's Place and now a city councillor; Fr. Daniel Graham, St. Joseph's Church; Congressman William Delahunt and John Yazwinski, present executive director of Father Bill's Place.

THE VAPORDOME, a 50 by 50 structure sitting atop one of the gas tanks at Sprague Energy in Quincy Point, will be removed by the company at a cost of $150,000. Removal of the massive structure, which has not been in use for decades, is being done for aesthetic reasons and as a goodwill gesture to neighbors.

Work To Start This Week

Sprague To Remove Obsolete Vapordome As Goodwill Gesture

Petroleum wholesaler Sprague Energy is scheduled to begin work this week to remove an obsolete 50-by-50 "vapordome" which sits atop one of the tanks at its Quincy Point location.

The project will take an estimated two weeks to complete and will cost Sprague $150,000, said Stephen Cipullo, terminal manager at the Southern Artery site.

The vapordome — originally constructed to contain escaping gas fumes during a period when gasoline was stored in the tanks — has not been used since the 1970's, Cipullo said.

Cipullo said Sprague is removing the vapordome to improve the aesthetics of the surrounding area and as a goodwill gesture to its neighbors.

Cipullo thanked Mayor

William Phelan's office as well as Council President Daniel Raymondi for their efforts helping to coordinate the project.

Formerly the site of Quinoil, the Quincy Point operation was purchased by Sprague Energy in 1995.

Civil Service Exam May 11 To Fill Vacancy

Frane Will Retire As Police Chief

By CRAIG SALTERS

Quincy Police Chief Thomas Frane has made clear to Mayor William Phelan his intention to retire after more than three decades of service to the city.

Frane, who has been on sick and injured leave since undergoing triple-bypass surgery Jan. 3 of 2001, informed Phelan early last week that he had requested disability retirement papers from the city's Personnel Office and that he would submit such papers in the very near future.

Attempts by The Sun to contact Frane at his home for comment were unsuccessful. "Chief Frane has served the city well for many years."

CHIEF THOMAS FRANE said Phelan, "We wish him and his family all the best in his retirement."

Personnel Director Roberta Kety said that at least four police captains (Cont'd On Page 22)

Tax Bills Trigger Howls At City Hall

"Inundated."

That's the word Mayor William Phelan used to describe the mayor's office, assessor's office, and treasurer's office as angry taxpayers call City Hall to complain about fourth quarter property tax bills which reflect a significant increase from bills mailed for the third quarter.

All of which Phelan said he finds "ironic" at best and "unfair" at worst for two reasons: one, he said, because the city went to great lengths to prepare taxpayers for the sharp tax spike, and, two, because the bills are a reflection of the FY 2002 budget submitted by his predecessor, former Mayor James Sheets, and not the FY 2003 budget Phelan intends to submit to the City Council in May.

"As much as we tried to educate people as to the fourth quarter tax bill, they were legitimately shocked."

City Hails McCullough's Pulitzer For 'John Adams'

Quincy couldn't have been any happier at the news this week that one of its favorite authors, historian David McCullough, had won the prestigious Pulitzer Prize for his best selling biography "John Adams."

It was the second Pulitzer for McCullough, who turns out his copy on a 1941 Royal typewriter instead of on a computer.

He won his first prize in 1992 for his highly acclaimed biography "Truman."

McCullough virtually lived in Quincy researching his material for his book on the Quincy-born second U.S. President, which took over six years to research and write.

A Martha's Vineyard resident, he said he was "thrilled and grateful" for being selected.

And indicated that he found himself getting closer to his subject, John Adams, than he did to his subject Harry Truman.

Mayor William Phelan congratulated McCullough and said the book has had "a wonderful impact on the city's tourism industry" and now should have even a greater one.

He said tourism here has (Cont'd On Page 12)

Students To Raise Funds, Awareness With 'Operation Day's Work'

Young activists from several Quincy schools will do a day's community service at the Thomas Crane Public Library on Tuesday, April 16 to help respond to President Bush's State of the Union challenge to: "... volunteer 4,000 hours for America and for needy people on distant shores."

Thirty students from Broad Meadows Middle School, Quincy High School, and North Quincy High School have planned after school for months to find ways to serve locally and globally. Their resulting plan is to report on Tuesday, April 16 to the library grounds in Quincy Center to rake and sweep winter's debris away.

Students will also plant flowers in the Children's Peace Garden outside the Children's Room in memory of slain, former child laborer Iqbal Masih of Pakistan, who visited Broad Meadows Middle School in 1994 to raise awareness of child labor issues. On April 16, 1995, Masih was shot dead in Pakistan, most likely for speaking out against child labor.

The Peace Garden will soon be dedicated to Iqbal Masih and the children of the world.

Inside the library the students will present a "Child Labor Symposium" beginning at 1 p.m. The symposium will include a presentation by the students about their award-winning child labor campaign. People of all ages are encouraged to attend.

In addition to helping their community library and remembering Masih, the students will heed President Bush's call for service by calling attention to poor, working children in Ethiopia.

Instead of being paid for their "day's work" at the library, the student volunteers will donate 100 percent of donations pledged by neighbors, family members, and Quincy businesses to fund an education project for needy children in Ethiopia.

Twenty-eight schools in other states -- including Oregon, Colorado, Arkansas, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, North Dakota, and Washington DC -- are pooling their "day's pay" also to fund the Ethiopian educational project. The students call their service project "Operation Day's Work-USA."

Together, the 28 schools hope to raise $40,000 in one day. The students nationally have raised over $100,000 since 1999. Since 1995, the Quincy students alone have raised over $160,000, most of it to establish a "A School for Iqbal" in Pakistan.

This is the fourth year the Quincy students have worked as volunteers at the Crane Library. Ethiopia is the sixth country whose

Iqbal Masih Education Foundation To Help Pakistani Students

As Quincy students honor the memory of slain child labor activist Iqbal Masih April 16 with their participation in Operation Day's Work, Masih's legacy will be remembered half a world away in his native Pakistan.

On April 16, SUDHAAR, a non-governmental organization and longtime partner of the Broad Meadows Middle School, will announce the creation of the Iqbal Masih Education Foundation. The foundation will identify needy youth in Pakistan and then provide scholarships for those students to attend school.

A former child slave from the ages of four to 10 working as a bonded carpet weaver, Masih visited Broad Meadows Middle School in 1994 to raise awareness of child labor issues.

On April 16, 1995, Masih was shot and murdered in Pakistan.

children have benefited from the combined students' work day and fundraising. The Quincy students and their peers in the 28 sister schools nationwide have worked a day each school year to fund education projects in Nepal, El Salvador, Haiti, Pakistan, and now... Ethiopia.

In addition, the Quincy students voted to work a day last November and raised over $3,000 for the education of U.S. children who lost a parent or both parents on Sept. 11.

Said ninth grader Mary Bloomer: "Operation Day's Work helps us, also. The kids who participate learn about developing countries. We learn about their culture, land features, and, most importantly, their needs."

"It's not all work and learning," Bloomer added. "It's also very fun. As we work with our friends we laugh, take pictures, and have a good time."

Seventh grader Lillian

Sticco said, "The problems children face in poor countries are enormous. Some people see millions of poor children around the world and think there is nothing that can be done about it. In Operation Day's Work, we refuse to have that attitude. Nothing would ever change if everyone thought like that."

"We can't change the whole world, but in Operation Day's Work we can change the world a little."

The Boston Celtics have selected Operation Day's Work as a "Hero Among Us" and made a presentation during a recent game against the Dallas Mavericks.

Any school can join Operation Day's Work-USA at no cost. For more information, write to endlabor@aol.com.

The April 16th Child Labor Symposium begins at 1 p.m. and is free and open to the public. For more information, call (617) 376-2411.

Japanese Restaurant To Open In Quincy Center

The first Japanese restaurant in Quincy Center is being renovated and will be open this summer. The other one is in North Quincy.

The License Board Tuesday voted unanimously to give a common victualer and beer and wine license to Helen and Dickey Lee, new owners of the Kagawa Japanese Restaurant at 1554 Hancock St., formerly Standard TV.

Atty. Dennis Harrington, representing the owners showed plans to the board of the 3,000 square foot building. He said it has been completely "gutted" and plans are to put everything new including walls, floors, ceiling, appliances, dumpsters, and all equipment.

Harrington said the 89 seat eatery is being completely remodeled at a cost of more than $200,000.

He said the Sushi room will be private surrounded by a screen as is the Japanese culture.

Harrington said the dumpster outside would be enclosed.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said that when Standard TV was there for its more than 40 years, the outside would sometimes have old appliances in the back of the building. Harrington assured the board that the owners of the building have also leased the land in the rear so that the dumpster would be enclosed. He added that the back will be "dressed up" so that patrons can go from their car to the restaurant.

Marilyn Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association said they are working on the back area of the building to make it "more attractive" and said it all fits in with the strategy to revitalize Quincy Center.

She added the "visitors to Quincy will be able to travel the world using their taste buds as their passports."

The restaurant will be open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday and Fridays and Saturdays until 1 a.m.

Chairman Joseph Shea read a letter of support from Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro. Gutro said he was only concerned with the dumpster and the noise issue. Gutro said he has had favorable responses from residents on Revere Rd. and Mechanic St.

However Harrington said as far as the noise issue is concerned there is enough space between the restaurant and any residents he double there would be a noise issue.

The request now goes to the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission for approval.

Citizen Police Academy To Begin Nine-Week Program

The Quincy Police Department announces that Session 15 of the Citizens Police Academy will be held Thursdays from May 2 until June 27 from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Quincy Police Academy, located inside Quincy Police Department Headquarters, 1 Sea St.

During the nine-week program participants will hear from many police officers on their various specialties. Topics will include: the hiring process, police stress, criminal law, search and seizure, weapons and tactics, and murder scenario.

There will also be a K-9 demonstration and an opportunity for participants to go on a ride-along in a police cruiser.

Applicants must be residents of Quincy and be at least 21 years of age. Applications are available at Quincy Police Headquarters.

Prospective students can also call (617) 745-5719 and an application will be mailed to them.

Close to 400 residents have already graduated from the program, said Quincy Police Department Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna.

Attention Quincy Homeowners:

Concerned that you won't have enough to cover your property tax increase?

It's the classic "good news/bad news" situation. The real estate market in Quincy is very hot and, congratulations, your house is worth more than you may have imagined. Unfortunately, your real estate taxes are pegged to your assessment and – due to an unusual set of circumstances – you have to come up with the difference on short notice. There's no need to make a partial payment, no need to go delinquent. Come see us and bring your tax bill. Fill out a simple application and you'll have an answer within 48 hours. The loan will be enough to cover your tax increase and you can pay it back in 12 equal monthly installments. But May 6th is coming up fast. Don't wait until the last minute. Stop by our 15 Beach Street office – next to the Wollaston Post Office – today.

Fr. McCarthy: A Living Legend

Brian Taylor, a former homeless drug addict so desperate he even planned suicide, said it simply and probably summed it up best.

He was one of the lesser known of the approximate 500 people honoring Fr. William McCarthy on the 50th anniversary of his ordination at a reception Sunday at the Quincy Marriott.

Noting the notables on the podium with him -- including a congressman, two mayors, a former mayor, a city councillor, and a bank CEO, Taylor quietly said: "Because of Father Bill, I feel as important as they are."

A friend had told him about Father Bill's Place, the interfaith shelter for the homeless here in Quincy.

"The night I went there I was going to commit suicide," he said.

But with the help he got at the shelter and from the man for whom it is named, he slowly got his life turned around and his self-respect and dignity as a human being restored.

He is now living in transitional housing with his wife and four children.

"If I could be half the man Father Bill is, I would be a great man. Father Bill is a true hero."

And with that, he walked over to his hero and gave him a hug.

The tributes flowed.

"A community without a Father Bill is just a place," said Congressman William Delahunt. "It is not a community. A truly remarkable individual, you have given so much to us. You have left an incredible legacy."

Mayor William Phelan, who noted that Fr. McCarthy married him and his wife, Tracey, and baptized their four children, paid tribute to him as "a symbol and inspiration of hope for the homeless."

Phelan proclaimed April 7-14 as "Father Bill Week."

There was praise from former Mayor Arthur Tobin, a long-time friend, who was the emcee at the reception.

Weymouth Mayor David Madden said there is more to helping the homeless than "just providing a bed, it is providing a home. Father Bill has done that so well."

City Councillor Joseph Finn, former executive director at Fr. Bill's Place, recalled campaigning for that office and people telling him "you left there to run for the city council."

"I told them I left Fr. Bill's Place because I couldn't keep up with Fr. Bill. ... He is a wonderful human being, a wonderful priest."

John Yazwinski, present executive director, noted: "He is willing to give everything he has to other people."

Arthur Connelly, CEO of South Shore Savings Bank, and chairman of Fr. Bill's Golden Jubilee Committee, said: "You have been a champion of the downtrodden."

There was humor throughout the evening about Fr. McCarthy's virtual around-the-clock fundraising for Father Bill's Place which depends on donations along with subsidies for its $2.5 million operating budget.

Connelly told the one about the Quincy police officer who asked Fr. McCarthy if he had a gun permit.

"What do I need a gun permit for," Fr. McCarthy asked back.

"For all the people you hold up," the officer replied.

Connelly also recalled Fr. McCarthy being at the Marriott when it opened and blessing it.

He said Fr. McCarthy also wished Tom Flatley good luck in his new venture and then added: "But if it should be unsuccessful this would make great affordable housing."

Fr. McCarthy thanked all who planned and attended the reception giving him "the recognition that keeps your spirits up."

Then he wryly noted:

"Now that I am winding down a little, I think it might run for political office. We own four (shelter) homes in Weymouth. I could establish residency there."

He then turned to Madden and asked: "Do you mind if I run for mayor?" Madden smiled.

Phelan, someone mused, probably thought having him run in Weymouth was a better idea than running for mayor in Quincy.

Earlier in the day, Fr. McCarthy celebrated a Mass of Thanksgiving in observance of his Golden Jubilee at St. John's Church where he served 18 years as pastor from Feb. 1, 1977 to Feb. 1, 1995.

Concelebrants at the Mass were Fr. Peter Quinn, who succeeded him as pastor; Fr. Gerard Pentringa, and Fr. William Mullin of St. John's; Fr. William Walsh, former Quincy Hospital chaplain; Fr. Theodore Fortier, present chaplain at QMC; Fr. Mark Hession, pastor Our Lady of Victory Parish in Centerville; Fr. Philip Davignon of Osterville. Deacons were Joseph Stanley and James Barrett.

Members of the family attended, including Fr. McCarthy's 90-year-old sister, Mary Perrone, who is now a nursing home resident. She was given a standing ovation.

Two nephews, John and William Perrone participated in the readings. Presentation of gifts were brought to the altar by Lucy Perrone, Danielle Perrone, Christopher Perrone, Kim Tessier, Melissa Perrone White and Cheri Valle.

Referring to the priests who concelebrated the Mass, Fr. William McCarthy, apparently thinking of the present crisis in the Boston Archdiocese, said: "With men like this, the church is in good shape."

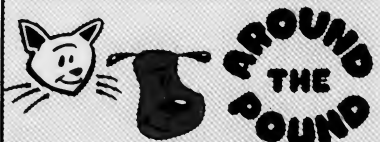

Fr. McCarthy now assists at Our Lady of Victory in Centerville and Our Lady of Hope parish in West Barnstable.

But he spends two or three days a week helping out at Fr. Bill's Place and raising funds.

He has devoted a half-century to the poor, the hungry and the homeless.

And at age 75, he still has more mileage to give those in need.

A living legend.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1915 postcard view of the old Wollaston Congregational Church at 48 Winthrop Avenue on the corner of Lincoln Avenue in what was then called Wollaston Heights. Only the second church in the Wollaston community this building served its congregation for 50 years. A stucco parish house was added to the rear of it in 1915. Then in 1926 this wooden church was replaced with a granite gothic-design building which is still extant.

Seeks Leniency In Kindergarten Eligibility

The School Committee is proposing to move back kindergarten eligibility from its current "age 5 as of December 31" to "age 5 as of September 1." Moving the date back by four months is a drastic change and unfair to families like mine who have children with birthdays that fall shortly after Sept. 1.

I do not believe a child's abilities should be judged by their birth date alone, but rather a combination of factors. If some children are not doing well in kindergarten because they tend to be a little younger and not quite ready, then maybe the screening process which takes place in March should be more of a determining factor in whether or not to wait an additional year. Input from parents and preschool teachers could also be used in the screening process since they would be most familiar with the child's abilities.

I understand that many surrounding school districts use the date of September 1, or close to it, in determining eligibility and it is believed that Quincy should follow suit for consistency across districts. My husband and I have made a choice to live in and raise our children in Quincy. We have no plans to move to another city or town, and believe it is unfair to adopt a new and strict policy because others are doing it, or that it may make it easier for new families moving into the city. I feel the city of Quincy shouldn't just follow along, but rather be an innovative leader in adopting a policy which has an eligibility deadline with some leniency, and allows the use of other criteria in determining entrance eligibility. We need to be fair to the children and give those close to the proposed deadline a chance to prove their readiness to attend kindergarten.

I am well aware that it is impossible to please every family affected by this, but changing the eligibility date so drastically along with keeping a "no exceptions" rule shows little effort in trying to please anyone. Some leniency with the deadline as well as the use of other criteria to judge a child's readiness is very fair to all and would make many more parents happier.

It may take a little more work, but I believe Quincy is up to the challenge.

Pray For The Church

The "true spiritual renewal" that John Howard and other "orthodox, conservative Roman Catholics" long for ("Church Lost Its Way After Vatican II," The Quincy Sun, March 21) already occurred in the Sixteenth Century under the slogan Ecclesia reformata, semper reformanda secundum verbum Dei, or "The church reformed and always being reformed according to the Word of God."

The Protestant Reformation brought about true spiritual renewal with the emphasis as it should always be: Christ the great Head of the Church and the Word Of God (Holy Scripture) understood through the illuminating work of the Holy Spirit as his reforming agent.

While the various churches that stand under umbrella of this reform cannot boast of anything approaching perfection (indeed, we as Protestants have much to be sorrowful for in our own history), we too stand aghast at the same recent actions of certain Roman Catholic clergy that prompted Mr. Howard's letter.

As Father Andrew Greeley, the Chicago historian, has observed, "there is no Protestant counterpart to this situation." I call on Christians of all stripes to be in prayer for the Church in our day—Roman Catholic, Protestant, Orthodox—that it would undergo the kind of renewal envisioned by the Reformers of old, "according to the Word of God."

Paul Kennedy Named To State Board Of Examiners Of Plumbers And Gasfitters

Paul Kennedy of Quincy was recently named by Acting Governor Jane Swift to the State Board of Examiners of Plumbers and Gasfitters.

Kennedy was appointed to a two-year term on the board that regulates the plumbing and gasfitting industry by establishing guidelines for license attainment and overseeing the implementation of industry standards.

Kennedy, a Squantum resident, is the president and CEO of Patrick J. Kennedy & Sons, Inc. of Boston. The 75-year-old mechanical contracting company employs 50 personnel.

Kennedy has held a Master Pipefitter license, Master Gasfitter license, and a Master Plumber license for more than three decades. Kennedy has managed the day-to-day operation of P.J. Kennedy & Sons for more than 25 years.

"It is an honor to serve the people of the Commonwealth on the State Board of Examiners and Gasfitters," said Kennedy. "I appreciate Governor Swift's nomination and I hope to use three decades of industry knowledge in an effort to maintain the integrity of this profession and the people who serve it."

Kennedy's record of public service includes: Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors of Greater Boston; American Society of Heating, Cooling/Refrigeration Engineers; and vice chairman of the Quincy Conservation Commission.

He also serves on the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee, the Board of Directors at Squantum Gardens

Elderly Housing Complex, the Board of Trustees for Eastern Bank Corporation, and the Board of Directors for the Boston Young Men's Christian Union. He is a former member of the Commission on Boston Harbor and Beaches, appointed by former Governor William Weld.

In her appointment letter to Kennedy, Swift highlighted Kennedy's experience in the industry and his record of sound judgement in the profession as the basis for his appointment.

"I am happy to put more than 30 years of professional work experience to use for the Commonwealth. I look forward to serving with other members of the board in an effort to maintain the standards of our industry," added Kennedy.

John Adams Care Center Gains 5-Star Certification

John Adams Continuing Care Center recently received the Five Star Excellence Certification given by National HealthCare Corporation at its annual management conference in Desert Springs, CA.

The certification recognizes the performances of the staff and publicly recognizes the center and staff as one of NHC's best.

To obtain the Five Star Excellence Certification, the center must attain high scores in NHC's own survey process which includes a customer satisfaction index, consumer view rating, and several patient care components. In addition, Five Star recipients must receive a high score on their state survey and pass an inspection performed by NHC President Andrew Adams.

John Adams Continuing Care Center, located at 211 Franklin St., is a 71-bed center which provides a full-range of long-term health care services including 24-hour professional nursing care as well as speech, physical, and occupational therapy.

Generally speaking, the city is going to have to do an analysis on the feasibility of renovation to both of the schools -- the current Quincy High School and the current Central Middle School -- in order to obtain the necessary permits from the regulatory agencies," Phelan explained.

By CRAIG SALTERS

As a matter of opinion, Mayor William Phelan believes there should be a new Central Middle School for the city of Quincy.

As a matter of opinion, Quincy resident Julie Berberan believes the current school on Hancock St. could be renovated to suit the city's needs.

But opinions such as these will be rendered moot in the coming months, said Phelan, as the permitting process required for both a new Quincy High School and new Central Middle School will necessitate the study of alternative plans, including renovation.

Federal environmental permits, the mayor continued, will require comprehensive analyses of the sites and possible effects to the environment and "included in that will be the feasibility of renovation."

"It's my opinion, and it's only my opinion, that clearly we need a new Central Middle School," Phelan said. "However, in terms of an actual feasibility study, that will be done in the permitting process."

The official city plan approved by the School Committee is to construct a new Quincy High School on Faxon Field and renovate the existing QHS to become the new Central Middle School.

As a first-term member of the School Committee, Phelan led the successful campaign not to build the new QHS on a former industrial landfill off of Quincy Avenue, a site scrapped in November of 2000 by then Mayor James Sheets.

Also prominent in that campaign was Berberan, a Houghton Neck resident who ran unsuccessfully for councillor at-large in last year's election and was one of many candidates considered at February's joint convention of the City Council and School Committee to appoint a new member of the School Committee to fill Phelan's unexpired term.

"There is no basis to replace Central Middle School," said Berberan, who also contends that no studies exist to support several costs outlined in a 1997 report on Middle School Evaluation program put together by the city's Department of Public Works (DPW), including one $7.2 million estimate for work needed at Central.

To support her claim, Berberan made a Freedom of Information Act request to the DPW and obtained a letter dated March 29, 2002 and signed by newly appointed DPW Commissioner Jay Fink. The letter reads:

"In response to your Freedom of Information Request of March 7, 2002, and pursuant to our follow-up meeting regarding the same, please be advised that after researching our files and discussions with the architects associated with the rebuilding of the schools, Cole & Goyette, we are unable to find the back-up information for the values totaling $7,525,000."

"This project should not go forward until a study is done," said Berberan.

Berberan conceded that Central Middle School, more than 100 years old and the oldest school in the city's system, has issues that need to be addressed, such as the need for an elevator or a new boiler.

However, she added, similar problems affect many schools throughout the city.

"And often schools built 50 years ago are better built than newer schools," she said, noting such former public schools as the Willard School, Gridley Bryant School, and Adams School which still exist in the city with different uses.

Milton Concert To Aid Father Bill's Place

The a cappella sextet a.k.a. Pelican Groove will perform at the third Taber Concert Series of the season Friday, April 12, at 8 p.m. at the East Congregational Church of Milton. 610 Adams St., Milton.

Admission is $10 or $8 for students and seniors, with $1 of each ticket going to benefit Father Bill's Place in Quincy.

a.k.a. Pelican Groove is made up of six vocal performers, whose repertoire includes classical rhythm & blues, doo-wop, 70's soul, 90's alternative and more. It's modern, funky, groove-based a cappella sound many in the audience have never heard.

Members of the sextet are Bob Lutz, Andy Long, Charlie Deal, Alice Murphy Burge, Scott Evvard and Chris Saulnier.

A coffee and dessert reception with the artists will follow the performance. Call 617-698-0270 for more information.

Young, Old Join Forces In 'Intergenerational Games'

For an hour and a half each Saturday morning, about 10 students from the Sterling Middle School visit the John Adams Continuing Care Center to play "intergenerational games" with the elderly residents.

The program began Jan.

5 and will continue until April 13 with the expectation that the youngsters and the old folks will learn from each other while playing cards, Scrabble, Uno, dominoes and other games.

The project was developed by Amy George as a requirement for the Smith College School for Social Work Graduate Program in cooperation with School Supt. Dr. Richard DiCristoforo and the Care Center on Franklin Street, South Quincy.

Benefit Dance For Marion Cedrone April 27

Friends and former classmates of Marion Cedrone will hold a benefit dance Saturday, April 27, at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Sons of Italy Hall, Quarry St.

Over the past couple of years, Cedrone has lost both legs to prorriferal vascular disease. A former business owner and lifelong resident of Quincy, she graduated from Quincy High School in 1964.

Through this benefit, her

friends and former classmates hope to help her regain some of her lost independence and purchase a handicap van, which will enable her to do her everyday chores and travel to mentor other double amputees.

Tickets cost $25 per person and donations may be made to: Paula Ryan, 24 Franklin Road, Norwell, MA 02061.

For more information call Toni Kabilian at 617-773-5171.

Book Group To Discuss 'House Of Sand and Fog'

(Cont'd From Page 1)

"close to doubled" since the book's first printing and said he feels it will continue to climb because of the Pulitzer Prize.

Ann McLaughlin, director of the Thomas Crane Public Library, recalled McCullough at a fund-raiser there in June, 2000.

"When I heard that David McCullough had won the Pulitzer Prize for 'John Adams,' I felt a sense of pride as I would for a family member," she said.

"We had the great honor of hearing him read from the then unpublished book when he came to raise money for the library.

"We all sat spellbound as he read, and would have sat there as long as this magician with words continued to read.

"What a wonderful talent he has to bring history to life in such a way that his characters live again and his books are on the top of the best seller list. How appropriate that he should win his second Pulitzer Prize on this monumental book."

McCullough, who reportedly can command up to $50,000 for a speaking appearance, appeared that night free. He raised $25,000 for the library's new addition.

For him it was giving something back to the community.

"Quincy," he said, "has become very important to me" as a researching source for the book.

And he took time out to chat with those in attendance and to autograph books with personalized inscriptions.

Impact Quincy Presentation On Social Norms Friday

Impact Quincy, a program of Bay State Community Services, will host a presentation on Social Norms tomorrow (Friday) from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Marriott Hotel, 1000 Marriott Drive, Salon 5, Quincy.

The event will feature Jeff W. Linkenbach, Ed.D., a faculty member in the Department of Health and Human Development at Montana State University.

Following his presentation, IQ will present its community-based Social Norm's strategies, which have been implemented in its underage anti-drinking campaign during the last three years.

The Social Norms concept provides a model for understanding human behavior, which is influenced by incorrect perceptions of how other members of our society think and act.

This concept predicts that overestimation by one individual or a group of healthy/ unhealthy behavior of other individuals will result in increase/decrease in problem behavior by that individual, or a group. Correcting these misperceptions will likely result in increased prevalence of healthy behaviors.

IQ's Social Norms approach in its campaign was undertaken by promoting positive messages and encouraging positive behaviors practiced by the majority of Quincy youth via media campaign. And also by educating local teens to the true facts about students' drinking behavior, which allowed IQ to demonstrate a positive shift that occurred in substance abuse behavior among city students (based on the self-reported date of Youth Risk Behavior Report 2000).

Woll-Nut Shop Ready To Close Doors April 30

The Woll-Nut Shop, a landmark in the Wollaston neighborhood since 1985, will close its doors April 30th as owner Kenneth Good, age 76, prepares for a well-deserved retirement.

"It's the right time," said Good, who started the one-of-a-kind candy and nut shop in 1985 with his brother Everett, who passed away two and a half years ago. "My lease was coming up and I thought it was time to retire."

In a world of generic mass production, the tiny shop at 17 and 1/2 Beale St. made a name for itself with delicious candies and chocolates, colorful front window displays, and nuts of all varieties hand-roasted on the premises.

But, as good as the shop's delicacies are, what neighbors say they'll miss most is the warm and friendly atmosphere fostered by Good and his late brother over the years.

"I had tears in my eyes when I saw the sign (announcing the closing)," said Barbara Jordan, a realtor at nearby Granite Group Real Estate. "It's like this old-fashioned candy shop that just makes you feel good."

Jordan noted how crowded the Woll-Nut Shop was during Christmas and other holidays but, more importantly, she emphasized how patient and attentive Good was to his customers, especially seniors and children.

As an example, Jordan pointed to her seven year old daughter Jacqueline who has developed a friendship with Good over the years, stopping by to talk at lunch and tapping a hello on the storefront glass every time she passes. On her birthday, Jacqueline's mother said, the girl received "a big basket of goodies" from Good to mark the occasion.

"The store itself just has that hometown feel," remarked Lynne Houghton, manager of the Wollaston office of Jack Conway Real Estate and president of the Wollaston Business Association (WBA).

The Good brothers, Houghton said, were longtime members of the WBA and very supportive of the organization. They knew customers like Houghton — "They have the best butter cremes and fudge in the world," she said — on a first-name basis and could prepare many customers' orders by memory.

But most of all, Houghton said, "They were kind and they were gentlemen."

"The Woll-Nut Shop will be sorely missed." Good, a Quincy resident, seemed slightly embarrassed by all the attention.

"They flatter me," Good said of the praise heaped upon himself and his tiny candy and nut shop. "The people here have been wonderful to me."

"It's been a wonderful ride for 17 years."

FRESH ROASTED NUTS, delicious chocolates and candies, and old-fashioned service will be just that much harder to come by now that Woll-Nut Shop owner Kenneth Good has announced April 30 as the store's final day. "It's the right time," said Good, who is retiring at the age of 76. Good, who opened the store in 1985 with his brother Everett, who passed away almost three years ago, thanked his customers and neighbors for their support over the years.

READERS FORUM

The Issue Is Separation Of Church And State

On Tuesday, March 26th I attended the public meeting sponsored by the Quincy Human Rights Commission to discuss the Christmas manger scene in front of City Hall. I congratulate the Human Rights Commission for being sensitive enough of this issue's importance to invite public testimony. I also applauded the courageous stand this representative commission took in providing a forum for citizens and coming to a decision regarding the inappropriateness of the creche in front of City Hall.

I was one of several citizens there that night that offered testimony in objection to the placement of a nativity scene in front of Quincy City Hall and on city property. I also bought with me copies of petitions signed by members and friends of United First Parish Church (The Church of the Presidents) and 11 statements of personal response from them regarding the nativity scene in front of City Hall last December.

The issue is quite simple yet profound -- it is about the separation of church and state. Quincy does not have a "state" religion; so why would we citizens expect to see a religious display of one denomination so prominently displayed on city property. Think about what that nativity scene says and means to the thousands of non-Christian citizens of Quincy?

As a life-long citizen of Quincy, I personally like to see churches at Christmas time display their nativity scenes, but on their own property. At least a dozen Christian churches in Quincy do this every year. By using their own private property they honor and respect their own religious beliefs and history as well as the belief in the separation of church and state. I understand that some of our local religious communities would choose not to participate in a display on public property if asked, because they believe that religious expression is a private matter, not a public matter.

In this multicultural city of ours, we must learn to respect diversity of both culture and religion. All cultures celebrate holidays just as significant to their faiths as Christmas is to Christians. It shows a lack of empathy, compassion and understanding when the city honors the religion of one faith to the exclusion of the others. We all need to understand that the majority does not automatically determine right. I think that the city acted without thought to this "gift" in memory of a much-respected priest and to the precedent that it set.

We should not be naive as to the "legality" issues surrounding the First Amendment Supreme Court decision. The city should avoid providing public space for religious groups. If some religious "hate groups" were to demand space for a display on city hall plaza; the city would "legally" have to allow them their right to freedom of speech. Groups have acted in Quincy in the past that call themselves religious, but profess doctrines of hatred and violence. Many other communities have avoided this "legal" problem altogether by not allowing any religious displays on public property.

This issue is not about "why nobody complained in the past" or "it's a Quincy tradition." Both these arguments are weak and lack real substance. The truth is for years the nativity display has bothered many people in this city and finally their voices have been heard. Perhaps it was the larger than usual size of the display, its prominent location, or the use of city trucks and city workers on city time. This "tradition" needs to be re-examined seriously by our city government.

We have the opportunity to do the "right" thing here in Quincy. We should commend the leaders and members of the Quincy Human Rights Commission who have dedicated themselves to establishing Quincy as a "No Place For Hate" city and have taken the courageous first step.

Since September 11, 2001 many of us have come to understand the real complexities of living in a global community -- Quincy today is a global community -- a city full of many faiths and beliefs. No one faith should claim superiority over the others. Nor should "tradition" be the rationale for continuing insensitive behavior. What we need are new civic behaviors that reinforce what real community is all about. Real community treasures, celebrates and protects diversity, even if it is not yet a "tradition" in Quincy.

Seaside Food Pantry Needs Your Help

The Seaside Advocacy Group, Inc. is a food pantry that serves all of the Ward 1 neighborhood.

The pantry opened in 1995 and has been going strong until now. Although we lease space from the Quincy Housing Authority for $1 a year, there are the everyday expenses that are continually getting higher.

In 2001 our pantry spent approximately $7,400 on just food. With this expense coming first it leaves very little to pay our bills such as the telephone, plastic bags, writing paper, and cleaning materials, etc.

Although we only serve the Ward 1 neighborhood, we distributed over 45,000 pounds of food in 2001. This does not include the 300 baskets that were distributed during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

With private and public donations becoming smaller and smaller, it is terribly difficult for a small pantry like ours to continue serving those in need.

In order for the Seaside Food Pantry to continue helping those in need, we need your assistance. If you can, please send your donations to: Seaside Food Pantry, 15 Bicknell St., Quincy, MA 02169 or call us at (617) 479-0828.

Justice For All

The Preamble to the Constitution of the United States states that the number one prerequisite to achieve "a more perfect Union" is to "establish Justice" -- equal justice for all.

The Preamble further implies that establishment of justice would "insure domestic tranquility."

Would it be too much to ask from the government of the United States to apply the same standards in its foreign policy as in its domestic policy: to establish the same justice for all, which would insure global tranquility?

Every war is a terrorist activity no matter what excuse is given for it.

It seems to be obvious that terrorism cannot be eradicated by war against all, but by justice for all.

"Be afraid of him, who is unafraid to die." -- Ivan Mazuranic

A Waterfront Park At Quincy Shipyard

The future of the Fore River/Quincy Shipyard:

I said five years ago (Quincy Sun letter) and I'll say it again: We should do nothing with it. Level it and make it a waterfront park. Sell Goliath (the big crane). Most, if not all, material could be scrapped and sold to someone. And enough baloney about how grandparents and kin worked there. We're grateful but as Daniel Webster said, "It is for us the living and not the dead..."

I suspect and fear someone with a shallow vision is going to suggest more housing. We're doing things backwards here. Take a look out your window. There's much premature blooming going on. There's a reason and warning that best be heeded. There's too much pollution in the air and the world is overpopulated. Greenhouse effect. Old Story. But we can't keep catering to the needs of an ever-expanding population. We need to enforce some curb on growth or else we won't have anywhere else to go. Why should we care about posterity? Actually, why shouldn't we?

The illusion of more money is deceiving, too. It tends to induce a false sense of security. No doubt some will propose an idea that will stimulate more money for the city of Quincy. But like the man, who gets a promotion at work but finds out that it involves much more time, has he gotten a raise?

Motions for advocacy should be stimulated and enforced for more neutral space at the shipyard. A waterfront park would do much to improve the air and living quality in Quincy and surrounding neighborhoods.

Morrisette Post Accepting Scholarship Applications

Applications are currently being accepted for scholarships awarded by the Cyril P. Morrisette American Legion Post.

To be eligible, applicants must be North Quincy or Quincy High School graduates from this year's graduating class or graduates of other secondary schools who are children or grandchildren of members in good standing of the Morrisette Post or of deceased individuals who were members in good standing at the time of their deaths.

Applicants must have been accepted as freshmen in institutions of higher learning awarding bachelor or associate degrees.

Applications may be picked up at the Law Offices of Attorney Carl R. Johnson III, 10 McGrath Highway in Quincy.

Completed applications must be mailed or delivered, together with the required documentation, to said 10 McGrath Highway addressed to Scholarship Chairman Paul A. M. Hunt, c/o Carl R. Johnson III, Esq., so as to be received on or before 4 p.m. on Thursday, April 25.

Applicants will be notified of their interview times assigned for the evening of Wednesday, May 1 (or May 2 if necessary).

Applicants unable to attend the interview dates should call Hunt at (617) 479-6716 and leave a message but are urged to do so well in advance of the interview dates. Furthermore, the scholarship committee urges candidates to make every effort to attend at the time and place specified in order to be considered.

City Council Briefs

The City Council took the following action at its most recent meeting held April 1:

- Accepted a $500 gift from Congressman William Delahunt for the city's Human Rights Commission.

- Voted by a 5-4 margin not to adopt a proposed ordinance change authored by Councillor Frank McCauley which would have required that any changes in city traffic ordinances be approved by the city's traffic engineer. Councillors defeated the proposed ordinance after voting to reconsider the measure, which was originally defeated March 18 on a 4-4 vote.

- Voted not to re-zone land at the Fore River Shipyard from Industrial B To P.U.D. property. Although six of nine councillors voted in favor of re-zoning, the measure failed because a seven-vote "super majority" was required due to land-owner objections to the re-zoning.

- Adjourned in memory of David Minkofsky of Quincy who died April 1 at the age of 84.

Neponset, Fore Rivers Cleanup Set For April 20

The Environmental Treasures of Quincy program will help celebrate Earth Day by taking part in the cleanup of the Neponset and Fore Rivers Saturday, April 20, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Volunteers for the Neponset River cleanup will meet at Squantum Point Park behind Marina Bay near the Deer Island Boat Pier.

Those involved in the cleanup of the Fore River will meet in the Snug Harbor School parking lot, 333 Palmer St., Houghs Neck.

Call Britt Lundgren at 781-575-0354 or 617-983-8297 for details.

Volunteers are urged by the Park Department to wear sturdy shoes and bring waders and work gloves if they are available.

There will be a barbecue with free Environmental Treasures birthday cake after the cleanup.

Center For Tech Education Receives RIT Certification

The Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT) has recognized the Quincy public schools by certifying its Project Lead the Way (PLTW) Pre-Engineering Technology Program at the Center for Technical Education.

"The (school) district through certification has provided an opportunity to their students," said Professor Guy Johnson, director of RIT and PLTW's National Training Center.

"They may now apply for RIT transcripted college credit, if they demonstrate exemplary work in their pre-engineering courses and on the RIT final examination which will be administered in May."

"We are very pleased to be able to offer this incredible opportunity to our students," said School Superintendent Dr. Richard DeCristofaro. "The engineering and technology fields continue to have significant growth potential and through PLTW our students will be able to have early access to them."

The Quincy public schools introduced the pre-engineering, five-course sequence last year and has more than 35 students in the program. Nationally, the program is offered in more than 170 schools in 26 states.

The certification process included a self-assessment of the PLTW program and a one-day site visit by Johnson and three members of the community. The committee met with teachers, administrators, students, counselors and reviewed student course portfolios.

"A crucial element in the success of the program is teacher updating and counselor awareness of the latest initiative for students," said Johnson.

Three Residents On Springfield Dean's List

Three Quincy residents have been named to the Dean's List for the fall term at Springfield College.

They are: William Anastasia, a sophomore majoring in communications/sports journalism; Kevin Bowes, a senior majoring in psychology; and Stephen Wiltshire.

a senior majoring in psychology and dynamics of learning.

Quincy 2000 Providing Financing For New Restaurant

Joseph Mannarino, executive director of Quincy 2000, Quincy's non-profit, public/private partnership for economic development, announces the corporation will provide financing for the soon to open Fajitas & 'Ritas, 1237 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

More than a dozen new jobs will be made available to area residents making the restaurant loan an excellent investment of the city's Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds, Mannarino said.

The $45,000 loan to Fajitas & 'Ritas equates to $5,000 for each of the expected nine low to moderate income (LMI) positions that will be created, he said. CDBG guidelines allow up to $35,000 for each such job.

"Quincy 2000 is able to achieve these efficiencies through leveraging of private funds allocated by its 11 member banks," Mannarino said. "At Fajitas & 'Ritas, the Quincy 2000 CDBG loan is being provided in conjunction with a senior loan from Citizens Bank."

Fajitas & 'Ritas, a Tex-Mex eatery, has operated in Boston's Downtown Crossing for 13 years and in Brookline for eight years.

"We learned very early on that if a business wants to come to Quincy, the place to start is Quincy 2000," said restaurant owner Bradley Fredericks. "They have been tremendously helpful with everything from site finding to permitting and culminating with this loan for our new equipment. They have brought great local knowledge and advocacy to moving our restaurant forward."

Since the inception of its job creation loan programs five years ago, Quincy 2000 has loaned over $2.6 million in the creation of 235 jobs within Quincy's small businesses and on loan terms more flexible than commercially available, Mannarino said.

Banks participating in the $5 million Quincy 2000 Loan Pool are Bank of Canton, Century, Citizens, Colonial Federal, Eastern, Fleet, Massachusetts Co-op, Rockland Trust, South Shore Co-op, South Shore Savings and Sovereign. Through risk sharing among its member banks and the city's CDBG funds, Quincy 2000 provides a unique and vital access to capital for the stability and growth of the city's small business community.

Fajitas & 'Ritas' new Quincy location is an example of Quincy 2000's ability to partner with others to bring new businesses, and the jobs they create, to Quincy, Mannarino said.

FAJITAS & 'RITAS, a Tex-Mex eatery with popular locations in Boston and Brookline, will open a third restaurant in Quincy Center thanks in part to a $45,000 loan from Quincy 2000. From left are Bradley Fredericks, president of Fajitas & 'Ritas, Inc.; Maria Fredericks, clerk, Fajitas & 'Ritas, Inc.; and Richard Mason, economic development specialist for Quincy 2000.

"In recessionary periods with growing unemployment and a great need for working capital, Quincy 2000's funding and technical assistance programs are of utmost significance to the economic health of the city and the region," he said.

Since its creation in 1992, Quincy 2000 has been instrumental in attracting a multitude of businesses and employers who have created over 1,000 jobs in Quincy, Mannarino noted.

Fr. William McCarthy Celebrates Golden Jubilee

GOLDEN JUBILEE -- Fr. William McCarthy (center) celebrates the 50th anniversary of his ordination at a Mass of Thanksgiving at St. John's Church where he served 18 years as pastor. Concelebrants included, from left, Fr. Peter Quinn, who succeeded him as pastor; Fr. Philip Davignon, Our Lady of Assumption in Osterville; Fr. William Walsh, former chaplain at Quincy Hospital; Fr. Mark Hession, pastor Our Lady of Victory parish in Centerville; Fr. William Mullin, St. John's and Fr. Theodore Fortier, Quincy Medical Center chaplain.

CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM DELAHUNT tells the audience of approximately 500, "A community without a Father Bill is just a place." Seated are Fr. William McCarthy, Weymouth Mayor David Madden behind him; Arthur Connelly, committee chairman; Quincy Mayor William Phelan, former Mayor Arthur Tobin, the emcee; and behind Delahunt, Brian Taylor, who turned his life around with the help of Father Bill.

MOLLY VALLEE, 20 months old great-great niece of Fr. McCarthy, found a lamb and the flowers at the altar at St. John's church an attraction she just couldn't resist.

Authorized 2.5% Tax Hike Not Necessary, Says QTA

Proposition 2 and 1/2 permits the city to raise taxes 2.5 percent and, in spite of an expected budget deficit that calls for heavy cuts in the Fiscal 2003 budget, the Quincy Taxpayers' Association doesn't think the city needs it.

"It is the position of the Quincy Taxpayers' Association that the city government must break itself of its addiction to raising property taxes every year," said Alan H. Cousin, the association president, following a meeting with Mayor William Phelan.

"For that reason, we urge you to continue to work to save enough money so that the 2.5 percent annual increase in the tax levy limit need not be used. It is our further position that spending does impact taxes because the more city government spends, the more it just raise from taxation."

Cousin and QTA Research Director Robert Haley met with Phelan and members of his staff last week to discuss what he called "a fiscal state of emergency" in the city.

"The emergency has been brought about by people who either didn't know or didn't care how to manage the people's money," he said. "We need to take drastic steps to get past this emergency and ensure that it doesn't happen again."

Some of the steps proposed by Cousin and the QTA include:

- Creation of a permanent position of finance director, under the jurisdiction of the mayor "In fact, if need be, we would favor an office of management and budget instead of an office of constituent services."

- Bonding the remaining payments for the Quincy Medical Center. "Although bonding for those payments would cost the city more money in the long term because of interest payments, it would make $4.5 million available for the city budget in each of the next two years."

- Solve the city's school building needs by constructing a new Central Middle School, not a new high school. "The city will not be able to renovate Central because the costs of doing so would be largely classified as remedial maintenance and so not subject to reimbursement.

"A new Quincy High School is, in itself, neither needed nor warranted. The city cannot show it has done its job of evaluating all alternative to constructing a new high school as required by Department of Education regulations; since this has not been done, either DOE or a judge will stop this project."

- Find a way to curtail "the exorbitant increases in city salaries in recent years. We gather that many employees received cost of living raises in conjunction with step increases or upgrades. The people of Quincy can't afford this largesse to their employees."

- Demand a management letter from Deloitte and Touche for the Fiscal 2001 budget. "This management letter should be addressing the city's apparent lack of internal financial controls, lack of monitoring for spending and payment of carryover bills without funds properly encumbered to do so."

- Implement a comprehensive fundraising program to fund Phelan's technology plan for the public schools. "Please bear in mind, the city must not only purchase hardware and software, but also make sure students and teachers know how to put them to the best possible educational use, otherwise the money . . . would be wasted." The certification process i

The First Steps And Best Foundation For The Mortgage Process Loan Prequalification, Preapproval Boost Buyers' Offers

By CAROL CONWAY BULMAN
President
Conway Financial Services
Fifth in a series on the "basics" of the homebuying process.

In past columns, we've discussed closing costs, title insurance, private mortgage insurance and what a borrower needs to gather together for a mortgage application.

Given all of that information, it's fitting to discuss pre-qualification and pre-approval, the first steps and best foundation for the mortgage process.

Once you're ready to begin a home search or certainly at the time of making an offer to purchase it's critical for you, the borrower, to know the approximate mortgage amount for which you qualify.

Today's sellers are savvy and know that their home is eligible for; the pre-qualification and the pre-approval.

A pre-qualification for a mortgage can be completed over the telephone, at your real estate agent's office, or at your own kitchen table, in about 30 minutes, free of charge. Upon review of your preliminary credit report, your income position and the amount of money you have available, the mortgage specialist is now prepared to put an approximate mortgage range in writing for you. Although helpful, a pre-qualification is subject to verification of all documentation and subject to a lender's review and approval.

A pre-approval, on the other hand, is one step closer to a full mortgage commitment. In fact, the pre-approval is a commitment to lend conditioned upon the buyer finding a property to purchase and any other items needed to verify the borrower's financial position. This is a necessary process if you have not yet decided upon a particular home but would like the security of knowing exactly how much of a mortgage you can realistically obtain.

In this case, the mortgage specialist meets with you, gathers the same information as they would obtain for a full application but omits the property information. The information collected is checked by sending out verification forms or by requesting supporting documentation such as W-2 forms, pay stubs, bank statements, etc.

Once all this information is processed and collected you may now confidently begin the search for a home, knowing that the seller will view you as a well-qualified potential purchaser.

It's important to mention that although you, the future home buyer will know your exact buying power, when you present the preapproval form to the seller via the real estate agent, your full buying power need not be mentioned.

You may simply request that the mortgage specialist create the form for the specific offer that you are making. In other words, language such as, "The buyer has been qualified for a mortgage up to the amount that you are offering for the property. This was your negotiation edge has not been compromised."

Now that you have the information about the pre-approval and pre-qualification part of the search for a home, you are ready to pound the pavement and find that dream home.

In the next installment, we will discuss the process once your loan is submitted to a mortgage company or bank, whether in a pre-approved status (subject to your finding a home) or an actual mortgage application.

Neighborhood Housing Services, Bank Of Canton First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop At Crane Library April 20, 27

Neighborhood Housing Services will hold an accredited and MHFA-certified First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop in partnership with Bank of Canton Saturdays, April 20 and 27, at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive your homebuying certificate, which is required by most lenders to qualify for the many different mortgage options, such as the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs, down payment and closing costs grants and other special first-time homebuyer financing options.

An approved First-Time Homebuyer Counseling Agency, NHS is a non-profit organization dedicated to assisting first-time buyers through the homebuying process. The staff at NHS helps obtain down payment and closing costs assistance as well as rehab grants for their clients, which are available throughout the entire South Shore area.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. Focus includes how to locate a property within budget, how to make an offer and determining the best mortgage program.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited. A $10 refundable registration fee is required.

For more information and to register for the workshop, contact Debbie Edgerly at 617-770-2227, ext. 31.

Danny Sordello Recognized For Outstanding Real Estate Sales

Danny Sordello, broker/associate with RE/MAX of the South Shore in Quincy, was recently named to the 100% Club for outstanding sales during a year, announces RE/MAX of New England Executive Vice President/Regional Director H. Charles Lemire Jr.

Sordello was formally inducted into the club at the organization's awards celebration at the Boston Marriott Copley Place. Less than 9 percent of RE/MAX of New England associates achieved this award for last year's performance.

"Being named to the 100% Club is a result of a

Realtors To Present Broker-Owner Seminars

The Massachusetts Association of Realtors® (MAR) will debut a new seminar series this spring for real estate broker-owners which will provide insight and instruction on corporate operations, office policies, new technology, and financial management issues that affect a company's productivity and profitability.

The MAR Broker-Owner Seminar will be presented on a quarterly basis in regional locations across the state, and will include both panel discussions and guest lectures from nationally recognized business consultants and real estate industry experts.

The first seminar, entitled "How to Reduce Your Risk to Legal Liability," will take place Thursday, May 2 from 10 a.m. to noon at the MAR's headquarters, 256 Second Ave., Waltham. Topics include: the top five business risks for broker-owners; key strategies to avoid costly lawsuits, and how to save money while getting the most from your errors and omissions insurance coverage.

Additionally, attendees will learn how to perform a legal audit, the essential components for developing effective office policies on single and dual agency, and the specific steps a broker can take to minimize exposure to fair housing complaints and Chapter 93A lawsuits.

Featured speakers at the seminar on limiting legal liability will be MAR General Counsel Stephen J. Ryan, Esq.; Robert S. Kutner, Esq., the MAR's outside counsel and an attorney at the Boston law firm Casner & Edwards; Rosemarie Phillips, vice president for risk management systems at Carlson/GMAC Real Estate; and Janete Carrero, a New England-based claims consultant for real estate E&O coverage for CNA Insurance.

Future broker-owner seminars will include "Creating an Office Automation Strategy for Your Company on Sept. 17 and "Planning for the Future: Acquisitions, Mergers and Exit Strategies for Brokers" on Oct. 29.

The MAR Broker-Owner Seminar series is open to Designated Realtors® and real estate office principals/owners. For more information and/or to register, call MAR at 800-725-6272 or sign up on line at www.marealtor.com.

Ingesting lead-based paint or lead dust can cause nervous-system damage and poses a particular danger to pregnant women and children under the age of six. Thus, there is a federal rule requiring residential property owners to warn prospective buyers or renters if they know of lead-based paint in houses or apartments built before 1978. The rule also applies to real estate agents, who are obliged to tell potential buyers if they know of the presence of lead paint. Sellers of property must also give buyers up to ten days before a deal goes through to conduct a risk assessment or inspection for the presence of lead. With this information, consumers can make more informed decisions to better protect their families.

Federal regulations on lead-based paint are designed to protect the health of pregnant women and young children. At CENTRAL REAL ESTATE, we remain current with all real estate regulations and share them with both buyers and sellers so that transactions can proceed efficiently for all parties involved. Sellers, we can advise you on how to address federal regulations and how to increase the curb appeal of homes. Buyers, we show you a variety of homes that meet your particular needs and budget. Call us at (617) 328-1312, or visit us at 128 McGrath Highway for personal service from your area specialist.

HINT: Sellers are not required to test their properties for lead-based paint, and the buyer can waive the right to test the property.

said Phelan.

Traditionally, the first two property tax bills of a fiscal year are preliminary estimates and the last two are actual tax bills which factor in property tax rates set by the City Council in December of that fiscal year.

For FY 2002, delays in state certification of the city's financial figures resulted in the city's property tax rates not being set until March 27, meaning that the fourth quarter bill includes a lump sum tax differential usually spread out over the third and fourth quarter tax bills.

Furthermore, Phelan said, those bills pay for a FY 2002 budget prepared before he took office and which actually validate, he said, some of the reasons he ran for election in the first place.

"These bills are the result of overspending, clearly," Phelan said, adding that at least a $2 million deficit existed for FY 2002 even after higher than expected new growth figures offset decreases in MWRA payments and state aid.

"That bill was pre-determined," Phelan said. "It's ironic because that (the overspending) is why I ran for office: I saw these deficits coming."

Phelan also reminded residents that the city is required by law to re-evaluate all property in the city every three years and that that also contributed to the tax bill increase.

In FY 2001, the average single-family home in Quincy was valued at $154,100 and that homeowner paid $2,456 in property taxes. That same home in FY 2002 is valued at $226,500 and that same homeowner will pay $2,976 in property taxes.

Phelan said his next step will be attend the many tax exemption workshops for seniors sponsored by the City Council in an effort to continue to provide information and assistance to residents.

"I'm the mayor and I'm in office and that's the way it is," Phelan said.

Mayor Commends City Efforts On Producing Tax Bills

Even in an ordinary year, the task of preparing the city's tax bills is a thankless job.

And given this year's delay in state certification of the city's financial figures, that job became even more so.

That's why Mayor William Phelan began his press conference in the mayor's office last Thursday by presenting citations to some of the city workers who, he said, "worked night and day to get the job done."

"These are some of the hardest working people you could meet," said Phelan, noting that much of the necessary work was done nights and weekends on a software system which required "three times the amount of work" compared to other systems.

Receiving citations from the mayor were: Marion Fantucchio, chairwoman of the Board of Assessors; Lynn Fox, administrative assistant to the Board of Assessors; Jacquelyne Reid, principal clerk/ATB clerk; Janet Miller, principal clerk I; and Ellen Garofalo, systems analyst in the Information Technology and Telecommunications Services Department.

Woman Loses Life In S.A. Fire

Although the incident is still under investigation, officials are treating as accidental the horrific fire last Friday night at the 1000 Southern Artery senior complex which claimed the life of 66-year old resident Harriet A. Spellman.

Spellman, who received second and third degree burns to between 70 to 80 percent of her body, died early Monday morning in the Burn Unit of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, said Inspector John Keegan of the Quincy Fire Department.

Apparently, investigators believe, Spellman's nightgown caught fire as she was cooking in her sixth floor apartment in the South Building of the senior complex. The nightgown apparently became consumed with flames even as Spellman went to a next door neighbor's apartment for help. With the aid of responding Quincy Police officers and a building custodian, neighbors were able to put out the fire using wet towels.

Ultimately, however, those efforts were not enough.

"This is tragic," said

Keegan, who said Spellman's neighbors were very traumatized by the incident, including one who received medical attention. "Her neighbors did everything they possibly could."

The Quincy Fire Department, in conjunction with the Quincy Police Department, Massachusetts State Police, and State Fire Marshal, is investigating the fire, which was reported slightly after 8 p.m.

Keegan said burn marks and other details at the scene were consistent with an accidental fire.

The death of Spellman brings to four the number of fire fatalities in Quincy in recent months: Weymouth resident Charles E. Cummings Jr. died Dec. 17 in an accidental car fire at Marina Bay; Kathleen Madden, who was terminally ill and bedridden, was killed Dec. 18 when fire broke out in her Sea St. home; and Robert Doherty, who was confined to a wheelchair, died March 30 during a four-alarm fire at the condominium complex at 15 Bower Rd. in Quincy Point where he lived.

have applied to take the Civil Service Exam for police chief on May 11 and that a list of names generated by the exam could be available to the mayor by the fall.

Because four captains, the minimum requirement by Civil Service law, have signed up to take the exam, the exam itself will be closed to all other ranks.

According to Kety, the city has six officers currently serving in the capacity of captain, those being: Capt. Frederick J. Laracy; Capt. Terence P. Kelly; Capt. Robert Crowley; Capt. Allan F. Gillan; Capt. James A. McNeil; and Temporary Captain Vincent M. Flaherty.

In addition, there is Captain William Falco who has been serving as acting chief of police since May of 2001.

Capt. Laracy is scheduled to retire in June.

Frane's decision to retire will end a more than 30-year career with the Quincy Police Department which began in December of 1971 when he was sworn in as a patrolman for the city.

Frane was promoted to sergeant in January of 1980, to lieutenant in April of 1987, and to captain in November of 1992.

In September of 1997 Frane took over as chief of police when he succeeded the retiring Francis Mullen.

Keohane Funeral Home Signs Partnership With North Quincy High School

John Keohane, funeral director at the Keohane Funeral Home, recently entered the funeral home into a partnership with North Quincy High School as a member of the Quincy School-Partnership Program.

The Quincy School-Community Partnership seeks to match businesses, community service agencies, and institutions of higher education with individual Quincy schools in mutually beneficial relationships.

Keohane has accepted invitations over the years to speak to the students in the Guidance Department's Bereavement Support Group, which is comprised of students who have chosen to join the class and have all recently experienced the death of a close family member or friend.

"My emphasis is to demystify the process of death and dying for these students and to be a resource for their questions," Keohane said.

After participating in these workshops for many years, Keohane said it was a logical step to enter into a formal partnership with the high school.

As a partner, Keohane Funeral Home will continue to speak to students, parents, and teachers as well as sponsor various programs throughout the school year. Goals of the partnership include providing students with additional strengths and resources and serving the city by offering community-wide support for the positive development of youth and families.

Rear Admiral Roger T. Nolan, Commander, Naval Reserve Readiness Command Northeast, Newport, RI, served as guest speaker at the ceremony.

Whitbred was commander of Explosive Ordnance Disposal Mobile Unit 17 in Whidbey Island, WA, where he had served since October of 1998. Prior to his duty in Washington, he served as Ordnance Officer of Naval Weapons Station Yorktown in Yorktown, VA. Whitbred was commissioned a Naval Reserve Officer in the Training and Administration of Reserves Program in 1997. His awards include the Navy Commendation Medal and Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal. He is qualified as a Special Operations Officer, Deep Sea Diving Officer, Master EOD Technician, and Naval Parachutist.

Wiseman retired from the Naval Reserve after 26 years. He attended Officer Candidate School in Newport, RI. Prior to serving as Commanding Officer of the Naval Reserve Center, Quincy, Wiseman reported as Chief Staff Officer to Commander Maritime Preposition Ships Squadron 2, based in Diego Garcia. He is a graduate of the Naval War College. His awards include the Meritorious Service Medal, Navy Commendation Medal, and Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal.

The Naval Reserve Center, Quincy, coordinates the duties and assignments of 19 Naval Reserve Units across New England. The Reserve Center also oversees the enlistment of Naval Reserve sailors and assists with recall duties.

Wollaston Child Care Center Names New Directors

The year-old Wollaston Child Care Center, 47 Weston Ave., a community service of the Wollaston Lutheran Church, has appointed a board of directors for 2002. The members are:

The Rev. Richard M. Law, chairman; Marcia Bailey, Shirley-Jean Black, Joanne Chow, Jackie Kwan, Jean Leslie, Ruth Marrocco, Audrey Peterson, the Rev. Adolph Wismar and Barbara Wismar.

Ward 5 City Councillor Douglas Gutro will serve as an honorary member.

The Child Care Center is planning several events to celebrate the first anniversary of its dedication.

An International Food Tasting Evening, featuring tables of food from many nations to be sampled, is planned for Saturday, May 11, at the Fenno House, 540 Hancock St. Admission is $5 per person. Chair is Shirley-Jean Black.

The Sunday, May 19, service at the Wollaston Lutheran Church will combine both English and Chinese-speaking members in a bilingual service to celebrate the anniversary. The public is invited to both events.

The Center is currently enrolling children ages 2, 9 and 7 for their sixth and final classroom.

It is open for tours daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Open houses will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays, April 13 and 14 and April 27 and 28.

Director of the Center is Marcia Bailey.

Alcohol Awareness: Time To Ask Your Kids, And Yourself, Some Tough Questions

We devote a great deal of attention to the health dangers of smoking and the prevention of youth nicotine addiction. However, startling statistics compiled by numerous health organizations suggest that alcohol abuse may pose an even greater threat to young people.

A study by the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) shows that nearly half of ninth-grade students in this country admit to trying alcohol before age 13, while just 27 percent had smoked a cigarette by the same age.

A 1999 study conducted by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) shows that nearly one-third of all eighth graders and one-half of all 10th graders have been drunk at least once, while one-fifth of all ninth-graders admit to binge drinking (consuming five drinks or more at one time) in the past month.

"The numbers get higher as the kids are getting just slightly older," said Mark A. Goldstein, M.D., chief of Pediatrics and Student Health Services at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and chair of the Student Health and Sports Medicine Committee of the Massachusetts Medical Society (MMS). "More than 60 percent of high school seniors say they currently are using alcohol."

Most young people who indulge in alcohol during their early and mid-teens will continue to drink later in life. In fact, more than 40 percent of individuals who start drinking before age 13 will abuse or become dependent on alcohol at some point in their lives.

Mixed Messages

"There are a lot of factors that make alcohol so popular among young people," Dr. Goldstein said. "Sometimes they get mixed messages from their parents who abuse alcohol themselves. There's also peer pressure and the images created by advertising and movies that make alcohol consumption look attractive."

Dr. Goldstein said the CDC identifies alcohol as being the most popular drug, by far, among teenagers, and he said not enough has been done to inform young people about the dangers of alcohol.

"We've done a great job educating about the health problems associated with tobacco, but there has been no similar program on alcohol and alcohol abuse."

To address this, the MMS is developing an education initiative to familiarize young people with the dangers of alcohol abuse. The program is modeled after a successful MMS anti-tobacco initiative, which involved students from across the state in a poster campaign identifying smoking as a key public health issue.

"We want the students to be the ones who form their own messages about alcohol abuse," Dr. Goldstein said.

Warning Signs

Some behavioral changes among young people that may signal alcohol abuse include the following:

- Academic problems such as a sudden drop in grades.
- Injuries under unusual circumstances including auto accidents or unexplained falls.
- Risky behavior, such as being a passenger with a driver who has been drinking.

- Impaired judgment, including missing curfews.
- Coming home in a disheveled or semi-conscious condition.

Left unchecked, alcohol abuse not only can increase the chances of alcoholism, but also may cause other health problems including liver disease and hypertension.

Parental Action

Dr. Goldstein said it's imperative for parents to play a pre-emptive role in helping kids to avoid alcohol abuse. He recommends the following:

- Start talking with your kids about the dangers of alcohol when they are in the fifth or sixth grade.
- Set a positive example by handling alcohol responsibly.

- Assume an active role in your children's lives before they start drinking.

"We simply should not condone alcohol use by adolescents," said Dr. Goldstein, who believes that one important element to prevent alcohol abuse is to set a standard of zero tolerance for youth drinking. In addition, he said, there should be educational efforts about the health risks from drinking.

For more information about alcohol and underage drinking, log on to the Web site of the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration at www.samhsa.gov.

Dean Tsapatsaris SSMH Quality Management Director

Dean Tsapatsaris, LICSW, has been named Director of Quality Management at South Shore Mental Health (SSMH).

Tsapatsaris will report on consumer and referral satisfaction levels and outcome indicators, which measure the effectiveness of services provided at the agency. He will also be involved in quality improvement initiatives such as the development of exit interviews with past employees.

In addition, he will continue to see clients at his private practice, Nichols Brook Family Counseling in Danvers.

Previously, Tsapatsaris served as Director of Quality Management at Riverside Community Care in Dedham. Prior to this, he served for eight years as Director of Quality and Utilization Management at SSMH.

"We have in Dean one of the best in the field of quality management for human services," said Allan Kamfonik, Ph.D., vice president of Quality of Care at SSMH. "Everyone is excited about his return to the position."

Tsapatsaris holds a master's degree in social work from Boston University and a masters of mathematics and computer science from the University of Massachusetts at Lowell.

"I am pleased to be back working with colleagues who are so committed to providing quality services to the people in our community," Tsapatsaris said. "I enjoy being able to turn data into information that will be useful for managers to maintain the level of excellence we as a healthcare provider are known for."

Tsapatsaris resides in Hyde Park with his family.

Women Choose To Move Toward Better Health

(NAPS) — Fewer than one in 10 women are aware of their No. 1 health threat — heart disease and stroke. There is heartening news: the risk of heart attack and stroke can be lessened.

A few simple steps can help keep you on the path toward health and fitness. Here are hints from experts:

First, if you smoke...Quit! Talk to your doctor about ways to kick the habit once and for all.

Next, eat smart. Following a diet low in fat and cholesterol will reduce your risk for heart disease. Eat fish, poultry, lean meats, low-fat or non-fat dairy products, whole grains and plenty of fruits and vegetables.

Then, get moving. Studies show physically active women have a substantially lower risk of cardiovascular disease than sedentary women. Start off slowly and gradually build up to a routine, aiming for a minimum of 30 minutes of aerobic exercise most days of the week. Remember, housework, walking the dog and your yard work can all be part of your commitment to increased activity. Consult your doctor before starting a new exercise program.

To help busy women find the time for fitness and gain energy, a free 12-week physical activity program has been created by the American Heart Association and Bayer Aspirin. Called Choose To Move, the free, sensible program helps women recognize small, manageable changes they can fit into their lifestyles.

Each participant gets a program book filled with tips and tools to help her achieve her fitness goals.

BRINGING THINGS TO A GRINDING HALT

Anyone who has ever heard his or her sleeping partner grind his or her teeth at night will tell you that it is a most unpleasant sound. Moreover, tooth grinding (bruxism) can cause wear and tear on the teeth and damage bone and gums. This rhythmic activity of the jawbone, forcing contact between dental surfaces, has also been linked to headaches, joint discomfort, muscle aches, and premature tooth loss. Although this problem affects more than 8% of the population, many are unaware they have a problem with tooth grinding until a sleep partner makes them aware of the fact. This should prompt a visit to the dentist, who can then prescribe a mouthguard to protect the teeth.

Do you grind your teeth? Are you a candidate for a "mouthguard?" We will decide together what your options are for your particular situation. You can count on us for family-oriented dental care. When is the last time you had a professional dental check-up? We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we're currently accepting new patients. Providing high quality care is the goal of our practice, where we stress preventive dentistry for all members of the family. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. Many people with bruxism report that it is related to aggravation, stress, and anxiety.

Quincy's Goal: Making 'Noise' In State Tourney

By CHRIS POISSON

A year ago, head coach Mike Sedar didn't envision his young Quincy High School softball team competing for a spot in the tournament.

After a four-year run that produced three wins, the Presidents surprised many by finishing with a 7-11 record.

With the core of the team five juniors back for their third season, Sedar has raised the expectations. Not only does he want his team to get into the tournament, but he wants it to make some noise.

"Last year I told you I don't worry about the tournament," Sedar said. "This year I think we should be in the tournament. But I'd like to be in the tournament and do some damage, not just get there."

So far this season, Quincy

SOFTBALL

(2-1) has a pair of wins against Plymouth South sandwiching a 9-3 loss to Dedham last Friday, all non-league contests. On Tuesday, it hosted Whitman-Hanson in the league opener and today (Thursday) it travels to Nauset at 1:30 p.m.

On Monday, the Presidents whipped the Panthers, 12-2, at Pageant Field. Junior pitcher Stacey Andrew turned in an impressive performance in her season debut, allowing two runs on just four hits while striking out seven and walking one in a complete-game effort.

Sedar expects big things from his pitching staff this season. While Andrew was silencing the Panthers, sophomore Rachael Sorensen, who started the first two games of the season, was firing a no-hitter in the JV game.

Joining Andrew and Sorensen on the staff are sophomore Rose Bell and freshman Rebekka Sorensen, Rachael's younger sister.

"If we can do some things with the pitching, I think we can do some damage this year," Sedar said. "This was Andrew's first game today. Sorensen has been doing the whole load. She pitched the first two games and I think she just pitched a no-hitter down at jayvees."

In the first inning, Quincy scored five runs as it took advantage of several Plymouth South errors and wild pitches. In the second, junior quad-captain Diane Gilbody laced an RBI single to right and later scored on an error to make it 7-0.

Plymouth South got on the board in the third. After fanning the first two hitters, Andrew walked the next batter and then yielded an RBI double.

In the bottom half, though, the Presidents responded with four runs to increase their lead to 11-1. Gilbody stroked a two-run triple and later scored on a wild pitch, and junior quad-captain Shannon Paine added a run-scoring triple.

Quincy added a run in the fifth to make it 12-1 and Plymouth South reached Andrew for its second run in the sixth to close out the scoring. "We played pretty well," Sedar said. "This is a team we should beat. It's a good win for us. We hit the ball a little better today so I'm pleased with that. We spent a lot of time on hitting this year, so we expect to hit. We should do some damage with the bats. We're bigger. We're stronger. We did a lot of off-season work with weight lifting and nutrition."

Senior quad-captain Michelle Pilalas has been the team's leading hitter. In the 21-4 win over Plymouth South in the season-opener, she went 4 for 5 with seven RBI, including a bases-loaded triple and a two-run triple. In the loss to Dedham, she went 3 for 4 with three RBI.

Defensively, the Presidents look strong this season. Against Plymouth South, they made several outstanding plays while not making an error. Junior right fielder Jen Groppe made a nice running catch towards the infield in the second inning and Bell, the catcher, chased down a wild pitch and made a perfect throw to Andrew at the plate to negate a run in the fifth.

"Defensively, I think we're as good as anybody," Sedar said. "We can play with anybody, especially in the infield."

In the infield, junior quad-captain Liz Campbell is at first base and is backed up by sophomore Courtney Alongi and freshman Alyssa DiMunzio. Pilalas plays second with freshman Katie Walsh as her backup. Paine is at shortstop and Rebekka Sorensen mans third base.

Joining Groppe in the outfield are senior Christina Roosa in left and Gilbody in center. Seniors Kristin Nelson and Tressa Rodgers are reserve outfielders, while Alongi, DiMunzio and Walsh can also play out there.

Pitching Powers Presidents To Two Wins

By CHRIS POISSON

If the Quincy High School baseball team continues to pitch the way it did last week, then the forecast for the rest of the season looks bright.

After opening the season last Tuesday with a tough 6-5 loss at Sturgis Charter, Quincy rebounded with a pair of wins at Adams Field, stymieing Brighton, 8-1, last Wednesday and stifling Holbrook, 9-1, last Friday.

Quincy (2-1) traveled to Whitman-Hanson Tuesday in the Atlantic Coast League opener and today (Thursday) it hosts Nauset at 4 p.m.

Against Holbrook last Friday afternoon, junior Liam Powers looked sharp, allowing one run on two hits in 5 2/3 innings. Junior Bob Ritchie came on in relief and gave up just one hit in the final 2 1/3 innings.

After scoring an unearned in the first, the Presidents added another in the second when Powers (3-for-4) ripped an RBI double to left-center to score catcher Mark Dondero, who had reached on a walk and stole second.

In the third, Quincy scored a pair of runs thanks to several Holbrook miscues to make it 4-0. In the fifth, senior shortstop Brian Keefe smacked a two-strike RBI single up the middle and

BASEBALL

Dondero brought him home with a single over the third-base bag for a 6-0 lead.

In the sixth, Holbrook finally reached Powers for a run. After walking the first two batters, Powers got the next two out but then yielded an RBI single that knocked him out of the game. Ritchie came in and walked the first batter to load the bases, but escaped the jam unscathed.

The Presidents tacked on two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh to close out the scoring.

Against Brighton, junior Anthony Boyle overpowered the opposition. The 6-foot-4-inch left-hander allowed just one hit, while fanning eight and walking one in five innings as the game was called due to darkness.

The Presidents scored all their runs in the third. Leading the way offensively were junior Robert Muollo (triple, two RBI.), junior Matt MacNeil (RBI), Powers (RBI), junior Jamie Chiochio (RBI) and senior Mike McLaughlin (RBI).

In the season-opener, Sturgis drew a bases-loaded walk in the bottom of the sixth inning to snap a 5-5 tie and win the game when it was called due to darkness.

Muollo started on the hill and struck out four and walked two in three innings. Sophomore Chris Kirschner, Ritchie and freshman John Stanton all saw time on the mound. Chiochio drove in three runs and Keefe two, while junior Craig Keened had two singles.

ARE YOU IN FOR A SHOCK?

Many drivers think shock absorbers' only function is to provide a smooth ride. They are, however, an integral part of the finely tuned suspension designed to keep the vehicle stable and predictable during cornering, to maximize tire grip during driving and braking, to protect the vehicle from hard jolts, and to dampen out road irregularities that might adversely affect vehicle dynamics. They exert a marked influence on steering response, tracking, lane-changing maneuvers, braking, and even the performance of anti-lock brakes. Thus, shocks are as much about safety as they are comfort. Shocks usually lose their effectiveness so gradually it is hard to detect. Since the "bounce test" is only indicative of complete failure, a complete inspection is necessary.

Next time you need work done on any system, including shocks, bring your car, truck or SUV into LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO. Our highly trained ASE Certified technicians and our availability of parts will assure you of a job well done. We're proud of our staff and you can trust us to get you back on the road quickly. We're conveniently located at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT: The "bounce test" involves pushing the vehicle firmly down at each corner and releasing on the down stroke. If the corner bounces up and down before coming to a rest, the shock needs replacing.

Team Speed Strength For North Quincy Softball

By CHRIS POISSON

On his 36th birthday last year, head coach Bob Doyle received a great gift from his North Quincy High softball team.

A win. Not just any regular-season win, but its first W of what felt like an endless spring, a season in which it tasted victory one more time to finish 2-18.

Let's just say when May 21 rolls around, Doyle certainly expects the Red Raiders to have more than one lousy win on their resume.

"I think we're going to do a lot better than we did last year," he said. "I certainly expect us to pull out some more victories than we did."

After several washed-out springs, he's determined to make April and May more rosy by revising the philosophy of the program.

He has encouraged more offseason and preseason work, has trimmed the number of players to create more competition and has preached accountability and harder practices.

"It's a situation where we are really going to try to change the outlook of the softball program," he said.

North Quincy opened the season last Tuesday with a 12-0 loss to Holbrook and Monday afternoon it fell at Dedham, 11-1. On Tuesday it traveled to Taunton and today (Thursday) it hosts Falmouth at 4 p.m. at Pageant Field.

Judging by the first two games, the biggest problem the Red Raiders have is offense. The lone run came in the sixth inning Monday when sophomore Beth Goodrich knocked in junior Lisa Schifone with a triple.

"Offensively, is where we're weak," Doyle said. "We're not a strong hitting team. We don't have good sticks at the plate right now. We're trying to combat that with advanced work in the cage. We just need to be more aggressive at the plate. Last year I just thought it was nerves because we had a young team and this year we're going to work them extremely hard and make them more accountable."

If the Red Raiders can find a way to get on base — they only have 10 hits — they should benefit from tremendous team speed.

"Our speed is definitely one of our strengths," Doyle said. "These girls are very quick on the bases."

On the mound, senior captain Alyssa Hawksley will be asked to carry much of the load. After struggling with control problems for a good part of last season, she really came into her own down the stretch. She'll be joined in the rotation by sophomore Kim Walsh, who was called up to varsity in the middle of last season.

"Hawksley will be pitched probably every other day," Doyle said. "Some days if I can go back to back with her, I will."

"What I can expect from both of them is minimize the walks," he added. "Last year walks killed us. Absolutely killed us. Both of them have been attending a pitching camp and improving with that."

Although North Quincy committed a lot of errors Monday that led to nine unearned runs, Doyle feels the defense has improved and will "surprise some teams and make some plays in the field."

Behind the plate, Goodrich returns after a solid rookie outing a year ago. At first base, sophomore May Ho, who came up last year, will see some time. Also in the fix are senior returnee Effie Rozanitis, junior returnee Marilyn Power and senior newcomer Jill Mullen.

Junior Ashley Nee will start at second and will be backed up by sophomore Michelle Reppucci. "Reppucci played for the freshman team last year and did a great job," Doyle said. "She has just impressed me in tryouts and will get an opportunity to produce."

Their double-play partner is junior returnee Lisa Schifone. At third, Jessie Powers will start in her first year. Junior Sheila Lynch, who was the JV catcher last year and also plays shortstop, will back her up.

Serving as utility players are seniors Melissa Mastroilli, Allison Downs, Kelly Coleman, Kristen Trainor and Meghan McLean. "They were all JV players last year and have been in the program for three years," Doyle said. "Their work ethic is excellent. They have a couple of girls ahead of them from last year's squad."

In the outfield, junior captain Casey Lorman will patrol center field as a third-year player. Junior Cristina Conley will man right field and senior captain Kathryn MacRitchie, who can also play shortstop and third base, will start in left field.

Reserve outfielders are sophomore Michelle Boyd, who is a possible relief pitcher, and senior Shannon Barrett.

Registration For Koch Club Youth Baseball April 22, 24

The Koch Club will open its 52nd season of youth baseball with registration Monday, April 22, and Wednesday, April 24, from 6 to 7 p.m. at O'Neil Field at Atlantic Middle School.

Boys and girls, ages 5-10, are eligible to participate. Registration fee is $15 and all children will receive a Koch Club hat and T-shirt.

There are no tryouts; every child that registers will be allowed to play equally.

Opening night will be Monday, April 29, at 6 p.m. Games will be played at O'Neil Field every Monday and Wednesday at 6 p.m. through the end of June.

"I encourage parents to get involved in helping with the coaching and instructional duties," said Thomas Koch, director of the Koch Club. "It is a great help to our youth sports directors Brian Glennon and Richard Joyce, who donate countless hours to the children involved in this program."

Red Raiders Hustle To Opening Day Win

By CHRIS POISSON

In the North Quincy High baseball team's 9-8 season-opening win at Canton last Thursday, there was one play that stood out above the rest and that head coach Larry Taglieri said defines this team.

With the scored knotted at 6, senior quad-captain Wayne Moynihan led off the fifth inning looking to spark the Red Raiders. The speedster hit a harmless grounder to first, but the first baseman bobbled the ball and Moynihan beat him to the bag.

Not a play that usually captures headlines, but Moynihan's hustled to two runs that inning, propelling the Red Raiders to victory.

"He absolutely busted down the line, like he was going for a double," Taglieri said. "He just tore it down the line. Impressive. That's the way we play. That's the way everyone is playing."

If the Red Raiders continue to put forth that type of effort, it should be very interesting season for the Black 'n Red.

North Quincy battled Taunton Tuesday in its home opener and today (Thursday) it travels to Falmouth at 4 p.m. Senior Steve Pizzi was scheduled to pitch Tuesday and senior Mike Feetham is expected to start on the hill against the Clippers today.

In the Canton game, the first seven batters reached for North Quincy in the first inning, with six of them crossing the plate for a comfortable lead.

Moynihan had an RBI single and Feetham and senior quad-captain Dennis Thomson followed with RBI doubles. Senior John O'Connell added an RBI single, Thomson scored on a wild pitch and senior quad-captain Pat Bregoli knocked in the other run with a fielder's choice.

Handed a nice lead, Feetham couldn't keep it intact, allowing four runs in the second and two in the third as Canton rallied to tie it at 6.

"He didn't have his best game," Taglieri said. "Any time you take the field that can happen. I'm not too concerned. He'll pitch better. He knows that and his teammates know that."

O'Connell came on in relief, yielding two runs on five hits over the final four innings. He struck out four and walked three, one of which was intentional.

"He came through big time," Taglieri said. "He pitched really well. He only gave up five hits and a couple of them were in the infield. He looked pretty sharp."

North Quincy broke the tie in the fifth. After Moynihan reached on that error, Feetham walked and Thomson reached on another error to load the bases. O'Connell knocked in the go-ahead run with a sacrifice fly and senior Neil Gavin made it 8-6 with an RBI single up the middle.

In the sixth inning, the Red Raiders added an important insurance run. Bregoli reached on an infield hit and took second on an error. He moved to third on Pizzi's laser single to left and crossed the plate on Feetham's single up the middle.

After Canton scored a pair of runs in the sixth to make it 9-8, it threatened once again in the bottom of the seventh. But O'Connell eased the tension, pitching out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam by inducing two fly outs to end the game.

"It was a good game," Taglieri said. "We've played better before. But it was our first game of the season."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

An old Chinese Proverb states: Deal with the faults of others as gently as with your own...

Couldn't it be said that a truly tolerant person is one who does have firm convictions of his own and believes in the finality of these beliefs? Because of these beliefs being very precious to him, he readily recognizes the disposition of other men to do the same.

Yes, true tolerance is a vigorous matter, intellectually defensible and capable of bringing forth much good. Yes, true tolerance is a positive and cordial effort to understand the beliefs, practices and habits of others without sharing or accepting them. Just as no two stars or no two snowflakes are identical so did God make men and women individual personalities with specific temperaments.

"Half the secret of getting along with people is consideration of their views; the other half is tolerance in one's own views." -- Daniel Frohman

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Avoid having someone else take credit for the project you started by finishing it yourself. Then it will be you lovely Lambs who will be wearing those well-deserved laurels.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) The facts about a new opportunity are still emerging. Wait until they're all out in the open, and then use your keen business sense to help make the right decision.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might feel confused, even hurt by a friend who suddenly puts distance between you. If she or he won't discuss it, don't push it. An explanation should come in time.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your willingness to be part of the team opens doors that had been shut to you. Keep them open by keeping your promises even when your commitment seems to be waning.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Congratulations. You're really getting things done to perfection. And don't forget to take a catnap now and again to keep those energy levels up and bristling for action.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Your "plain-talking" honesty is admirable. But sometimes sharp words can leave painful scars. Be careful that what you say doesn't come back to hurt you.

October 22) A stress-filled period takes a positive turn as you deal with the underlying problem. Act now to avoid a recurrence by changing some basic rules in your relation ship.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your rising energy levels make it easier for you to achieve some important objectives. This could lead to a big boost in how you're perceived, both at home and on the job.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A changing picture begins to emerge as you learn more about an offer that seemed so right but could be so wrong. Look to a trusted adviser for guidance.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Spiritual aspects are strong. Take time to reflect on the path you're on and where you hope it will lead you. It's also a good time to reach out to loved ones.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You could be assuming far too many responsibilities, whether it's at work or in personal matters. Be careful that you're not weighed down by them.

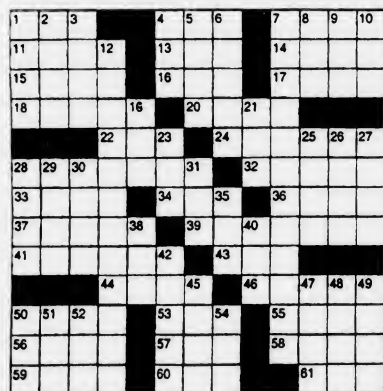

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You're getting closer to your goals. And since nothing succeeds like success or the promise thereof, don't be surprised to find new supporters swimming alongside you.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are always the first to try new ventures and confront new challenges. You inspire others with your courage to follow your bold example.

REQUEST FOR BIDS

ADAMS ACADEMY ROOF REPAIRS

Request for Bids

The Trustees of Quincy Historical Society, 8 Adams Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, the Awarding Authority, request bids for the replacement of existing built-up roof, replacement of sheet metal flashings and gutters, repairs to slate roofs and drainage improvements at the Adams Academy Building, headquarters of Quincy Historical Society and an 1872 building which is a National Historic Landmark and which is listed in the State Register of Historic Places.

All work must be performed in accordance with the documents prepared by Holmes & Edwards, Inc., Architects, 26 Chestnut Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, (Telephone: 617-471-7377, Fax: 617-471-9203) and meet the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties. State law prohibits discrimination. The awarding of this contract is subject to Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity guidelines. A copy of work specifications and contract documents may be obtained at the office of the Architect Monday through Friday between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. A $50.00 refundable deposit check, made out to the Architect, will be required for the two sets of drawings which will be provided to each bidder. Additional set of drawings and specifications can be purchased at a cost of $25.00 per set, with a check payable to Quincy Historical Society.

A pre-bid meeting will be held at the Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams Street in Quincy on April 30, 2002, at 1:00 p.m.

Bids shall be evaluated on the basis of price, previous experience with similar types of construction projects, ability to perform the work in a timely manner, and references. All bids must be delivered to Quincy Historical Society at the above address prior to 2:00 p.m. on May 7, 2002, to be eligible for consideration and work must commence by June 3, 2002. The bid opening will be private.

Budget Crisis Could Result In Layoffs

Proposed furloughs this year and possible layoffs next year are two ways the mayor's office is trying to address city budget deficits. Mayor William Phelan told residents in a recent televised press conference.

"There are no areas in which a downsize will be spared," said Phelan, noting a projected $2 million shortfall for the current fiscal year and the need to reduce spending in areas of next year's budget by roughly $8 million to offset increases in fixed costs, such as a $5 million dollar increase in the cost of healthcare.

Last week the mayor floated the possibility of various types of furloughs to the city's unions in an attempt to reduce expenses or defer those expenses to the next fiscal year.

Last Thursday, Phelan reiterated his calls for furloughs but said the city needed to trim between 150 to 200 jobs from the payroll for Fiscal Year 2003, either through attrition or layoffs.

"From secretaries to custodians, from police to fireman, there will be a smaller workforce," Phelan said.

Board Approves Bottled Beer At Captain Fishbones

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

You can tell summer is fast approaching especially after a License Board meeting regarding Marina Bay was already held Tuesday. And Chairman Joseph Shea expressing approval for the early requests made in the spring instead of the month of June.

Making an early appearance Tuesday was Atty. Steve Colman, representing Captain Fishbones located on 332 Victory Rd., at Marina Bay. The request called for a change of hours from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m., an extension of the premises with the proposal for four round tables outside the cafe, the serving of bottled beer outside the cafe instead of in a glass, and a one doorman during the week with two for the weekend. (Last year the board requested two doorman each day.)

Colman also requested an early opening of Patriot's Day weekend, instead of the usual Memorial Day.

Colman said plans for the outside cafe will include a steamer to serve lobsters and clams, as well as a refrigerator and a separate cook for outside.

Colman said there is a shuttle with Capt. Fishbones name on it that brings passengers to and from the restaurant as well as deliveries of food.

After a year of closing at 11 p.m. the cafe asked to be allowed for a 1 a.m. closing.

On the change of hours, Police Chief William Falco recommended a 12:30 a.m. closing instead. That will have to be in writing and presented to the board by May 7.

On the request of the four additional tables, Walter White, director of inspection services said he wanted the request in writing and added that there was a zoning issue.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue also requested the proposal be in writing for the health department to review as far as the outside steamer and refrigeration is concerned.

Det. Lt. Robert Perchard, liquor inspector, who commended the cafe for its "excellence" said the use of bottled beer could be monitored and then he could report back to the board at the next meeting.

Finally on a motion by Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, the board allowed the bottled beer be served outside the cafe and the one doorman on weekdays. And allowed an earlier opening. All other requests must be in writing and presented to the board by May 7.

Gorman also stressed that all drinks served outside the cafe would be brought inside by a waitress on a tray when a diner is called for dinner.

The restaurant is open seven days a week - from Patriot's Day weekend to Columbus Day in October.

Christopher Smeglin Receives 2002 NROTC Scholarship

Christopher Smeglin of Quincy, a senior at Boston College High School, has been selected to receive a 2002 Four-Year Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps (NROTC) Scholarship.

Selected applicants for the NROTC scholarship program are awarded scholarships through a highly competitive national selection process. The recipient is commissioned a Naval officer upon graduation and is obligated to a minimum of four years active duty in the U.S. Navy.

The scholarship recipient will receive full tuition and other financial benefits, including books, class fees and $200 per month subsistence at one of the country's leading colleges or universities affiliated with an NROTC unit.

Smeglin is the son of Michael and Jane Smeglin of 125 Spring St., Quincy.

City's Shipyard Loan Takes Lion Share Of Development Funds

By CRAIG SALTERS
Roughly $800,000 of the city's $2,505,000 in federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds for Fiscal Year 2003 is earmarked for the city's economic development.

Of that $800,000, however, $750,000 will be used to pay the debt service on the city's $7.8 million loan commitment to the Fore River Shipyard, seriously affecting economic development projects in other parts of the city.

The $7.8 million loan, which was made to now bankrupt shipyard developer Massachusetts Heavy Industries (MHI) and made possible by the setting aside of CDBG funds allocated annually by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), will not be paid in full until 2016.

"Each budgetary cycle in which such a large percentage of money goes toward the payment of the defaulted shipyard loan is a constant reminder of the loss suffered at the hands of Sotirios Emmanouil and MHI," said

Mayor William Phelan.

The total CDBG amount of $2,505,000, said Planning Director Richard Meade, represents only a $30,000 decrease in funding figures from last year.

The lion's share of that $30,000 decrease, added Phelan, is in the area of monies available to social service providers in the city.

"There are some decisions (to be made)," Phelan said. "There are so many worthwhile programs and not enough funds to go around."

Phelan's submission of the CDBG funds for approval by the City Council, considered a formality required the law, was placed on the City Council's meeting agenda Tuesday.

In March a U.S. Bankruptcy Judge dismissed MHI's Chapter 11 reorganization plan for the shipyard, placing control of the yard squarely in the hands of the United States Maritime Administration (MARAD), which foreclosed on a $55 million loan to MHI which it had guaranteed.

Raymondi: Apparent $7.5 Million For Bigelow St. Culvert 'Great News'

Word that the state Senate had passed an Environmental Bond Bill which includes $7.5 million for the "study, design, and construction" of the Bigelow St. Relief Conduit, the final piece of the Town Brook Flood Control Project, came as music to the ears of Council President Daniel Raymondi, who has been advocating for flood relief in that area for decades.

"This is great news for anyone along Town Brook," said Raymondi, making special note of homes along Miller Stile and Bigelow St. "This is funding we've been looking to obtain for a long time.

"Businesses, homeowners, and renters alike have been damaged and greatly inconvenienced by the lack of funding for this critically important final phase of this flood relief project."

Raymondi was scheduled to introduce a resolve at Tuesday night's meeting of the City Council which would put the council on record in favor of the environmental bill, referred to as Senate No. 2312, which still needs passage by the House of Representatives and the signature of Acting Governor Jane Swift.

Raymondi's resolve seeks

First Under Inclusionary Zoning Ordinance

$6M Project Includes Affordable Housing Units

A unique and historic $6 million residential development, creating the first units of affordable housing under the city's new Inclusionary Zoning Ordinance, will be built in Quincy Point.

The Galvin Development company of Quincy will construct 21 attached single-family Cape Cod style homes on two and a half acres at Bower Road and West Howard Street.

To be known as The Village at South Pointe, the homes will be attached in seven groups of three.

Two of the homes will be affordable housing for Quincy working families under the new Inclusionary Zoning Ordinance.

Sean Galvin, company partner, said the market rate for the six-room homes with two bedrooms and two baths will start at $285,000.

Eligibility details for the two affordable housing units will be determined by the Affordable Housing Trust Committee, which has not yet been appointed, he said.

The committee will comprise members from public, private and non-profit organizations.

Has Served 9 Mayors

Marion Fantucchio Honored For 50 Dedicated Years

On Tuesday Marion Fantucchio, chairwoman of the Board of Assessors, marked her fiftieth year of service in an office that she joined in mid-April of 1952.

The milestone did not go unnoticed: Fantucchio was feted by co-workers Tuesday afternoon in the second floor conference room of City Hall and later that evening was recognized by city councilors for her five decades of service to the city.

"She's an invaluable resource to the city," said Mayor William Phelan. "She worked her way up through the ranks to the highest level of her profession and has served many mayors with distinction."

Expert: Child Witnesses To Domestic Violence Are Everybody's Concern

Betsy McAllister Groves, director of the Child Witness to Violence Project at Boston Medical Center and keynote speaker at a conference on the subject held last Wednesday at the Thomas Crane Public Library, began her remarks by playing "The Lisa Tape," a recording of a six-year old girl's 911 call to San Diego police during a domestic violence dispute, for those in attendance.

She then spent a good deal of her remaining time trying to counteract the tape's initial effects on audience members which were, among others and in no particular order, shame, fear, and hopelessness.

"It's a hard tape to listen to," acknowledged Groves, who is also an assistant professor of Pediatrics at Boston University School of Medicine. "I've heard it so many times and it never gets any easier."

BESTY McALLISTER GROVES

Indeed, a quick show of hands revealed that many in the audience had heard the five-minute tape — and six-year old Lisa's desperate cries of, "He's hurting mommy" — at least one time before. But that experience didn't stop listeners from closing their eyes, starting off into the distance, lowering their heads, fumbling with their hands, and even sobbing as the tape was played.

"The power of this tape is that we become witnesses to domestic violence," said Groves. "We become the bystanders."

But Groves, who founded the Child Witness to Violence Project in 1992 in response to soaring homicide rates in Boston, went on to say that the lessons of fear and hopelessness taught by witnessing domestic violence were the "wrong lessons" and that "no matter what our role, there's a lot we can do."

A PANEL DISCUSSION on the effects to children of witnessing domestic violence took place immediately following a keynote address by Betsy McAllister Groves, director of the Child Witness to Violence Project at Boston Medical Center. Paul Porter of the Randolph Police Department; Gretchen Sherwood of the state's Department of Social Services; Norfolk County District Attorney William Keating; Erin Moynihan, a clinician with Brockton Family and Community Resource, Inc.; and Mayor William Phelan, who delivered greetings on behalf of the city. vocated for better information sharing among individuals and groups on the issue, the strengthening of relationships between adults and at-risk children, and more effective partnering with the non-abusive parent.

She also urged adults to send the message loud and clear to abused children that: it's not their fault; it's the responsibility of adults to make their situation better; and there are adults in this world who are concerned about their safety.

"It [children's exposure to domestic violence] is all of our problem," said Groves, adding that "what helps kids heal is the safety of the relationships we can offer them."

Groves' remarks were followed by a panel discussion which included: Norfolk County District Attorney William Keating; Lt. Det. Paul Porter of the Randolph Police Department; Gretchen Sherwood of the state's Department of Social Services; and Erin Moynihan, a clinician from Brockton Family and Community Resource, Inc.

The event itself, which saw a heavy turnout, was sponsored by the Quincy District Court thanks to a grant from the Judicial Institute.

Keating made mention of the previously played "Lisa Tape" in his remarks, noting how the tape brought to life statistics he offered the panel that children familiar with abuse in the home were 100 times more likely to become abusers themselves, six times more likely to commit suicide, and many times more likely to commit various crimes, including rape and sexual assault.

"It's an incubator for further violence," Keating said.

Porter, a nationally recognized expert on domestic violence, noted the progress law enforcement has made in recent years on the issue, including not relying solely on the statements of victims, some of whom may be reluctant to testify, for evidence in a case.

He also emphasized the importance of police follow-ups in combating domestic violence and the importance of mentoring roles such as coaches in making kids feel safe.

Sherwood stressed the importance of listening to mothers and children who, she said, often know what's best for their particular situation. Moynihan, a clinician who deals with children between the ages of four and seven, said that children express themselves indirectly "through play" and that these same children have a "very blurry" line as to what domestic violence is and isn't.

Quincy District Court First Justice Mark Coven, who served as moderator for the two-hour conference, noted that some probation officers in the audience were actually working with "generations of domestic violence" in their duties and called the conference "only the beginning" of an ongoing effort to break the cycle of domestic violence.

Mayor William Phelan, who offered greetings on behalf of the city at last Wednesday's event, agreed.

"The best way to help the kids is to help the mother, the victim, and to stop domestic violence in its tracks," Phelan said.

Florida Trip Another Sept. 11 Casualty

DeCristofaro Cites Fairness In Keeping Robotics Team Home

One need look no further for praise of the Quincy Public Schools' Robotics Team's first place finish in the New England Regional FIRST Robotics competition than the office of Supt. of Schools Dr. Richard DeCristofaro.

"First and foremost, I can tell you what wonderful representatives these students, teachers, parents, and our Gillette sponsors were of the Quincy Public Schools," said DeCristofaro. "They were incredible and I deeply appreciate everything they've done."

But DeCristofaro, citing the need to be fair to all students, some of whom canceled trips to Europe and elsewhere in the wake of Sept. 11, stood by his decision not to bend travel rules to allow the students and their "HyperDrive" robot to compete in the FIRST (For Inspiration of Science and Technology) championships to be held April 25 through April 27 in Florida.

"I feel bad about that, in a way, but it's a matter of being fair to every student," said DeCristofaro, adding that more than 200 students had not traveled to destinations such as Washington D.C., Italy, Greece, and Australia after the School Committee adopted a policy Oct. 17 to halt all school trips via air and all school trips outside of New England, the measure a response to the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks upon America.

DeCristofaro added that the travel policy restrictions would be revisited for the 2002-2003 school year but that, until that time, all students needed to adhere to the policy.

"It's a fairness issue," he said.

Fair or not, the decision still came as a crushing blow to the 50 to 60 students from both Quincy and North Quincy High Schools who comprise the robotics team and who wanted to bring a championship back to their city.

Some of the students met with Dr. DeCristofaro and even attempted other ways to get to Florida, including traveling on their own with parents, but to no avail.

Although disappointing, the canceled trip to Florida does not tarnish the robotics team's victory, recently in New Haven, CT, where the team took first place in a field of 68 teams.

In addition to winning the regional meet, The Gillette Company, QPS team also won the "Judges Award" for their numerous year-long activities, including bringing a junior robotics program to all five of the city's middle schools this year.

Attention Quincy Homeowners:

Concerned that you won't have enough to cover your property tax increase?

It's the classic "good news/bad news" situation. The real estate market in Quincy is very hot and, congratulations, your house is worth more than you may have imagined. Unfortunately, your real estate taxes are pegged to your assessment and - due to an unusual set of circumstances - you have to come up with the difference on short notice. There's no need to make a partial payment, no need to go delinquent. Come see us and bring your tax bill. Fill out a simple application and you'll have an answer within 48 hours. The loan will be enough to cover your tax increase and you can pay it back in 12 equal monthly installments. But May 6th is coming up fast. Don't wait until the last minute. Stop by our 15 Beach Street office - next to the Wollaston Post Office - today.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On April 17, 1790, American statesman, printer, scientist and writer Benjamin Franklin dies in Philadelphia at age 84. In his last great public service, he was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention of 1787 and worked hard for the document's ratification. After his death in 1790, Philadelphia gave him the largest funeral the city had ever seen.

• On April 20, 1841, Edgar Allan Poe's story "The Murders in the Rue Morgue" first appears in "Graham's Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine." The tale is generally considered to be the first detective story. Following the publication of Poe's story, detective stories began to grow into novels.

• On April 21, 1895, Woodville Latham and his sons, Otway and Gray, demonstrate the first projected movie in the United States. The demonstration, on Franklin Street in New York City, used a projector that rolled perforated film in front of a lantern.

• On April 16, 1943, the hallucinogenic effects of LSD are discovered when Albert Hoffman, a Swiss chemist working at the Sandoz pharmaceutical research laboratory, accidentally consumes LSD-25, a synthetic drug.

• On April 18, 1983, the U.S. embassy in Beirut, Lebanon, is almost completely destroyed by a car-bomb explosion that kills 63 people, including the suicide bomber and 17 Americans. The terrorist attack was carried out in protest of the U.S. military presence in Lebanon.

• On April 19, 1995, just after 9 a.m., a massive truck bomb explodes outside the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City. The blast collapsed the north face of the nine-story building, instantly killing more than 100 people and trapping dozens more in the rubble.

• On April 15, 1988, Pol Pot, the architect of Cambodia's killing fields, dies of apparently natural causes while serving a life sentence imposed against him by his own Khmer Rouge.

Is Billy DeWolfe Slighted?

Does Quincy do justice to the memory of native son Billy DeWolfe who started his theatrical career here as an usher and went on to the big time in show business as a headliner comedian?

Barbara DeWolfe, a retired Quincy teacher, doesn't think so.

She would like to see his hometown remember him as well as it does native daughter, actress Ruth Gordon.

Miss DeWolfe is not related to the late comedian but does have a special close link to him.

He borrowed her father's name to launch his career with and kept it. His birth name was Billy Jones.

BILLY DEWOLFE

RETIRE SCHOOL TEACHER Barbara DeWolfe with two of her former sixth grade pupils, Navy Reserve Commander David Ray (left) and Rev. John Swanson, pastor Union Congregational Church.

The question of Billy DeWolfe's hometown recognition status came up during a recent reunion of Miss DeWolfe and two of her former sixth grade pupils at the old Willard School: Rev. John Swanson, now pastor of Union Congregational Church, and Navy Commander David Ray, now a San Diego, Calif. resident.

Coincidentally, Miss DeWolfe and Ray were visiting the church the same day. So the three got together to reminisce about the Willard School where Swanson and Ray were in her sixth grade class in 1970.

(She was their favorite teacher, they declared. But she diplomatically didn't say if either of them was her favorite pupil.)

Miss DeWolfe recently moved to New Hampshire but Rev. Swanson recalls her lamenting the fact that Billy DeWolfe, who died in 1974, doesn't get the recognition here that Ruth Gordon does.

Ruth Gordon was an award-winning actress, playwright and author whose career spanned the stage, movies and television. She dies in 1985 at age 88.

Miss DeWolfe apparently feels that Billy DeWolfe was as talented in his field of entertainment as Ruth Gordon was in hers.

Ironically, she was born Ruth Gordon Jones and also dropped her last name. Both grew up in Wollaston but were not related.

While still a student at Quincy High School, William Andrew Jones became an usher at the old Quincy Theater on Hancock St. where vaudeville was still alive in the late 1920s.

He was soon imitating and memorizing the acts that played there and decided that someday he too would be there on stage with a spotlight on him instead of carrying a flashlight showing people to their seats.

But the name Billy Jones, he thought, was too common to take him far. He needed a stage name with a little more pizzazz.

And the stage name was standing right there beside him: William DeWolfe, Barbara's father and a former showman himself, was the Quincy Theater manager.

Could Billy Jones use his name? DeWolfe gave him his blessing and his encouragement.

And Billy DeWolfe, starting out as a dancer, eventually made it big, turning to comedy on the stage, in movies, nightclubs and television.

He appeared in movies with Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour, Doris Day, the Marx Brothers and other stars.

He starred in John Murray Anderson's highly acclaimed revue "Almanac" and appeared in other stage hits and on the Ed Sullivan Show.

He and Doris Day became good friends and he later was a regular on her TV shows.

Wherever he went, there was always a demand for his comedy classic, "Mrs. Murgatroyd," a character he created one hot summer afternoon while sitting near the bar at the old Club Mayfair in Boston.

A middle-aged woman with a flowery hat, a shopping bag in her arms with celery tops sprouting from it, wandered in and sat at a table.

DeWolfe watched and listened as a waiter asked her what she wanted to drink. She really didn't want anything. She was just looking for a place to sit down and rest her feet. They were killing her.

But the seat was comfortable. It was worth ordering something, she thought, just to be able to sit there for a while. She didn't know one drink from another so she told the waiter anything would do.

The waiter asked the bartender, "What'll I give her?" "A good hooker," he suggested. He did. She sipped it -- and ordered another. And "Mrs. Murgatroyd" became a show business classic.

He is also remembered as the voice of the miserly magician in the children's classic cartoon, "Frosty the Snowman" seen annually.

DeWolfe was Quincy's "ambassador of goodwill" wherever he traveled. Always boosting his hometown. And lecturing "foreigners" who pronounced it Quin-see instead of Quin-zee.

While starring in the revue "Almanac," the name of an eastern city was needed. He quickly got Quincy inserted three times.

But Don Wilson, Jack Benny's radio announcer sidekick, stumped him once. Wilson asked him where he came from and DeWolfe proudly replied: "Quincy, the gateway to Cape Cod."

"A great way to keep what?" Wilson wanted to know.

He may not have won an Academy Award but he knew how to make people laugh and was good enough at it to have three Royal Command performances before the British Royal family.

Like Ruth Gordon, he loved Quincy so much he came home virtually every year. Usually driving all the way from the West Coast in a Caddy.

DeWolfe died March 5, 1974 in Hollywood at age 67. He had been hospitalized with lung cancer. Death was attributed to a blood clot.

A funeral service was held at Wollaston Baptist Church and he was buried in the family lot at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

No well-known faces from the entertainment world were seen.

But sometime later, Eddie Scalamiero, the last West Quincy barber who ushered with DeWolfe at the Quincy Theater, received a letter from Doris Day. In it she said in part:

"I was the last person to see him... I was with him when he was in the hospital every day and every single night and even with the pain we always had a good laugh."

"I used to ask him to get out of bed so that I could get in and if you had heard his comments you would have gotten hysterical."

"He was one of my dearest, dearest friends and my memories of him are the sweetest... He was a super, super friend, a fabulous actor, one of the funniest men I've ever known and just plain good."

Maybe Quincy should take a closer look at this native son who was so proud to be one.

IT'S HAPPENED to most of us introducing people. And it happened to Quincy Police Officer James Silcox at the dedication of the new Maritime Center in Houghs Neck Saturday.

He introduced Ward 1 Councillor Greg Hanley as "Mayor" Hanley.

"Not yet, he isn't," Mayor Bill Phelan jumped in. Hanley responded to Silcox: "Thank you Chief Silcox. If you can promote me to mayor, I can promote you to chief."

For Phelan, the slip could have been worse. Instead of "Mayor" Hanley how about "Mayor" Dan Raymond who was also there?

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1922 real photo postcard view of Appleton Street in Atlantic looking east from near East Squantum Street towards the ocean. This is one of the oldest streets in the area. It provided access to what was known as Atlantic Beach in the 19th century. At the time of this picture, houses were only recently being built on here. The lack of zoning regulations resulted in a mix of single and multiple family houses including one six-family building. The street has some of the largest house lots in that section of Quincy. The next street over, Bayfield Road, also had large house lots until a developer decided to make it into two streets, North and South Bayfield, and divided the lots into some of the smallest in the city.

Keep Quincy Affordable: Keep Taxes Down

I fear there are two Quincy's today. Both feed off each other. Affordable housing proponents see clearly the housing crisis in our city and the entire Greater Boston/South Shore areas. Rents are skyrocketing and as far as working families are concerned, the worse may yet to be.

Meanwhile, the housing boom for those that have continues. Two new condo townhouse projects off East Squantum Street in North Quincy are getting closer to occupancy. The Wellfleet development by Bayfield Road recently saw a reported 200 folks show up for an open house. There are already 10 qualified buyers for the five townhouse units.

Recently, the City Council met to decide tax rates. As I watched the show (and it was a show) on cable TV, I wondered why so many of them seem to talk longer than Fidel Castro. I had a feeling some of our councillors mistake the duration of their remarks for rightness.

In the end, on a 5-4 vote, the commercial tax classification stayed at 169 percent rather than a newer 175 percent rate.

Councillors supporting the higher 175 percent rate said, among other things, they weren't being anti-business. Tax classification is good. I supported it back nearly a generation ago when the concept was born. Why should residential property owners be taxed at the same rate as businesses? It was a matter of fairness. However, pitting residents against business folks is begging the real question. It sounds great to be a populist. Make the other side the bogeyman. In the end, the difference, though, between 169 and 175 percent means about $50 more on a growing tax burden.

The 175 percent classification rate for businesses sounds good to many homeowners who are seeing their taxes go up and up. Renters like myself know that rising taxes means rising rents. However, pitting folks against each other and throwing around rhetoric may sound good but it is a gimmick. Nothing but blue smoke and mirrors.

The real enemy is increased spending. Now is the time to look at ways to cut spending rather than find ways to increase tax revenue. The real enemy is spending which causes higher taxes.

Kudos to my Ward 6 Councillor Joe Newton for voting with common sense. His remarks were to the point. Bashing business hurts everyone. Isn't downtown Quincy dead enough already? How many more vacancies do we need?

It is easy to ramble on at the mike justifying hiking tax rates to the other side. Residents and merchants are in the same boat here. It's a cross between the Titanic and the USS Salem. Cut the you-know-what and cut the spending. Keep Quincy affordable by keeping taxes down.

Police Thank Foley Chrysler For Donating Vehicle

The Quincy Police Department would like to acknowledge Foley Chrysler, 330 Hancock St., Quincy, for the recent donation of a 1997 Dodge Caravan. The van will be used to support the D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) Program and will be driven by Quincy Police D.A.R.E. officers, Officer Don Sautter and Officer John Grazioso.

This generous donation by Foley Chrysler will enable Officer Sautter and Officer Grazioso to transport the various D.A.R.E. materials used to teach the D.A.R.E. Program and conduct after school programs. Currently, Officer Sautter and Officer Grazioso teach the D.A.R.E. Program or offer drug and alcohol abuse seminars at 22 schools and for nearly 1200 elementary and middle school students, as well as 800 high school students throughout the city of Quincy.

Officer Sautter and Officer Grazioso would like to extend a special thank you to Mr. Bill Foley. He has shown his support of the D.A.R.E. Program since 1994 when he donated a 1993 Plymouth Voyager for the program. Through donating the 1997

Dodge Caravan, Mr. Foley has demonstrated his ongoing support of the D.A.R.E. Program and the Quincy Police Department.

Quincy's Yesterdays Curiosity Causes Small Fire At St. John's

By PAUL HAROLD

Three young boys using matches to inspect a bird's nest under a clapboard at St. John's Church touched off a fire that scorched the outside wall of the church.

The boys, ages 8-11, were on their way to school at St. John's. Sgt. William McAuillie of the Quincy Juvenile Bureau and Captain Francis Daly of the Fire Prevention Bureau investigated the incident and decided it was an accident and that no court action was necessary.

FUNDS SOUGHT TO FENCE MONTCLAIR BOG

DPW Commissioner Charles Herbert sought an appropriation of $5,000 from Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa to fence the Montclair peat bog. The city owned the area and was preparing to use part of the bog as a nursery by the forestry department.

Citing it as the most dangerous area in the city for children to have access, Councillor Joseph Brett was among those calling for the fencing.

BURKE PREDICTS BRIGHT FUTURE

FOR QUINCY ADAMS YARD

Congressman James Burke predicted the Quincy Adams Yacht Club on Palmer St. would have a bright future, following the launching of the "Sea Driver."

The "Sea Driver" was the first craft built from the keel up to be used exclusively for underwater exploration of historical sites. The ship's shake down cruise was to the Caribbean where it would explore the Jamaican sunken city Port Royal, under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institute. From there it would go to Israel to explore the sunken harbor of Caesarea.

Over 100 Guests Attend NQHS Voice Recital

The voice majors in the North Quincy High School Renaissance Program, under the direction of Tracy O'Sullivan, recently continued a newly established tradition of an annual voice recital.

This year the event, which took place mid-March in the high school's choir room, was attended by 115 guests including parents, friends, Renaissance alumni, and school faculty.

The event featured a St. Patrick's Day program consisting of both traditional and contemporary Irish folk music. Selections included Danny Boy, Shule Aghra, Irish Blessing, When Irish Eyes Are Smiling, My Wild Irish Rose, and The Sally Gardens, among others.

A reception was held following the recital.

Book Donations Sought For Fundraiser

The Friends of the Thomas Crane Library are seeking book donations for the group's Book Sale to be held Saturday, May 4 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. in the main library in Quincy Center.

Donations may be dropped off at any branch of the library. All types of books in all subjects will be accepted, including: fiction, poetry, science fiction, romance, mystery, religion, philosophy, history, science and technology, mathematics, art, photography, travel, current events, biography, political science, literary criticism, new age, women's studies, African-American studies, Asian Studies, and Native American Studies.

The following materials will not be accepted: encyclopedias, records, high-lighted books, or old text-books.

Mystery Authors Panel At Crane Library

Ever wonder if you'd make a good sleuth?

Mystery fiction protagonists come in all shapes and sizes -- from the obvious police and private investigators to caterers, cab drivers, and even cats. Find out whether your personality, career, or life experiences can be mined to create the hero of a riveting thriller. Talk to local authors who have done just that.

Milton resident and mystery author Hallie Ephron, who writes under the pseudonym of G.H. Ephron, local mystery authors Michelle Blake and Jan Brogan, and the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center invite you to "Get in Touch with Your Inner Sleuth!" at the library Thursday, April 18 at 7:30 p.m. The evening will be interactive, with a panel discussion and participants assessing their own careers, life experiences, and personalities as prospective sleuth material.

Ephron writes the Dr. Peter Zak mystery series with co-author Donald A. Davidoff. Ph.D. Their new book is Addiction and the series debut Amnesia is now in paperback. Like Dr. Davidoff, the fictional Dr. Zak is a forensic neuropsychologist who lives in Cambridge. Dr. Zak works at the fictional Pearce Psychiatric Institute, which bears a striking resemblance to McLean Hospital. Harvard's psychiatric hospital in Belmont where Davidoff runs a unit. Unlike his fictional counterpart, Davidoff avoids regular encounters with danger.

chologist who lives in Cambridge. Dr. Zak works at the fictional Pearce Psychiatric Institute, which bears a striking resemblance to McLean Hospital. Harvard's psychiatric hospital in Belmont where Davidoff runs a unit. Unlike his fictional counterpart, Davidoff avoids regular encounters with danger.

After receiving her master's degree in theological studies from Harvard Divinity School, Michelle Blake considered becoming a minister. Instead, she based her protagonist Lilly Connor (The Tentmaker, Earth Has No Sorrow, Putnam) on a version of herself, had she been ordained. Lilly is an Episcopal priest in Boston who wears jeans and cowboy boots, works on anti-bias issues and entertains doubts about her faith and her clerical role.

Jan Brogan, a Providence Journal reporter, has written Final Copy, the first in her mystery series featuring investigative reporter Addy McNeil. Brogan brings her years of experience as an award-winning financial journalist to shape the character of Addy, who gets a chance to revive her floundering career when the only suspect in the murder of a prominent venture capitalist turns out to be her former boyfriend.

The event is free and the library is accessible. Books will be available for sale after the discussion.

ENC, Tufts, Wheaton Choirs In Combined Concert April 21

The combined choirs of Eastern Nazarene College, Wheaton College and Tufts University, accompanied by the Tufts orchestra, will perform Brahms' Requiem Sunday, April 21, at 4 p.m. at Jordan Hall in Boston.

Tickets are being sold at ENC's Cove Center of Fine Arts (617-745-3715) for $10 or at Jordan Hall's box office (617-536-2412) for $12 for students and seniors and $14 general admission.

Dr. Timothy Shetler directs the ENC a capella Choir and Choral Union, Dr. Timothy Harbold directs the Wheaton Chorale and Dr. James John directs the Tufts University Choir. Professor Chris Youngmoon Kim directs the Tufts orchestra.

Soloists include Carol Mastrodomenico, who received a master of music degree from the New England Conservatory of Music and currently teaches at Tufts and Boston College, and baritone Thomas Jones.

Tax-Deferred Savings For College Topic Of April 29 Meeting

The Thomas Crane Public Library will host an introduction to "529 Plans" as a means of tax-deferred saving for a college education Monday, April 29 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the community room of the main library in Quincy Center.

Boston Financial Data Services will present a history of the emergence of the "529 Plans" as a funding option and explain how the plans work in Massachusetts. Also covered in the presentation will be information on what constitutes qualified higher education as well as issues of ownership, beneficiary, and change of beneficiary of the plan.

Finally, the difference between "529 Plans" and other options will be explored.

No registration is necessary. For more information, call the library at (617) 376-1316.

Taxpayers' Group Elects Robert Haley Vice President

Robert Haley of Victoria Rd. has been unanimously elected to serve as vice president of the Quincy Taxpayers' Association (QTA) for the coming year.

"This is very exciting news, not only for me and the association, but for all the taxpayers of Quincy," said

QTA President Alan Cousin. "Along with his well-known knowledge and experience in municipal finance, Bob brings to his office an unrivaled, passionate commitment to taxpayer value."

Haley has 18 years professional experience in municipal finance and a master's degree in public administration from Suffolk University. Haley will continue as chairman of the association's research committee.

The QTA also unanimously re-elected Cousin as its president and John Spada of Forbes Hill Rd. as treasurer.

KeySpan Energy Delivery Upgrades Its Distribution

KeySpan Energy Delivery is upgrading its distribution system from 1-49 Mound St., Quincy, starting this week and continuing for the next two weeks.

The crews are working Monday through Friday from approximately 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The road will be open to the public but parking is limited. A construction foreman is on site to address parking needs throughout the construction period.

The work may require some excavation in the area of foundations of homes or businesses. The foreman on site will notify customers of interruption of gas service and make proper arrangements.

There may be a lag between temporary and permanent restoration of the streets and sidewalk, depending on the weather and ground conditions.

Questions about the project should be addressed to Kevin Mahoney, construction supervisor, at 781-794-3508, or Lynne M. Holton, community relations coordinator, at 617-723-5512, extension 4526.

Joseph Barkhouse A.F. Second Lieutenant

Air Force Cadet Joseph E. Barkhouse of Quincy has been commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force after completing ROTC training at the University of Massachusetts at Lowell.

He is the son of Priscilla R. and Edward R. Barkhouse of 2 Keyes St., Quincy, and a 1997 graduate of Don Bosco Technical High School in Boston.

Neponset And Fore River Cleanups To Be Held Saturday

Two local river cleanups are providing the opportunity for people to roll up their sleeves and make a difference in their own backyards this Saturday as citizens of Quincy and surrounding communities are invited to celebrate Earthday by participating in the cleanup of the Fore and Neponset Rivers.

The cleanups are being held to get rid of the trash that accumulates on the riverbanks and to raise awareness of the rivers as important natural resources to the city of Quincy. Volunteers from both cleanups will gather in the afternoon for a picnic at Squantum Point Park in Marina Bay.

Meeting On Proposed Rug Store Wednesday

Ward 5 Councillor Douglas Gutro had scheduled a Neighborhood Meeting for Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Room 204 of the Eastern Nazarene College Administration Building, 180 Old Colony Ave., to discuss a proposal to use the property located at 809-915 Hancock St. as a retail showroom for fine imported rugs.

The Hancock St. property was formerly the site of Shea's Formica.

Gutro had invited Solomon Mojtabai, the applicant, to present his proposal at Wednesday's meeting and to answer questions prior to Mojtabai's scheduled appearance before the Zoning Board of Appeals Tuesday, April 23.

"Quincy has many 'beach' cleanups but we're getting trash out of Quincy's more natural settings," said Steven Perdios of the Quincy Environmental Network (QEN). "The rivers often go unnoticed by local residents but they're beautiful. This will give people a chance to get in touch with a piece of nature right in their own backyards."

The cleanups are the kick-off for the QEN's Earthweek celebration. The cleanups are being sponsored by a coalition of area environmental organizations including the Friends of the Neponset Estuary, the Fore River Watershed Association, Massachusetts Community Water Watch, and the Neponset River Watershed Association.

Both cleanups will begin at 9 a.m. Volunteers for the Neponset River Cleanup should meet at the Squantum Point Parking lot which is located at the end of Victory Rd. in Marina Bay. Participants in the Fore River Cleanup should meet at the Snug Harbor School, located at 333 Palmer St., in Germantown.

Volunteers do not need to pre-register for either event. They should come dressed for the weather and wear sturdy shoes or waders.

For more information about both cleanups, call Britt at the Neponset River Watershed Association at (781) 575-0354.

Neighborhood Meeting On Brewer's Corner Revitalization

Ward 4 Councillor Bryan Connolly had scheduled a Neighborhood Meeting for Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Ward 4 Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., to discuss a number of issues in the Brewer's Corner neighborhood.

Specifically, Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mammario was scheduled to present an update on the progress of the Brewer's Corner Revitalization Plan, which includes a proposal to open a bakery in the former Globe building on the corner of Water and Granite Sts.

Ward 4's Community Police Officers were also scheduled to attend the meeting to address neighborhood concerns and provide an update on police activity in the area.

College Information Night At NQHS April 25

The North Quincy High School Guidance Department will host a workshop "Decisions 2003 --- College Information Night," Thursday, April 25, beginning at 6:30 p.m. and concluding at 8:45 p.m.

Topics for the evening include "An Overview of the College Admissions Process," a presentation that will also be made in Cantonese.

Also "State College, University & Community College System," "Playing Sports in College and the NCAA," "Everything You Need to Know About Financial Aid, but Were Afraid to Ask," "Students with Special Needs and the College Admissions Process," "The College Application," and "Essay and Military Options for After High School."

Representatives from the College Board, Eastern Nazarene College, Massachusetts Community College, Salem State College and the North Quincy High School staff will present the workshops. There will also be an opportunity to speak individually with the presenters during refreshment time.

DOVE Fund-Raiser Friday At Marriott

DOVE, the Quincy emergency shelter for battered women, will hold its annual fund-raiser, "Swing Into Spring," tomorrow (Friday) from 6 to 11 p.m. at Boston Marriott Quincy.

Goal is to raise $50,000 at the event, which will include silent and live auctions and a raffle. There will be a light meal and music by Java Jive.

In the past six months,

DOVE has provided temporary shelter to 185 women and 81 children, and long-term transitional housing for 84 women and 167 children.

A wide variety of items have been donated for the auctions, among them:

A catered dinner for six hosted by television personality Chet Curtis at the winner's home; seven paintings by artist Sandy Pimental, outreach director for the Norfolk County district attorney's office; airline tickets to London; a weekend at a Cape Cod resort and tour of the Big Dig.

Auction donations are still being accepted.

Tickets are $50 per person. A limited number will be available at the door.

For more information call Laurie Kelliher at 617-773-2434.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Haddock Florentine

When there's are tons of family members with different tastes, you try to create something different. Last week, in addition to having a traditional Sunday dinner usually with meatballs, pasta and then some, I made a stuffed haddock that our son-in-law Anthony called "awesome."

I prepared it the day before so all I had to do was pop it in the oven the next day..

Spinach Stuffed Haddock

1 large piece of haddock (or a favorite fish)

1 bag fresh spinach (or frozen equivalent)

1/2 cup seasoned bread crumbs

3 slices white bread (soaked)

1/4 cup grated Romano cheese

salt and pepper to taste

2 cups tomato sauce

First cook the spinach. I sautéed it with a little olive oil and garlic, but if you prefer to just steam it that's fine. In a bowl, add the spinach, bread crumbs soaked bread, cheese and salt and pepper. Mix until well blended. Add a smidgen more bread crumbs if too liquidy.

In a slightly greased casserole dish or baking dish, layer a bit of the sauce on the bottom. Then place a piece of the fish and then the stuffing. Add some tomato sauce, and make at least another layer or two depending on how much fish you have. Top it with a little sauce around the perimeter of the dish and bake covered in a 350 degree oven until bubbly. I served it hot out of the oven and it got raves!

Festival Committee To Choose Christmas Parade Theme Tonight

The selection of a theme for the 50th anniversary Quincy Christmas Parade will take place tonight (Thursday) when the Quincy Festival Committee meets at 7 p.m. in the Park and Recreation Conference Room.

Early selection of an appropriate theme gives float builders ample time to plan their entries for what may be the biggest Christmas Parade.

The first Christmas Parade held in 1952 consisted of a dozen entries which proceeded around a block adjacent to St. John's Church. Several hundred people turned out to watch the entries organized by Fr. Thomas Tierney, Quincy's parade priest.

Over the past 49 years the parade has drawn thousands of onlookers along a three-mile route from School and Elm Streets to East Squantum, Street near North Quincy High School.

Winner of the best theme entry, chosen from among the entries received from the Quincy-South Shore area, will ride in an open convertible in the line of march when the parade is held Dec. 1.

Furnace Brook Walk April 27

Jonathan Twining, an environmental science professor, will conduct an educational walk along Furnace Brook Saturday, April 27, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

He will describe how watersheds work, identify the critters in the brook and whatever else is needed to care for the watersheds as part of the Environmental Treasures of Quincy program.

Preregistration is required and is limited to the first 25 people who register. Call Sally Owen at 617-472-0799 to register.

Eyeglass Collection, Run/Walk Highlights Of Week's Activities

'Quincy Lions Week' April 22-28

Free vision and health screenings, the annual Lions Run/Walk for Sight and a citywide collection of used eyeglasses to help those in need are just a few of the activities that will occur during "Lions Week" in Quincy next week.

At a recent meeting of the Quincy Lions Club, Mayor William Phelan presented club President John Pickering with a proclamation designating April 22-28, 2002 as "Lions Week" in Quincy in recognition of the club's 60-year history of serving the community.

To mark "Lions Week," the Quincy Lions Club has scheduled a series of events aimed at helping blind and visually-impaired persons, including a citywide collection of used eyeglasses and sunglasses.

"The World Health Organization estimates that a quarter of the world's population have eyesight that could benefit from corrective lenses, but for many people a pair of eyeglasses are either unaffordable or inaccessible," Pickering said. "For nearly 70 years, Lions Clubs around the world have been collecting used eyeglasses and support the difference in the life of someone in need."

Lions Week will culminate with the 5th Annual Run/Walk for Sight, to be held Saturday, April 27 at Pageant Field.

Registration and pre-race entertainment begins at 8 a.m., with the children's 1K Run/Walk starting at 10:30 a.m. The 5K Run/Walk will begin at 11 a.m.

Registration fee is $5 for children, $20 for adults ($17 for pre-registration); all proceeds of the Run/Walk will be used to fund eye research and support a worthy cause." declared April 27-28 "Journey for Sight" days in Massachusetts. "We encourage everyone to come down, participate in the Run/Walk and help support a worthy cause."

Pickering and Quincy Lion Uncle Sam Rounseville will appear on WJDA 1300 AM's "Party Line" program on Tuesday, April 23 at 11 a.m. to discuss Lions Week and Lions Club activities. To register for the Run/Walk or for more information, contact Dave Sawyer at (781) 348-4923.

Applications Available For State Police Examination

State Rep. Ronald Mariano reminds residents that applications for the State Trooper entrance examination are now available.

"I invite anyone interested in becoming a state trooper to contact my office for an application," said Mariano.

The deadline to file applications for the June 29 examination is May 10. Applications and instructions for the examination are available by calling Mariano's office at 617-722-2220, or through the Massachusetts Human Resources Division, One Ashburton Place, Customer Service Counter, Boston.

"I encourage anyone interested to apply early," said Mariano.

Quincy Community Action Meeting, Awards April 22

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) will hold its 37th annual meeting and awards ceremony Monday, April 22, at 5:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center.

The event will feature keynote speaker Mary Jo Bane, Thornton Bradshaw Professor at Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government, former assistant Secretary for Families and Children in the Department of Health and Human Services and former co-chair of President Clinton's Working Group on Welfare Reform.

"We are honored to have such a distinguished keynote speaker for this year's event," said Beth Ann Strollo, QCAP executive director. "Ms. Bane is a nationally known expert on welfare reform -- her perspective is very timely as the reauthorization of the welfare program is upon us."

Along with the keynote speaker, a number of other distinguished guests are expected to be present including Mayor William Phelan, Quincy's city councilors and representatives of the city's State House delegation.

QCAP will also recognize community members with Extra Mile Community Awards for their ongoing support and service to the agency's clients and programs.

"QCAP is pleased to once again recognize some of the many people we partner with to carry out our mission and help people help themselves," said Strollo. "These people are so important to our ability to deliver services to clients and advocate for the needs of our most vulnerable citizens."

The award recipients include Senator Michael Morrissey for his support in restoring funding to the Department of Education's Adult Education programming, and the Old South Union Church in Weymouth for their ongoing and enduring support of QCAP's Emergency Food Center.

In addition, several employees will be recognized, including Michelle Sylvia, Head Start lead teacher and recipient of QCAP's Lois Craig Memorial Employee Award, and Mary Bannen and Amy Krukonis, Head Start lead teachers, who are celebrating 20 years of service to QCAP and Head Start children and families.

QCAP, a non-profit, multi-service agency, has been working with residents of Quincy since its inception in 1965 to relieve the causes and consequences of poverty, and provide families and individuals with opportunities for self-sufficiency.

Today the organization serves more than 20,000 individuals in 80 Greater Boston, Norfolk County and Plymouth County communities. QCAP helps families and individuals through a variety of services such as Head Start, Fuel Assistance, Energy Conservation, Affordable Housing, Housing Counseling, Homelessness Prevention, Community Care for Kids, Community Partnerships for Children, Adult Basic Education, the Emergency Food Center and Quincy Family Network.

For more information about QCAP's 37th annual meeting contact Julia Quigley at 617-479-8181, extensions 156.

Mayor Phelan To Address Ward 4 Senior Citizen Group will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Ward 4 Senior Citizen Group to be held Wednesday, April 24 at 2 p.m. at the Ward 4 Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy.

Mayor William Phelan

Phelan will address the group and update members on ward and citywide issues.

Reno Litterio serves as chairman of the Ward 4 Senior Citizen Group.

At Broad Meadows Middle School Sanger Center For Compassion Antiques Appraisal Day April 27

The Esther R. Sanger Center for Compassion will hold an Antiques Appraisal Day Saturday, April 27 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Middle School, 50 Calvin Rd.

The fundraiser will feature expert Skinner appraisers who have appeared on the popular PBS series Chubb's Antiques Roadshow.

While participants are discovering the true value of their hidden treasures, they'll also be raising funds for the Quincy-based Sanger Center which runs the Quincy Crisis Center, which operates a "food pantry on wheels" program for emergency food deliveries throughout the South Shore as well as a hot meal program weekdays at the United First Parish Church in Quincy Center. The Sanger Center also operates the Mary Martha Learning Center in Hingham, a residential educational program for homeless families, primarily women with young children.

Attendees will have the opportunity to meet one-on-one with a Skinner appraiser. Skinner is one of the nation's leading full-service auctioneers and appraisers of antiques and fine art.

The cash-only appraisal fees will be $10 for one item, $20 for two items, and $25 for three items.

The event will also include a door prize drawing, a raffle featuring popular books on collecting and other items, and an appearance by an actor performing as George Washington. In addition, refreshments will be sold.

"We're very excited about this event, as are the folks from Skinner," said Rev. David Wooster, executive director of the Esther R. Sanger Center for Compassion. "This is the first charity appraisal day Skinner has held in Quincy, so they anticipate that some real finds might be uncovered. Also, we hope the event will introduce our organization to people in the community who aren't familiar with our work."

Historical gems that have been uncovered at previous Antique Appraisal Days that Skinner appraisers have conducted include a Fitz Hugh Lane painting that eventually sold for over $475,000 and an 18th century Pembroke table that subsequently sold for $266,500.

The fundraiser has been made possible through a corporate donation from Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston, which this year is celebrating 70 years of service to South Shore families. "We are deeply grateful to Ed Keohane for his support with this event," said Wooster.

"We couldn't have done it without his firm's generosity."

Three Skinner appraisal specialists will be on hand to examine a wide range of art and antique objects, including: American furniture and decorative arts, American and European paintings and prints, Arts and Crafts items, Native American art, art glass and art pottery, early glass, bottles and flasks, ceramics, English and Continental furniture and decorative arts, musical instruments, toys and dolls, Oriental rugs, Asian works of Arts, books and manuscripts, silver, Judaica, and 20th century design items.

Coins, stamps, and jewelry are excluded. Good photographs may be substituted for very large or fragile pieces.

For more information, including directions to Broad Meadows Middle School, call (617) 984-0586.

Make The Grass Look Greener On Your Side Of The Fence

(NAPS) — Green grass, barbecues, fresh vegetables...crabgrass, lawn mowing and plant-eating insects. Like most things in life, the pleasures of your yard are matched by some thorny inconveniences.

"But with a little prepara-

Tips For A Greener Lawn And Healthier Garden

tion, gardeners can root out some common yard problems," said Doug Keiser, lawn and garden vice president and divisional merchandise manager of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.

Keiser provides the following tips to help lawn and gardeners look their greenest:

- Visit Wal-Mart's online Garden Center at www.walmart.com/garden to learn your planting zone and the recommended plants for each season. The center will also offer you a list of monthly to-do's based on your zone.

- Avoid costly repairs down the road by keeping your lawn mower in top condition.

Before the first mowing of the year, rake your lawn to remove dead leaves and other debris. Then, the first time you mow, set your mower blade below its normal height. This will remove much of the top-growth and expose more of your lawn to direct sunlight, promoting thickness and richening color.

- Lawns should be fertilized several times over the spring and summer, and it's important to fertilize early. If crabgrass is a problem, this first "feeding" should include a crabgrass fighter.

- One of the pleasures of the outdoors is raising fresh vegetables in your backyard garden. If you're starting a garden, be sure to select a spot that gets at least six hours of sunshine a day, and preferably more.

- Mulching the vegetable garden can keep weeds to a minimum, but when they do appear, the best way to remove them is by hand pulling. Be careful not to disturb your vegetables' roots when removing weeds. To deter pests and disease from damaging your garden produce, consider spraying with a multi-purpose garden protector.

For more information or to research the correct home or garden plant, visit the online Garden Center at www.walmart.com or consult a local Wal-Mart Store Garden Center guru.

Great Grilling -- The Comfort Of Home

(NAPS) -- American living is, more and more, centered on an outdoor lifestyle, as people insulate themselves at home and keep close to the ones they love.

Many forego expensive vacations to create their own personal resorts in their backyards. Since the cost of home refinancing may be at an all-time low, this has become a very practical and convenient option.

Americans will be firing up more barbecue grills, turkey fryers and chimineas than ever before in this stay-at-home lifestyle. According to the Hearth, Patio & Barbecue Association (HPBA), 80 million American households have and use a barbecue grill, and 58 percent of them cook outdoors year-round. People enjoy barbecuing, not only because it gives food great flavor, but it is quick and easy, leaving little mess in the kitchen.

Cooking and entertaining outdoors, however, can wreak havoc on decks, patios, and even docks -- grease stains and ash spots from incidental sparks are two of the most common problems.

A simple solution for keeping the outdoor living space free from these annoying blemishes is The "Original" Grill Pad deck protector. Made by DiversiTech corporation, the pad is a lightweight, flexible fiber-cement protective blanket that is placed under outdoor ornamental clay or other portable fireplaces, fryers, smokers, and charcoal, gas or electric barbecue grills to protect a deck surface from grease stains and sparks or debris.

The Grill Pads have a slip-resistant, textured surface and are earth-brown in color to blend readily with most woods. They can be custom colored to match any decor with a latex, water-based stain. Unlike other deck protectors, these "breathe," preventing long-term water entrapment between the pad and the deck surface that can damage the wood. They are easily cleaned with a garden hose and are naturally heat and weather resistant.

The pads are available at hardware stores, mass merchandisers, hearth and patio shops, home centers and wherever grills and accessories are sold.

REAL ESTATE

Increasing The Value Of Your Home From The Ground Up

(NAPS) — One way to raise the value of your home — without sending improvement costs through the roof — is to improve your floors. Real estate agents across the United States say floors can be one of the most valuable commodities in a house and also one of the least expensive to maintain, improve or install.

Research on real estate throughout the country shows that the money invested to upgrade replacement floor coverings in a home, prior to its being resold, can be expected to return "substantially more than 100 percent" of the entire cost of renovation.

If homeowners invested $5,000 to replace worn-out floor coverings and then listed their home on the market, says Christopher Davis, chief executive officer of the World Floor Covering Association, "they should factor in an extra $10,000 to $15,000 on the selling price."

Davis says the value of flooring can be seen whether you're buying a new home, improving the one you're in or selling the one you have.

Buying And Refinancing Your Home

Upgraded floor coverings in new homes — when financed into the mortgage — are usually extremely affordable. For every $1,000 spent on upgraded floor coverings and financed into the mortgage, the buyer's payment usually increased by less than $10 a month. In addition, the new floors can usually be written-off during the first few years of the mortgage.

For example, upgraded floor coverings valued at $2,500 and added to the purchase price of the house will increase the mortgage payment by about $23 a month, or $276 annually. Most mortgage payments (especially in the first few years) are on the mortgage's interest and are tax deductible. That means the $276, instead of counting towards principle, can be considered interest paid thus creating tax savings for homeowners who itemize deductions.

Improving Your Home

Installing flooring can be an economical — and relatively easy — way to improve your home. Before you make room for such a home improvement project, however, it is a good idea to visit www.wfca.org to do some basic research and get a list of expert and reliable flooring retailers in your area.

A retailer can give tips on choosing the right floor for each room in your house, advice on the quality of different flooring types, including hardwood, tile, laminates, resilient and carpets, as well as all the various brands available. In addition, the retailers can recommend trustworthy carpenters and contractors who can install floors.

Selling Your Home

Don't Let Termites Burglarize Your Home

(NAPS) — Your home might be the most expensive purchase you ever make. Naturally, you want to protect it from burglars, so you install an alarm system. There's another kind of intruder, however, that invades your home and does a great deal of damage — subterranean termites.

Termites, the "silent destructors," are a year-round problem in many areas of the country, working diligently behind your walls to eat away the equity you've worked so hard to build. What's more, your homeowner's insurance policy most likely does not cover termite damage. It's important to be informed about termites so you can make the best long-term choice to protect your largest investment from these tenacious pests.

Being informed means recognizing what termite signs to look for around your home, including the most visible one — swarming. This occurs when large swarms of winged reproductive termites fly inside and/or around the home, attempting to begin a new colony. Other common indicators of subterranean termite infestations include:

- Hollow-sounding wood-work
- Mud tubes on your foundation
- Wings found around doors, windows, heating vents or in bathrooms and sinks

Nationally, termites cause over $2 billion in treatment and repair costs and damage more than 2 million dwellings each year. However, with a termite alarm system, called the Sentricon Termite Colony Elimination System, you can protect your home from termite "break-ins." It monitors for termites and alerts you to their presence before these destructive pests literally eat your house for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

The value a floor can add to a house may best be seen when it comes time to sell a home.

The first two rooms homeowners generally look at are the kitchen and bathroom. New resilient floors can be an inexpensive way to keep both rooms looking clean, bright and modern.

Kitchens can be patterned with inexpensive floor tiles for a customized effect. Similarly, adding rows of accent tiles in the bathroom can make the room appear more finely detailed and expensive than it actually is. New floors can also be used to enhance other rooms, such as bedrooms and master suites.

For example, the right floor covering can add an element of sophistication and class to a master suite and make a bedroom feel more welcoming and familiar.

For more information, visit www.wfca.org.

A popular choice installed at more than 1 million structures nationwide, the Sentricon System is less intrusive than basic liquid barrier treatments. It's odor-free, installed quickly, requires no drilling inside homes, pulling up carpeting or disrupting landscaping, and there's no mess.

The Sentricon System has been awarded the Presidential Green Chemistry Challenge Award by the United States Environmental Protection Agency. It's installed at some of our nation's most treasured landmarks including the Statue of Liberty and the White House.

For more information about the long-term termite protection offered by the Sentricon System, consult the Yellow Pages, call 1-800-686-6200 or visit www.sentricon.com.

Cleaning Tips For Homeowners

(NAPS) — Any time can be a good time for some heavy-duty cleaning. In a weekend's time, there are several easy ways to make major improvements to your home, without a lot of elbow grease or cash outlay.

First, get organized and figure out exactly what you want to tackle. Make a checklist before beginning any project and be sure to have the proper products on hand. Also, remember to wear comfortable clothes that you won't mind getting dirty.

Here are a few key projects that can make a dramatic difference to the look and feel of your home.

Clear The Clutter

Make a vow to get rid of clutter for good. Create efficient storage spaces with plastic bins or wicker baskets and put away sporting goods, garden tools, toys, etc. (While you're at it, separate seldom-used items to give to charity.) In addition, cut down on clutter throughout the year by putting catchall containers such as baskets near entryways for mail, shoes and other items that tend to get tossed onto the floor. For added organization, paint baskets different colors for different items with a durable and decorative spray paint.

Wash Those Windows

Thoroughly wash windows both inside and outside with a good cleaning solvent. Take a trip to the local hardware store and invest in a sponge/squeegee set for quicker and better results.

Before reinstalling screens, lightly scrub them with mild soap and water and let air dry, to remove dust and dirt that has settled.

Fabric Care 101

Vacuum any dust off of draperies, remove and let air dry on a clothesline for a few hours. Send dirtier drapes and curtains off to the dry cleaners. Check all upholstery for spots and stains and remove with a gentle upholstery cleaner. Switch heavy winter fabric covers and throw pillows for lighter-weight fabrics such as cotton and linen.

Mike Feetham Strikes Out 8, Yields 1 Run On Four Hits Pitching Propels Red Raiders To Third Victory

By CHRIS POISSON

After the first two games of the season — high scoring, one-run wins — the North Quincy High baseball team desperately wanted to keep the scoring to a minimum last Thursday afternoon at Falmouth.

Yeah, the Red Raiders outlugged Canton, 9-8, in the season opener and Taunton, 10-9, last Tuesday at Adams Field. But could they really continue that pace for the rest of the season? Probably not. So they were hoping for their pitching to catch up with their hot bats.

Senior pitcher Mike Feetham took the hill for his second start of the season. Despite allowing six runs in an abbreviated three-inning stint in the win over Canton, head coach Larry Taglieri said he wasn't too concerned about his shaky outing.

Feetham rebounded the way Taglieri and his teammates envisioned it, giving up one run on four hits and striking out eight in a complete-game effort, propelling the Red Raiders to a 4-1 victory, their third straight to open the campaign.

"Obviously, our pitching was much improved," Taglieri said. "You didn't hear too much panic in my voice after Mike's first start. He bounced back. He was dominant. He pitched much better than he did in his previous start, and I expected that."

North Quincy (3-0 overall, 2-0 Old Colony League) began a five-game homestand Tuesday against Milton and it battles Braintree this morning (Thursday) at 11, an early start as the high school is on school vacation week.

The Clippers scored a run in the first for an early lead, but the Red Raiders answered with single runs in the second, fifth, sixth and seventh innings to earn the win and avenge a pair of one-run defeats from a year ago.

With one out in the second, senior second baseman Dennis Thomson (2 for 4) reached on an infield hit and senior John Fidalgo followed with a walk. After another out, senior first baseman Neal Gavin (2 for 3) ripped an RBI single to left that scored Thomson to even the game.

In the fifth, North Quincy displayed its sound fundamentals. After senior third baseman Charles Vidoli reached on a force out and senior left fielder Pat Bregoli doubled to put men at second and third, senior shortstop Steve Pizzi grounded to the right side with only one out to score Vidoli for a 2-1 lead.

"We played good fundamental baseball," Taglieri said. "Steve Pizzi put the ball in play with a runner at third and less than two outs to get a run in."

In the sixth, Feetham smashed a lead-off double and moved to third on Thomson's groundout. Senior John O'Connell made it 3-1 with a two-out, pinch-hit single.

The Red Raiders added their final run with two outs in the seventh. Senior center fielder Wayne Moynihan stroked a double and Feetham followed with a walk. Thomson then knocked home Moynihan with his second hit of the game.

"Dennis Thomson is hitting real well, as are a lot of guys," Taglieri said. "It's different guys, different games."

"Not a bad start," he added. "It was a good win down in Falmouth for us. We have to sure up our defense. We're still looking for the perfect defensive game. All we want a team to have is 21 outs. We haven't had that yet."

In the Taunton game, Pizzi breezed threw the first three innings but ran into trouble in the fourth as he allowed five runs. O'Connell pitched the fifth and sixth innings in relief without allowing a hit. In the seventh, Gavin came in and gave up four runs on four hits in 2/3 of an inning and Taglieri brought in O'Connell to get the final out.

Offensively, everyone in the lineup had a hit, led by Vidoli's two hits and three RBI. After Pizzi's RBI groundout in the first, senior Mark Maher laced in RBI single in the second, Fidalgo scored on a wild pitch, Vidoli poked a two-run single and later scored on Moynihan's sacrifice fly for a 6-0 lead.

North Quincy extended its lead to 9-0 in the third when Gavin smacked an RBI double and Vidoli added an RBI single. Gavin scored the third run on a wild pitch. In the sixth, Thomson drove in Moynihan with a sacrifice fly for a 10-5 advantage.

Richard Moore Memorial Golf Tournament June 17

The first annual Richard A. Moore Memorial Golf Tournament will be held June 17 at Presidents Golf Course to benefit the Jimmy Fund at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

The tourney will begin with tee time at 7:30 a.m.

at Quincy Medical Center's 13th annual Golf & Tennis Classic Monday, June 17, at the Wollaston Golf Club in Milton.

"We are excited and honored to have our own local celebrity participate in the day's activities," said Harriet Messcher, QMC vice president of development. "The proceeds of this tournament will enable us to continue to provide vitally needed medical services to the community."

The tournament will feature a "live" auction. QMC's annual tournament provides an opportunity for area corporations, local physicians and hospital employees to show their support for quality health care at Quincy Medical Center by coming together for a day of relaxation and friendly competition.

For more information about sponsorship opportunities and/or participation in the day's activities, contact the Quincy Medical Center at 617-376-5493 or 617-376-5495.

ALL FOR ONE, ONE FOR ALL

Many new vehicles come equipped with a single "serpentine" belt that drives all the accessories (alternator, water pump, air conditioning compressor, etc.) instead of having a separate belt drive each accessory. The advantage to having the serpentine belt is that it is simpler and generally easier to replace than the multiple belts in older vehicles. If the serpentine belt were to fail, however, there is an interruption in power to all accessories driven by the belt, including some critical ones. For instance, the alternator produces the electricity to run the vehicle's electric and ignition systems and keeps the battery charged. Thus, it is very important to regularly check the condition of this important belt and replace it when recommended.

Let us make sure your under-hood belts are in good condition. Here at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, for most all of your car's repairs, we have modern test equipment, the right parts, and the best ASE Certified service technicians available in the area. We also use the AllData CD-ROM based system for the very latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars. Get acquainted with us at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We're "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Open: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: Check any belt under your vehicle's hood for cracks or signs of fraying, which indicate the need for replacement.

Squantum Gym Wins Elementary Basketball Jamboree

Squantum Gym captured the Jamboree Cup as champions of the Quincy Recreation Department's recent All-City Elementary Basketball Jamboree.

The Jamboree, which is designed to encourage participation, featured boys and girls in grades 3 through 5 from the department's Saturday open gym programs.

"This free event brings together over 100 youngsters in a fun-filled atmosphere that starts with a clinic and features a fast-moving round robin of mini-games, which allows both the losing and winning teams the opportunity to advance," said Recreation Director Barry Welch. The clinic was hosted by North Quincy High School Athletic Director Brian Buckley, a longtime coach at the college and high school levels.

In the final game, Squantum received balanced scoring as it knocked off Beechwood Knoll, 9-8. Kathleen Lynch, twin sister Julie, Jessica Howlett, Cassie McNulty and Matt Jay all scored for Squantum, coached by Bill Croke.

For Beechwood, coached by Pat Delaney, Matt Goreham scored four points. Ian Browne two and Britney Folkins two. As finalists they were presented with ribbons.

In earlier action, Wollaston upset Atherton Hough. Coached by veteran recreation leader Ryan Herlihy, Wollaston received great play from Lian Can, Hallor Flosaso, Brian Donaghey and Dylan Duncan. For Atherton Hough, James Lupo, Steve McDonough, Luke McDonough and John McDonough all played well.

In the semi-finals, Squantum edged Bernazzani, which was coached by Pat McDonough. Kathleen Lynch scored six and Julie Lynch two. For Bernazzani, Kayla McGonagle, Pat Joyce and Joe Lynch scored. Aly Quinn and Sara Djerf had timely rebounds.

Tim Stille, Rory Bennett and Ben Leahy all scored in Bernazzani's win over Wollaston. For Wollaston, Jason Stearns scored four.

Collin McCarthy and Matt Pepdjonovich scored as Merrymount, coached by Corey Aved, suffered a close loss to Beechwood Knoll. Steve Murphy and Kathleen Gorman played well.

Pepdjonovich scored a tourney-high 12 points as Merrymount defeated Atlantic.

In first-round games, John Mullin scored eight points and Zack Tucker led the team in rebounds as Merrymount defeated Atlantic. For Atlantic, coached by Ryan Farnham, Rob Krueger and Alex Brawley scored.

Nicole Repucci, her sister Lindsay and David Hudson scored to help lead Beechwood past Atlantic. Alex Hottatz had three points in the loss.

Brian Donaghey and Dylan Duncan played well for Wollaston.

Tim Stille scored a game-high seven points in Bernazzani's win over Merrymount. Aly Quinn and Joe Olson played well defensively. For Merrymount, the hustling Collin McCarthy, Paul O'Rourke, Donovan Flynn and Mike Copper turned in strong outings.

Presidents Remain Positive

By CHRIS POISSON

After an optimistic 2-1 start, the Quincy High baseball team received a not-so-friendly reminder last week of what life will be like in its inaugural season in the Atlantic Coast League.

The Presidents' pitching, their strong suit in the first three games, was tagged for 25 runs in two games — a 16-2 loss to Nauset at home last Thursday and a 9-2 setback at Whitman-Hanson last Tuesday.

"There are going to be some games where it is difficult to beat teams," said head coach Michael Draicchio. "We're very young. We have to keep positive and be optimistic with the kids we have."

Quincy (2-3 overall, 0-2 ACL) has no games scheduled this school vacation week and it will resume play Monday, April 22, with a road trip to Dennis-Yarmouth (4 p.m.).

Against Nauset, junior pitcher Jeff Tam made his season debut. After a shaky first inning in which the Warriors scored three runs, he looked strong at times before leaving the game with two outs in the third as his defense couldn't bail him out.

BASEBALL

With runners at second and third, Quincy made an error that led to one run. Tam yielded an RBI single and the defense made another error that led to two more runs. Junior lefty Bob Ritchie relieved Tam and got the final out after giving up an RBI single.

Ritchie, who has pitched well this season in relief and may get a start in the future, cruised through the fourth and fifth innings before being lifted in the sixth after giving up a run when the first three batters reached base.

"Ritchie did a nice job," Draicchio said. "He's been a surprise for us. He's kind of a junk-baller. He doesn't throw the ball yard but he throws strikes. He has a nice curve."

Junior Liam Powers entered the game and got the No. 5, 6 and 7 hitters out to escape the jam without any more damage.

In the bottom half of the inning, junior Ryan Conley broke up the Nauset pitcher's no-hit bid with a lead-off single up the middle. After an out, Steve Hawko dumped a pinch-hit double down the left field line to make the score 8-1.

In the seventh, Nauset scored eight more runs to blow open the game. Quincy tacked on a run in the bottom half to close out the scoring. After senior Dave Grogan and junior Francis Orlando each singled, Conley slapped an RBI single.

"We knew they were a good hitting team," Draicchio said. "I think we've played all right."

In the Whitman-Hanson game, Powers, the second baseman, was the lone bright spot. He went 2 for 4 with a home run and a double to raise his average to .533 (8 for 15) at the time.

"Powers has had a great year so far," Draicchio said. "He's been solid for us."

Although they managed to score only two runs on three hits, the Presidents were able to put the ball in play, striking out five times against pitcher Joe Coombs.

"We played pretty well," Draicchio said. "We didn't make a lot of mistakes. We hit the ball. We struck out only five times. We just hit the ball right at them."

North Girls Track Bow

The North Quincy High girls' track team traveled to Bridgewater-Raynham last Wednesday looking to take a step closer to the Old Colony League title, but instead took a step back with a 79-57 loss.

B-R scored 18 points in the final three events to clinch the victory, finishing first and second in the 200 meters and winning both the 4x100 and 4x400 relays.

North Quincy will participate in the Notre Dame Freshman-Sophomore Invitational Saturday and heads to Barnstable next Wednesday.

In the loss to the Trojans, the Red Raiders had their moments as Makini Thompson, Katie Morgan, Katie Timmins, April Rodgers and Erin McFarland all notched wins.

Thompson leaped into the record books in the triple jump with a leap of 34'10" — the No. 2 all-time jumper behind Tricia Hughes (class of 1992) — and then won the 100-meter hurdles despite a strained quadriceps muscle.

Head coach Geoff Hennessy held his star out of the 4x100 relay, which could have added win No. 3 to her big day.

"We have a lot of track left ahead of us so I decided to pull her from the relay," said Hennessy, who is in his 13th season at the helm. "We can't miss training time nursing injuries."

Morgan took the discus,

Timmins the two mile, Rodgers the 100 meters and McFarland the 400 meters. Finishing second were Molly Griffin (400), Morgan (shot-put), Allie Lacey (800), Katie Mercurio (high jump), Timmins (mile) and Eileen Price (two mile).

Third-place finishes went to Jen Venuti (200), Brenna O'Brien (400), Price (mile), Diana Berberan (100 hurdles), McFarland (long jump), Venuti (triple jump), Krystle Neves (high jump) and Caitlin Herlihy (shot-put, javelin).

North Quincy opened the season April 2 with an 85-51 win over an undermanned Taunton squad and it handed Falmouth its worst defeat in its history with a 95-21 victory on April 4. In both meets, Hennessy pulled his team from the two-mile and 4x400 relay.

"No weaknesses is our motto this season," said Hennessy, who is assisted by Tom and Jeannine Giatrakos and volunteers Claire Quilty and Ken Shurtluff.

In the Taunton meet, McFarland was a triple winner, taking the long and triple jumps and the 400.

Other winners were Rodgers (100), Lacey (800), Timmins (mile), Thompson (100 hurdles), Morgan (shot-put), Mercurio (high jump) and Lauren Sleeth (javelin).

The 4x400 relay of Rodgers, Shannon Desmond,

Sarah Gregory and Kristen O'Toole won.

Taking seconds were Desmond (200), O'Brien (400), Price (mile), Berberan (100 and 300 hurdles), Venuti (triple jump), Paula Morgan (shot-put) and Herlihy (javelin).

Taking thirds were Gregory (100), Venuti (200), Griffin (400), Jessica Jacques (800), long jump, triple jump, Herlihy (shot-put), Morgan (discus) and Julia McGunigle (javelin).

In the Falmouth meet North Quincy swept every field event: McFarland, Venuti, Jacques, long jump; Thompson, Venuti, Jacques, triple jump; Mercurio, Thompson, Neves, high jump; Katie Morgan, Paula Morgan, Herlihy, shot-put; Katie Morgan, McGunigle, Neves, discus; Sleeth, McGunigle, Beth Houghton, javelin.

Timmins and Price finished second and third in the mile, Laura Wells and Berberan took first and second in the 300 hurdles, and Gregory and Shawna Kennedy went second and third in the 100.

Lacey was second in the 800, McFarland, O'Brien and Griffin swept the 400. Thompson, Berberan and Wells swept the 100 hurdles and Venuti and Desmond finished second and third in the 200.

Koch Baseball Registration

The Koch Club will open its 52nd season of youth baseball with registration Monday, April 22, and Wednesday, April 24, from 6 to 7 p.m. at O'Neil Field at Atlantic Middle School.

Boys and girls, ages 5-10, are eligible to participate. Registration fee is $15 and all children will receive a Koch Club hat and T-shirt. There are no tryouts; every child that registers will be allowed to play equally.

Opening night is Monday, April 29, at 6 p.m. Games will be played at O'Neil Field Monday and Wednesday at 6 p.m. through the end of June.

What Is Alcoholism And What Can Be Done About It?

By TOM O'TOOLE

We all know alcohol is a real and serious problem for many people. It can disrupt lives, affect careers, and, if ignored, will only progress to more serious problems. And while this is common knowledge, it is also true that most people are hesitant to acknowledge their problem. They feel trapped between the addiction that dominates their life and the stigma they imagine they will face by admitting their problem.

TOM O'TOOLE

April is Alcohol Awareness Month. This annual observance provides an opportunity for people all across the country to take inventory of their alcohol usage. It's also an opportunity to spread the word that alcoholism is a treatable disease.

What Is Alcoholism?

Generally speaking, alcoholism is repeated drinking that causes trouble in the drinker's personal, professional, family or school life. Denial of the negative effects of alcohol in their lives is common in alcoholics.

According to the National Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence (NCADD) and the American Society of Addiction Medicine, alcoholism is characterized by:

- impaired control over drinking
- preoccupation with alcohol
- use of alcohol despite adverse consequences
- distortions in thinking, most notably denial
- withdrawal syndrome when alcohol is removed.

How Can I Recognize An Alcohol Problem?

The NCADD provides a self-test to help you review the role alcohol plays in your life. You can obtain a copy of this test by calling the NCADD at 212-206-6770 or by visiting their Web site (www.ncadd.org).

Additionally, below are some warning signs of alcoholism that can help you determine if you or someone you know may need to seek help for the addiction:

- Drinking to calm nerves, forget worries or boost a sad mood
- Guilt about drinking
- Unsuccessful attempts to cut down or stop drinking
- Lying about or hiding drinking habits
- Causing harm to oneself or someone else as a result of drinking
- Needing to drink increasingly greater amounts in order to achieve desired effect
- Feeling irritable, resentful or unreasonable when not drinking
- Medical, social, family, legal or financial problems caused by drinking

What Can Be Done About Alcoholism?

While there is no known cure of alcoholism, the disease can be put in remission through complete abstinence from alcohol. A variety of treatments exist to help people stop drinking, including education, counseling, self-help groups, medication, detoxification and rehabilitation. And while stopping drinking can be very hard, it is not impossible. There are places to go for help.

Locally, the Quitting Time program at South Shore Mental Health provides addiction services for individuals with a primary addiction to alcohol and/or other drugs. The program features the 12-step treatment model, random testing, psychopharmacology and 24-hour emergency services. If you or someone you know could benefit from talking about addictions with a licensed professional, call Quitting Time at 617-847-1950.

O'Toole is a certified alcohol and drug addiction counselor II in Quitting Time Addictions Services, a program of South Shore Mental Health. SSMH is a community resource providing mental health and substance abuse services throughout the South Shore, southeastern Massachusetts and Cape Cod.

Are You Keeping Your Feet Healthy?

Are you keeping your feet healthy?

This is Foot Health Awareness Month proclaimed by the American Podiatric Medical Association and Massachusetts Podiatric Medical Society. Quincy podiatrist, Norman A. Wertzman, DPM, in observance of the month, offers tips on how to keep your feet healthy.

• Toenails should be trimmed straight across so they are no longer than the tip of the toes. Do not round off the corners, which could allow nails to grow into the skin.

• A podiatrist should evaluate any discoloration or redness around or under a toenail.

• Washing the feet with mild soap and water and remembering to dry well, especially between the toes, will help prevent fungal or yeast infections.

• Shoes, socks or hosiery should be worn and changed daily.

• Make sure pedicure instruments at a beauty salon are sterilized properly, or bring your own.

• Don't apply polish to toenails that are discolored or swollen.

• Shower shoes or flip-flops should be worn in public areas such as gym locker rooms or showers to prevent fungal infections.

• Soaking your feet in warm water with Epsom salt (unless you have diabetes) or applying a spray or roll-on antiperspirant on the bottom of the feet can decrease perspiration.

• Wear properly fitted and supportive shoes on a daily basis. It's best to shop for shoes in the afternoon when feet tend to swell. If your feet are two different sizes, buy the shoe that fits the larger foot to limit or reduce corns or calluses.

• Rinse the shower with a mixture of bleach and hot water once a week to reduce the transfer of fungal infections between family members.

For more information on proper foot health care, contact your local podiatrist or the Massachusetts Podiatric Medical Society by calling 978-689-4701 or visiting its Web site (www.massdpm.org).

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

SWOLLEN JOINT AND MISSING TEETH

According to a recent Australian study, people with rheumatoid arthritis were found to be more than twice as likely to have periodontal (gum) disease with moderate to severe jawbone loss than those without arthritis. While some dental professionals have speculated that people with arthritis have more periodontal disease due to limited manual dexterity, researchers found no difference in plaque deposits between arthritis sufferers and those without arthritis. Mindful that the progression of periodontal disease in the arthritis group may be due to factors other than oral hygiene, some researchers think that a bacterial infection may be the culprit. Thus, people with rheumatoid arthritis should be on the lookout for signs of periodontal disease, such as red, swollen gums that bleed easily.

Ask us about medical conditions or medications that can contribute to gum disease. Periodontal diseases may be prevented if you brush and floss every day to remove bacterial plaque and get regular dental checkups. When did you have your last checkup? Call 617-479-6220 today and schedule an appointment. We take the extra effort to respect your time, your fears, your cost concerns, and your overall well-being. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we are currently accepting new patients. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. According to the study mentioned above, arthritis sufferers averaged 11.6 missing teeth compared with an average of 6.7 missing teeth in the control group.

Covenant Congregational Church Children's Pantry Celebrating Fifth Anniversary

Covenant Congregational Church, 315 Whitwell St., Quincy, is celebrating five years of service to the local community through its Children's Pantry.

"We are happy to be able to help the children. It is an important way for us to help our community as well, and Helen Taylor is really the heart behind the work," said Rev. Karen Palmalter, church pastor.

The Pantry is open two mornings each week, Wednesday and Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to noon. Mrs. Taylor volunteers by organizing the donations and helping visitors find clothing, toys and books for their children.

Often, depending on donations, items such as car seats, playpens or changing tables are also available. People are referred to the Children's Pantry through social workers, visiting nurses, other churches and the like. The only requirement is that the family has a genuine need.

Church members and many others in the community are able to help by donating children's clothing. Articles must be clean and in good condition (no missing buttons, tears, etc.).

Donations of books, toys, children's equipment, etc., in fully working and clean condition are also welcome.

To make a donation, call the church at 617-479-5728 to set up a time for dropping off your donations.

Harbormaster, Business, Civic Leader

Bernard 'Bernie' Reisberg 'He Gave Of Himself'

By HENRY BOSWORTH

City officials, business associates, fellow veterans, yachtsmen and others whose lives he touched were among the more than 250 paying final tribute to Bernard "Bernie" Reisberg, Quincy harbormaster and long-time business and civic leader.

While flags at City Hall, other municipal buildings and yacht clubs were at half-staff, the Levine-Briss Funeral Home Chapel in Randolph was filled to standing room only for the funeral service Friday, the day he would have turned 77.

Mr. Reisberg, Quincy harbormaster for 18 years, a World War II veteran and justice of the peace, died April 10 at Milton Hospital where, his family said, he suffered a heart attack. He had not been feeling well but remained active and attended the Quincy Rotary Club luncheon the day before he died.

Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue, Quincy, and a long-time friend who officiated at the service, told those attending:

"He was all good. He gave of himself to his country, his community and to the city he loved so much — Quincy."

Rabbi Mann said he was privileged to have been associated with Mr. Reisberg for many years and added: "I was privileged to be at the last moments of his life."

Mr. Reisberg's son, Steven Reisberg of New York City said: "Quincy was my father's university. He dedicated his time to any organization he thought in his heart would do some good."

"My father was a very gentle man, strong, solid. He had a natural sense of what was right and what was wrong."

Randy Welch, daughter of Fay Kaplan, Mr. Reisberg's sister, speaking for his nieces and nephews, said: "He loved us like we were his own children."

The Quincy Jewish War Veterans of which Mr. Reisberg was a past commander, conducted a brief meeting as a tribute to open the service. The meeting was led by Commander Bertrand Shaffer.

BERNIE REISBERG

Commodore Paul Stewart and the other line officers of the Metropolitan Yacht Club of which Mr. Reisberg was a past commodore formed an honor guard.

They placed the club burgee on the casket beside the American flag. Both were later presented to Mrs. Marilyn Reisberg and the family at Agudas Achim of Malden Cemetery in Melrose.

Among officials attending the service were Mayor William Phelan, City Council President Daniel Raymond, Councilors Kevin Coughlin and Gregory Hanley, Register of Deeds and former Council President Paul Harold, Thomas Koch, executive director of Parks-Forestry-Cemetery Department, and Recreation Director Barry Welch.

There were also representatives from the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association of which Mr. Reisberg was a past president; the Quincy Rotary Club of which he was a member; Cerebral Palsy South Shore Area with whom he was active, area yacht clubs, and other groups with which he was associated.

Mr. Reisberg, who was Quincy harbormaster since 1984, had been an assistant harbormaster eight years before that.

Former Mayor Frank McCauley, who appointed him as harbormaster, said: "He did an excellent job. He will be missed. He operated as harbormaster on a tight

Emmett R. Joyce, 77

Retired Truck Driver, WWII Navy Veteran

A funeral Mass for Emmett R. Joyce, 77, of Quincy, a retired truck driver and a World War II Navy veteran, was celebrated April 13 at Sacred Heart Church.

He died April 10 at Milton Hospital.

Mr. Joyce worked as a truck driver for Stop & Shop in South Boston for 42 years, retiring in 1987.

He was a member of Teamsters locals 829 and 25. Born in Boston, he lived in Quincy for the past 30 years.

He is survived by his wife, Geraldine A. (Baga) Joyce; three sons, Robert E. Joyce of Quincy, William G. Joyce of West Roxbury and Jay DeAngelis of South Boston; three daughters, Roseanne M. Opalach of Nashua, N.H., Geraldine P. Gamel of

Wollaston and Helen V. Veasey of North Quincy; a sister, Sister Ann Christine Joyce of Worcester; 14 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Joseph S. Kahler, 75

Retired Electrician, WWII Navy Veteran

A funeral Mass for Joseph S. Kahler, 75, a lifelong Quincy resident, an electrician and a World War II Navy veteran, was celebrated April 13 at St. Joseph's Church.

He died April 9 at home following a long illness.

Mr. Kahler worked as a marine electrician at the Fore River shipyard for 16 years and as an electrician for the Edison Company for 24 years. He retired in 1986.

He was the past president of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society in Quincy Point, past secretary for the Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society and past president of the South Shore District of the Holy Name Society. He was also voted Holy Name Man of the Year in 1971 and 1999, and was a member of the Boston Edison Retiree's Volunteer Program.

John J. Dacey, 72

Retired Auditor

A funeral Mass for John J. Dacey, 72, of West Springfield, Va., formerly of Quincy, a retired auditor, was celebrated April 13 at St. Ann's Church.

He died April 6 at home.

Mr. Dacey was an auditor at the General Accounting Office in Washington, D.C., for 30 years, retiring in 1986.

He served in the Air Force from 1950 to 1954.

He was a member of the American Legion.

Born in Boston, he lived there and in Quincy before moving to West Springfield 40 years ago. He graduated from Boston College High School and Boston College.

He is survived by his wife, Jean D. (Amara) Dacey; a sister, Patricia Lynch of Quincy; a niece, three nephews and nine grandnieces and grandnephews.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Donations may be made to the Hospice of Northern VA, Greater Arlington/Fairfax Clinical Office, Administration Office, 6565 Arlington Blvd., Suite 500, Falls Church, VA 22042.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Thanks."

This is not a long word hard to pronounce, but it is a word that some people find hard to say. Also it is an inspiring little word that can bring the sunshine out on a dark day if we are willing to have it. Thanks before meals. Thanks-giving in our prayers. Thanks to those who have done so much for us. Thanks for our families. Thanks for our friends.

What a tragedy that the grace of gratitude is not as common as it ought to be. Kind words of appreciation and encouragement to each other by husband and wife could "make their day." A child brightens a weary mother's day with acknowledgment of her value by a word, a hug or a kiss.

All of us are the recipients of countless deeds of kindness on the part of those with whom we rub shoulders with every day, and yet all they may receive from us are prickly criticisms, when a word well-spoken would completely change the service and the server...

May we take this opportunity to say a "Thank You" to all our readers who have commented on the "Thoughts" they have here. Your comments have been and always will be most appreciated.

budget and often took money out of his own pocket to keep things going. He did an excellent job at whatever he did."

Mr. Reisberg was the former owner of Bernie's Formal Shop, a downtown Quincy landmark for the past half century. Although no longer family owned, the shops still family connected. His daughter, Donna Reisberg Teed of Holbrook, is the store manager.

Mr. Reisberg was president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association in its early years and helped start its annual Sidewalk Sale which is still a summer family fun-time some 30 years later.

He was active in the annual Quincy Bay Race Week and for several years was emcee of the QCBCA sponsored Miss Quincy Bay Pageant. He was also associated with the Christmas Festival Parade.

He was honored by the Beth Israel Brotherhood as its "Brother of the Year." He received the Jason Feldman Award at Quincy District Court Law Day ceremonies for his business activities and the Cerebral Palsy Award for his volunteer work.

He was a past trustee of Quincy College and Huntington General Hospital in Boston.

He was a past president of the Commodore's Club of America and held a captain's rank in the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Former Governor Michael Dukakis appointed him to the Governor's Advisory Board on Boating Safety in 1988.

Mr. Reisberg served with the Army Air Force in a bombing squadron in the Pacific during World War II. He also helped to put on USO shows for service men and women which led him to radio when he returned to civilian life. He did some work at several stations including Quincy's WIDA but decided on the formal wear business.

Mr. Reisberg was a strong advocate of the new Maritime Center in Houghs Neck, where certified instructors will teach safe boating classes and maritime subjects.

At the opening ceremonies Saturday, the flag was still at half-staff in tribute to Mr. Reisberg, and a moment of silence was observed in his memory.

Mr. Reisberg, as a justice of the peace, performed many marriages. His favorite — and proudest — his wife said, was officiating at the wedding of their daughter, Donna, to Frank Teed.

Mr. Reisberg is also survived by a daughter-in-law, Ellen Reisberg of New York City; two granddaughters, Rebecca and Sarah Reisberg; a step-granddaughter, Stephanie Teed, and nieces and nephews.

A Memorial Observance was held at his Quincy Shore Drive home through Wednesday evening.

Remembrances may be made to the Combined Jewish Philanthropies, 126 High St., Boston, MA 02110.

Rosalina Kingston, 79

T.C.I. Corp. Employee

A funeral Mass for Rosalina "Lena" (Ciampa) Kingston, 79, of Quincy, was celebrated yesterday (Wednesday) at St. Joseph's Church.

She died April 13 at Quincy Medical Center after a long illness.

Mrs. Kingston worked for T.C.I. Corp. in Avon for many years, retiring in 1987.

She was a member of the carpenters union.

She lived in Quincy for 26 years.

Richard A. Fabrizio, 62

A private funeral service was held for Richard A. Fabrizio, 62, of Wakefield, formerly of Quincy.

He died April 7 at home. Mr. Fabrizio was born in Quincy and graduated from Quincy High School. He lived in Medford before moving to Wakefield eight years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Loretta (Gillespie) Fabrizio; three sons, Richard Fabrizio of Abington, Michael Fabrizio of Whitman and Anthony Fabrizio of Texas; four daughters, Karen Fabrizio of Pembroke, Cheri Fabrizio of Lee, Loretta Fabrizio of Charlestown and Melissa Fabrizio of Texas; a sister, Loretta McCormack of Plymouth; and three grandchildren.

Burial was private. Funeral arrangements were by Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St.

Donations may be made to Father Bill's Place, 38 Broad St., Quincy 02169.

William D. MacKenzie, 73
Retired Fore River Shipyard Worker

A funeral service for William D. MacKenzie, 73, of Weymouth, formerly of Quincy, a retired Fore River shipyard worker, was held Tuesday at First Presbyterian Church.

He died April 11 at his sister's home in Quincy.

Mr. MacKenzie worked in the tool department for Bethlehem Steel Co. and General Dynamics for more than 30 years, retiring when the shipyard closed. He later worked for several years at Data Quest Security Company.

Born in Quincy, he was educated in Quincy and Weymouth schools, graduating from Weymouth Vocational School in 1945. He had lived in Weymouth since 1940.

He served in the Army during the Korean War. He was awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge and the Korean Service Medal with one service star.

Deware Funeral Home
To Host Hospice Foundation
Of America Teleconference

Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., will join more than 2,000 organizations across the United States and Canada Wednesday, April 24, as a local host for the Hospice Foundation of America's ninth annual Living With Grief Teleconference.

"Living With Grief: Loss in Later Life," a live via-satellite video broadcast, will examine ways professionals can better understand and respond to the needs of older people coping with loss and making critical end-of-life decisions.

"Currently, there are more than 35 million Americans over the age of 65; that number may double by the year 2030," said Jack D. Gordan, chairman of Hospice Foundation of America. "By gaining a better understanding of the range of losses experienced by older persons, healthcare professionals can provide more compassionate care to those in later life."

The program will provide insight and practical suggestions to professionals who regularly deal with aging clients, as well as their families and friends. The broadcast will explore both the challenges and the opportunities that older persons experience as they face loss and make critical decisions about end-of-life issues. The 2 1/2-hour program will be moderated by Cokie Roberts of ABC News and will feature a distinguished panel of experts.

The panel will include George Blackwell, DMin, pastor of the Good Neighbor Baptist Church in Newark, N.J.; Kenneth J. Doka, Ph.D.,

Lutheran minister and professor of gerontology at the College of New Rochelle; Robert Butler, MD, CEO, International Longevity Center; Patricia Kelley, CRN, clinical director, Montgometry Hospice; Miriam Moss, MD, of the Philadelphia Geriatric Center; Phyllis Rolfe Silverman, Ph.D., MSS, Associate in Social Welfare at Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School; and J.R. Williams, MD, president, Foundation for End of Life Care.

"We are very proud to offer this program to our community," said Scott Deware, president of Deware Funeral Home. "We are committed to opening dialogue on the issues of loss and end-of-life decisions. We hope this program will provide caregivers the tools and resources they need to help persons and families in these situations."

The teleconference is produced by Hospice Foundation of America, a non-profit organization that works to educate healthcare professionals and the families they serve in issues relating to terminal illness, grief and bereavement.

The program is sponsored in part by a grant from Last Acts and the Foundation for End of Life Care, and in cooperation with the Adventist Communication Network. The annual broadcast reaches an estimated live audience of 150,000 people nationwide. News media, clergy and educators are encouraged to attend.

For more information call Scott Deware at Deware Funeral Home at 617-472-1137.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) The Lamb loves to be surrounded by flocks of admirers. But be careful that someone doesn't take his or her admiration too far. Use your persuasive skills to let him or her down easily.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This is a good time to be setting far-reaching goals and connecting with new contacts. Aspects also favor strengthening old relationships — personal and/or professional.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A personal disappointment should be viewed as a valuable learning experience. Go over what went wrong and see where a change in tactics might have led to a more positive outcome.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Don't leave projects unfinished or personal obligations unresolved, or you might find yourself tripping over all those loose ends later on. A relative has important news.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Expect a challenge to the usual way you do things. Although you might prefer the tried-and-true, once you take a good look at this new idea, you might feel more receptive to it.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Much work still has to be done to polish a still-rough idea into something with significant potential. Expect to encounter some initial rejection, but stay with it nonetheless.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) There still might be some communication problems in the workplace, but they should be resolved soon. Meanwhile, that "tip" from a friend should be checked out.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A new relationship appears to need more from you than you might be willing to give right now. Best advice: Resist making promises you might not be able to keep.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) That restless feeling encourages you to gallop off into a new venture. But remember to keep hold of the reins so you can switch paths when necessary.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A demanding work schedule keeps the high-spirited Goat from kicking up his or her heels. But playtime beckons by the week's end. Have fun. You earned it.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're beginning to come out from under those heavy responsibilities you took on. Use this freed-up time to enjoy some much-deserved fun with people close to you.

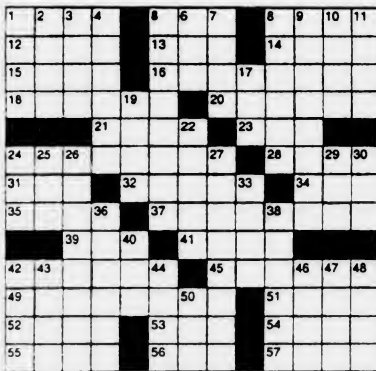

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Before you get swept away by a tidal wave of conflicting priorities, take time to come up for air, and reassess the situation. You might be surprised by what you'll find.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your leadership qualities are enhanced by a practical sense of purpose that keeps you focused on your goals.

$6M Project Includes Affordable Housing Units

(Cont'd From Page 1)

Galvin said construction will begin by early June and is expected to be completed by early spring, 2003.

A vacant warehouse on the two and a half acre site will be demolished before construction starts.

The way was cleared for the project by the Zoning Board of Appeals April 9 when it unanimously voted to grant relief and a special permit.

Galvin received support from neighbors at a recent neighborhood meeting for the change from industrial to residential zoning. He also had the support of City Council President Daniel Raymondi who represents Quincy Point. Raymondi urged Galvin to go that permitting route to be sure it included the affordable component.

"We are proud to be the first to provide these new affordable units in our community," Galvin said.

Commenting on the new ordinance, he said: "The affordable component has become a significant strategic factor in planning a project's financial feasibility and requests for density relief and other mitigation."

The ordinance is designed to create affordable housing for Quincy's working families. Under it, if a developer seeks relief from the Zoning Board and the project is 10 units or more, the developer must provide 10 percent of the project's units for families earning no more than 80 percent of the median income for Norfolk County.

Raymondi: Apparent $7.5M For Bigelow St. Culvert 'Great News'

ing support for the Bigelow St. culvert quotes the 1889 inaugural address of then Mayor Charles H. Porter, who, even then, said that alleviating flooding conditions along Town Brook was of "utmost importance" for the city.

Raymondi's resolve also quotes Joseph Bocchino of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers who commented that the 4,000 foot long, multi-million dollar diversion tunnel completed in the 1990's would not completely solve the problem until the culvert was put in place as well.

Said Bocchino: "The tunnel will help alleviate flooding in the Bigelow St. area by reducing the overall amount of flood water. But the problem won't be entirely solved until the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) builds the Bigelow St. culvert, which is designed to channel storm water.

"The Bigelow St. culvert is critical to the overall effectiveness of the whole flood-control system. If any piece of the puzzle isn't working, the whole system is weakened."

Marion Fantucchio Honored For 50 Dedicated Years

(Cont'd From Page 1)

Council President Daniel Raymondi, who organized council honors for Fantucchio, called her 50 years of service "extraordinary" and pointed out that she possessed a wealth of information at her fingertips.

That experience was gained from serving under nine mayors and one city manager, including current Mayor William Phelan and former Mayors James Sheets, Frank McCauley, Arthur Tobin, Joseph LaRaia, Walter Hannon, James McIntyre, Amelio Della Chiesa, and David McIntosh, who served as a "Plan E" mayor at the time William Deegan served as city manager.

"Her experience is perhaps unmatched by anyone in the Commonwealth," said Raymondi, who lauded Fantucchio's accessibility to homeowners, businesses, and city councilors over the years. "She's a tremendous asset to the city."

Praised For Outstanding Community Service Henry Bradley Honored As Sun Citizen Of Year

Henry (Hank) Bradley, Director of Quincy Veterans' Services, who has given freely of his own time to fellow veterans, and to numerous charitable and civic causes, was honored Sunday as The Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year.

Five generations of his family were present as he received the 17th annual Quincy Sun award for outstanding community service for the year 2001 at a reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center.

The nearly 150 guests included city, county and state officials, American Legion and other veterans colleagues, past recipients of the award and members of the judge's panel that selected him from among 25 nominees submitted by Quincy Sun readers.

Bradley was praised for his compassion, dedication, commitment and humility in his job as Veterans' Services director and in his volunteer work for the many civic and charitable causes.

Tributes came from Mayor William Phelan, City Council President Dan

'Hopeful' Funds Will Be Found For Summer

Phelan: Yardwaste Collection Certain For Spring, Fall

By CRAIG SALTERS

Mayor William Phelan assured city residents anxious about disposal of their grass clippings and other yardwaste that the city was committed to 10-week collection cycles for both the spring and fall and was actively pursuing funds for the intervening summer months.

"At bare minimum, there will be service for 10 weeks beginning in April and then 10 weeks in the fall," Phelan told The Sun Tuesday. "Yardwaste will commence on schedule and we're working on various funding mechanisms to support the in-between period."

Phelan expressed hope such funds could be located but said that they did not currently exist in the Fiscal Year 2002 budget, which he said was what DPW Commissioner Jay Fink had based his comments upon during a meeting of the City Council April 1.

"What he (Fink) was suggesting was that, in the current budget, the funds to continue the program through the summer) do not exist," Phelan said. "Commissioner Fink gave a response based on what he knew his budget to be, which was 10 weeks in the spring and 10 weeks in the fall."

That message was apparently not heard by councillors who on April 16 adopted a joint resolution signed by all nine members requesting that the DPW "explore a range of alternative solutions" to the yardwaste collection issue and report back to the council no later than May 13.

The joint resolution states: "Where as at the April 1, 2002 City Council meeting, Quincy Public Works Commissioner Jay Fink indicated that the city of Quincy's yard waste program is only scheduled to run for 10 weeks in 2002 beginning on April 22 ..."

An article on the subject in the April 4 issue of The Quincy Sun reported that Fink told councillors yardwaste pick-up would begin April 22 and take place on the same day as residents' regular trash pick-up, that residents could continue to drop off yardwaste at DPW headquarters at 55 Sea St. after the 10-week program, and that special weekend times would be made in the fall especially for the pick-up of yardwaste.

MARAD Officials Here To Explore Use Of Shipyard

Mayor William Phelan was scheduled Wednesday to host officials from the United States Maritime Administration (MARAD) as well as Mass Development, the state's economic development agency, in an afternoon tour of the Fore River Shipyard.

The purpose of the visit, Phelan said, was to explore economic development of the site and a possible partnership which would allow for some city and state control of the property.

"MARAD is not in the business of economic development," the mayor said by way of explaining reasons for the potential partnership.

Full control of the shipyard site went to MARAD, which had guaranteed a now defaulted $55 million loan made to now bankrupt shipyard developer Massachusetts Heavy Industries (MHI), after a U.S. Bankruptcy Court judge dismissed MHI's reorganization in plan in March of this year.

Officials scheduled to visit the shipyard were: Jean McKeever, associate admin

The Chantey Withdraws Later Patio Hours Request

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board Tuesday, allowed the withdrawal without prejudice of a request for expansion of hours of operation on the patio at The Chantey, 333 Victory Rd., at Marina Bay.

Bill O'Connell, an advisor and spokesperson for Gail Morash, manager of The Chantey told the board that they have not received any complaints regarding the 10 p.m. closing of last summer on the patio. They are requesting a later closing time.

O'Connell said last year, the patio was opened from Memorial Day to Labor Day without incident.

O'Connell said the reason for the neighbors concerns about the noise was mostly because of noise from motorcycles, and not from The Chantey. He asked for a postponement of the hearing so that Morash can meet with the residents and try to solve the problem of the motorcycles.

He said that the cycles have been parking on the fire lane and the noise late at night from the cycles is not The Chantey's fault.

O'Connell said they would suggest that the motorcycles park another feasible place such as where the storage buildings are located.

Citing that there is "no way to keep motorcycles" out of Marina Bay, he noted that there are occasional obnoxious persons.

Some abutters said they were angered because they had taken the day off from work, only to be told they could not testify. However, one abutter, Diane Holbrook began to speak against the extension of hours, only to be thwarted by O'Connell.

Chairman Joseph Shea who was visibly disappointed with the request for a withdrawal said he received many letters with questions about the hours and wanted to reschedule the meeting until May 14, and not wait until June.

O'Connell agreed that by May 14, he hoped the problem would be solved and said his intent was to work with the neighbors and help solve the motorcycle problem so that the request would be viewed in a "more favorable light."

Raymondi Urges Residents To Take Advantage Of Program Available De-Leading Funds City Hall Seminar April 30

Council President Daniel Raymondi advises residents that "time is of the essence" in taking advantage of de-leading assistance funds made available through the Quincy-Weymouth Lead Paint Safety Initiative (LPSI), a program designed to help low-to-moderate income families safeguard their children under age six from the dangers of lead poisoning.

Raymondi likewise urges residents to attend a seminar on the LPSI grants scheduled for Tuesday, April 30 at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers of City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

"We want to let people know that there is a place to get information and financial help," said Raymondi, adding that financial assistance could come in the form of low-interest loans or even grants which did not have to be repaid. "Time is of the essence. This program will be phased out shortly."

Raymondi said lead paint poisoning can seriously impair a child's physical and mental development — especially for young families with children ages six and under.

One way for lead paint poisoning to occur is with the opening and closing of old windows, which could create lead dust which may become airborne and land onto children's toys, the floor, or furniture and may be subsequently ingested.

For Addition, Renovation

Crane Library Wins Mass. Historical Award

The Massachusetts Historical Commission will honor the Thomas Crane Public Library with its 2002 Preservation Award.

The library was selected for the honor for its highly acclaimed new addition and renovation of the original Richardson Building, a $16.7 million project.

Director Ann McLaughlin said the award will be presented the evening of Thursday, May 16, at the Massachusetts Archives Building, Columbia Point, Dorchester.

"We are so excited to win this award," McLaughlin said. "It is a great honor because this is the most important award for projects involving preserving historic buildings."

Secretary of State William I. Galvin informed Richard J. Bertman, architect for the library project, of the award in a letter with a copy to McLaughlin.

The Quincy project was one of 12 selected from among 49 nominations submitted to the Massachusetts Historical Commission.

Galvin said:

"The Massachusetts Historical Commission takes great pride in recognizing historic preservation efforts in Quincy by selecting the Thomas Crane Public Library to receive a 2002 Massachusetts Historical Commission Preservation Award."

As the State Historical Preservation Office, the Massachusetts Historical Commission has an appreciation of the Commonwealth's valuable historic and cultural assets.

"Through work on this project, a commitment to historical preservation has been demonstrated above and beyond what is normally expected. It is for this extra effort that we have selected the Thomas Crane Public Library for this distinctive honor."

"On behalf of the Massachusetts Historical Commission I wish to applaud you for your outstanding contribution to historic preservation."

Last year Quincy City George Burke received the Massachusetts Historical Commission's Outstanding Individual Achievement Award.

Burke was selected for the award for rescuing the historic 234-year-old Col. John Quincy silver tankard from a New York City auction with a bid of $160,000 and returning it to Quincy. Colonel Quincy was the grandfather of President John Quincy Adams and the city is named in his honor.

CITY COUNCIL HONORS were also in store for Board of Assessors Chairwoman Marion Fantuccio, who received a commendation from the council at last Tuesday's meeting. From left are: Councillors Bryan Connolly, Timothy Cahill, Joseph Finn, and Gregory Hanley; Council President Daniel Raymondi, who called Fantuccio's knowledge and experience in her field "extraordinary;" Councillor Frank McCanley, who appointed Fantuccio an assessor during his tenure as mayor; Fantuccio; and Councillors Doug Gutro, Kevin Coughlin, and Joseph Newton. Fantuccio was named chairwoman of the board by former Mayor James Sheets.

Gutro Calls April 29 Meeting On Youth Gathering Concerns

A Neighborhood Meeting will be held Monday, April 29 at 6:45 p.m. at the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School, 225 Fenno St., to discuss strategies for minimizing the congregation of youth on or near school property at inappropriate times.

Ward 5 Councillor Douglas Gutro said the meeting was prompted by concerns voiced by Beechwood Knoll Principal Kathy Morris and others that youths sometimes used the school as a late night hangout during the summer months.

A representative of the Quincy Police Department is scheduled to attend the April 29 meeting.

'Tree City USA' For Sixth Year

The National Arbor Day Foundation has recognized the city of Quincy as "Tree City USA" for the sixth consecutive year.

The designation was received due to Quincy's ongoing efforts to plant and maintain its urban trees.

"We are proud to be recognized by the National Arbor Day Foundation as a 'Tree City USA,'" said Mayor William Phelan. "Quincy is a beautiful city due in no small part to the aesthetic splendor of our tree-lined streets. Even in a city as large as Quincy, we are able to maintain a small-town appeal through the planting and maintenance of street-trees."

Quincy was recognized for its comprehensive community forestry program and its commitment to planting and maintaining trees. More than 800 trees have been planted in the past six months along Quincy's streets. Quincy also met the qualifications for conducting an Arbor Day celebration.

"Tree City USA" recognizes municipalities that have proven their commitment to an effective, ongoing community forestry program," said John Rosenow, president of the National Arbor Day Foundation. "Such a program is one marked by renewal and improvement."

The city's Park and Forestry Department, under Executive Director Thomas Koch, maintains the approximately 20,000 trees that line Quincy's streets.

"I would like to thank the mayor and city council for their continued commitment to maintaining our recognition as 'Tree City USA,'" Koch said. "The planting of trees is a long-term investment in the future of our city. Trees improve the aesthetics of our neighborhoods, clean the air we breathe, help keep us cool in the summer months and improve the property values of all our homes."

Quincy will be recognized by the state's Department of Environmental Management at a Tree City USA Conference later this month.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On April 23, 1564, according to tradition, the great English dramatist and poet William Shakespeare is born in Stratford-on-Avon. It is impossible to be certain of the exact day on which he was born, but church records show that he was baptized on April 26, and three days was the customary amount of time to wait before baptizing a newborn.

• On April 27, 1865, days after the end of the Civil War, the worst maritime disaster in American history occurs when the steamboat Sultana, carrying 2,100 passengers, explodes and sinks in the Mississippi River, killing all but 400 of those aboard.

• On April 22, 1915, German forces shock Allied soldiers along the western front by firing more than 150 tons of lethal chlorine gas against two French colonial divisions at Ypres, Belgium. This was the first major gas attack by the Germans.

• On April 24, 1936, a group of firemen responding to an alarm in Camden, N.J., is televised. It was the first time an unplanned event was broadcast on television, anticipating the development of live TV news coverage.

• On April 26, 1986, the world's worst nuclear power plant accident occurs at the Chernobyl nuclear power station in the Soviet Union. Thirty-two people died and dozens more suffered radiation burns.

• On April 25, 1989, James Richardson walks out of a Florida prison 21 years after being wrongfully convicted of killing his seven children. Special prosecutor Janet Reno agreed to the release after evidence showed that the conviction resulted from misconduct by the prosecutor. In addition, neighbor Betsy Reese had confessed to the crime.

• On April 28, 1990, the Broadway musical "A Chorus Line" closes after 6,237 performances. The show became the longest-running musical in September 1983, when its 3,389th performance broke the record held by "Grease."

Frank, Dan And A Little Fun

While he was mayor, Frank McCauley projected an image of a penny-pinching, nonsense chief executive a little short in the humor department.

That was, and to many, still is the public Frank McCauley, now back squeezing pennies in the City Council.

But there's that other Frank McCauley — the mischievous if not devilish one, who comes out on special occasions.

Like Tuesday night's third reunion of the city council — for past and present members — held at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

A night for renewing old acquaintances, and swapping political stories sprinkled with a few good natured zingers and barbs.

McCauley has poked fun at himself at past reunions. But Tuesday he decided it was Dan Raymondi's turn.

McCauley, who defeated Raymondi for mayor in 1981, showed up with a present for Raymondi: a supposed future front page of The Quincy Sun dated Nov. 6, 2025.

With the bold headline: Dan Raymondi Finally Elected Mayor and sub-head At age 78, he will become Quincy's oldest Chief Executive.

The accompanying article, written by McCauley, reads in part:

Longtime Ward 2 Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi was elected mayor of Quincy on Tuesday, November 4, 2025.

At age 78, he will become Quincy's oldest mayor when he takes office on January 5, 2026. Raymondi, who is serving his record-breaking 18th term on the City Council, defeated Councillor at-Large Michael D'Amico by a margin of 106 votes.

D'Amico, a former Ward 4 councillor, made a successful political comeback in 2019, winning a councillor at-Large seat.

Beating D'Amico was especially rewarding for Mayor-elect Raymondi who commented: "I haven't forgotten how Mike (D'Amico) switched his vote on the re-zoning of the old Quincy Avenue site of a proposed new Quincy High School back in 2001!"

"I sort of hate to leave my Ward 2 council seat where I have been privileged to represent the working class people of Quincy Point for the past 36 years," he said.

Looking back on his accomplishments as Ward 2 Councillor, the mayor-elect noted that he had worked to obtain millions of dollars of improvements for his district.

"I have had Washington Street resurfaced eight times over the years," he pointed out.

Asked if he had any regrets over the years, Raymondi stated that his failure to find a developer for the Fore River Shipyard property was his biggest disappointment.

He had, however, received a phone call from Sotirios Emmanouil, the president of Mass. Heavy Industries, whose plan for building ships at Fore River proved financially disastrous for the city back in the 1990s.

Emmanouil is said to have a new plan to build ships at the shipyard. Emmanouil emphasized that "Failure is not an option."

Mayor-elect Raymondi did express some concern over the fact that Mr. Emmanouil called "collect!"

Former Mayor Frank McCauley, age 95, stopped by...to wish his adversary well. "I hope Dan has a successful administration. He has waited a long time for The Number One Job."

McCauley expressed regret that he would be unable to attend Raymondi's inauguration as he and his third wife, Daphne, age 26, will be on a skiing trip to Switzerland. The trip is a birthday present to the former mayor from his wife. McCauley will turn 96 on Dec. 27.

The mayor-elect plans to hold his inauguration at the Fore River Clubhouse.

"The clubhouse has great sentimental attachment for me," Raymondi said.

After the inaugural ceremonies are completed, the Inauguration Committee, in conjunction with the Ward 2 Civic Association, will host a "Franks and Beans" dinner. The dinner, which will cost $1.99, has been served annually for many years.

Raymondi will succeed Mayor William Phelan, who has served as mayor for the past 24 years since his upset victory over Mayor James Sheets back in 2001.

(The article has Raymondi noting Phelan's 17-vote victory nearly "messed" things up.)

"There I was, the heir apparent, slated to be elected mayor in 2003 and with Phelan's victory all my plans went down the drain.

"However, I have always believed in that old adage, 'Better late than never.'" Mayor-elect Raymondi concluded.

It was all in fun, folks.

Just like the special Quincy Sun Page One McCauley did on himself for his farewell party when he left the mayor's office in 1989 and which was featured in a video shown at the 1999 city council reunion.

A few excerpts from that one:

Former Quincy Mayor Francis X. McCauley died unexpectedly Tuesday morning while disco-ing at the Quincy Bay Inn. He was 95 years old.

He is survived by his third wife, Daphne McCauley, age 26, who met the former mayor when she was a contestant and he was a judge at the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant of 2020 and said of her late husband:

"He was a great old guy who made no bones about the fact that he married me for my body and not my mind."

Former Mayor McCauley was interviewed five years ago on his 90th birthday by Robert Bosworth, editor of The Quincy Sun, who asked what he considered his most significant accomplishment during his eight years as mayor.

"Raising the mayor's salary from $25,000 to $55,000 was by far my greatest accomplishment. I would have raised the salary level even higher if I had had a City Council with any...at all."

Funeral arrangements are being made by the Hamel, Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St. The former mayor will lie in state on the 50-yard line at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The stadium was chosen because of the large outpouring of Quincy citizens who are expected to pay their final respects to their former leader.

At the conclusion of the funeral services, the late mayor's body will be borne to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery in the Rescue 1 fire truck purchased in 1986 during his administration. The vehicle remains in service, having over four million miles on it.

The death of former Mayor Francis X. McCauley leaves only one surviving politician who served as mayor during the latter part of the 20th century. Former Mayor and city councillor Joseph LaRaia has been a resident of a Quincy nursing home for over 20 years.

When awakened and informed of the death of his long-time political colleague and adversary, he said, simply: "Isn't that wonderful." And promptly went back to sleep.

Again, folks, it was all in fun.

Honest.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1929 POSTCARD is a view of the hurricane deck and observation platform on the top of the then newly built Granite Trust Company building in Quincy Square. Search lights surrounded the flagpole that bank president Theopolis King wanted lit at all times. Except for during World War II and some other shorter intervals, a lighted flag has flown here ever since. The observation platform atop the stairs provided a spectacular 360-degree view of Quincy and its surroundings that had never been seen before. The postcard is one of a series published to commemorate the opening of the bank building.

Concerned Over Quarry Hills Runoff

An article in the Ledger recently reported "Quarry Hills Reports Little Damage from Runoff." This seems to me to be a case of "you see what you want to see." Recently, with less than an inch of rainfall, I observed the results of massive runoff from the Quarry Hills development occurring along Furnace Brook and in Black's Creek waters clouded with a yellowish gray substance.

One can't help but wonder what is contained in that sediment: sediment that washed down from a permitted solid waste facility. Folks, let's call it what it is. There's a sign along the Parkway: Dumping Prohibited. Please call the DPW to report. I was tempted to dial that number the same afternoon to report dumping of another sort, with the same end result: the pollution of our once beautiful Quincy Bay. I find it quite ironic that millions of taxpayers dollars have been spent in an effort to clean up Wollaston Beach and Quincy Bay only to have it polluted by another taxpayer funded project: Quarry Hills.

The mayor is right in investigating the Quarry Hills operation before coming to a decision that will ensure the stabilization of the site, corrects the disastrous flooding that this project has created for many families, and utilized clean topsoil as a final cover at the solid waste facility. Anything short of this could prove hazardous.

Greenbush Commuter Rail Will Affect Quincy

It's interesting to read about the deals made between the state and several South Shore towns for them to accommodate the re-establishment of the Greenbush Commuter Rail line. Let's see, $14 million for Braintree, $16 million for Weymouth, $40 million for Hingham, and $5 and $10.4 million for Cohasset and Scituate, respectively.

What's missing from this picture? Quincy! Doesn't a reopened Greenbush line translate into more diesel-spewing trains rumbling right through the heart of Quincy? I noted that Scituate's grants include $1 million for historical preservation. That would certainly be nice in Quincy, as trains go blasting through, passing within feet of the homestead of President John Adams, shaking its historic foundation.

The MBTA and the state ought to rectify this injustice by either:

- Earmarking funds for increased sound control along the Commuter Rail right-of-way in Quincy;

- Switching the commuter rail to cleaner, quieter electric locomotives; or

- Canceling the Greenbush spending boondoggle and spending the money on much-needed improvements to the core subway system.

Quincy leaders need to raise this issue with the state before it's too late!

99.7% Parental Approval For Polio Shots

By PAUL HAROLD

Health Commissioner Dr. Brooks Ryder reported that 99.7 percent of the city's parents gave approval for their children to receive this round of the polio vaccine. This is up considerably from last year when only 75 percent gave approval.

Ryder said 4,318 inoculations would be provided, starting as early as May or whenever state supplies were made available. The first to be inoculated would be students in grades one and two.

PATROLMAN MULLOY, CAPTAIN VALLIER COMMENDED FOR SPEEDY ARREST

Police Chief William Ferrazzi commended Patrolman James Mulloy and Captain Frank Vallier for their team effort in the speedy arrest of a Boston man who robbed a downtown department store.

Mulloy captured the thief at gun point just over the Neponset Bridge as he tried to escape in a city cab. Vallier had deployed cruisers and road blocks to seal off the city, providing the description Mulloy needed to identify the thief.

The robbery took place at the H.L. Green department store where the cashier was robbed at gunpoint of $200. The thief escaped through the delivery chutes and tried to flee the scene by hailing a cab at Veterans' Tax on the corner of Granite St. and the Parkway.

TWENTY ARRESTED OUTSIDE NORTH QUINCY DANCE

Police arrested 20 teen-agers outside a dance at North Quincy High School in what was described as a near gang riot.

The youths were attempting to crash a dance being held by the Sacred Heart CYO in the school gymnasium. Police called for a full-scale investigation of what they believed was a continuation of a flare up at a dance at the armory earlier this week. Weapons seized included a police billy club, a rigger's knife, and studded garrison belt and a beer can opener.

At their arrangement, Judge Gertrude Halloran entered a plea of not guilty for all those arrested and released the 10 juveniles to their parents.

QUINCY-ISM

Some 1,300 volunteers canvassed the city this week for the Cancer Crusade. . . Joseph B. Grossman announced he would build a three to four office building at the site of the Quincy depot at a cost of $100,000. By agreement with the Old Colony Railroad he would provide a railroad station within the building. . . President Eisenhower's pastor, the Rev. Edward Elson of the National Presbyterian Church, was scheduled to be the commencement speaker at Easter Nazarene College. . . Wollaston Garden Club Members Participating In 'Art In Bloom'

Two members of Wollaston Garden Club are participating in the Museum of Fine Art's upcoming "Art in Bloom."

Cynthia Antonopoulos and Ruth Griffin, both of Quincy, are representing the garden club by designing a floral piece that compliments and interprets the intricate floral patterns of a 5th century section of a limestone Byzantine garden wall. Their challenge has been deciding how intricate a design they should create and what color of floral materials would complement the limestone piece the best.

Antonopoulos, vice president of the Wollaston Garden Club, participated in "Art in Bloom" last year. She paints using acrylics and fashions whimsical mermaid pottery and eclectic birdhouses. Griffin is co-chair of the garden club's evening division. She also collects folk art and turns interesting found objects into works of art.

Members of the garden club have many opportunities during the year to learn about and practice their skills in floral design. "Art in Bloom" offers club members the opportunity to showcase this talent.

"Art in Bloom," now in its 26th year and featuring an array of floral designs interpreting more than 70 works of art from the MFA's permanent collection, begins Saturday evening, April 27, with a preview party. Arrangements designed by New England garden clubs complement a diversity of art objects throughout the museum's many galleries. Free guided tours are available with general admission. Program books allow leisurely self-guided exploration.

Events include a Sunday brunch, floral demonstrations by national and internationally recognized floral designers, fashion shows and lectures. The actual exhibition is limited to three days: Sunday, April 28. Monday, April 29 and Tuesday, April 30. Space is limited for many of these special events.

General admission to the museum is $14 for adults, $12 for seniors and college students, and $5 for youth, ages 7-17.

For more information call the MFA Members' Room at 617-369-3395.

Tax Relief For Seniors Topic Of Ward 2 Workshop

Council President and Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi has scheduled a Real Estate Tax Exemption and Income Tax Credit Workshop for Seniors tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd.

Marion Fantucchio, chairwoman of the Board of Assessors, and Thomas Clashy, director of the Quincy Council on Aging, have been invited to attend the meeting to meet with seniors and respond to any questions they may have.

Many seniors, Raymondi said, are becoming "house rich and cash poor" and could benefit from the opportunity to hear from professionals about programs designed to assist seniors in making ends meet financially.

"I know that many seniors on fixed incomes are forced to make daily choices between buying groceries or paying the rent and struggling with the high cost of prescription drugs or utility bills," Raymondi said.

Topics to be discussed at tonight's (Thursday's) workshop include:

- $500 Exemption Clause 41(d) to single homeowners over age 70 with an income less than $16,913 and assets (excluding the home) less than $29,372. This $500 exemption is also available to married couples over age 70 with income less than $20,649 and assets less than $31,470.

- $183 Exemption under Clause 17 to homeowners over age 70 and to all surviving spouses who have assets (excluding the home) under $41,960.

- Tax Deferrals to homeowners over age 65 with income less than $40,000.

- Exemptions ranging from $250 to $950 for disabled veterans and their surviving spouses.

- $500 Exemption to the legally blind, regardless of income.

- Total Exemption to surviving spouses or minor children of police officers and firefighters killed in the line of duty.

- Income Tax Credit available to qualified seniors, a new program offered in Massachusetts.

For more information on the workshop, contact Raymondi at (617) 479-9044. For more information on tax relief for seniors, contact the Massachusetts Department of Revenue (DOR) Customer Service Bureau at (617) 887-6367.

Quincy Center 32nd Annual Sidewalk Festival July 18-20

The 32nd annual Quincy Center Summer Sidewalk Festival will be held July 18, 19 and 20.

The event, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, features music, entertainment and merchandise sales on the sidewalk.

Hancock Street is closed to vehicular traffic for the three days. Entertainment acts perform on a stage set up on Hancock Street near Cottage Avenue.

Limited space is available for crafters and vendors not competing with QCBPA members.

For more information call the QCBPA office at 617-471-3232.

City Preparing Documents For State Shipyard Probe

By TOM HENSHAW

The possibility of a criminal investigation into the failure of Massachusetts Heavy Industries, Inc., marked time this week while the city collected evidence to support its claim of skulduggery at the Fore River Shipyard.

"The city of Quincy is preparing documents that will be forwarded to the attorney general this week," said Paul Harold, the former City Council president who is a sparkplug of the move for a probe by Atty. Gen. Thomas Reilly.

Harold said he spoke to Pam Wechsler, head of the attorney general's Government Integrity unit and learned that it has only limited resources to carry on such an investigation.

He said he also wants to find out if the U. S. attorney is interested in the case.

In 1995, the then-owner of the shipyard, Sotiris Emmanuel, obtained more than $100 million in government and government-backed financing based on four signed contracts to build ships and revive shipbuilding at the yard.

Emmanuel's Massachusetts Heavy Industries filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in 2000 and last month Federal Judge William C. Hillman rejected Emmanuel's plan to reorganize, giving the US Maritime Administration an opportunity to foreclose on the property.

The state investigation, requested by Harold and Sen. Michael Morrissey, would show whether or not Emmanuel's four contracts existed in the form he described. If not, he could be charged with fraud.

The city of Quincy is committed to pay as much as $750,000 a year out of its annual federal economic development fund of $800,000 until the year 2016 as its share of the guaranteed loan to MHI.

"There's only $50,000 left in the CDBG fund," said Harold. "It's that important."

New Family Restaurant For Brewer's Corner

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Come this summer, a new family restaurant, featuring home made baked bread, will open in the old Globe Vending building at 378 Granite St., in the Brewer's Corner section of the city.

The License Board granted a common victualer license to Diane Mannion, owner of the Mannion Family Restaurant, at Tuesday's meeting.

Atty. Richard Barry told the board that 2600 square feet of the building will be upgraded inside and out. He said that a neighborhood meeting was held recently and the plans were received as a "welcome addition to the neighborhood".

Board Chairman Joseph Shea read a letter from Ward

4 Councillor Brian Connolly who said he "enthusiastically supports" the venture and called it a "positive contribution" to the neighborhood and cited adequate parking.

Connolly said the new restaurant was "warmly embraced by the neighbors."

Shea said a house in the rear of the building was recently demolished which created space for "adequate parking" plus making it "more attractive" overall.

Barry said the hours of operation for the 50-seat restaurant would be from 5:30 a.m. to 11 p.m., only because Shea wanted specific hours before the board could vote. However, Barry said dinners may be served sometime in the future, but for the present time, plans are to serve breakfast and lunch only.

Barry said that the owners plan to bake their own bread early in the morning.

Dick Mason, representing Quincy 2000 told the board that the project has been "extremely warmly received by neighbors" and that the type of use of the space will be a "catalyst for the redevelopment of the area". Mason added that Quincy 2000 is "heartily in favor" of the anticipated eatery.

Opening for the restaurant is scheduled for around June 15.

Lisa Brightman Shares 'Can Do' Message With Quincy Lions Club

With persistence, determination, and a positive attitude, a person can overcome any obstacle.

That was the message given to the Quincy Lions Club recently when cable TV talk show host Lisa Brightman shared her inspirational life story with the Quincy Lions Club during one of the club's weekly luncheons.

Brightman, who is blind, recognized the Lions Club's long history of aiding blind and visually impaired people. "The Lions Club holds a very special place in my heart," she said, "so I'm thrilled to have a chance to share my story with you."

That story began when Brightman was a young teen. Diagnosed with a brain tumor, Brightman lost her vision when an operation to remove the tumor left her blind, paralyzed on her right side, and with speech problems. Despite these challenges, Brightman slowly taught herself to walk and speak again. After receiving a bachelor's degree from Oakland University in her native Michigan, she moved to Cambridge and attended Harvard University where she earned a Master's Degree.

LISA BRIGHTMAN

But the road wasn't always easy.

"Along the way, I was constantly misdirected by people who didn't know how to deal with blind people," Brightman said. She noted that her desire to pursue a career in broadcasting was hindered by professors who refused to let her touch their video equipment.

"They said that I would break it," she recalled.

Undaunted, Brightman began working with a community cable channel that not only allowed her to use its equipment but also gave her the opportunity to host her own cable TV show. One of her first TV endeavors — a program known as "Ready, Willing, Enable" — spotlighted productive individuals with disabilities. It's a theme she has carried over to her current program, "Inspire America", which airs on Newton Cable Channel 3 as well as in Manhattan.

"Around 1997, I became increasingly disturbed by the amount of violence in our society and on television," Brightman said. "I decided to devote my energies to showcasing people who are using their lives to make the world a better place."

Brightman's guests have included noted entertainer Stevie Wonder and Miss Massachusetts 1999 April Thibault, who discussed her campaign to aid abused children.

"I give people a forum to share their stories," she said. "(The program) also helps dispel myths about people with disabilities."

The Quincy Lions Club is currently celebrating its 61st year of service to the community. In addition to providing free eyeglasses and eye exams to local residents in need, the club also raises funds to fund eye research at the nation's leading hospitals and research facilities.

The club will hold its annual 5K Run/Walk for Sight on Saturday, April 27 at Pagant Field. For more information, contact David Sawyer at (781) 348-4923.

At Quincy District Court May 2 Rev. Alicia Corea, Bellotti Among Law Day Honorees

The Rev. Alicia Corea, co-pastor of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church with her late husband, Peter, for 55 years, will be among those honored Thursday, May 2, at the 49th annual Law Day observance at Quincy District Court.

The longtime clergywoman was selected as the recipient of the James R. McIntyre Award presented annually to an individual in recognition of his or her outstanding selfless humanitarian endeavors.

The award is named for the late James McIntyre, who served as a representative and state senator from Quincy as well as mayor of the city.

The Law Day observance is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

The principal speaker will be John Roberts, who is retiring in September after many controversial years as

REV. ALICIA COREA

Others to be honored include:

The Mark S. Charbonnier Award to State Police Col. Thomas J. Foley.

The Jason Feldman Outstanding Citizen Award to Michael Bellotti, the sheriff of Norfolk County.

The Robert P. Dana Distinguished Service Award for Law Enforcement to John McIsaac of the Quincy Police Department, Scott Sibert of Randolph and Raymond Blake of Braintree, among others.

The Quincy Court Outstanding Program Award to the Mental Health Department.

The Dennis F. Ryan Student Essay Contest Awards, named in honor of the late Quincy District Court Magistrate, will be presented by his son, Attorney Christopher Ryan.

The Alfred P. Malaney Award will go to an outstanding member of the bar.

The winner of the Timothy J. Spillane Outstanding District Court Prosecutor Award will be announced at the ceremony.

The Care You Want. Close to Home.

And Not Just On Weekends.

You never know when you or your family may need to visit the hospital emergency department. But you can take comfort in knowing that Milton Hospital is ready to provide the emergency and urgent care you need, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Extra Coverage - Extra Care

In addition to providing extra coverage on weekends, our emergency department now has a physician's assistant on duty every day during our busiest period (from 2 to 10 p.m.). This enables us to direct emergency cases to the department physician, while the physician assistant treats less critical conditions. The results are shorter waits and more personal attention for our patients. We take the time to answer your questions and address your concerns. It's the kind of personal care that has earned us high marks in recent independent patient satisfaction surveys.

Here When You Need Us

More than 18,000 people are treated in Milton Hospital's emergency department each year, at all hours of the day and night. We hope you don't have to visit us, but isn't it good to know that we'll be here if you do?

Seeing Green With A Non-Municipal Well

By CARRIE COLLINS
With the current drought, several communities have already imposed water bans and others are sure to follow suit. What makes this significant is how early in the season this is happening. These unusual weather conditions are causing a number of homeowners to seek alternatives to bans on town water use.

For homeowners, a residential well can have you "seeing green" in the heat of the summer and fall instead of waiting for rain to quench your scorched landscaping. This advice also holds true for real estate developers and commercial property managers who often find themselves at the mercy of arbitrary bans imposed by town water departments.

As water continues to become a precious and pricey commodity, each year many towns place water restrictions and water bans on homeowners and businesses alike. Just when your expensive landscaping needs it most you may find you can't water the lawn, shrubs, trees, and flowers.

A sensible and also cost-effective solution is very often a private water well. In many instances the cost of the well is recovered in just a few short years. This quick financial recovery is most often seen in towns that are served by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) where the cost of water has skyrocketed in the past few years because of the environmental restrictions designed to clean up Boston Harbor. Many homeowners in those towns can find that installing a well has a two-year payback. As a guideline, the average well costs around $5,000 to sink.

There are different types of water wells and homeowners as well as businesses need to take into account town regulations and their own specific water needs. In towns such as Duxbury and Norwell, where landscaping is at a premium, (Cont'd On Page 14)

CLOSE CALL

Homebuyers may try to convince themselves that making a local move only requires a few trips in their minivans. The fact is, however, that a local move requires the use of a professional mover every bit as much as a longer move because people often delude themselves into thinking that they have fewer possessions than they actually have. Moreover, regardless of the length of the move, the services of a moving company are required for packing and safeguarding against damage and loss. Most of all, nearly all furniture is heavy and bulky, requiring experienced, brawny individuals to lift and protect. In the final analysis, moving is an arduous process that is best undertaken by professional movers.

Over the years, people collect more and more possessions. Even if the home you are selling and the home you are moving into are in the same general vicinity, it is to your benefit to hire professional movers to move your possessions efficiently. At CENTRAL REAL ESTATE, we provide clients with guidance on all phases of the real estate process including putting you in touch with mortgage lenders, house inspectors, and professional movers. We have expertise in residential, business, commercial, and development properties. Call us at (617) 328-1312, or visit us at 128 McGrath Highway to experience our progressive, energetic office.

HINT: A local move can be more difficult than a cross-country move if you try to do it yourself and make numerous trips without taking scrupulous care of your possessions.

Neighborhood Housing Services First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop May 4, 11

Neighborhood Housing Services will hold an accredited and MHFA-certified First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop in partnership with Randolph Banking Collaborative Saturdays, May 4 and 11, at the Randolph Senior Center, 16 Fencourt Ave., Randolph, from 9 a.m.

to 1 p.m.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive a homebuying certificate, which is required by most lenders to qualify for the many different mortgage options, such as the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs, down payment and closing costs grants and other special first-time homebuyer financing options.

An approved First-Time Homebuyer Counseling Agency, NHS is a non-profit organization that assists first-time buyers through the homebuying process. The staff at NHS helps obtain down payment and closing costs assistance as well as rehab grants for their clients, which are available throughout the entire South Shore area.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. Focus includes how to locate a property within budget, how to make an offer and determining the best mortgage program.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited. A $10 refundable registration fee is required.

For more information and to register for the workshop, contact Debbie Ederly at 617-770-2227, ext. 31.

ing your investment. Any gardener or landscaper will concede that water is the most important nutrient and the key to successful gardening, making an irrigation well a good investment. Irrigation wells are shallow and only need around three to five gallons per minute, making them easier and less costly to install than other types of wells.

For more than 150 million Americans groundwater is the source for daily drinking water. The rules vary from town to town but generally if a town provides the service of town water, you cannot install a drinking water well. There are currently nearly one million old-fashioned, or dug wells in use. These dug wells are very difficult to keep free from water quality problems. Drilled rock wells are much more reliable and provide safer drinking water.

The latest equipment makes today's wells easier to install, safer, and more reliable than the old-fashioned wells. The rigs are quite expensive and can cost contractors $600,000 to purchase. The rigs drill a hole through the soil and rock layers to reach the groundwater. Rotary drilling is the most common method. Casing is then put in the borehole to stop it from collapsing and to prevent surface water from getting into the well.

A reputable contractor will evaluate site-specific factors such as geologic formations, required water yield, and well location to determine appropriate drilling methods. Well diameters range from the 4-inch to 8-inch and can be up to or greater than six feet in depth. On Cape Cod and on the beach, the average well is a rock well set in bedrock. The well will need to be drilled down 200 to 600 feet to reach water.

In selecting a contractor, the cheapest price is not always the best deal in the long run. One question you should ask is how much equipment the contractor has on hand to accommodate those instances when there are breakdowns. Smaller, one and two-person operations may not have an abundance of equipment and a breakdown may mean that your residential or commercial well can be delayed indefinitely.

When properly drilled and installed, your well should be simple to maintain and problem free.

Homeowners, and businesses, with private wells used for drinking water should test their well water once a year to ensure a safe water supply. Most wells do not require chemical treatment because the water moves straight from the soil and rock into the house. However, the testing is essential for safety reasons and for peace of mind.

(Carrie Collins is president of DRAGIN Drilling, a state-certified, Woman-Owned Business Enterprise and Disadvantage Business Enterprise drilling company. The company's name was originally created as an acronym to describe its scope of services: "Deep Remedial and Groundwater Investigation Needs." A custom-designed fleet of vehicles accommodate virtually every drilling need. DRAGIN Drilling maintains headquarters at 2696 Cranberry Highway, Wareham, MA 02571 and can be reached at (508) 295-9040.)

Equipping Your New Pool

(NAPS) - Building a pool can be an exciting way to help your family enjoy some healthy fun and relaxation. In addition, according to the industry, there has never been a better time to build that dream pool with the tremendous innovations in energy and money-saving equipment now available.

Before building your pool, experts advise obtaining free booklets such as Equipping Your New Pool, from Pentair Pool Products™. It offers the following tips:

• Light Up The Night -- Lighting systems, which can dramatically create a mood and enhance your nighttime pool environment, have made significant advances. For example, the Spectrum Amerlite® (SAM™) is the world's first underwater light that changes color continuously or locks on a single color with the flip of a switch.

• Clean Up Your Act -- New generation automatic pool cleaners, such as the Kreepy Krauly®, help keep pools clean, with minimum effort. It automatically operates when a pool's pump runs, using the pool's existing filtration system.

• Take Control -- Control systems, such as Compool™, fully automate the operation of up to seven functions, such as pool/spa pumps, filters, heaters, waterfalls, fountains and synchronized lighting.

• Kill The Chill -- New high efficiency heat pumps, such as the MiniMax® Plus HP, save energy while maximizing heat. In addition, environmentally-safe, high-performance refrigerants are now used in such heat pumps.

Owner Matt Ward Has Quincy Auto Sales Up And Running

Quincy Auto Sales is starting to make an impact after only a short time of being in business at 451 Quincy Avenue next to South Shore Gas and across the street from new Town Fair Tire.

At a young age, owner Matt Ward of Quincy has almost 10 years of experience with the automobile business in both sales and service. He has worked for Ford, Lexus, and Tom O'Brien. Ward said he has great respect for O'Brien because of the opportunities O'Brien has given him and because O'Brien is involved in the day-to-day operation of his business.

"He knows what is going on, who is doing what, and cares about his business and reputation," said Ward.

When asked about his new business, Quincy Auto Sales, Ward said that the most important factors are pricing below the book value and safety checks on all the cars, adding that he has never been a fast talker and never would be. He lets the cars sell themselves, he said, and if customers have a question on a car which he can't answer, he will tell them that rather than telling them what they want to hear.

Ward said he has no problem with customers wanting to bring a car to their mechanic, emphasizing that every car comes with a warranty and also a guarantee that the car will pass the Massachusetts inspection.

Cars range in price from $2,995 to $15,000 and priority is given to sending the automobiles out right the first time. "Promise what you can deliver," Ward said.

Ward has lived in Quincy for five years. He was born and raised in Minnesota and is happily married with two small children.

"I try to keep it simple," said Ward. "It has been an exciting two months. A lot of work was done to get things up and running.

"I am just one guy. I don't have 10 salespeople jumping on customers and I think

MEMBERS OF THE judging panel who selected Henry (Hank) Bradley for the Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year Award join him at Sunday's reception. Seated with him are Paul Harold, Norfolk County Register of Deeds and former city council president and Carol Herbai, immediate past recipient of the award. Standing are Ralph Yohe, president South Shore YMCA; Maralin Manning, executive director Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and John DeCarli, president Quincy Sons of Italy.

SEVERAL PAST RECIPIENTS were on hand to help honor Henry (Hank) Bradley as The Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year. Seated with him from the left are Robert Derbes (1997); Carol Herbai (2000) and Clara Yeomans (1989). Standing are Tom Koch, whose father, the late Richard Koch Sr., received the award posthumously in 1987; Joseph McConville (1995); Olin Taylor (1996) and Tony Siciliano, the first recipient in 1985.

Henry (Hank) Bradley Honored As Sun Citizen Of Year

(Cont'd From Page 1)

Raymond, Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, state Rep. Bruce Ayers, Sheriff Michael Bellotti, Dist. Atty. William Keating, Register of Deeds and former city council president Paul Harold, Joseph Brooker, immediate past commander of the Quincy Veterans' Council representing the city's 13 veterans organizations, and Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth.

Bosworth presented Bradley with a clock plaque inscribed:

"To Henry P. (Hank) Bradley For Outstanding Community Service. Who gives freely and generously of his own time to veterans, charitable and civic causes and does so from the heart."

Bosworth noted that the clock "symbolizes all the time you have given to your community and are still giving."

Sun Editor Robert Bosworth presented him with a special framed Page One of The Sun highlighting his selection as the recipient, listing the other 24 nominees and the names of the judging panel. Extra copies were distributed to those attending.

Mayor Phelan, a nominee for the award himself, congratulated Bradley on behalf of the city for his commitment to the people of Quincy.

"Community service," he said, "encompasses so many things. Working for your community, caring about issues in your community, even doing something tangible to benefit someone in your community."

"Hank Bradley has performed outstanding community service in all of these categories. He shows compassion and dedication daily."

"We are lucky to have Hank Bradley among us and the city of Quincy is equally lucky to have him as an employee."

"Hank, you have served your community and your country with honor and humility. For everything you've done and continue to do, thank you. And congratulations for this well-deserved honor. I can think of no better recipient."

Phelan also commended The Sun for continuing the 17-year tradition of honoring a citizen for outstanding community service.

Raymond and Coughlin with Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro presented Bradley with a City Council commendation.

"We thank you for your advocacy on behalf of those individuals who are less fortunate than all of us," Raymond said.

Raymond noted that lives and our way of life have changed since Sept. 11 but emphasized what has not changed:

"The courage, the dedication and the commitment of public servants. These are individuals who work tirelessly on behalf of the public day in and day out."

Coughlin, a Small St., Montclair neighbor of Bradley's, credited him and his daughter, Annette, with saving his nine-month-old son Matthew's life one day 16 years ago.

Coughlin said the infant stopped breathing and started turning blue.

While his wife, Domenica, held Matthew, Coughlin said he ran across the street in panic to Bradley's house and rang the doorbell.

Bradley and Annette, who was in nursing school at the time, raced to Coughlin's home.

"I don't remember exactly what happened next because there was a flurry of activity but within moments a police car was there and Hank assured me that my son and I would make it to Quincy Hospital."

"I will always believe that if it wasn't for the response of Hank and Annette, my son would not be alive. My wife and I are very grateful to have Hank and his wife as neighbors."

Bellotti, who was a nominee, said Bradley, "always comes through for veterans" and presented him with an appointment as an honorary deputy sheriff.

Ayers presented a House of Representatives commendation from him and Reps. Steven Tobin and Ron Mariano who were unable to attend. Citing Bradley's commitment to veterans, he said: "He is always before the House, whether it is for Gold Star Mothers, additional benefits for veterans or for just helping out the community."

Harold presented a state Senate commendation congratulating Bradley as The Sun Citizen of the Year on behalf of Sen. Michael Morrissey who was out of the country.

"Hank has really been involved in every worthwhile charity in the city of Quincy," Harold said. "And he is always coming up with ideas to help some cause."

Harold recalled Bradley leading a penny drive several years ago which raised money to restore the bronze World War I Doughboy Statue and the bust of John Hancock in front of the Adams Academy.

Keating, presenting a commendation, said: "Hank Bradley has always been there to help veterans and many other people. When The Quincy Sun honors someone like Hank Bradley, they are honoring the community."

Brooker, also an award nominee, presented a citation from the Quincy Veterans Council "in recognition of your dedicated service to the veterans of Quincy and as an advocate of all veterans."

Bradley was nominated for the award by his wife, Rosemarie, who said: "He is a very special person. Always giving to others . . . always putting himself last."

And, he has given to veterans and their families, to hospitalized children and varied — and many — other worthy causes.

One of those children was Claudius Burrows, a 9-year-

Henry (Hank) Bradley Quincy Sun Citizen Of Year Ceremony On Channel 8

The ceremony honoring Henry (Hank) Bradley as The Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year will be broadcast

Wednesday, May 1 at 8 p.m. and Friday, May 3 at 7 p.m. on Quincy Access Television Channel 8.

The ceremony will also air over the weekend, Saturday, May 4 and Sunday, May 5, at times to be announced.

old Bahamas boy who in 1993 suffered third-degree burns over most of his body when his crepe paper costume caught fire at a church Christmas festival.

It was feared he would die if he did not get proper treatment. Bradley arranged through the Aleppo Temple headquarters in Tampa, Fla. to have a medical equipped plane fly the boy to Boston where he received the treatment to save his life at the Shriners Hospital for Children Burns Unit. The hospital charges no fee.

Bradley, under then Mayor James Sheets who attended Sunday's reception, was chairman of the Quincy-to-Quincy, Ill. flood relief program that sent seven trailer loads of food, water pumps and other needed supplies and money to our flood ravaged sister city in 1993.

He coordinated the development of the VA Community Based Outpatient Clinic at Quincy Medical Center so Quincy area veterans no longer have to travel to Boston area VA hospitals.

He is a member of the American Cancer Society's South Regional Board of Directors and chairman of the Daffodil Days program to help raise funds for the battle against that disease.

A personal friend of Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny, he "arranges" for their visits to children in hospitals and for Santa's appearance in the Quincy Christmas parade.

He is chairman of the Shriners Carnival held at Nickerson Legion Post in Squantum for young patients at the Shriners Burns Unit and their families.

A Vietnam War era Air Force veteran and former Quincy police officer, Bradley has been director of Veterans Services since 1990. Active in the American Legion, he has served — among other posts — as a National Vice Commander, Massachusetts State Commander and Commander of Quincy's Morrisette Post.

He is now a member of the American Legion National Legislative Committee and editor of the Massachusetts Department's newspaper, The Legionnaire.

In accepting the award, Bradley gave credit for whatever he has accomplished to his wife, his family and others.

"Nothing is accomplished by yourself," he said. "The only way those things (which the speakers cited) could have been accomplished is because somebody sitting out there was able to assist me in doing what we could for somebody who needed our help."

His accomplishments with the American Legion, he said, were possible because of people like Jake Comer, John Mulken and Paul A.M. Hunt who steered him down the right road and to help make decisions.

Bradley said he could not have succeeded in helping others without the love and support of his wife and family. "Every time there was a function going, my family was there to support me and help me."

As for his close friendship with Santa and the Easter Bunny, and their visits to hospitalized children, he said:

"I have been blessed to have those kids run up to me and ask Santa to pick them up. And to have them hug the Easter Bunny. It's a tremendous feeling."

CITY, COUNTY AND state officials were among those attending the reception for Henry (Hank) Bradley. Seated, from left are Sheriff Michael Bellotti, Bradley, and County Commissioner and former city clerk, John Gillis. Standing, Dist. Atty. William Keating, Mayor William Phelan, County treasurer and city councillor Tim Cahill and state Rep. Bruce Ayers, former councillor.

CITY OFFICIALS WERE there at the reception to help honor Henry (Hank) Bradley. Among them were School Committeewomen Linda Stice and Jo-Ann Bragg, flanking Bradley. Standing are Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro, Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, City Council President Dan Raymond and School Committeeman Michael McFarland.

AMERICAN LEGION MEMBERS attended the reception honoring colleague Henry (Hank) Bradley, past National Vice Commander. Seated are Past State Commander Joseph Steen, Past National Commander John (Jake) Comer, Bradley, Mary Jeanette Murray, former state representative from Cohasset and Marine veteran. Standing, Quincy Veterans Graves Registration Officer Tom Stansbury; Past National Vice Commander John Mulkern, James Flatties, National Executive Committee member; Past Morrisette Post Commander Charles Brooks, Past Nickerson Post Commander Tony Wolowicz, Olin Taylor, Morrisette Post member and a past recipient of The Sun award; Joseph Brooker, past commander Quincy Veterans Council; and Paul Hunt, Massachusetts Legion judge emeritus.

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN and former Mayor James Sheets flank former Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott and Henry (Hank) Bradley at the reception.

HENRY (HANK) BRADLEY (center) is joined by Charles Sweeny, former school committeeman and retired VA chief contact officer; Past Quincy Jewish War Veterans Commander Irving Isaacson; Herb Fontaine, former WJDA news editor; and David McElroy, Shriners Hospital for Children Burns Unit, Boston.

THE QUINCY CARNIVAL is back in town and will be entertaining young and old alike at Faxon Field through Sunday. The annual event is presented by Fiesta Shows of New Hampshire, the largest amusement company based in New England.

Presented By Fiesta Shows Through Sunday Quincy Carnival At Faxon Field

Fiesta Shows brings old-fashioned carnival fun back to the city with the Quincy Carnival, running Wednesday through Sunday at Faxon Field.

The carnival is open at 6 p.m. weeknights during its stay and will open at noon Saturday and Sunday.

Among the many rides offered will be a 100-foot Giant Gondola Wheel, 1001 Nights, Sky Master, and Cliff Hanger. The carnival also includes a complete midway of rides just for children, fun houses to entertain all ages, challenging midway games, and popular carnival foods.

Money-saving ride discounts are being offered today (Thursday) from 6 p.m. until closing and on Sunday from noon until 5 p.m. During these hours, carnival goers will receive unlimited rides for $14 per visit with Quincy Carnival newspaper ads.

Regular price for unlimited rides without ads is $17.

Admission is $1 and children under six are admitted free. A portion of the proceeds will benefit First Night Quincy.

Faxon Field is located adjacent to Southern Artery.

St. Joseph's Church To Host Earth Day Celebration Sunday

St. Joseph's Church in Quincy will host an Earth Day Celebration Sunday, April 28, in the school gymnasium, 555 Washington St., from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The celebration mixes fun and education for all ages.

Four groups will be bringing live animals: The New England Aquarium, The Audubon Society's Trailside Museum, Wild Again (an organization that saves injured animals and performs educational seminars) and The Rainforest Reptile Show.

These groups will be bringing hawks, ravens, owls, starfish, an alligator, turtles, snakes, lizards, opossums and more. They also provide education about these animals, their habitats and behaviors.

Environmental education will also be provided by many other groups attending the event.

Some of those groups are: The Quincy Environmental Network (QEN), The Neponset River Watershed Association, The Fore River Watershed Association and The Quincy D.P.W. Wetlands Restoration Program (they have been exceptional in wetland restoration in Quincy), The Quincy Recycling Program, Eastern Nazarene's Environmental Science Department and The Coalition to Save the Bird Sanctuary.

See the entries for the Environmental Poster Contest sponsored by the QEN. Science projects from area students will also be on display.

The celebration is open to the public. Admission is free. Light refreshments will be available, and there will be face painting for the kids, a clown and many more activities.

Quincy College Arts, Literary Journal Unveiling Thursday

Indigo, the first arts and literary journal of Quincy College, will be unveiled during an exhibit and reception in the college's new art gallery tonight (Thursday) at 7.

The publication features poetry, short stories, essays, paintings, drawing and photography from both students and faculty at Quincy College. The juried works were among over 100 submitted last fall to a selection committee of faculty and staff. The result is a 10"x10" book featuring three dozen works created by students from the Boston area including Quincy, as well as international students from Nigeria, Nepal and Korea.

All works featured in the book will be on display at the Temple Hall Art Gallery, 25 Temple St., during the invitation-only reception. The gallery is on the street level.

Quincy Softball Seeks More Balanced Attack

By CHRIS POISSON

When you discuss Quincy High softball, head coach Mike Sedar stresses that he wants his team to improve steadily over the course of the season and then peak down the stretch.

After six games, the Presidents have posted a .500 record by falling into a win-one-then-lose-one pattern. They've had their ups and downs; strong pitching and shaky pitching; hot bats and cold bats; great defensive plays and occasional defensive lapses.

Quincy will look for a more balanced attack this afternoon (Thursday) at 3:30 when its hosts Notre Dame — its third straight game this week. It hosted Sandwich yesterday (Wednesday) and Dennis-Yarmouth Tuesday, which was postponed Monday due to rain.

"Those are three big games," Sedar said Tuesday morning. "Some times we play better if we don't have breaks."

In its latest game, a 5-4 loss to Braintree at Pageant Field last Wednesday, Quincy had several of its players away on school vacation week and it had to start four freshmen.

The Presidents held a 4-2 lead after five innings but yielded three runs in the sixth and were unable to come from behind. Sophomore Rachael Sorensen picked up the loss, but all five Braintree runs were unearned as the defense committed a couple of costly errors.

Junior shortstop Shannon Paine went 2 for 3 and drove in three runs to lead the offensive attack. Paine, who has made just one error in 15 chances, is batting .480 for the season.

"She's had a great season so far," Sedar said. "She's been hitting really well and she has a cannon for an arm at short."

Freshman Katie Walsh continued to shine, making a great catch in the gap in her second start in left field. "She's been great," Sedar said. "She has a lot of skills. This is only her second year in softball."

Overall, Sedar said he is "happy with the team" but it needs to start hitting and the pitching needs to turn it up a notch.

"We're just not swinging the bat," he said. "We're taking a lot of pitches. We just have to get up there and rip. It will come. The kids have been working hard at it. Our pitching hasn't been what we want so far. We're not reaching our velocity. But we're getting better and we want to peak at the end."

In its previous game on April 11, there was no way Sorensen was going to blow the ball game for Quincy after the team trekked 2 hours, 10 minutes to Nauset.

With Quincy holding a 5-4 lead in the bottom of the seventh inning, the Warriors threatened to spoil the Presidents' ride home by putting the tying run on third and the winning run on second with just one out.

Sorensen responded beautifully, striking out the next two hitters to cement the victory and, more importantly, make the trip back to Coddington Street seem like a trip to Disney World.

"The ride back was an easy one," Sedar said.

It was a great win and confidence-builder for the young Presidents, especially when they were manhandled only two days before by powerhouse Whitman-Hanson, 9-0.

"A huge win after what happened against Whitman-Hanson," Sedar said. "This was a game we had to win.

No doubt about it. A league game, that makes it even bigger."

The victory over Nauset, a solid team, may also signal a coming of age for the Presidents. Last year, all 11 of their losses were against tournament-bound teams, while their seven wins came against weaker opponents.

"We tend to beat up on bad teams and kind of lose our focus against good teams, so this was a nice win for us," Sedar said.

After both teams scored a run in the first, Quincy broke through in the third with a pair of runs to grab a 3-1 lead. Paine (2 for 3, double) knocked home both runs with a bases-loaded single.

The Presidents tacked on two more runs in the fourth to close out their scoring and then thwarted a Nauset rally. Sorensen, a workhorse pitcher thus far, allowed three earned runs on eight hits while fanning 13 and walking two.

Junior center fielder Diane Gilsbody (1 for 2) drove in two runs and senior second baseman Michelle Pilalas continued her torrid hitting, going 3 for 4 with two runs scored.

Quincy also received a nice contribution from Walsh in her first varsity start. With sophomore catcher Rose Bell out sick, junior right fielder Jen Gropp started behind the plate and Walsh started in left field and went 1 for 3 with a run scored.

20th Annual Quincy Senior Olympics May 13-22

The 20th annual Quincy Senior Olympics will be held Monday, May 13, and continue through May 22.

Sponsored by Beechwood on the Bay and the city of Quincy, the annual games are designed for adults ages 55 and over.

Registration is underway. This year, 250 seniors are expected to register, according to Kathleen Prince, director of Elder Services at Beechwood and coordinator of the Senior Olympics Planning Committee.

"We encourage all mature adults to participate," she said. "The Olympic Games attract seniors who compete leisurely and those who are lifelong athletes. Activities and events are planned for all interests."

George Conway will lead competition in the Senior Olympics. At age 99, he is the South Shore's "senior" Senior Olympian and will light the torch with Mayor William Phelan in the May 13 Opening Ceremony.

The week-long event offers: bowling, darts, bocce, billiards, half-mile walk, one-mile walk, three-mile walk, one-mile run, swimming (sprint, freestyle, breast stroke, 50- and 100-yard swims, butterfly), softball game, celebrity volleyball, rotation events (horseshoe pitch, basketball throw), track & field events (softball throw, javelin, running and standing long jump, shot-put) and golf.

Primary sponsors are Quincy Medical Center and Boston Medical Center. Support sponsors are Quincy Rotary and Riverbay Club. Marina Place will sponsor an event. Other friends and supporters are Fallon Ambulance, Olmly's Lanes, Torre Dei Passeri Club, Club 58 and Presidents Golf Course.

The Olympics Planning Committee, chaired by Prince, includes Barry Welch, director of Quincy Recreation Department; Sharron Beals, executive director of Beechwood on the Bay; Tom Clashy, director Quincy Council on Aging; and Brian Buckley, athletic director North Quincy High School.

All interested seniors are invited to join. Registration forms are available at Beechwood on the Bay, Quincy Council on Aging, Quincy Recreation Department, The Quincy Sun and Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Lifeguard Training Course

The Quincy Recreation Department will hold an American Red Cross Lifeguard Training Course as part of its Aquatic Programs at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool, announces Recreation Director Barry Welch.

The course is open to participants who are at least 15 years of age and capable of passing a prerequisite water skills test.

The course will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6 to 8:15 p.m. beginning May 2. Registration is limited and will be taken in person at the pool office beginning Tuesday, April 30, at 6 p.m.

Cost is $85, which includes all books, supplies, pool and Red Cross fees. Quincy residents will be given preference for registration. Non-residents will be accepted on a space-available basis and should call for information. Non-resident fee is $100.

An American Red Cross Lifeguard certificate, a CPR for the Professional Rescuer certificate and a First Aid Skills certificate will be issued upon successful completion of the course.

For more information call the 617-376-1394 (days).

A BRIGHT IDEA

Your vehicle's headlights, taillights, and turn signals perform the important function of illuminating the road and signaling your intentions to other drivers. A burned out headlight or brake lamp can limit your road vision or fail to keep a car from hitting you from behind. Thus, you have every reason to check the operation of all external lights. Reverse lights and emergency flashers should be checked, as well. It is also of critical importance to have a technician check the aim and light pattern of the headlights. Poorly aimed lights may blind oncoming traffic and pose a danger to everyone. By the same token, headlights that do nothing more than illuminate the night sky are of little use.

Your safety is our concern. Make sure your car's lights are functioning properly. Our ASE Certified team at LEO & WALT'S SUNCOCO has earned a wonderful reputation from our many satisfied customers. We are your local full service auto repair shop and take pride in our workmanship and the service we offer. Stop in and visit us at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). Mary Pratt Guest Auctioneer For Milton Hospital Fundraiser Quincy's Mary Pratt will be the guest auctioneer at Milton Hospital's Fields of Dreams fund-raiser to be held tonight Thursday at the Milton Hoosic Club.

A 1976 graduate of North Quincy High School, Pratt was inducted as one of the first members of the women's baseball wing of the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., in 1988.

"Mary is a grand historian of sports," said Carol Fallon, chairman of the Fields of Dreams fund-raiser. "Today's sports heroes pale in comparison to her athletic affiliations, awards, professional associations and coaching affiliations."

Pratt will be auctioning several of the theme packages. Among the sports theme packages is the "Day of the Diamond" package, which includes tickets to the coveted Red Sox-Yankees games, box seats for four to the Red Sox-Toronto game, a Brockton Rox Box with concierge service, a Ted Williams portrait and more.

Other packages include the "Newport Spa" package, two night's lodging at the Hyatt Goat Island, tickets to the Newport Jazz Festival, dinner for two at the White Horse Tavern and the Red Parrot and spa treatments for two; and the "Family Fun" package, a weekend at Nordic Village in New Hampshire and Weber Silver Series gas grill with accessories.

"The idea behind this type of event is to offer some unique entertainment packages to our guests, so that they can enjoy a day at the ballpark, stadium or golf course with no worries — everything included," Fallon said.

Tickets to the event cost $75 per person and include admission to both live and silent auctions, cocktails, hors d'oeuvres, buffet gourmet dinner, coffee and dessert. To purchase tickets, call 617-696-4600, ext. 1220.

Quincy Lions Club Run/Walk At Pageant Field Saturday

The fifth annual Quincy Lions Club Run/Walk for Sight will be held Saturday at Pageant Field, South Artery, Quincy.

Registration and pre-race entertainment will begin at 8 a.m. The 1K Run/Walk for children will start at 10:30 a.m. with a cost of $5 and the 5K Run/Walk will begin at 11 a.m. with a cost of $20 ($17 for early registration).

For the past four years, Uncle Sam Rounseville has run with Dave and Roseanne McCarthy, whose son, Gerald, 9, is sight impaired and has walked in the event every year.

All proceeds from the event will be used to support eye research and provide eye care for those in need. The club's goal this year is to raise $15,000, bringing the total to over $75,000.

The 5K is a USATF Certified Course. Prizes will be awarded during festivities following the races. Food will be supplied by Outback Steakhouse of Quincy. The event is wheelchair accessible.

For more information or to register, call Dave Sawyer at 781-348-4923 or visit www.quincylions.org.

Quincy Babe Ruth Running Design Contest For World Series Logo

Quincy Babe Ruth will run a contest for the next four weeks to design a logo for the 14-Year-Old Babe Ruth World Series to be held at Adams Field in August 2003, announces Dick Lombardi, league president.

All entries can be sent to: Quincy Babe Ruth, 32 Plover Road, Quincy, MA

02169.

The winner will be announced May 23 and will receive a free pass for all games during the tournament and a souvenir T-shirt.

Red Raiders Cool Off After Hot Start

BASEBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

With summer-like temperatures last week, the North Quincy High School baseball team found a way to cool off.

Unfortunately, we're not talking about taking a dip in the water, but rather a dip in the standings with two home losses — its first defeats of the 2002 season after a hot 3-0 start.

After opening school vacation week with a 15-5 laughter to Milton last Tuesday, the Red Raiders rebounded with a far better performance against Braintree last Thursday, but still wound up with a 2-0 loss.

North Quincy (3-2 overall, 2-0 Old Colony League) hosted Bridgewater-Raynham Tuesday, which was postponed on Monday due to rain, and Barnstable yesterday (Wednesday). Tomorrow (Friday) night it concludes its five-game home stand against Duxbury.

In the Braintree game, senior Mike Feetham reassured North Quincy fans about this year's pitching staff as he turned in his second straight impressive outing after a rocky season opener. "He sure did," said head coach Larry Taglieri. The 6-foot-2, 215-pound right-hander allowed two runs on five hits, fanned 10 and walked five in six strong innings.

But the pitching line meant squat as the offense provided him with just two measly singles. Senior first baseman Neal Gavin slapped a two-out single to right in the fifth inning and senior second baseman Dennis Thomson singled up the middle in the seventh, which actually led to North Quincy's best scoring chance.

Trailing 2-0 in the final inning, Feetham got things rolling by fouling off several tough pitches to draw a lead-off walk. "Great at-bat," Taglieri said. "He fouled off three or four pitches to earn that walk." He moved to second on Thomson's hit that skipped under the glove of the diving shortstop. And North Quincy caught a huge break when the pitcher balked, putting both runners in scoring position with no outs.

After the next batter struck out, Milton dodged disaster when senior designated hitter Mark Maher smoked a line drive to the second baseman, who quickly and easily threw to second to double up Feetham to end the game. If the ball had gone through, Feetham would've had a shot at scoring the tying run.

"There's no quit in us," Taglieri said. "The game ends on a screaming line drive. A tough break. I like the way we played, but as a team we're not happy with the result."

Milton scored its first run in the third inning when a runner scored from third base on a wild pitch and it added its other run in the fourth with a bases-loaded walk. Feetham escaped the bases-loaded, no-out jam with a strike out and a pop-up on an attempted suicide squeeze that turned into a twin-killing.

The defense, which was coming off a shaky performance in the Milton game, made several sensational plays. Pizzi turned an unassisted double play in the second inning and in the sixth inning, with the infield playing in with one out and a runner at third, he dove to his left to knock down a ball, looked the runner back at third and got the out at first.

"As opposed to the game on Tuesday, we did some nice things defensively," Taglieri said. "As a coach, that's what you like to see. I'd also like to see us get more than two hits. But defense has to be a constant for us."

The real defensive gem of the game, though, came with two outs in the top of the seventh. With two outs and a runner at third, junior right fielder James Coughlin chased a rocket toward the line, dove as if he were jumping into a pool and, with his body parallel to the ground, snagged the ball in the air to save a run and end the inning.

"Tremendous catch," Taglieri said. "That saved a run and the kid could've probably went for three or four bases. Coughlin has great speed in the outfield. That's what he brings to this team. He's coming along well. He's one of the few juniors we have on the team."

Instinct Tuesday's debacle, North Quincy jumped all over the Milton starter in the second inning like he was a trampoline, knocking him out of the game after giving up a handful of runs in only 12/3 innings.

Senior John O'Connell (sacrifice fly), senior left fielder Pat Gregoli (RBI single), senior center fielder Wayne Moynihan (two-run double) and Feetham (RBI double) were the architects behind the five-run cushion.

Gregoli and Gavin finished with two hits apiece, while senior catcher John Fidalgo added a triple and run scored and senior infielder Dan Duggan chipped in with a single and a run scored.

In the top half of the third, however, Milton came through bigger than the recent Big Game jackpot. The Wildcats took North Quincy to school, chalking up nine runs as they capitalized on shoddy North Quincy defense coupled with their own timely hits.

"We didn't field well in the third inning and that led to some runs," Taglieri said.

Down by four runs, the Red Raiders never regrouped from Milton's outburst, managing two hits and three walks against the Milton bullpen over the final 51/3 innings.

"You hope that, out of a 20-game schedule, there aren't going to be too many of those games," Taglieri said. "You'd like to be on top of your game for all of them, but there are going to be off-games, and that game definitely fits into that category."

Cerebral Palsy Golf Tournament At Blue Hill Country Club May 13

Cerebral Palsy of Massachusetts, 105 Adams St., Quincy, will hold its third annual Golf Tournament Monday, May 13, at Blue Hills Country Club in Canton.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

Dr. Martin Rigby Member Of Boston Marathon Volunteer Medical Team

Dr. Martin T. Rigby, a Quincy chiropractor, volunteered his services as part of the medical team for the recent Boston Marathon.

After the 26-mile run, many runners were in need of a chiropractor's help with stretching their sore muscles and realigning the bones of their spines and extremities.

Dr. Rigby worked with patients from as close to home as the Boston neighborhood of the South End and as far away as Mozambique.

"The will and spirit of these athletes is so inspirational," Rigby said. "They set a goal, trained for it, and achieved it."

William Frazier Named Certified Strength, Conditioning Specialist

Quincy Medical Center physical therapist William Frazier of Pembroke has been named a Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist by the National Strength and Conditioning Association (NSCA).

NSCA's credential identifies individuals who have demonstrated proficiency in the areas of proper strength training and conditioning practices. To achieve the certification, candidates must pass a comprehensive exam that tests knowledge of anatomy, exercise physiology, biomechanics, exercise program design and nutrition. Nearly 11,000 professionals hold the NSCA's credential.

"Being a Certified Strength Conditioning Specialist allows me to provide more specialized care to athletes and patients who want to return to sports," said Frazier, a physical therapist in the Rehabilitation Services at Quincy Medical Center.

Free Skin Cancer Screening May 8

Quincy Medical Center (QMC) will hold a free skin cancer screening, Wednesday, May 8, as part of a campaign to encourage early detection and prevent skin cancer, the most common form of cancer in the country.

The screenings will be held in the QMC ambulatory care department on the second floor of the medical center from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by QMC and the American Academy of Dermatology, the screenings coincide with Melanoma/Skin Cancer Detection and Prevention Month.

Participating QMC dermatologists Daniel Finn, M.D., Mary Gibney, M.D., Elise McCarthy, M.D., and Kenneth Reed, M.D., are donating their time to help increase awareness of the importance of early detection.

According to the Academy of Dermatology, about 88,000 new cases of skin cancer will occur in 2002 in the U.S. and about 7,500 people are expected to die from the disease. A recently commissioned Academy survey found that fewer than one-third of all Americans know the signs of melanoma, which, when treated in its earliest stages, can be cured.

Space is limited at the screening and an appointment is required. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call QMC at 617-376-4018.

Mammogram Topic At QMC Tonight

Quincy Medical Center will present a health awareness talk on breast cancer tonight (Thursday) at 5 at the Senior Dinner Program at QMC Crossroads Café.

Speaker will be Ann Stewart, outreach coordinator at QMC Women's Health

Network. Her speech is entitled "Important Reasons To Get a Mammogram."

For more information call 617-376-5493.

Free Cardiovascular Screenings For Women

The Boston Heart Party™ 2002 will conduct free cardiovascular screenings to women age 35 and over at the Granite Medical Spring Health Fair Saturday, April 27, 9 a.m. to noon at the Quincy Marriott. 1000

Marriott Dr. Quincy.

Testing, administered by area healthcare professionals, include blood pressure measurement, cholesterol and glucose readings and individualized risk factor profiles for each participant, as well as physician referrals and discussion of test results.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

ARE YOU A CANDIDATE FOR AN IMPLANT?

The success rate for dental implants is greater than 90% over ten years. The ideal candidate for a dental implant is in good health, does not smoke (which inhibits healing), and has healthy gums and sufficient supporting bone in the jaw. Even when bone is missing due to resorption, trauma or disease, however, a bone graft can often be made prior to starting the implant procedure. While osteoporosis has been suggested as a possible cause of implant failure, no studies have thus far evaluated the success of various implant systems in women with and without osteoporosis. Implants in the mandible (lower jaw) fare better than those in the maxilla (upper jaw), where the bone is more trabecular, or spongy.

Most patients find that an implant is secure and stable and a good replacement for their own tooth. If you're interested, talk to us. We'll make sure you have the necessary bone and structures to support an implant. We are a highly qualified and experienced team of professionals here at 44 Greenleaf Street, where our goal is to make each visit to our office a comfortable and positive experience. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. Oral health is a long-term commitment we share with each patient. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. New techniques that encourage improved osseointegration (marriage of the bone to the titanium implant) improve the chances of successful implantation in the upper jaw.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A sudden change of plans could lead to a misunderstanding with a friend or family member. Be ready to offer a full explanation of your decision. A past favor is returned.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Expect pressure from those who want you to change your position on a matter of importance. However, the determined Taurus will be able to withstand the bullying and win out.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's time to stop dwelling on past disappointments and move on to other possibilities. By week's end, you'll be meeting new people and making new plans for the future.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A long-simmering situation between co-workers threatens to heat up and could create problems with your work schedule. Best advice: Consult a supervisor on how to proceed.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You might have just learned that someone close to you is keeping a secret. And, of course, the Cat's curiosity has gone into overdrive. But be patient. All is revealed soon enough.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Don't give up. The recognition citing the good work you recently did will come through. Meanwhile, an opportunity opens up that can lead to a lot of traveling later on.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A financial crunch eases, but it's still a good idea to keep a tight rein on what you spend for nonessentials. Education becomes a major focus as the week winds down.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Recent encounters with stressful situations could require some restorative measures to get your energy levels back up. Talk to your doctor about a diet and exercise program.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) New connections follow changes on the job or in your personal life. But keep your feelings reined in until these relationships have a chance to develop.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Pay more attention to your aches and pains, and avoid self-diagnoses. Seek professional advice to make sure these problems won't lead to something more serious.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You love doing research and learning new things, so you'll be happy to know that education becomes a big part of your life at this time, and for some time to come.

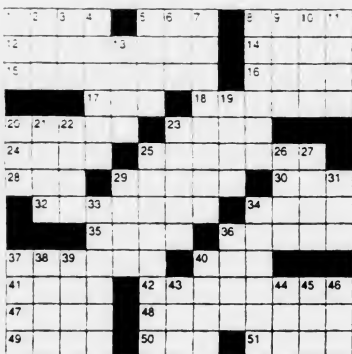

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your Piscean penchant for doing things logically could be challenged by an equally strong emotional reaction to a new situation. Best advice: Keep the two factors in balance.

BORN THIS WEEK: You love music and nature. You would be an excellent environmentalist, as well as a fine singer or musician.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Interfaith Men's Prayer Breakfast May 5

The 55th annual Interfaith Social Services Men's Prayer Breakfast will be held Sunday, May 5 at 7 a.m. at Freeport Hall in Dorchester.

This year's breakfast will recognize the citizen soldiers from the Army Reserve Unit headquartered in Taunton. They were included in the 99th Combat Support Hospital contingent at Camp Bondsteel in Kosovo. Their unit was part of a NATO multi-national Peacekeeping Force that served in Kosovo for a six-month period in 2001.

Guest speaker will be Rev. William Harding, pastor of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy, who served as one of the unit's chaplains. The Casler Trio's "Hearts Content" will provide music for the event.

Clergymen from Protestant and Catholic faiths will participate in the program.

Proceeds will benefit the Interfaith Social Services Agency which serves residents of Quincy, Milton, Braintree, Weymouth, Holbrook and Randolph. The non-denominational agency serves the public with the Pantry Shelf Food Bank, the Career Closet for Women, the Bureau Drawer Thrift Shop and Counseling.

Tickets are $12 and are available from several churches on the South Shore as well as at the Interfaith Social Services, 776 Hancock St., Wollaston.

For more information, call the event chairman, Robert Foster at 617-698-4576.

Interfaith Sheltering Coalition Selling Entertainment Books

The Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, sponsor of Father Bill's Place, is raising funds by selling the Entertainment 2002 Book.

Each book contains hundreds of "two-for-one" discounts for fine dining, family dining, fast food, movies, sports activities, special attractions and hotels.

Entertainment 2002 book is available at Father Bill's Place for $20. A portion of the proceeds benefit the shelter.

To arrange a pick up of the book, contact Janice Whalen x233 or Susan Smith x235 at (617) 376-2255.

Bethany Congregational

Rev. William Harding, pastor, will conduct the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center.

His sermon title will be "By No Other Name." Rev. Harding will also speak to the children of the Church School before they go to their classes in the Parish House.

Gloria Holbrook and Margaret Kelsey will greet worshippers as they enter the sanctuary.

Scripture reader will be Barbara McFarlane. The Chancel Choir will sing under the direction of Thomas Boyer.

Childcare is available for infants and toddlers. Following the worship service members of the Mikami family will host the Fellowship Hour in Allen Parlor. Light refreshments will be available.

Tickets are available for the 55th annual Men's Prayer Breakfast Sunday, May 5 at 7 a.m. The citizen soldiers who served in Kosovo last year as part of a NATO peacekeeping force will be honored. Their chaplain, Rev. William Harding, will be the speaker.

Proceeds will go to the Interfaith Social Service Agency to support their work in many South Shore communities.

United First Parish

Rev. Yielbonzie Johnson will be the guest minister at the 10:30 a.m. worship service at United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center, the "Church of the Presidents."

Rev. Johnson is the interim senior minister and executive director of the Unitarian Universalist Urban Ministry (UUCUM).

Covenant Congregational

Rev. Karen Palmatier, pastor, will preach the sermon "Building On The Rock" at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, corner of Whitwell and Granite Sts.,

Religious education is offered for children and child care is available.

The service will be followed by a special social coffee hour in the Parish Hall.

Christian education begins at 9 a.m. Childcare is available.

Hours for the Children's Pantry are Wednesday and Thursday, 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Houghs Neck Congregational

Janet Little will speak on "To Bee or Not To Bee" at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave.

A coffee hour will be held at the church at 9:30 a.m. All are welcome.

Sunday School classes will be held from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

A worship group will conduct a Communion Service at the Rice Livestock Home Sunday at 12:15 p.m.

A Bible Study will continue Tuesday, April 30 at 7:30 p.m. focusing on I and II Thessalonians (oldest New Testament Books).

All are welcome. Bring your own Bible or use one from the church.

United Methodist

Sunday worship will be held at 10 a.m. at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Earlier at 9 a.m. the pastor, Rev. Carol Stine, will conduct the Adult Bible Study. At 10:15 Sunday school will be in session.

Jeanne O'Connor will be lecturer. Yvonne Duncanson will be the greeter.

Following the service at 11:30 a.m., the Mission Outreach Committee, chaired by Robert McCully, will have a luncheon and have its first conversation cafe which will feature Mei Hung of the Chinese Culture Connection, Malden, who will speak and demonstrate the art of Origami.

Valerie Haven will serve as moderator.

Union Congregational

Rev. John Swanson, pastor, will continue his sermon series on the Book of Acts at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd., Wollaston.

His sermon title is "Faithful Obedience."

Acts is a history book, the only one of its type in the New Testament. It deals specifically with the "Actions" of the Apostles, detailing the early history and work of the church.

Pastor Swanson's sermon will focus on Christian duty to care for the less fortunate while maintaining true faith and obedience to the Lordship of Christ.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A sudden change of plans could lead to a misunderstanding with a friend or family member. Be ready to offer a full explanation of your decision. A past favor is returned.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Expect pressure from those who want you to change your position on a matter of importance. However, the determined Taurus will be able to withstand the bullying and win out.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's time to stop dwelling on past disappointments and move on to other possibilities. By week's end, you'll be meeting new people and making new plans for the future.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A long-simmering situation between co-workers threatens to heat up and could create problems with your work schedule. Best advice: Consult a supervisor on how to proceed.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You might have just learned that someone close to you is keeping a secret. And, of course, the Cat's curiosity has gone into overdrive. But be patient. All is revealed soon enough.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Don't give up. The recognition citing the good work you recently did will come through. Meanwhile, an opportunity opens up that can lead to a lot of traveling later on.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A financial crunch eases, but it's still a good idea to keep a tight rein on what you spend for nonessentials. Education becomes a major focus as the week winds down.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Recent encounters with stressful situations could require some restorative measures to get your energy levels back up. Talk to your doctor about a diet and exercise program.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) New connections follow changes on the job or in your personal life. But keep your feelings reined in until these relationships have a chance to develop.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Pay more attention to your aches and pains, and avoid self-diagnoses. Seek professional advice to make sure these problems won't lead to something more serious.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You love doing research and learning new things, so you'll be happy to know that education becomes a big part of your life at this time, and for some time to come.

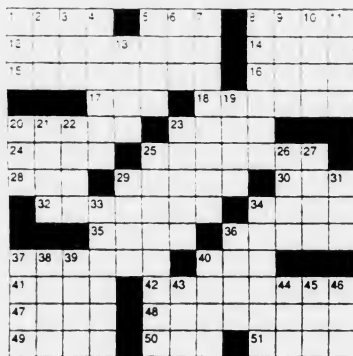

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your Piscean penchant for doing things logically could be challenged by an equally strong emotional reaction to a new situation. Best advice: Keep the two factors in balance.

BORN THIS WEEK: You love music and nature. You would be an excellent environmentalist, as well as a fine singer or musician.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Interfaith Men's Prayer Breakfast May 5

The 55th annual Interfaith Social Services Men's Prayer Breakfast will be held Sunday, May 5 at 7 a.m. at Freeport Hall in Dorchester.

This year's breakfast will recognize the citizen soldiers from the Army Reserve Unit headquartered in Taunton. They were included in the 99th Combat Support Hospital contingent at Camp Bondsteel in Kosovo. Their unit was part of a NATO multi-national Peacekeeping Force that served in Kosovo for a six-month period in 2001.

Guest speaker will be Rev. William Harding, pastor of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy, who served as one of the unit's chaplains. The Casler Trio's "Hearts Content" will provide music for the event.

Clergymen from Protestant and Catholic faiths will participate in the program.

Proceeds will benefit the Interfaith Social Services Agency which serves residents of Quincy, Milton, Braintree, Weymouth, Holbrook and Randolph. The non-denominational agency serves the public with the Pantry Shelf Food Bank, the Career Closet for Women, the Bureau Drawer Thrift Shop and Counseling.

Tickets are $12 and are available from several churches on the South Shore as well as at the Interfaith Social Services, 776 Hancock St., Wollaston.

For more information, call the event chairman, Robert Foster at 617-698-4576.

Interfaith Sheltering Coalition Selling Entertainment Books

The Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, sponsor of Father Bill's Place, is raising funds by selling the Entertainment 2002 Book.

Each book contains hundreds of "two-for-one" discounts for fine dining, family dining, fast food, movies, sports activities, special attractions and hotels.

Entertainment 2002 book is available at Father Bill's Place for $20. A portion of the proceeds benefit the shelter.

To arrange a pick up of the book, contact Janice Whalen x233 or Susan Smith x235 at (617) 376-2255.

Bethany Congregational

Rev. William Harding, pastor, will conduct the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center.

His sermon title will be "By No Other Name." Rev. Harding will also speak to the children of the Church School before they go to their classes in the Parish House.

Gloria Holbrook and Margaret Kelsey will greet worshippers as they enter the sanctuary.

Scripture reader will be Barbara McFarlane. The Chancel Choir will sing under the direction of Thomas Boyer.

Childcare is available for infants and toddlers. Following the worship service members of the Mikami family will host the Fellowship hour in Allen Parlor. Light refreshments will be available.

Tickets are available for the 55th annual Men's Prayer Breakfast Sunday, May 5 at 7 a.m. The citizen soldiers who served in Kosovo last year as part of a NATO peacekeeping force will be honored. Their chaplain, Rev. William Harding, will be the speaker.

Proceeds will go to the Interfaith Social Service Agency to support their work in many South Shore communities.

United First Parish

Rev. Yielbonzie Johnson will be the guest minister at the 10:30 a.m. worship service at United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center, the "Church of the Presidents."

Rev. Johnson is the interim senior minister and executive director of the Unitarian Universalist Urban Ministry (UUCUM).

Religious education is offered for children and child care is available.

The service will be followed by a special social coffee hour in the Parish Hall.

Covenant Congregational

Rev. Karen Palmatier, pastor, will preach the sermon "Building On The Rock" at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, corner of Whitwell and Granite Sts.,

Quincy Center.

Christian education begins at 9 a.m. Childcare is available.

Hours for the Children's Pantry are Wednesday and Thursday, 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Houghs Neck Congregational

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

We at the Deware Family Funeral Homes have sensed the desire among many people for a better understanding of what a modern family should know about funeral pre-arrangements. We have found from experience that the informed family is much better equipped mentally to protect their own interests and do not make hasty decisions which could be regretted for many years thereafter.

The advantages or disadvantages of pre-arranging a funeral depend solely upon the individual circumstances and cannot be generalized. What may be in the best interest for some could, in turn, be impractical for others. The important thing to consider is that proper counseling is necessary so that all facets of making such arrangements are thoroughly understood. This could avoid serious misunderstanding and concern at the time that death does occur.

At our Funeral Home we have many booklets which are free that explains what every family should know about pre-need planning. Please stop by or call us about these booklets. We will gladly answer any questions you might have.

Phelan: Yardwaste Collection Certain For Spring, Fall

Fink's statements about a policy change startled many councillors at the April 1, meeting, including Council President Daniel Raymond.

"The people of Quincy just won't stand for it," Raymond told The Sun following the adoption of the joint resolution, adding that the "rarity" of such a unified resolve was meant to underscore the seriousness of the issue. "It's not acceptable. We're the public officials closest to residents and we're not going to just roll over and have this program stripped away."

Raymond pointed to what he called "the public outcry" in the summer of 2000 when BFI, citing a 1991 state law only then enforced, refused to collect grass clippings and other yardwaste during its regular curbside collection. After much debate, the city's eventual solution was to have its own crews pick up yardwaste during the appropriate months.

Raymond said Phelan and Fink, who did not hold their positions in the summer of 2000, were "unaware of the history of the issue" and its importance to residents.

Not so, said the mayor. "The mayor's office understands how important this service is and we're working hard to provide this service," said Phelan, who attributed the lack of necessary funds on underbudgeting in Fiscal Year 2002, which ends June 30, and added that between $350,000 and $400,000 of the FY 2002 DPW budget was used to pay bills from

"That's not only improper, that's illegal," Phelan said.

Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton, whose resolve in June of 2000 prompted discussion of the issue that summer, emphasized that yardwaste collection was a top priority for residents.

"I've already received about a dozen calls," said Newton, echoing an opinion voiced by Raymond that it was "unrealistic" to expect seniors to bring their yardwaste to 55 Sea St. for disposal. "It's a very serious issue and 10 weeks is not enough."

"I know we're in the time of zero-based budgeting but this is something which needs to be included in the budget," Newton said.

Mae Gorman of Davis St., who collected more than 1,000 signatures in favor of yardwaste pick-up when the matter was first brought up years ago, said she was upset at reports that the program was being curtailed.

"Don't they know that flowers grow in the summertime?" asked Gorman, a senior who has lived 38 years on Davis St. "I love this city and I don't mind paying my bill, but I want the basic services."

Phelan Budget Calls For Downsizing Without Hurting Services

Mayor William Phelan's proposed budget for Fiscal Year 2003 calls for a downsizing of close to 200 city employees, either through attrition or layoffs, but seeks to retain and even improve city services through a variety of measures, including cost-cutting, re-prioritization, and even consolidation of departments.

"Department heads, my staff, and I are extremely proud of the budget we'll be presenting Thursday night," said Phelan, referring to tonight's (Thursday's) presentation at 7 p.m. in the Atrium of the Thomas Crane Public Library. "Through a process of prioritizing, re-prioritizing, and cost-cutting we have produced a budget which provides the services that the residents of Quincy have grown accustomed to while cutting back significantly and keeping in mind the overburdened taxpayer."

"No police officers or firefighters will be laid off, no fire stations will be closed, no library branch will be closed, and no schools will be closed," said Phelan, adding that even a pilot program for condo trash pickup, which he said had been only half-funded the previous fiscal year, will be fully funded in the new budget.

At the same time, said Phelan, noting the city's current economic crisis, the cut-back of city personnel will be

According To Outside Auditing Firm $4.6M In 2001 Bill Payments 'Juggled' Phelan Asserts

By CRAIG SALTERS

An outside auditing firm hired by the city has presented Mayor William Phelan with information that at least $4.6 million in Fiscal Year 2001 bills were paid using funds from the Fiscal Year 2002 budget during the administration of Phelan's predecessor, former Mayor James Sheets.

"This is a practice in violation of state statute," said Phelan. "The previous administration rolled over bills during an election year and hid them from the public."

Phelan, who is due to present the Fiscal Year 2003 budget to the City Council on May 6, blasted the Sheets administration for the practice, adding that the recently discovered $4.6 million was "over and above" the city's existing budget deficit of more than $2 million.

"In effect, on the first day of the FY2002 budget back in July, the city was already in deficit $4.6 million as a result of these improper practices," said Phelan. "It was a house of cards ready to collapse and it was being hidden from the citizens of Quincy and it was hidden from my administration after I took office."

"This is $4.6 million in teachers, in police officers, in firefighters, in yardwaste pickup or fire apparatus that we should have, or be able to put aside for a rainy day, but that we don't have because the previous administration lived beyond its means. The people of Quincy should be understandably angry about this because they were not told the truth."

Several attempts by The Quincy Sun to reach Sheets at his home for comment were unsuccessful.

According to John Sullivan, a principal at the Andover-based Melanson, Heath, and Co., which performed the "specific purpose audit," $2.8 million of the $4.6 million in "carryovers" were in the area of health benefits. Additional improper spending amounts included $400,000 from a city trash contract and $491,000 and $150,000, respectively, from the tuition and transportation items within the School Department's Special Education budget.

FBI, IRS In Search

Agents Mum On Raid At Maher Home

FBI and IRS agents spent most of Tuesday searching the home of former city plumbing inspector Ralph Maher but were mum about what they were looking for and what they found.

The agents arrived at Maher's home at 124 Gardner Road shortly after 7 a.m. and were still there at mid-afternoon.

Sources, however, said a large number of weapons and records were carried from the house and garage.

Maher's license to carry a gun was suspended Jan. 4 by Quincy police but his wife, Evelyn, 61, has a gun permit, police said.

It was not known if Maher, 64, was home when the agents arrived or whether he was there during any part of the search.

At mid-afternoon agents were standing in the yard looking like they might be waiting for Maher to return. A number of on-lookers had gathered there, too.

Agents gave no indication if the raid was related in any way to the break-in at City Hall last Dec. 15.

Maher and Daniel R. Keating, 29, who was executive secretary to former Mayor James Sheets, were indicted by a Norfolk County grand jury on charges of breaking and entering in the daytime, larceny from a

$4.5 Million Addition For Quincy Mutual

Construction began Monday on a three-story addition to the Washington St. offices of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

The roughly $4.5 million project, which is estimated to take nine months to complete, will create two upper floors of new office space and ground-level parking for 46 cars on what was the company's existing ground-level parking lot.

When completed, the addition will add 14,826 square feet of office space to the company's existing 63,151 square feet for a total of 77,977 square feet of office space.

The new ground-level parking will be connected to the existing levels of underground parking for a total of 146 parking spaces, more than the 130 parking spaces required for an office building of that size.

Architect for the project is John M. Sheskey and Associates, Inc., 14 Franklin St.

Doug Briggs, president of Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co., said the company's increased need for office space prompted the decision to construct an addition.

During the construction period, Briggs said, employees will make use of the John Hancock Municipal Parking Lot across from the Quincy District Court.

Of Quincy Mutual's 320 employees, Briggs said, roughly 220 are based in its Quincy offices.

Briggs added that the three-story addition will be in keeping with the style of the company's existing Quincy offices.

Cleaner, Greener Quincy To Take Place Saturday

The city of Quincy will conduct its 13th annual Cleaner, Greener Quincy program at various parks and beaches throughout Quincy this Saturday.

The city-wide cleanup will take place from 9 a.m. to noon and will be followed by an appreciation barbecue hosted by Mayor William Phelan at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex at One Merrymount Parkway.

Volunteers are asked to report to their cleanup sites just before 9 a.m. for instructions. Volunteers can report to the following sites to help out:

- Houghs Neck "Marsh Madness" — Labrecque Field on Sea St.
- Avalon Beach — Avalon Ave. in Quincy Point
- Faxon Park — South Quincy
- Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center — Brooks Rd. in South Quincy.
- Wollaston Beach — Wollaston Yacht Club on

WILLIAM PHELAN

Quincy Shore Drive.

- Black's Creek area — Caddy Park on Quincy Shore Drive.

• Nickerson Beach/ Squaw Rock Park — Dorchester St. in Squantum. Once the cleanup finishes, Phelan invites all volunteers back to the Park and Recreation Complex for burgers, hot dogs, and sodas. The barbecue is sponsored by the Shop & Shop Supermarket Company.

"Cleaner, Greener Quincy is a great community-building event for our city," said

Phelan. "It is nice to see neighborhoods coming together to help make our city beautiful. One of my goals for this program is to have people, especially younger people, make an investment in keeping the city clean year-round."

Cleaner, Greener Quincy draws close to 1,300 volunteers every year. Every volunteer receives a free Cleaner, Greener Quincy T-shirt for their efforts.

In addition to the above-referenced sites, there will be community organizations and neighborhood groups cleaning in every neighborhood in Quincy. It is estimated that approximately 15 tons of debris are removed from the city's beaches, marshes, open space areas and parks during this one-day cleanup event.

"I want to thank each and every person who gives up a Saturday in the busy springtime to help our city," added Phelan. "Without our volunteers, we could never achieve the success that this program enjoys. I appreciate the efforts of all our Cleaner, Greener volunteers and I hope to see them all back at the barbecue."

For more information on how to become involved in Cleaner, Greener Quincy, call the Quincy Park Department at (617) 376-1254.

10-Story, 200-Unit Apt. Building Proposed For Presidents Place

By CRAIG SALTERS

The Zoning Board of Appeals will meet Tuesday, May 7 at 7:15 p.m. to continue its public hearing on Lincoln Property Company's proposal to build a 10-story, 200-unit residential building on the so-called "back lot" of Presidents Place, 1250 Hancock St.

The current proposal also calls for construction of an additional floor of parking atop the existing six-story parking garage on Saville Ave. to create, along with underground parking beneath the proposed building itself, an additional 200 parking spaces.

The May 7 public hearing will be held in the council chambers of City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

If variances are approved and the project undertaken, the apartment building would complete the three-tower design originally planned for Presidents Place in the late 1980's when the first two towers were constructed.

The project would also be one of the first proposed since the city's adoption of an Inclusionary Zoning Ordinance in August of 2001. As a result, 20 units of the development would be set aside as affordable housing units.

The May 7 date is a continuation of a public hearing held April 9, said ZBA Chairman Stephen DesRoche, and both the pro and con portions of the meeting are still open. Once everyone has had a chance to offer input, DesRoche said, the public hearing will be closed and a vote is expected.

Ward 5 Councillor Douglas Gutro, who has sent mailings and conducted neighborhood meetings on the issue in conjunction with Ward 1 Councillor Gregory Hanley, said the majority of testimony April 9 was favorable to the project but that there were still issues, primarily traffic and parking, which needed to be further addressed before the May 7 public hearing.

"We need to make sure we solicit input from any and all and make sure that all voices are heard," said Gutro, who said research on the matter has included meetings with residents as well as Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon, the Quincy Center Neighborhood Association (QCNA), and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association (QCBPA).

"The real concerns are parking and traffic, not just for this development but for any development in the city," said Gutro, adding that both the potential positive and negative impacts of the project to businesses and residences needed to be examined closely.

Gutro noted that the 200-unit apartment proposal was in keeping with "smart growth" practices which encourage a residential component to a community's downtown development.

Atty. Robert Fleming, who represents the applicant, called the proposed project "the last segment" of the original intent of the Presidents Place design, explaining that the site was originally permitted for more than 200 condominiums in the mid-to-late 1980's. The site was recently re-permitted for office space, he said, but a change in plan has brought the residential component back into the picture.

Such a major residential development in Quincy Center, Fleming added, is in accordance with "The Sasaki Report," a 1996 master plan for Quincy's downtown development adopted by the City Council.

The current proposal, Fleming said, includes an additional floor of parking atop the Saville Ave. garage to create 142 parking spaces. However, in response to neighborhood concerns, Fleming said the applicant is "exploring" ways to put as much new parking underneath the tower as possible.

The proposed tower would be 100 feet maximum because residential buildings are allowed 10 feet per story, as opposed to commercial buildings which can have as much as 13 feet per story.

Architect for the project is John M. Sheskey and Associates, Inc., 14 Franklin St.

Currently, Presidents Place contains roughly 350,000-square feet of office space, 40,000 square feet of retail space, and a 1,110-space parking garage.

Bulger Reads To Pupils

WILLIAM BULGER, president of the University of Massachusetts and former president of the Massachusetts State Senate, took some time recently to read Robert McCloskey's Make Way For Ducklings and Barbara Berger's Grandfather Twilight to students of the Montessori School for Early Learning located in Bethany Congregational Church as part of events honoring "National Week of the Young Child" sponsored by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC). Bulger's granddaughter Mary Hurley is a student at the school. Looking on is Saby Esquillon, a Montessori parent and also a teaching assistant.

Coughlin To Hold Meeting On Adams St. Temple Housing Plan

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin will hold a Community Meeting Thursday, May 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Temple Adas Shalom, 435 Adams St., with respect to a proposal brought by B&F Realty Trust to replace the temple with six units of attached townhouse style residences.

The May 9 meeting is a follow-up to a Community Meeting held December 10 of 2001 during which the project was originally unveiled.

Coughlin encouraged residents who wish to review the plans and seek information to attend the meeting.

The project will be considered by the Zoning Board of Appeals at a public hearing scheduled for Tuesday, May 14 at 7:15 p.m. in the council chambers of City Hall.

Attention Quincy Homeowners:

Concerned that you won't have enough to cover your property tax increase?

It's the classic "good news/bad news" situation. The real estate market in Quincy is very hot and, congratulations, your house is worth more than you may have imagined. Unfortunately, your real estate taxes are pegged to your assessment and - due to an unusual set of circumstances - you have to come up with the difference on short notice. There's no need to make a partial payment, no need to go delinquent. Come see us and bring your tax bill. Fill out a simple application and you'll have an answer within 48 hours. The loan will be enough to cover your tax increase and you can pay it back in 12 equal monthly installments. But May 6th is coming up fast. Don't wait until the last minute. Stop by our 15 Beach Street office - next to the Wollaston Post Office - today.

Still A Man's World

The Quincy political scene is still pretty much a man's world.

That was one of the trivia tidbits at last week's City Council reunion at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Councillor Frank McCauley, committee member and emcee, noted that 365 individuals have served on the council since the first members took office Jan. 7, 1889.

Of that number, 362 have been men and only three women: Edna Austin, Joanne Condon-Walsh and Patricia Toland.

AUSTIN

CONDON-WALSH

TOLAND

He didn't mention it, but the city still hasn't had a woman mayor in all these 113 years. Twenty-nine men have been elected to the office which might as well have a "No Trespassing" sign hung on the door for women.

Only four women have tried to cross that threshold: Rita Anderson (1971), Grace Saphir twice (1973 and 1975) and Joanne Condon-Walsh and Sabina Kavanagh Stenberg, both in 1985.

Women, however, have fared much better as candidates for the school committee. Nineteen have made it. The first was Mabel Adams in 1898 -- who was also the first woman elected to municipal office in Quincy's history.

McCauley, with assists from committee members former Ward 1 Councillors Peter Kolson and Leo Kelly and City Clerk Joseph Shea had a few other program notes you might find interesting. Among them:

HAROLD

TOBIN

The top vote getters for councillor at-large: (1) Paul Harold, 21,243 (1977), George Burke (2) 20, 741 (1965), Arthur Tobin (3) 20,453 (1975).

Tobin was the longest serving city council president with eight years (1970-1977).

The reunion -- the council's third -- was for the present nine members and the 34 surviving members, 12 of whom were unable to attend. Total turnout of councillors was 30.

Among the former members attending was Thomas Gilmartin whose service dates back the furthest. Now in his early 90s, he served two terms as Ward 6 councillor from 1946 to 1949. Present Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton found a "small world" connection: "We both ran from Glover Avenue."

Gilmartin, who now lives in Weymouth but keeps a close eye on the Quincy political scene, told Newton he might come back and run again.

Gilmartin, by the way, took a young Bruce Ayers under his wing and showed him the ropes to help launch him on his political career.

Alfred Helfrich, the oldest city councillor at age 96, attended the 1999 get-together but was unable to make this one. He served three terms in the 1950s under Plan E and is the sole surviving council member of that era.

Five of those attending the reunion went on to become mayor: Walter Hannon, Joseph LaRaia, Tobin, McCauley and James Sheets.

Present Mayor William Phelan was a guest at the reunion but has no city council link. When he defeated Sheets in that 17-vote upset last November, he became the first mayor in 79 years who did not come out of the city council.

Sheets, who had an historic 12 years as Plan A mayor, also holds the city council ward longevity record. He served 16 years as Ward 4 councillor.

Sheets also figures in the longest local elective office service department. He (12 years mayor, 16 years councillor) and McCauley (8 years mayor, 12 years councillor, 8 years school committee) are tied with 28 years.

Both, however, have a little way to go to catch the all-time longevity champ Dr. Nathaniel Hunting who served 36 years, all on the school committee. And served so well he had a school named after him.

Joanne Condon-Walsh, the only of the three women councillors living, attended the reunion. When asked if she feels outnumbered at the get-togethers, she replies: "Oh, I'm just one of the guys."

Besides the five who became mayor, others went on to other offices:

Six became state representatives: George Burke, William Delahunt, Hannon, Sheets, Tobin and Ayers.

Tobin, Harold and James McCormack became state senator. The latter defeated the legendary Tom Burgin in one of the biggest local political upsets.

Dan Raymondi, now city council president out of Ward 2, served as county treasurer. Councillor Tim Cahill is now the treasurer and running for state treasurer.

George McDonald became a county commissioner. Harold is now Register of Deeds.

But if you're thinking of a political career, Ward 5 might be a good place to start.

Hannon, Burke, Delahunt and Warren Powers were all Ward 5 councillors. Hannon became mayor, Burke district attorney, Delahunt district attorney and now the first Congressman from Quincy since John Quincy Adams. Powers is now a judge.

It was a fun night.

Hannon, who is as good on his feet as any stand-up comic, had them laughing over the Quarry Hills golf course development in which he is a partner.

He said the company and Mayor Phelan, a critic, had finally come to an agreement with certain conditions:

A statue of Phelan's father-in-law, Arthur Tobin, is erected on the front lawn. The Tobins in the police department get all the special police details. Phelan's family gets the hot dog and beer concession. And the name is changed from Quarry Hill's to "Wink's Place," Phelan's nickname.

McCauley got off one on Hannon recalling the pair were kids together in Houghs Neck. McCauley indicated he loyally remained in the Neck but Hannon moved away.

"He came to me one day all excited," McCauley said. "He said he was moving to Wollaston -- where they have toilets up and downstairs."

MILESTONE: Rep. Bruce Ayers hit No. 40 at a birthday party and fundraiser Tuesday at Raffael's. A good turnout was on hand for the celebration including a few who wished they were still 40.

□

FRIENDS OF WARD 6 Councillor Joe Newton are putting on a fundraiser for him Tuesday, May 7 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Best Western Adams Inn, North Quincy.

An evening of hors d'oeuvres, fun talk and -- fine cigars -- on the deck of the inn. Suggested contribution: $100.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1950 POSTCARD was published by the congregation of the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church when they changed their name to Trinity Lutheran and built this new church edifice and parsonage on Roberts Street behind the South Junior High School in South Quincy. They sold their original church at 81 Suomi Road where they had been since 1912. That is now used as an apartment building. In 1974, as membership of the Trinity congregation dwindled, they merged with the nearby Salem Lutheran Church. Together they became the Faith Lutheran Church with main worship services held at the Church-on-the-Rock overlooking Granite Street. This Roberts Street building was converted to what is now the Faith Community Center and is home to the Djurf Christian Preschool. The original "Brikerete" exterior has been covered with vinyl siding.

READERS FORUM

Find A More Fitting Location For The Holy Family

One of the things I took from Steve Fishman's history class at Sterling Junior High many, many years ago (sorry, Steve) was a profound appreciation for our US Constitution and a keener understanding of its role in shaping our nation's history when rightly interpreted.

This much said, I find myself in agreement with Patricia Artis and the Quincy Human Rights Commission ("The Issue Is Separation Of Church And State," The Quincy Sun, April 11) in objecting to the continued placement of a nativity scene in front of City Hall, though for reasons which differ dramatically from theirs.

From what I gather at a distance from reading recent articles on this issue, Ms. Artis, et. al., sense the need to protect the general public from the perceived encroachment of a state sponsored religion. My concern is, and always has been, in protecting the free exercise of religion from the often predatory interventions of governments which, historically, have co-opted religion to further their own political ends: From the so-called Wars of Religion in the 16th and 17th Centuries — in which the princes of Europe exploited the natural differences between Protestants and Roman Catholics so as to carve up the continent to their liking — to something as seemingly benign as a local government "allowing" a nativity scene to be displayed on public grounds with the implied message, "see how good and tolerant we can be."

Our Constitution does not merely "tolerate" religion but recognizes in the First Amendment the God-given right of people to worship without hindrance. That distinction may seem obvious to many by now, but it is no less profound for its transparency. Religion in general (and Christian faith in particular) has always flourished without the need of government sponsorship and endorsement. In fact, it can be argued that the worst thing ever to have occurred to the Church was the Edict of Milan in 313, when Emperor Constantine recognized Christian faith as the "official religion" of Rome. That which began as a movement of the Spirit flourished and grew, even under persecution, until the charge was laid against the Church by its Roman detractors, "these Christians have turned the world upside down" (Acts 17:6).

Finally, what could not be accomplished by force was effected through simple fiat of government: The Church was acculturated into the acceptable power structure of the Empire, and the edge of its distinctive witness was blunted and dulled.

Unfortunately, the force of the Church's distinctive witness can become dull in our time, as well. Those who advocate the strict separation of church and state often mean by that the Church should stay in its corner and remain silent, and let our society do as it pleases. This sentiment is embedded in Ms. Artis' letter, though I doubt she realized it. Citing the support of "some of our local religious communities" for her cause, she adds by way of commentary, "religious expression is a private matter, not a public matter."

In reality, nothing could be further from the truth. Relegating faith to the lesser status of private opinion is perhaps the most insidious consequence of wrongly interpreting the First Amendment to read as a text for erecting an absolute wall of separation between church and state. No such wall exists, though there is a distinct divide. The very public faith of the Founders was reflected in the common virtues and moral fiber of the early republic which, in turn, became the fabric of constitutional law. Even Jefferson (who coined the phrase "wall of separation" in a letter to Danbury Baptists) believed that democracy could not function without morals, and that religion is the fountainhead of morality.

It is a mistake, therefore, to place the nativity scene in front of City Hall, not because it is an unwarranted intrusion of religion upon public sensibilities and civil rights, but because it says something about the place of religion in these United States that is patently false. Faith is not a functionary of civil government, nor is the Church a winner necessarily when its message and witness are perceived as being wedded to secular causes, however just or sincere.

Let's find another, more fitting location for the Holy Family, where the Good News of God's love may be heard unalloyed by the coercive features of secular power.

Quincy's Yesterdays Clergy Vote Against Gambling

By PAUL HAROLD

The Quincy Council of Churches passed a series of resolutions against gambling at their recent meeting at the Atlantic Memorial Congregational Church.

Rev. Joseph Parkman, however, the pastor of the church, was one of three voting in opposition to the resolutions that were drafted by Rev. Bedros Baharian, the council's executive secretary and pastor of Quincy Point Congregational Church.

Parkman said he opposed the vote because the resolution only dealt with a small section of the gambling evil and that the focus should be on the layer of organized crime. He said of the vote, "This I feel is an attempt to jump on the (Sen.) Keafauver bandwagon."

2,000 ATTEND BRAVES GAME

Two thousand boys and girls attend the city's annual baseball outing sponsored by the Quincy AMVETS Memorial Post. Leo Lamb was chairman of the event that began with a parade from the central fire station to the health center.

Twenty buses and numerous private cars drove the young people to Braves' Field where they watched the Braves defeat the Chicago Cubs.

QUONSET HUT DONATED FOR THRIFT SHOP

John Grossman, on behalf of the Grossman companies, donated a Quonset hut to the Quincy Federation of Women's Clubs for use as a thrift shop located next to the YMCA building site.

The women's clubs under the leadership of Mrs. Alf Swensen had a quota of $9,000 needed to fill the gap for the construction of the auditorium in the new Y.

The Mammogram You Need. Without the Wait.

Are you tired of waiting months to schedule a mammogram? Then call Milton Hospital's Breast Care Program today. You'll love our shorter wait times. Appointments are scheduled in 4 - 6 weeks, and when the need is urgent within one day! A doctor referral is not needed for an annual mammogram, and most insurance plans cover the cost. Plus, we offer convenient early morning, evening, and Saturday appointments.

Written Results Before You Leave

At Milton Hospital, you'll get written mammogram results before you leave your appointment, and you can speak directly with the radiologist. If initial results reveal a suspicious area, we won't keep you waiting. Follow-up testing is provided within one day, sometimes on the same day. We'll also send your exam results directly to your primary care physician.

Sensitive Care

Comfortable and private, our mammography suites offer top-tier technology, with the warmth and dignity you deserve. With all these benefits, why wait? Call Milton Hospital today.

Schedule your next mammogram today at 617-696-4600, ext. 1700.

$4.6M In 2001 Bill Payments 'Juggled'

Phelan Asserts

(Cont'd From Page 1)

Sullivan, whose firm was approached by the city roughly four weeks ago, said the company was still looking into "other aspects" of the city's finances per its contract with the city, adding that he expected all phases of the contract to be finished by the end of next week and a written report presented soon thereafter.

One area of concern, he said, was possible engineering and construction projects of past years "which are unpaid at this point and for which there is no funding."

Sullivan, who explained that that contracts cannot be signed without available sources of funding, said that many vendors may have been performing work for the city "on a good faith basis" outside of existing contracts.

Asked to comment on the municipal finance laws which forbid paying one year's bills with another year's budget, Sullivan called them "one of those areas of the statute that cities and towns take seriously."

The practice, Sullivan said, intended to "make up for the sins of the past" with current budget funds but made future budgeting "doubly difficult," especially in the wake of the recent economic downturn.

Ward 3 Drainage Issues Public Hearing May 6

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin's resolution concerning the conditions of stormwater and wastewater drainage in the Montclair and Wollaston neighborhoods has prompted a public hearing before the Public Works Committee of the City Council Monday, May 6 at 6:45 p.m. in the council chambers of City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

Coughlin said a number of streets and homes in these neighborhoods have been impacted by both stormwater and wastewater backups, in some instances for more than a decade.
